

Colby

Colby College
Digital Commons @ Colby

---

Edwin Arlington Robinson Letters and Transcriptions

The Letters of Edwin Arlington Robinson: A Digital Edition

---

11-21-1892

To Harry de Forest Smith - November 21, 1892

Edwin Arlington Robinson

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.colby.edu/robinson\_transcriptions

Part of the Literature in English, North America Commons

---

Recommended Citation

Robinson, Edwin Arlington, "To Harry de Forest Smith - November 21, 1892" (1892). Edwin Arlington Robinson Letters and Transcriptions. 81.

https://digitalcommons.colby.edu/robinson\_transcriptions/81

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the The Letters of Edwin Arlington Robinson: A Digital Edition at Digital Commons @ Colby. It has been accepted for inclusion in Edwin Arlington Robinson Letters and Transcriptions by an authorized administrator of Digital Commons @ Colby.

TO HARRY DE FOREST SMITH

1716 Camb.,
Nov<sup>a</sup> 21 - '92

My dear Smith,

The dungy Thanksgiving week has come again and the College yard is reeking with the strong but honest odor of New England ordure. There is also another kind of dung that is noticeable here, particularly by those more interested in athletics. I speak of that rubbed in at the Harvard-Yale foot-ball game at Hampden Park on Saturday. I was sorry that you could not be here, but perhaps it was better for your peace of mind that you were not. If you had seen that game your adoration of Yale's "manliness" would have received an unpleasant shock. I send with this a copy of the Sunday Herald and a copy of the Crimson for this morning. Yale's deliberate plan to physically disable Harvard's strongest end was so obvious that it was disgusting. The whole thing was much like the Colosseum of old—twenty thousand people and two men half-killed.<sup>1</sup> A life time is not well lived without seeing this game once. I only got my ticket at the last minute and I am mighty glad that I got it. I don't think you need hesitate to pay ten or twelve dollars for the day if you ever get a chance to take the game in. The mere game is by no means the whole of it. All I hope is that you will never see such brutality and dirtiness displayed upon any field as that which characterized Yale's play on Saturday. Between half murdering two men and having the umpire cheat us out of a touch-down, the score does not reflect any great credit on the Yale men—though no one thinks that Harvard would have beaten.<sup>2</sup> It would probably have been a tie. I do not think you will have any complaint to make with the Crimson's account of it. It may surprise you to see me enthusiastic over foot-ball, but Saturday would have excited a corpse.

-2-

-3-

---

<sup>a</sup> WA adds a period here.

-4-

I sent you the books this morning<sup>b</sup>--They are 45¢ each.

-5-

I ran across that Critic with Pres. Hydes<sup>3c</sup> book-notice in it & will send it along. I bought a copy of Austin Dobson's "At the Sign of the Lyre" and was disappointed. I prefer Kipling's "Ballads"<sup>d</sup> At first I did not care much for them but now they are great.

"The old lost stars wheel back, dear lass, <sup>e</sup>That blaze in the velvet blue.
They're all old friends on the old trail,
    our own trail, the out trail, They're God's own guides on the Long Trail,<sup>4</sup> the ~~trail~~ trail that is always new".<sup>5</sup> etc<sup>f</sup>, etc.

---

<sup>b</sup> WA adds a period here.

<sup>c</sup> WA omits this partial underline and adds a possessive apostrophe.

<sup>d</sup> WA has a period here.

<sup>e</sup> WA does not read an indent here in the holograph. The line is not indented in the original poem.

Sincerely
Robinson

HCL US, 74-75.

NOTES

1. The final game of the season, and Harvard's only loss that year, took place on November 19, with a score of 0-6. (SL)
2. What is interesting about EAR's description of the Harvard-Yale game is that he aims his partisan outrage against Yale's "brutality and dirtiness", while appearing to entirely ignore the fact that it was on the occasion of this very game that a notoriously violent and controversial tactic, soon to be banned, was introduced by Harvard—the infamous "flying wedge": "Just like Napoleon, the Crimson surprised its opponent at the tactical level of physical combat. Ten men, running full tilt in a 'V' formation from a position some yards behind the ball, massed upon one Yale player. Thus, the flying wedge was born, and an already violent game brought forth the most revolutionary football play ever developed. It was a vivid example of the brutality which then ruled the sport" (McQuilkin and Smith 57). (SL)
3. See note 1 from the letter for October 1, 1892. (SL)
4. The original poem has a dash here, not a comma. (SL)
5. From one of EAR's favorite poems, Kipling's "L'Envoi" to Barrack-Room Ballads and Other Verses (1892). See EAR's letter to George Latham, October 10, 1894. The poem is also called "The Long Trail" in later editions of Kipling's poetry. In the original poem, the first quoted line reads, "Yes, the old lost stars wheel back, dear lass". (SL)

---

<sup>f</sup> WA adds a period here.