LULLABY.

BY E. JEFFERSON CUTLER.
Now the twilight shadows fall;
Now the evening lamp is lit;
Sleep, baby, sleep!

THE GOVERNOR'S ESCAPE.

When the British and Tories attacked New London, Connecticut, in 1776, and set a price on the head of Governor Griswold, the latter fled to the town of L...

His only chance of escape was to reach the mouth of a little creek, which emptied itself into the Connecticut river, just above the entrance of the latter into Long Island Sound.

Just where the narrow path from the orchard opened into the road, Hetty Marvin sat with her dog Towser, reading the bleaching of the household linen.

The roll of linen was taken by the farmer or his stout help to a grassy plat, beside a spring or meadow brook. There it was thor-

That sat Hetty Marvin, the young daughter of Gov. Griswold's cousin, when her hunted friend sprang past her into the road to escape from his pursuers.

"Oh, cousin I," said the little girl in an agony of distress, "I cannot tell a lie; indeed, I cannot. Why did you tell me which way you were going?"

"Hetty, dear child, surely you would not betray me to my death! Hark!—they are coming—I hear the click of their horses' feet.

"Heaven never bless those who speak falsely, cousin! But I will not tell them which way you go, even if they kill me; so run as quickly as possible."

"It's of no use; unless I can deceive them, I am a dead man."

"Cousin, cousin, hide under my web of cloth; they'll never think of looking for you here.
Come get down as swift as you can, and I'll cover you, and stand sprinkling my linen."

"It's my only chance, child; I'll get down as you say." And suiting the action to the word, the Governor was soon hidden under the ample folds of the cloth.

Angry that their expected prey had escaped from the house where they hoped to secure him, the six mounted Tories, headed by a British officer, dashed along the road in swift pursuit.

THE WAR TO DAY.—Only a few weeks ago many of the least hopeful, even among earnest Union men, thought they saw a reasonable prospect that the war might last one, two, or even more years.

From Manassas, from Corinth, from N.
Orleans, and finally from Yorktown, we see them flying in almost hopeless disorder; while the opening of ports, the establishment of cusquiet, where the simple shrewdness of his little cousin had hidden him, until the time came for her return to the house for supper.

the admission of free negroes within their borders,

We have been again reminded of this topic by a report just made on the subject by the standing Committee on Federal Relations in the Ohio House of Representatives, to which was referred sundry petitions asking for the enactment of laws requiring negroes or colored persons to be prevented from immigrating to or settling within the State.

The undersigned would respectfully report the force and property of the Fire Department of Ticonic Village Corporation as follows:— The force of the fire department consists of two well organized Engine Companies, viz: Ticonic No. 1 and Waterville No. 3.

The Ticonic, No. 1, Capt. J. C. Bartlett, numbers 50 men; has a good Hunneman engine, with 24 feet suction hose and 625 feet of hose. Engine and hose in good condition.
Engine house, situated on Silver Street, is new and in excellent order.

The Waterville, No. 3, Capt. Wm. A. Caffrey, numbers 58 men; has a good Button engine, built in 1854, with 50 feet of suction hose and 575 feet leading hose. Engine and hose in good condition. Engine house situated on Main Street. This house was not designed for an engine house originally, and although it affords good protection to the property of the Corporation in it, still it is incon-

Several rebel steamers have been recently captured on the Tennessee, and there is now not a secessionist gun or boat of any size on the river.

Fort Macon, at Beaufort, surrendered to our forces, on the 3d inst., after a bombardment of ten hours—the rebels being allowed to retire on parole. One Federal and seven rebel soldiers were killed during the fight.
Fifty cannon, five hundred muskets and considerable other property fell into our hands, with 450 prisoners.

'earnestly invoking' the people of that part of Virginia from which the rebel armies have been expelled by Banks and Fremont "to form guerilla companies, and strike where least expected, once more, for the State that gave them birth."

The siege of Yorktown has come to a sudden and unlooked for termination, by the retreat of the rebels. The evacuation of the works was discovered by our forces on Sunday morning, heavy firing having been kept up during the preceding night, for the purpose of deceiving the federalists. The abandoned entrenchments were immediately occupied by our troops, who found everything in confusion, indicating a hasty retreat. Clothing, stores, and camp furniture were scattered every where,
and the tents and houses were undisturbed.
About 70 cannon were left, some of which were of large size.

