Editorial.

WITH this issue of THE ECHO, the new board of Editors makes its bow to the student world. We have no apologies to offer, no promises to make; we shall simply do our best to make THE ECHO what it really ought to be, a live, interesting and truly representative publication. It seems strange enough that so large a portion of the student body supposes that an editorial board is absolutely responsible for the success or failure of the college paper. If we could impress such individuals with the fact that an editor is simply one who superintends, revises or prepares for publication the material which others have handed to him, we should do much to ensure the success of THE ECHO. Such statements seem almost puerile, but from personal observation, we are sure that no fact should be so emphasized upon the student body as the definition of the word "Editor." The editorial board expects to make mistakes enough; criticism is earnestly invited; censure may sometimes be richly deserved, but no effort on our part can assure the success of this new volume of THE ECHO. The college paper is bound to be what the student body makes it. The present board begins its labor with the belief that there is an abundance of literary talent in college; we hope for such thorough, intelligent co-operation as will place the ECHO where the Oracle has so long stood, among the first of college publications.

WE hope that the several changes made in the present issue will meet with the approval of the student body and other readers. It seemed to be the prevailing opinion that the last ECHO was awkward in size and unattractive in general appearance. If any change was to be made, there were evident reasons why it should be made with the first number of the new volume. There are other proposed improvements in covers and departments, which we shall institute as soon as practicable. We wish to free the printers as well as the editors from any blame for the lateness of this issue. The change of printers and the difficulty of fixing upon a satisfactory size of publication, combined to make the delay simply unavoidable.

WE are glad to note the completion of the Athletic track, an event which surely marks a new era in every branch of Athletics at Colby. An increasing interest in general track events rather than detracting from the attention given to base ball and tennis is almost sure to boom every sport which tends to complete the physical education of the student. It is expected that a column of THE ECHO will be regularly devoted to the work of the Athletic Association. A detailed account of the Field Day meet, held on the Campus, Wed., May 29, will be found in another column. We hope the enthusiasm manifested on that day will ensure hard training and scientific preparation for the coming Intercollegiate meet.

THE season is still too young to afford any decisive index as to the issue of the base ball contest for the state championship. The team has played some good games, but several experiments have proved too costly for repetition. There has been one evident lack for several years in Colby's base ball team. There has been an element of uncertainty regarding the issue of almost every game. This is not as it should be. Of course, no team can win regardless of condition or circumstances, but too often Colby has lost through seeming lack of sufficient reserve power to carry her through real crises. More than all else, we need a large share of the dash and confidence that has several times helped weaker teams to wrest the victory from us. Every league game from now on is important. Play ball, Colby.

PROF. Elder merits the gratitude of the whole college for the course of lectures which he is now delivering before the students. That such a treat is possible would seem to indicate that Prof. Elder is enjoying better health than for some time previous. We have reason to congratulate him and to be glad that his good fortune is ours as well.

A LITTLE SWISS CHRONICLE.

II.

We have been off together on a number of long expeditions, but the best of all was our trip to the Upper Grindelwald Glacier. We ice never did and never will budge an inch; or, started directly after breakfast, and drove to if it is a case of faith and not feeling, I am Grindelwald. Aunt Mary went, too, and as sure it would take more faith to move a glacier than it would to move the mountains "disagreeable one" had to sit up beside the above it.

driver, and we had a very good time without him. After lunch we set out for the glacier. Aunt Mary having a lame knee rode on horse-back, and I being an American girl, and therefore no pedestrian, did ditto. The others walked. One might think it took away all the excitement of the trip, to have a back to the saddle and a trusty guide at your horse's head, but the excitement was supplied by the narrow, rocky, slippery bridle-path. In many cases it led actually up and down stairs in a most frightful way, and I reminded myself of a picture in my old history of Israel Putnam escaping down a flight of steps on horse-back. Aunt Mary entertained us a part of the way by a graphic account of how she went over the St. Gothard on mule-back fifty years ago. One time they had to cross a deep chasm, which was bridged by a single plank. Aunt Mary let the reins hang loose, closed her eyes, and the mule took her over in safety.

