The Maine Intercollegiate athletic association held their fourth annual meet at Brunswick, June 8, which was the most successful one that has been held. Six records were broken, the one hundred yard dash, one hundred and twenty and two hundred and twenty yard hurdles, high jump, throwing the discus and pole vault. In the one hundred yard dash the mighty Kendall was defeated by Rollins of U. of M. He was also defeated by Edwards in the two hundred and twenty hurdle which pleased everyone. In the long runs Merrill of Bates had everything his own way. The pole vault again ended in a tie, Clark and Wignott both clearing the bar at 10 ft. 4 7-8 inches. Stevens of Colby then proceeded to break the record in the high jump, placing it at 5 ft. 6 7-8 inches. In the bicycle race Richardson of Colby was thrown on the fourth lap out but he got up quickly, straightened wheel and started after them but was unable to overtake them. He rode a plucky race and, had he not been thrown would have surely taken second if not first place. Grover of U. of M. carried off the individual record, scoring thirteen points. The result, Bowdoin 89, U. of M. 39, Bates 18, Colby 9.

Hold Annual Field Meet on Our Campus Saturday.

Saturday afternoon, six of the schools composing the Maine Intercollegiate athletic association met on our campus and held their annual field meet. Bangor and Portland were not represented, not caring to compete for honors, there being no cup offered. It is evident that Bowdoin persuaded them into thinking that they were not training for physical gain but for the prizes offered. The schools represented were Brunswick, Cony of Augusta, Bath, Edward Little of Auburn, Coburn, and Thornton Academy.

The meet was won by Brunswick with 32 points, Coburn being a close second with 31. Thornton had 27, Edward Little 23, Cony 11 and Bath two. Brunswick's victory is all the more pleasing from the fact that she only sent up four men to compete and these four had to contest against a whole field of Coburn men but nevertheless came off victorious.

The events were hotly contested from start to finish but no records were broken owing to the heavy condition of the track. The meet was in every way a successful one as more schools took part in the games than in any previous year. There was a large attendance and everything passed off very smoothly.

The officials were: J. E. Nelson, marshal, Colby '98; referee, J. H. Bates of Bowdoin; judges at finish, Dr. J. W. Black of Colby, F. A. Robinson of Colby R. S. Cleaves of Bowdoin, clerk of course, F. W. Alden, Colby '98; timers, D. P. Foster of Waterville, Prof. J. H. Hedman and Dr. W. S. Bayley of Colby; judge of walking, J. O. Wellman, Colby; starter, W. W. Bolster of Bates; scorer track events, H. L. Corson, Colby; field events, James B. Stone and C. K. Brooks.

Nelson Elected.

At the Monday evening meeting of the Waterville School board, J. E. Nelson '98, was elected principal of the Waterville high school for the ensuing year. This election comes as a surprise to many who thought Mr. Nelson would be elected to the submastership. Certainly a man more eminently fitted for the position could not be found. Mr. Nelson graduated from the school in '93 and spent a year at the Friends' Boarding school at Providence, R. I., preparatory to entering college. Since he has been in college he has taken an active part in the general interests of the college, especially in the line of the debates and exhibitions. For two years, he has been the leading representative of Colby on the intercollegiate debate. He is editor-in-chief of the '98 Oracle which appeared this week and which is by far the finest edition of the college annual ever published. Many of the old and hackneyed features which have characterized the Oracle for so many years, have given way to contributions which are fresh in character and style. The grinds are especially free from any objectionable features and there is nothing in the entire volume which does not reflect credit upon the board and the college behind it. While the work is of course largely the handiwork of Mr. Nelson, he has secured more contributions from the student body than any previous Oracle has contained. Heretofore, the Oracle has been largely the product of the editor-in-chief or the board but this year, it is more distinctly a college publication than ever before. The artistic work is of the best and the whole volume is a model book.

Next Wednesday evening, the members of Phi Beta Kappa will elect those entitled to membership from the class of '98.