The works at Yorktown were not found so formidable as our folks had been led to believe, and the total force of the rebels, according to reports found on the abandoned premises was less than 70,000. With characteristic malignity, the retreating rebels had left torpedoes and shells in the roads and approaches, by the explosion of which, some of our soldiers who were in the advance were killed, and others injured.

Gloucester Point, on the opposite side of York river, was abandoned at the same time.
An active pursuit was at once organized, the cavalry leading the way, and at Williamsburg, 10 miles from Yorktown, the rebel force was found strongly entrenched. Encountering the fire of the batteries, our cavalry fell back and awaited the infantry which soon came up, and some brisk fighting occurred, closing with a brilliant bayonet charge by Hooker's division, in which two redoubts were taken and 200 prisoners. The loss on both sides was considerable—that of the rebels, however being the largest. This was on the afternoon of Tuesday, and it was supposed that the rebels were preparing for a firm stand and a big fight at this point; but during the night they again retreated, and on Wednesday morning our forces occupied Williamsburg, the cavalry pushing on after the flying rebel army, which is represented by numerous deserters as being badly demoralized. They numbered, about 1000 in number, were left behind.

Our gunboats have pushed up York river to West Point, shelling out the rebels on the route, and transports with troops have probably followed, who will land and harass the retreating rebels. Forty vessels were captured on the river.

At last accounts, the rebels had retreated across the Chickahominy, burning the bridges in their rear, with our forces in eager pursuit.
From the vicinity of Corinth we get enough to know that a battle may be looked for soon.
2000 rebels have just been taken prisoners at Farmington, by Gen. Pope, and 400 Germans deserted to our side. Rumors are prevalent of an evacuation of Corinth but they are not credited.

Banks' advance is two miles south of Harrisonburg.

Jeff. Thompson has just made a raid into Western Kentucky, with a thousand cavalry.
Our troops are in pursuit of them.

It is pretty certain that the negro is to be employed both in the army and navy.

THE GOLDEN AGE OF ENTERPRISE.— Since the creation of the world, no era has been so distinguished for valuable discoveries as the XIXth century, and no people more enterprising than those of America. Though this is an age of magnificent projects, yet many of these prospects, however, which have for their immediate object the greatest benefit of the human race fail in accomplishing the desired end. For instance, the labors of temperance lecturers, reformatories for inebriates, philanthropists, &c., have had but little success on the general mass of mankind. We are in hopes, however, that at last we have the right man in the right place. We refer to Mr. Spear of New Jersey, whose celebrated Sambucii wine promises to supersede all the alcoholic poisons in the country. As a wine it is healthy, innocent and delicious, without the least danger of intoxication. We speak advisedly, having tried it ourselves. To persons who are weak and sickly, the use of the Sambucii wine will restore their health and strengthen. Physicians, clergymen and temperance advocates should encourage the use of the Sambucii wine, and thus aid the cause of temperance and moderation. We especially recommend it to families for its purity, exquisite flavor, and healthy properties. Medical men testify to its valuable medicinal powers.
We understand that Mr. Spear has been for years engaged in preparing and perfecting it, and that it requires a four years' process before it is fit for the market.

INCIDENTS OF THE BATTLE OF PITTSBURG LANDING.—Two Kentucky regiments met face to face, and fought each other with terrible resolution, and it happened that one of the federal soldiers wounded and captured his brother, and after landing him back began firing at a man near a tree, when the captured brother called to him and said, "Don't shoot there any more—that's father."

A federal volunteer and a rebel soldier were found dead, with hands clasped. It is supposed that they fell side by side, mortally wounded and making friends died in peace.
What a contrast to the spectacle around!

An intelligent gentleman remarked to us a few days since, that a certain paper in this State actually spent more words in exulting over a Democratic victory in Dubuque, Iowa, than it did over the capture of Island No. 10; and yet the kind of democrats that won that victory, cheered for Jeff. Davis, mounted a boat on wheels which they called the Merrimac, and hauled it through the streets with shouts of triumph. If such is the democracy that is being cultivated, God forbid that it should be allowed to deceive honest men.
