insideColby

for students, by students

InsideColby doesn't just have brand new content weekly all year long (and almost weekly during the summer)—now it has a new online look that makes it easier to find the videos, pictures, blogs, podcasts, and stories about student life at Colby.

Latest Videos

Computer science students are working in the robotics lab on some cutting-edge technology. Check out the Colby museum through the eyes of a laptop, and see why Bogó Giertler '12 got invited to the Apple Worldwide Developers Conference (see video on insideColby.com and story on page 10 of this magazine).

Jan Plan has been around since the 1960s, but what does it mean for students now? Internships, travel, intensive study—and skiing, of course. Check out this video narrated by Eva Ludwig '12.

Stories

A new issue of insideColby magazine has hit the mailboxes of potential members of the classes of 2015 and 2016—and all those stories are online, too.

Jenny Chen '12 writes about professors who participate in extracurricular activities on campus and how that strengthens relationships between students and faculty.

Isadora Alton '13 interviews Associate Professor of Religious Studies Carleen Mandolfo about her passion for biblical studies and the benefits of being at a liberal arts college.

Annie Chen '12 outlines why she agrees with the College's new ban on hard alcohol and urges her classmates enjoy their freedom—responsibly.

Student Lens

Students document life at Colby with a new gallery of photos every week during the school year. From Jan Plan to Chinese New Year, laundry to midterms, it's easy to keep up through the Lens.