President Butler was at Acadia college last week and preached the baccalaureate sermon besides addressing the graduating class. The kindly feeling for the United States is well shown by the fact that the platform on Commencement day was draped with both the United States and the British flags.

On Saturday morning, at chapel, the president made a final statement to the college in reference to the recent cases of discipline rising out of occurrences at the Freshman Reading. It may be said that "the incident is closed" in a way, on the whole, satisfactory to all. The final action of the faculty rests the censure on the acts, but removes it and all its consequences from all individuals. This outcome was to have been expected from the hitherto blameless record of the students involved, and from the undoubted intent of the faculty to take such action only as was called for by the real merits of the case.

MACFADDEN CHAMPION.

Colby Wins Both Firsts in Tennis Tournament.

By invitation of the Colby Athletic association, the Maine intercollegiate tennis association held its annual tournament upon its courts this year and the change from Portland proved a very gratifying success. The attendance at the games was very large compared with what it has always been at Portland and the good plays of all contestants were heartily applauded.

Much to the delight of Colby and much to the surprise of Bowdoin, Colby won first place in both singles and doubles. MacFadden proved himself a better man than either of the Bowdoin players and won the championship in singles while he and Shannon had almost a walkover in doubles. The result is very gratifying to those who have watched Colby steadily advance year by year in tennis until this year, she has reaped her reward.

The credit all belongs to MacFadden and Shannon who have practiced faithfully every pleasant day this spring and their victories are only what they richly merit. The meet was between Colby and Bowdoin as Bates and the University of Maine were unable to send teams on account of lack of funds. Bowdoin was represented by Wallace H. White, Jr., Harold F. Dana, Ripley L. Dana and Kenneth M. Sills; Colby being represented by Shannon, MacFadden, Stevens and Lawrence.

The first afternoon's play was devoted to the preliminary sets in doubles and White and H. Dana beat Stevens and Lawrence, 4-6, 6-3, 6-1. MacFadden and Shannon beat R. Dana and Sills, 7-5, 6-2. Tuesday was devoted to the preliminary sets in singles. MacFadden beat H. Dana, 6-4, 6-4. R. Dana beat Shannon, 1-6, 6-2, 6-4. Wednesday came the finals in both singles and doubles. In the morning MacFadden beat R. Dana, 6-2, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4. Dana is the best net player in the State and plays a rattling game of tennis. He is a very fast player and plays a fast game better than Shannon. On the contrary, MacFadden plays a slow steady game that Dana is not used to and with which he could not cope, being unable to force MacFadden into a swift game where he was at home. Here lies the secret of MacFadden's success.

In the afternoon, MacFadden and Shannon beat White and H. Dana three straight sets, 6-1, 6-1, 6-2. The Bowdoin men were outclassed and acknowledged their defeat. The tournament was a perfect success. The Bowdoin men speak very highly of their treatment here and are perfectly satisfied with the plan of having the meet rotate, to which they were first opposed. It is to be regretted that Bates and University of Maine were not represented and should they be unable to reenter next year, it has been proposed inviting some of the smaller Massachusetts colleges to meet with the Maine association.

The first dissipation which Senior vacation afforded was on Tuesday evening, when the women of the Sophomore class entertained Miss Sawtelle and the Senior women at Ladies' Hall. The evening was a delightfully informal one spent in games and conversation and at its close the two classes felt better acquainted than ever before.

ANNUAL FIELD DAY.

Sociology Class Go to Insane Hospital and Togus.

Thursday was the day chosen by Dr. Black and the sociological seminary to go on the annual field to Togus and the Insane Hospital at Augusta. The committee on arrangements consisting of Corson, Woodman, and Miss Bessey had made complete arrangements for the trip, and Wellman had looked after the transportation from Augusta to Togus and return.

The morning train bore out a party of 28 ready for a jolly good time, without forgetting at the same time, the purpose for which they were going. Augusta was reached about ten and a tally-ho and carryall carried us at once to the Insane Hospital across the river. One can gather but little idea from passing on the train on the west bank of the river of the magnitude of the institution, the main building itself being 586 feet deep. The grounds surrounding the buildings are very beautiful and the view to be obtained of the river is magnificent.

