FEATURES

14/Good Neighbors?

Colby and Waterville navigate a relationship marked by tensions, community service, and mutual interests.

20/Photographic Memory

When G. Calvin Mackenzie, the Goldfarb Family Distinguished Professor of American Government, isn't teaching, writing, or commenting on national affairs, he is traveling—camera at the ready.

26/Choosing a Poet's Life

Solitude, sacrifice, self-examination: Colby poets follow their muse and their craft, and they wouldn't have it any other way.

ON THE COVER

The picture was taken by G. Calvin Mackenzie, the Goldfarb Family Distinguished Professor of Government, in May 2005 on Zhonghua Lu in the Old City of Shanghai. The boy was standing with his mother, who saw Mackenzie's camera and motioned that he should take her son's picture. The boy was willing to pose but he could not be persuaded to play a tune.

Chorale Sings in St. Peters

The Colby Chorale has played some heady venues, but this spring's tour of Rome was one for the books. Read accounts of the performances and see photos.

Tapping the Trees

Students took to the woods in April to revive a long-dormant activity at Colby: tapping campus maple trees.

Austen City Limits

Jane Austen's novels bring her world to life. Students in Tilar Mazzeo's English 413 class took the next step, staging an authentic Austen-era gala at the Waterville Public Library. Read newspaper accounts and see photos of the costumed dancers.