We left our horses at a primitive little inn, and took the last of the journey on foot. How wild and grand it was, with the great gray mountains crowned with snow towering for thousands of feet above us, and the broad field of ice and snow in the valley sparkling in the sunshine. I am very glad indeed to have seen a real glacier, but I must confess that it has upset all the glacial theories that I have been spending so much time and trouble in pounding into my head at college. I feel absolutely certain that that great solid sweep of

In the end of the glacier there is a beautiful grotto, which has been cut, I don't know how many feet deep, into ice I don't know how many thousands of years old. Blankets were thrown over our shoulders to protect us in case of dripping water, and we all followed our leader, who bore a flickering candle at the head of the procession. Once inside, and it is as though one had suddenly put on blue goggles. The ice is as blue as the bluest of summer skies. Your face and hands look blue, almost the very air you breathe is blue, and nothing escapes the azure hue but your disposition. It seems like an enchanted grotto, but I am sure that the witches and sprites who inhabit it must have their ears well nipped in winter, for then the ice cave entirely freezes up, and the next summer a new one has to be cut in another part of the glacier.

I made some remark to the young Englishman, the disagreeable one I mean, about clothes that were washed in glacial water not needing any blueing; but he took me in serious earnest, just as he did the other day when I told him I went into hysterics over something funny that happened in class once. He said, "really now, you don't appear like a young lady of nervous disposition." Truly Puck is right when it discovers the eternal fitness of things in "Punch" as the name of the English paper intended to inculcate jokes into the English mind.

GREECE.

She lieth in marble whiteness,
 Mute in the tomb of the great.
 Lost is the favor of fate,
 And lost the original brightness,
 That lighted with rapturous glory,
 Straightness and curving of form.
 Far from all passionate storm,
 As a beautiful woman of story,
 She yet may be loved in a measure
 As a romantic boy,
 Scornful of commoner joy,
 Sigheth for Helen of Troy,
 With idle and fanciful pleasure.

THE WHIPPING POST.

The subject of abolishing capital punishment engrossed the attention of the people of this state for a considerable time and it is even now being agitated in other sections of the country. Some states have already decided in favor of imprisonment; such decisions are gaining ground as the result of careful consideration of the advantages and disadvantages of both forms of punishment. People are beginning to realize more and more that something must be done and that right speedily to check the increase of crime. Man is so constituted that the danger of being detected in guilt sometimes acts as an incentive rather than a check to his depraved nature. Amongst the lower classes, from which a large percentage of the criminals come, brute force is the greatest and strongest master, to be bowed down to and worshipped. To this class of people, physical punishment is more of a terror which should be avoided in every way than is a "term" in jail or a "trip o'er the flats" to Thomaston.

Various parts of the country are agitating the use of the "Whipping Post," as the best means of preventing certain forms of crime. Some may say that to revive the whipping post is to take a step backward rather than forward. In some respects, it would be a great advantage for the whole nation to place herself in line with some of the early puritanical ideas.

The "Whipping Post" was used to punish misdemeanors of every kind and was at times used to an excessive degree. If the method proposed by the bill, which was introduced into the New York Senate were followed out, this danger would be obviated. This bill stipulates the crimes punishable by whipping, the penalty, and also makes provision for the presence of a physician. Without doubt, men of the criminal classes especially, can be reached through the physical nature when the moral nature fails to be affected.

In England, where recourse was had to the use of the cat-o-nine-tails, the number of persons who underwent corporal punishment was certainly less than would be expected. In more than eighteen years, only three hundred and two adult persons received a flogging even once, and in only four cases was the punishment repeated. In no case did the Home Office record show a report of an offender who was punished the third time.

