SONG: A MOTHER'S LOVE. SUNG AT A TEMPERANCE SOIREE.

Oh! Love shall be my song now, the love of a Mother, Oh! who can doubt she loves the boy, she treasures as her own? If beauty in the eye beams as fondly on another, It tells the bosom's feeling quick unto her breast alone!

CHRISTIAN GRACES ILLUSTRATED.

Many among you may think it is inexpedient to speak frequently or indeed ever, except on occasions of great solemnity, of religion; and to this I shall not attempt to reply. But the world cannot forbid you to manifest the spirit of religion in a holy life.

THE GOLD FROM SILVER.

After this, a special meeting of the Association was called, at the request of the fifty members, to see if they would sell the property. After a discussion of two hours, the subject was indefinitely postponed, by a very large vote; thus virtually endorsing the gentility and utility of fashionable dress shops.

ERSON SAYS IS PREVALENT IN HEALTHY CALIFORNIA.

erson says is prevalent in healthy California. I refer to the fever and ague; and I heartily wish I could forget a visit from "yellow jack," not a thousand miles from New Orleans.

ONE MAN AMONG OTHERS, WHO HAS A FAMILY.

One man among others, who has a family, spends all of his money, and a greater part of his time, at this den, refusing his family many of the comforts of life. A friend could not be found, black enough to honor this calamity.

GENTLEMANLY HABITS.

At table the gentleman never talks loud, nor stares at the other guests, and especially never commits that indecency so common to Englishmen, staring at women. He never makes remarks upon any one present; never looks up and round, when eating or drinking, like a dog over a bone and afraid of losing it.

THE EXCITEMENT IN CANADA.

The political disturbances in Canada, to which we have made frequent reference of late, are so serious as even to threaten the tranquillity of that country. Our last accounts render it probable, if not certain, that the Ministry will be successful ultimately in carrying through the Parliament the Indemnity Bill, which has given rise to the present agitation.

BENEFITS OF AGRICULTURAL SOCIETIES.

We have often remarked, says the Albany Cultivator, that the great benefit of agricultural associations, is the opportunity they afford for bringing together the people, with their animals, articles and products, by which all may be compared and the particular improvements possessed by each may be seen and adopted.

TO THE PUBLIC.

Having recently been so fortunate as to get hold of a paper called the "Cold Water Fountain," I was anxious to peruse its columns, when lo! the first thing that met my eye was a tirade of abuse headed, substantially, Rum and Ruin, purporting to be written by some Lecturer on Temperance, who recently passed through the town of Sidney.

ADIOS.

Adios is assured the suspicions, expressed in his private note, are not correct. We never do so. [The following is the communication referred to in our last. The controversy is none of ours, and being entirely ignorant of the facts in the case, we pass it "to the public" without comment. Both sides having now been offered, the continuance of the controversy must depend upon our discretion.]

NOW I LAY ME DOWN TO SLEEP.

There are probably no four lines in the English language that are repeated so many times daily as the following: Now I lay me down to sleep, I pray the Lord my soul to keep; If I should die before I wake, I pray the Lord my soul to take.

GENEROSITY OF MISS COUTTS.

Some twenty-five or thirty years ago there resided in London an old sergeant of artillery. This person, in the course of his duties, by some means or other had been brought into frequent contact with Sir Francis Burdett, who had conceived a high opinion of the sergeant, and with that homeliness and good nature which distinguished him throughout life, the hon. baronet had been accustomed to treat the worthy sergeant with great kindness and familiarity.

WATERVILLE, MAR. 8.

V. B. PALMER, 8 Congress-st. Boston, and at his offices in N. York, Philadelphia and Baltimore, is our advertising agent. [From our Boston Correspondent.] BOSTON, March 5, 1849. Friend Maxham:—Nothing of late has caused more regret, among those who had expected a different result, than the late vote passed by the Massachusetts Mechanic Charitable Association, upon a request that the Association had received from about fifty of its members, that it would sell the property which it owns, called the Revere House, as it was let by the Association, for a period of ten years, with no restriction in the lease that it should not be a rum tavern—when it was well known, at the time they gave the new lease, that it had been used for a genteel grocery. When this hotel was finished the Association gave a grand levee to its members and their families, in the house, at which the president, in his opening speech, stated distinctly that there never would be a bar-room kept in it; that it was to be a temperance house, and nothing ever allowed within its walls injurious to public morals or offensive to good taste.

THE GREAT TAYLOR FESTIVAL.

The great Taylor Festival, which took place on the 22d, was almost a failure, not half the number for whom provision had been made being present. After all the wind raised about it by B. Hammett Norton, it was too bad. It was not the fault of the adherents of General Taylor, but the public could not swallow the leader of it. You must have been either amused or disgusted, in looking over your exchanges, to see the letters from General Taylor and all his prominent supporters, which were sent to Mr. Norton, in relation to their attending this feast. But it was well understood hereabouts that he is aspiring for office, and he used this as a means of increasing his popularity; this disgusted many, who would otherwise have attended.

THE TOWN PAUPER TAX.

The town pauper tax amounts to $500 per year, which may be put down as a regular rum tax according to law. Now, the whole of the above is false from beginning to end. Does the writer expect to reform drunkards by dealing in such wholesale slanders upon towns and individuals. Why did he not make inquiry through the town and neighborhood, as to the facts, and not depend upon one-sided and interested testimony. It is believed that he willingly misrepresented, to make the public believe that his credulity tears came from a real desire for the reformation of the wicked. It is hoped that when he again comes this way he will, for his own credit, pull the sheep-skin so far back that the wolf's tail cannot be seen.