We were greeted at the entrance by Superintendent Bigelow T. Sanborn who at once showed us into the parlor where the impedimenta was laid aside. The first part of the building which we inspected was Coburn Hall, the chapel and audience room of the institution. The name sounded familiar and rightly so indeed for it is named for the same gentleman who gave us our Coburn Hall. In his will, ex-Gov. Coburn gave $50,000 to the hospital, the income to be used for some purpose not covered by the state. It was decided to use the money thus received for the amusement and entertainment of the patients, for which nothing is appropriated by the state. A band and orchestra is kept for the entertainment of the patients the year round; some of the money is used to purchase pianos which are used in the convalescent wards; everything which the patients enjoy in the musical line is furnished them through the beneficence of ex-Gov. Coburn to whom Colby owes so much. Services are held in the chapel on Sunday morning, which are well attended by the inmates.

Space will not permit me to give all the interesting facts and figures which Dr. Sanborn kindly furnished the class, but it is sufficient to say that there are at present about 740 at the institution which is all the institution is capable of caring for. The annual cost to the state of the insane hospital is $200,000. There are about 225 employed in the management. The inmates are given two excursions annually in the summer down to the Isle of Springs where Dr. Sanborn has a cottage which he built with the idea of entertaining his patients there.

We were conducted through many of the wards and were interested to note the different stages of the disease, from the hopeless cases which are kept in the stone wing, to the cheerful patients who are in the convalescent wards on the road to recovery and release. Miss Evans played and sang in two of the convalescent wards and doubtless furnished a bright spot in the lives of those who have so few.

We completed our tour of investigation by a trip to the new cattle barn which has recently been built and which has stanchions for 100 cows. There are two large wooden barns over 100 feet long and set parallel to each other at a distance of 225, connected by a brick building 24 feet high. In this brick portion of the barn, there are stanchions for the hundred head of cows. They are fed in a long trough running the whole length of the building and are watered in the same trough which is so arranged that water runs in at one end and escapes at the other. The entire barn is lighted by electricity. The brick walls preserve a very even temperature throughout the year. Beside the cows, there are over twenty Holstein and Jersey calves at the barn at present.

Returning to the hospital, the party again boarded the tally-ho and carryall and after having been snapped by the photographers present, bowled down the driveway, bound for Togus and the National Home. Dinner was eaten on the way, kindly provided by the young ladies of the party. All felt like partaking and there was sufficient for everyone to say nothing of the box that the assistant driver stowed away under the seat to refresh himself on coming back.

Two o'clock found us rolling into Togus over a road as smooth as any floor and the driver drew rein in front of the headquarters of Gov. S. H. Allen who was there in person to greet the party. After recovering from the effects of the drive over the jolting roads, the party were given over to the charge of Capt. Goebell, the officer of the day, and Dr. Borden of the hospital corps. Dr. Borden will be remembered as the young man who won the high jump in the intercollegiate in '95. Captain Goebell took charge of the boys and Dr. Borden directed Dr. and Mrs. Black and the young ladies. The men of the party were of course particularly interested in the beer shop, as it was of course a novelty to see anything of the kind, many of them born and brought up in the temperance state of Maine never having seen a beer shop before. There was the usual string going in at one door and coming out at the other but no one seemed to have had too much and everything was very orderly. The home store was visited where souvenirs of the trip were purchased. The dining room and sleeping apartments received their share of attention.

There were 2,047 answered to roll call at the Home Thursday morning. It will be readily seen that this is quite a town in itself and some idea of the magnitude of the commissary department is obtained from the following figures obtained from Capt. Goebell: eight barrels of flour is consumed in a day, 1400 pounds of fresh beef or 1000 pounds of corned beef for a dinner, seven bushels and a half of beans and 18 barrels of cabbages for side dishes for a dinner with 1800 pies for dessert.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY.
COLBY UNIVERSITY.

John Calvin Stevens, Archt.