One of our western cities furnishes a good example of the salutary effect of the use of the whip. The tramps which had infested the town never returned to bother the officers again. The old saying about the ounce of prevention etc., is especially true in this case. In no other way can a man so thoroughly measure the enormity of his offence as by the severity of the penalty exacted and, when the punishment takes the form of an argument of so thoroughly an impressive nature, its effect will be salutary and lasting. Everywhere throughout the country, the use of the rod for correction is common and thoroughly believed in. While in all cases the whip should be used with judgment it secures an immediate compliance with law and order.

The benefits of the "Whipping Post" are clearly greater than can be obtained by imprisonment with good food and light work. Today, a man in jail has an easy time and to many, were it not for the stigma attached, it is a desirable life. Apply the punishment to the person of the culprit and you will impress the fact upon his mind that his offence is not to be repeated more thoroughly than by years of prison life. He will rarely if ever receive his second punishment.

HARTHORN, '97.

ST. JOHN BASE BALL TRIP.

At half past four Wednesday afternoon, May 22, after beating the Bowdoin's, the base ball team started on its trip to St. John, N. B., playing a practise game at Houlton on the way.

We arrived at Houlton the next day at 5.30 P. M. and as usual in that town found a warm welcome. Every courtesy was shown us by the Ricker Institute boys. The team was treated to a buckboard ride around the town, and at the game in the afternoon Colby did not lack sympathizers. This game resulted in a victory for Colby by a score of 26 to 11, Burton being in the box for seven innings, and Patterson presiding in the last two. We were very pleasantly entertained at the house of our genial left fielder in the evening where several of the budding beauties of Houlton made it pleasant for us, and then at 9.30 we left for St. John.

Arriving in St. John at 6.30 Friday, we put up at the Victoria and snatched what little sleep we could before the morning game which was played with the Franklins of that city on the grounds of the St. John Athletic Club.

In the morning we were treated to a copious dose of Bay of Fundy weather, which exists there in large quantities and in great variety. It rained and a cold wind blew across the diamond when at 10 A. M. we started the game with Desmond in the points. He pitched a good game and with better support would have won, but the wind was cold, the boys were tired and it was the Queen's birthday, God save her. Too bad to beat them both games on such an occasion. The score was 12 to 5 in their favor when we rode back to the "Vic." at one o'clock.

We had hardly time to do justice to the excellent dinner awaiting us and started the afternoon game at 3 o'clock with over a thousand people in attendance. This time we were bound that the stars and stripes should not be lowered by the English Jack, and played almost an errorless game. "Professor" Burton twirled the ball and his south paw delivery was an enigma which the subjects of the Queen could not solve during the game, while in the last two innings we put our smiling Pat in just to show them what we had with us in the shape of speed.

The score was Colby 12, Franklin 6 and the report spread abroad that we had wickedly and nefariously "sold out" the game in the forenoon.

Leaving St. John at 9 P. M. we arrived in Orono at six the next morning after a good night's sleep. The story of the Maine State game is soon told. The boys put up a good fielding game but they couldn't bat Bass and the score was 17 to 9.

This trip has received considerable adverse criticism from some, and it is just as well to say a word right here in justification of the management. Though the trip may have lost us the last Maine State game, which, however, we are not ready to grant, yet it is the opinion of all the players that the practice in actual games gained by our team, composed mostly of new men as it is, has done a great deal to win us games in the future, and the seasoning these new men got will show for itself in the next few weeks.

COLBY ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION.

HERBERT N. PRATT, '96, PRESIDENT.

For several years past the feeling has been prevalent among both the faculty and the students that there was not enough spirit exhibited in track athletics here in college. Our literary standard is high and in base ball and foot ball we stand well. This feeling of a deficiency in track athletics has increased, so at the beginning of the present term means were raised for building the bicycle and running track. The faculty and trustees not only gave the land on which to build the track but also contributed generously. Every means has been used so that now the track is finished.