HUSBANDS AND WIVES.

When people understand that they must live together, they learn to soften, by mutual accommodation, the yoke which they know they cannot shake off; they become good husbands and good wives; for necessity is a powerful master in teaching the duty which it imposes. If it were once understood that upon mutual disgust married persons might be legally separated, many couples who now pass through the world with mutual comfort, with attention to their common offspring, and to the moral order of civil society, might have been at this moment living in a state of mutual unkindness, in a state of estrangement from their common offspring, and in a state of unreserved immorality. To be sure, if people come together in marriage with the extravagant expectation that all are to be hale and hearty; the husband conceiving that all is to be authority with him, and the wife that all is to be accommodation to her; every body sees how that must end; but if they come together with a prospect of happiness; they must come with the reflection that, not bringing perfection in themselves, they have no right to expect it on the other side; that having respectively many infirmities of their own to be overlooked, they must overlook the infirmities of each other.—[Lord Stowell.]

ADVANTAGES OF RELIGION.

The annexed beautiful lines are taken from Sir Humphrey Davy's "Salmonia": "I envy no quality of the mind or intellect in others—be it genius, power, wit, or fancy; but if I could choose what would be most delightful, and I believe what would be the most useful to me, I should prefer a firm religious belief to every other blessing; for it makes life a discipline of goodness; creates new hopes when all earthly hopes vanish; and throws over the decay, the destruction of existence, the most gorgeous of all lights. It awakens life even in death, and from corruption a decay calls up beauty and divinity; makes an instrument of fortune and shame the ladder of ascent to Paradise; and far above all combinations of earthly hopes, calls up the most delightful visions of palms and amaranths, the gardens of the blest, the security of everlasting joys.

PROCESSES OF SEPARATING GOLD FROM ITS ORES AND ALLOYS.

Dr. Charles T. Jackson describes a new process of extracting gold from its alloys and ores, which is quite interesting, and which cannot be both convenient and useful in manufactures and arts. In the process above alluded to, after separating the gold from silver, by means of a mixture of nitric and chlorohydric acids as is usually done, the solution containing gold and copper is to be evaporated to small bulk and the excess of nitric is thus driven off.

THE LITTLE ARTICLE THAT APPEARED IN THE MAIL OF FEB. 8TH.

The little article that appeared in the Mail of Feb. 8th, seems to have actually conjured up "fearful shapes" of some kind, or "Aurifodina" would scarcely have noticed the few remarks of "your correspondent." The article referred to by him, was not written with the intention of frightening any one, but merely in the hope that some would reflect ere they decided in haste to "repent at leisure," before encountering the perils incident to a journey so fraught with danger, and so extremely hazardous.

THE TOWN OF SIDNEY.

The town of Sidney a rum town, for the reason of their electing a representative who fears that way! There could be nothing more false, and our representatives will not thank him for the honor bestowed on them. The fact is, the representatives from the town of Sidney, for 15 or 16 years, with one exception, have been strictly tee-total men, and men to whose height, in point of morality, temperance or ability, he may never expect to arrive. "There is a miserable rum tavern, near Mr. Sawtelle, that is doing the work of demoralization with railroad speed." Now where did the man get this? Did he go there and see for himself? If he is really a reformer, he would not after money or popularity, he would have gone there and tried to subdue the evil. Even Christ could not condescend to talk with sinners; but I know of no instance in which he slandered or misrepresented them.

FELLOW CITIZENS.

Elected by the American people to the highest office known to our laws, I appear here to take the oath prescribed by the Constitution, and in compliance with a time-honored custom to address those who are now assembled. The confidence and respect shown by my countrymen in calling me to be the chief magistrate of a Republic, holding high rank among the nations of the earth, has inspired me with feelings of the most profound gratitude. But when I reflect that the acceptance of the office which their partiality has bestowed, imposes the discharge of the most arduous duties, and involves the weightiest obligations, I am conscious that the position which I have been called to fill, though sufficient to satisfy the loftiest ambition, is surrounded by fearful responsibilities. Happily, however, in the performance of my new duties, I shall not be without able co-operation.

THE LEGISLATIVE AND JUDICIAL BRANCHES OF THE GOVERNMENT.

The Legislative and Judicial branches of the Government, present a prominent example of distinguished attainments and of mature experience, and it shall be my endeavor to call to my assistance in the Executive Department, individuals whose talents, integrity and purity of character will furnish ample guaranty for the faithful and honorable performance of the trust committed to their charge. With such aids, and an honest purpose to do whatever is right, I hope to execute diligently, impartially, and for the best interests of the country, the manifold duties devolved upon me. In the discharge of these duties, my guide, will be the Constitution, which I this day swear to preserve, protect and defend. For the interpretation of that instrument, I shall look to the decision of the Judicial Tribunals, established by its authority, and to the practice of Government under the earliest Presidents, who had so large a share in its formation. IN REFERENCE TO THE ARMY AND NAVY.

In reference to the Army and Navy, lately employed with so much distinction in active service, care should be taken to insure the highest condition of efficiency—and in naval affairs of that object the military and naval schools, sustained by the liberality of Congress, shall receive the especial attention of the Executive. As American freemen, we cannot but sympathize with all efforts to extend the blessings of civil and political liberty. But at the same time we are warned by the admonitions of history, and the voice of our illustrious Washington, to abstain from entangling alliances with foreign nations. On all disputes between conflicting governments, it is our interest not less than our duty, to remain strictly neutral, while our geographical position, the genius of our Institutions and our People, the