The new chemical laboratory for Colby University is to be a substantial structure of stone and brick. Size of building is 58x110 feet with a projection on the river side 15 1-2x41 feet.

In the basement is located a toilet room, a large commodious boiler room, and opening from a spacious entry is the dark room 21x14 feet with shelves and lockers arranged so as to make the room thoroughly fitted for its uses.

On the first floor one enters through a spacious porch to a hall 16x25 feet. On the right is the lecture room fitted with raised platforms arranged in circular form, so that each student will have an uninterrupted view of any experiments or demonstrations at the professor's table. Opening from this room is Prof. Elder's work room; to be furnished with tables and shelves and every convenience possible. Adjoining this room is the apparatus room, in which will be kept all the various pieces of apparatus usually to be found in a building of this character. This room is fitted with gallery, and cases running from floor to ceiling. Through a passage leading from the main hall, directly back, is a large library or class room 16x25 feet. Adjoining this is the girls' coat room. On the left of the main entrance hall is the laboratory proper. This room is 36x54 feet and is to be fitted with tables and sinks constructed in the most approved manner, and so arranged that forty students can be easily accommodated without interfering in any way with one another. Along one side of this room is a row of hoods with thorough ventilation, so that experiments evolving noxious or disagreeable gases can be carried on behind glass, and the fumes or gases be immediately carried away by the vent flues.

The walls of this room are to be of brick laid in red mortar, while the ceiling in this room, as well as the ceiling in the lecture room, is to be of stamped steel.

A stock room 14x37 feet opens from this laboratory and in this room will be kept the various chemicals and materials used by the students in their work.

From the main hallway a wide staircase leads to the second story, landing in a large hall 20x25 feet.

Over the laboratory is the assembly hall, the full size of the laboratory beneath. Directly back of the entrance hall are the president's offices comprising a waiting room 12x17 feet and a private room 15x17 feet. In front of the entrance hall a room 25x16 feet is to be fitted up as a study room for the use of students at any time they may desire. Over the lecture room the space is divided into two large class rooms 27x38 feet.

In the third story or attic there will be a janitor's room; the remaining space being devoted to the net work of ventilating pipes which are necessary in order to carry out the scheme of heating and ventilating which has been provided.

The heating will be by means of steam coil and large fan, or what is known as the Plenum system, in which the air, is forced through ducts into the various rooms; flues being provided for the foul air to make its escape through a central ventilator on the ridge.

The building will be finished throughout in brown ash in a simple manner, as befits a building of this character, but everything will be put in upon the most substantial basis.

The exterior promises one of the most attractive buildings on the campus. The walls are to be built of the local stone with trimmings at entrance and windows of red brick laid in red mortar, with adornments of terra cotta and moulded brick. The roof is to be slated with Maine slate and the color effect of the building will not be surpassed by any college building in Maine. The stone for the walls will give a variety of tone, being full of rich warm yellow and brown shades, contrasted with the red brick at windows and entrance. A broad and generous flight of granite steps leads to a recessed porch with arched entrance; the floor of this porch being laid with marble mosaic, while the woodwork at the door and windows of the entrance will be in old oak.

In the two main piers of the entrance will be large terra cotta panels to be finely modelled, and with inscriptions which have not as yet been decided upon.

The cut of the building which we publish, however, will give a much clearer idea of its general form and appearance than can be given by any description.

The main contracts for the work have been awarded and work begun upon the building, and arrangements have been made for the laying of the corner stone at Commencement.

The contract for the masonry was awarded to Horace Purinton & Co., of Waterville, and the contract for carpentry to S. F. Brann of the same city. The other contracts have not as yet been awarded.