But, as things look now, of what good is our track going to be to us? Only a few men come out to practise. These few men deserve praise, though they are doing only what every man in college should do; the rest of the fellows will not even come out to see those who are working.

The Association is struggling under difficulties; a great many things are experiments, and as all know there have been of necessity many expenses. Some of the men, (and they are for the most part those who are working) have paid their dues, but many others are not doing so well, but appear to be trying to dodge their dues.

Now, as everybody knows, we have got to have money if we are going to do anything in athletics. Our expenses are large. The construction of the track; Professor Jackson's services; moving the grand stand, etc., these together amount to a large sum. The way to get this money is for the boys to pay their $1.50 dues. The Association wants to furnish the men with shoes and uniforms; this means that there is more money needed. If we are to build up athletics in Colby, we have got to be backed financially. The sum and substance of it all is this, the boys must pay their dues or everything will fall through.

HERBERT N. PRATT, President.

FIELD DAY.

The seventeenth annual college Field Day was held Wednesday, May 29, on the new cinder track. Unfortunately it had been impossible to get the cinders rolled down very hard so soon, and consequently no records were broken on the track. The trial was very satisfactory, however, and there is no reason for doubting that Colby has the best running track east of Boston, as the Intercollegiate meet will undoubtedly demonstrate.

All things considered the boys did very good work indeed and they all feel that they can do better. In several of the events some of the best men were prevented from starting and in others the winners were not pushed. '98 bore off the class honors with 60 points, while '97 had 48, '96 had 21, and '95 had 8. The best individual work was done by Whitman, '97, who won 16 points while Robinson, '98, was a close second with 15. The winners and records are given below.

The training for the Intercollegiate meet has continued up to the last moment and Colby will do her best to get a place. Track athletics at Colby have had a big boom this spring and the interest ought to increase rather than diminish in years to come. We have first-class facilities now and we ought to do first-class work.

Meanwhile the students must remember that the captain and manager can't boom their end very well unless the association booms the treasurer's end.

The manager of athletic team was Archer Jordan, '95. The officials for the day were: Referee, Prof. H. C. Jackson; clerk of course, R. V. Hopkins, '95; starter, Prof. C. B. Stetson; judges of finish, C. H. Wheeler, G. A. Hoxie; timers, F. J. Goodridge, Prof. W. S. Bayley, J. P. Giroux; scorer of track events, T. R. Pierce, '98; judges of fixed events, E. T. Wyman, Prof. A. J. Roberts; scorer of fixed events, J. Colby Bassett; judge of walking, Prof. H. C. Jackson.

BASE BALL.

COLBY, 8; BOWDOIN, 7.

Colby played her first league game on the campus Wed., May 22. and won from Bowdoin in an exciting contest. Colby seemed to have great difficulty in finding the ball, but in the field she had the advantage of her rival. The game was practically won in the third inning, when Colby bunched her hits, and succeeded in getting five runs. The last inning was intensely exciting, and it looked as if Bowdoin would surely win. With the score 8 to 7, two men on bases, and two out, everything depended on Patterson. A base hit meant the loss of the game. Haines came to the bat. One strike, two strikes; then Patterson delivered the ball with all the speed at his command, the Bowdoin catcher struck at it but the ball rested safely in Coffin's glove and the game was over. Then the pent up feelings of the crowd found expression in shouting, and soon the college bell tolled (told) that Colby had taken one step forward in the race for the pennant. The following is the score:

The Colbys did not hit Bass to any great extent until the 9th inning, when they batted freely and scored six runs. For M. C. I., Bass did fine work, striking out 10 men, and only giving one man a base on balls. Coffin was not able to catch the whole game, so in the 6th inning, Burton was put in the box with Patterson behind the bat. The star play was a triple play by Watkins and Thompson. With a man on first and another on second, a hot liner was knocked to Watkins which he caught, touched second and threw to first, making a pretty play,

Faculty Notes.