The architect of the building is Mr. John Calvin Stevens, of Portland, who in the Shannon Observatory has already an example of his work upon the campus.

leading papers from all over the country. Here is the register where all visitors are requested to leave their signatures. Passing to the north along by beautiful fountains and flower-beds exquisitely arranged, by the governor's house, we come to the deer park where there are always from sixty to seventy deer roaming about so tame that they will feed from one's hand. There are also two bears here and several other animals which make up an interesting menagerie. There is an abundance of springs and wells all about the grounds so that one is not obliged to go thirsty. In the rear of the opera house, there is a sulphur spring which is noted for the medicinal properties of its water. The opera house is a little gem and one would hardly expect to find such a building in such a place but the very best shows that come into the state play here and the old soldiers are entertained with the best theatrical talent that comes this way. This costs them nothing as the revenue from the beer shop, which by the way is about the only thing which is not free to the veterans, is sufficient to pay the expenses of the opera house and maintain the finest band in the state all the year round. I will speak more of the band later on.

The opera house is thoroughly up to date and has as complete appointments as any opera house in the state. Next to the opera house, is the Ward Memorial chapel, erected through the beneficence of an Englishman who left a large amount of money to the different national homes to build memorial chapels with. Both the Catholic and the Protestant services are held there on the Sabbath and are well attended. Pastors from Augusta and Gardiner alternate in conducting the services, Rev. Mr. Plant of Gardiner, who addressed our student's conference a short time ago, being the favorite pastor at present.

We are back to headquarters once more and it is four o'clock, time for the band concert in the quadrangle, the upper piazza of the hospital seems to be a fine place to listen from and thither we turn our steps while the band strikes up the "Star Spangled Banner." The programme Thursday afternoon was an excellent one and Prof. Thieme and his excellent band certainly rank as one of the finest musical organizations in the state. They play every day at four in summer, on the quadrangle and in winter and inclement weather, in the opera house at seven in the evening.

After the concert, the conveyances are ready to take us back to Augusta, loathe to leave this beautiful spot, we slowly climb aboard and bid farewell to Togus until our next visit which we hope will not be far away. We dined in Augusta and took the evening train for Waterville, arriving at 8.05, where after giving the '98 yell, the Colby yell and a hearty three times three for Dr. Black, the seminarium adjourned sine die by order of Dr. Black.

Our thanks are due Dr. Sanborn of the Insane hospital, Gov. Allen, Capt. Goebell and Dr. Borden of the National home for their kindness in making the day such a complete success and to Mr. Cony of Augusta for his gentlemanly treatment during the ride.

NOW FOR BATES.

Colby Beats U. of M. in Spite of Rowdysim.

Colby defeated U. of M. for the second time this season, last Wednesday, on the Orono diamond. This game virtually puts U. of M. out of the pennant race and ties Bowdoin and Colby for first place, each team having won three and lost two, and each having one more game to play with Bates.

Colby took the lead on the third inning and held it throughout the game. At no time was the U. of M. team in the lead. Hudson started the scoring by pounding out the second ball pitched for a home run. In the third Colby scored four more runs on a combination of hits and errors, and two more in the fourth followed two singles and a three-base hit.

In the fifth Crockett was taken out of the box and Cushman substituted, but it was too late to retrieve the game. Colby scored once again in the seventh, and in the eighth Scannell's three-base hit, Cushman's single, and an error by the second baseman sent three more men across the plate.

In the ninth, with two on bases and none out for U. of M. matters looked rather dubious, but Newenham showed himself equal to the emergency by striking out two men in succession, and the third man went out on an easy pop fly to Rowell.

The feature of the game was the pitching of Newenham, who was very effective at critical points, and had eleven strike outs to his credit.

The umpiring was not entirely satisfactory. Several times the decisions were clearly at fault. It may have been that he failed to see the plays, but it looked as though the umpire showed undue partiality to the home team.

The treatment accorded the team during their brief stop was just what was expected. The efforts to rattle the Colby players by the use of megaphones and horns was anticipated, but when any college sinks so low as to allow a member of a visiting team to be pelted with rocks, as was one of the Colby players in Wednesday's game, it is about time the matter was brought to the attention of the league. Not only the crowd, but the players themselves showed the rowdy spirit. The attempts to prevent the players from fielding the ball—the very thing for which Maine State left the field last year—were especially noticeable. The Colby men were not affected however, and won out by superior playing.