Pres. Whitman preached at Good Will Farm on Sunday, June 2.

Prof. Roberts will give his classes a cut next week, while he is away on a lecture trip.

"Some Customs of Primitive Man and their Reminders," was the title of a lecture delivered before the Portland Fraternity Club on Monday, May 14, by Prof. J. William Black. Prof. Black has recently published a syllabus of five lectures on American history, which constitutes the sixth of the courses in University Extension as carried on by members of the Colby Faculty.

Association Notes.

Miss Wing returned on May 23 to speak before the student body at Conference. She gave a very interesting and helpful address.

The following delegates have been appointed by the Y. W. C. A. to attend the Convention at Northfield: Misses Croswell, Ilsley, Moffatt, Hanscom, Hanson, Nye and Tracy.

The attendance at the first of the lectures upon Science and Christianity, given in the college chapel Sunday, May 26, attested the esteem with which Prof. Elder is regarded by the student body. The lecture showed in a very clear and interesting way how the most common of materials in daily use give evidence of an intelligent design in Nature.

Monday evening, May 29, the student body listened to a most enthusiastic and inspiring address by Robert E. Lewis, travelling secretary of the college Y. M. C. A., a graduate of the University of Vermont, '91. Mr. Lewis spoke of four periods of spiritual life among the colleges of New England. After the address some very practical suggestions were given to the various officers and committees of the Association.

Miss Grace Wing, Secretary of the International Y. W. C. A., was at the Hall, May 14, and addressed the girls on the work of the Association. She put especial emphasis upon the Northfield Summer School and urged all to attend if possible. The delegates to Northfield received an added inspiration for the work before them, and the interest of all the members of the Association was aroused.

The Course of Instruction.

Is substantially identical with the Classical Course in the larger Colleges of New England. There are Special Courses open to those prepared to take them. Additional facilities for laboratory work are now furnished.

Apparatus and Cabinet.

The departments of Physics and Chemistry are well equipped for experiments. For the study of Natural Science there are collections illustrative of Ornithology, Conchology, Geology and Mineralogy. The Observatory is furnished with a telescope and other instruments for instruction in Astronomy.

Physical Training.

The general principles of Physical Education are taught by lectures in the first year. Exercises in Gymnastics are required of the Freshman and Sophomore classes. The gymnasium is well provided with the most approved apparatus.

Library and Reading Room.

The University Library of 30,000 bound volumes is a choice collection well arranged in a building which is a model of its kind. The alcoves are open to the students, and the contents of the shelves are rendered easy of access by means of a card catalogue and indexes. The Reading-room contains the best periodicals, and is always open.

Expenses.

The Trustees are determined to furnish the best possible education at the lowest practical cost. Tuition is $60 per annum. The total necessary expenses of each year, including board, washing fuel and lights, are from $225 to $275.

Scholarships and Prizes.

The University has 70 endowed scholarships amounting to $80,000, the income of which, in sums of from $36 to $60 per annum, is credited on the term bills of worthy students who may need assistance. Two prizes of $50, and two second prizes of $25, are offered for superior preparation for admission. Other prizes are offered during the course for excellence in composition, declamation, reading and German.

For Catalogues or any further information apply to the President.

Hide Not Your Light!

"Johnson's Anodyne Liniment takes the lead; there is none better," says a Boston druggist.

Nervous headache, wakefulness, relieved by inhaling Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, freely.

"Heals all cuts, burns and bruises like magic." That's Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, surely.

"It Was the Cat."

The house-cat sat in the window frame,
As a June bug sailed at the speck of flame,
With his whirr and thud, came a shriek and fall,
No one ever heard such a cat-a-wail;
For their bruises, scratches, wound or burn,
The lovers like all, will in unison turn,
And with one accord the palm assign
To that King of cures,—Johnson's Anodyne.
(Liniment.)
