COLBY 5, U. OF M. 1.

Wonderous strange is baseball! Last Monday's editions of Maine daily papers chronicled the fact "U. of M. wins college championship from Bates." The same papers on the following Wednesday, reporting the standing of the colleges, give Bates .750 and U. of M. .500, and all because Captain Cowing of the Colby team took his men to Orono last Tuesday, and took the U. of M. team into camp by the tune of 5 to 1.

Maine was supremely confident of winning this game—the last in her series, but Colby was playing different ball from what she was credited as being able to play, and a strong, hard game characterized by brilliant fielding, gave her a well-earned victory over the prematurely-heralded "Champions of Maine."

Bradeen pitched a star game and won a place for himself in the very front row of Maine college pitchers. He allowed five hits but none of them were at critical times, and only three were made after the first inning. Bradeen was handsomely supported. Leighton made a beautiful one handed catch when two men were out and two on bases. Pugsley, the ubiquitous, made some impossible catches at short, and got seven out of eight chances. The only other error was a wild throw by Cowing.

Maine was fairly outplayed in every department. Mitchell pitched a fine game but his support was nothing less than discouraging. Ten errors were made, five of them being at short, three by Thatcher in the first inning, and the other two by Larrabee who succeeded him in the second, the two men exchanging in left field.

Colby was first at bat and when Leighton faced the Maine pitcher, a pennant was floating from the grand stand, proclaiming U. of M. to be "Champions Maine College Baseball, 1902." Leighton hit to shortstop, and Thatcher fumbled it, giving the runner his base. Saunders located the spheroid and sent it down to first but Collins dropped it, and Leighton went to second, and then sped on to third, when Cowing took his base on Towse's error. The bases were full when Meserve flied to Mitchell, then Keene gave Thatcher a warm one which he failed to handle and Leighton scored. Cowing was caught off second by Mitchell and Carr, and Teague struck out, but not before Saunders had scored run number two for Colby.

Holmes started for Maine by taking a hit and stealing second. Larrabee drew a walk, and when Carr sent out a pretty single, the bases were full and things looked dubious. But Brady never flinched. Davis dispatched a hot one to short and Pugsley caught it by a beauty of a grab, threw to Saunders who completed the double by assisting Pike catch Holmes at third. This was an all around pretty play. Collins came up to send the two men home, but his hit was a short one, and he was out when Saunders threw to Keene. Colby 2, Maine 0.

Pike took his base on Larrabee's error, Pugsley struck out and Bradeen flied to Holmes. Davis nailed Leighton's hit and three were out for Colby.

Thatcher was struck out but Cowing fumbled, threw wild to first, and the man was safe. Towse struck out, Chadbourne gave up the ghost, Saunders to Keene, and then Bradeen demonstrated the existence of a hole in Holmes' bat, in the good orthodox style.

Collins, the Maine first-baseman, proved equal to putting out the first three Colby men up in the third, Chadbourne assisting in putting out Saunders, Carr interfering with Cowing, and Larrabee contributing to Meserve's downfall. Three men alone were all who were privileged to plead Maine's case in this inning.

Larrabee made a good try for a hit, but Pugsley was on hand; Capt. Carr got a good start but so did Keene, and Saunders made the put-out; Davis sent a liner to short, but Pugsley got in the way of it, and the jig was played. 2 to 0 in Colby's favor, and still the championship banner waved in the Orono air.

Keene, Teague and Pike flied out to Carr, Towse and Carr respectively in the fourth, Davis dropped one into Bill Teague's ready mit, Collins fanned, Mitchell singled, and then Thatcher hit one into deep right field that seemed to have all due licence to be a three-base hit, and to let in a run for Maine. But Leighton opened his weather eye and winked the other at himself, turned a few revolutions, ran backwards and then sideways; meanwhile the ball was still soaring, and when nobody supposed he could get it, the spheroid dropped fair and square into one outstretched hand, and another inning was over.

Pugsley attempted to bunt a third strike, and Bradeen was second man out on second after reaching first on Larrabee's error. This put-out gave Leighton a show for the circuit, and Saunders came to the bat with two men gone and a man on first. Maybe he wanted to get the first hit, maybe his eyes fell on that pennant of prevarication which the Penobscot breeze once in a while deigned to float,—any way he hit the ball square and a pretty single was the result. Up came Captain Cowing then, and he, too, saw the banner, and stopped to think that all the premature presumption of all the prophets of Penobscot could not overthrow the fact that until a few more games were played, only one college in Maine could claim the baseball championship—and that—Colby—the winner of the last pennant. Any way he hit the ball for a double, and Frank and Ike scored. Meserve flied to Carr.

Towne struck out, Chadbourne was put out by Pugsley, Holmes singled but the hit availed nothing for Larrabee fell to Keene. 4 to 0 at the end of the fifth. Keene dropped one over to Davis, and ex-Capt. Teague went down on Captain Carr's error. Pike sacrificed and Pugsley died at first on Larrabee's assist. Carr got a double, Davis went out, Bradeen to Keene, Collins flied to Keene and Mitchell to Meserve. In the meantime on an error by Keene, Carr brought in Maine's solitary score.

Bradeen was out in the seventh on a double by Mitchell, Carr and Collins. Leighton struck out and Saunders flied to Carr. A double by Brady, Bill and Bruno retired Thatcher, Pugsley and Keene looked out for Towse, Chadbourne had some aspirations for helping tie the score when Pugsley made an excusable error, but Holmes spoiled it all by accommodating Pike with third put out.

Cowing drew a pass, went out to second, Thatcher fumbled and Keene went down, Towse fumbled, scoring Cowing and giving Teague his base. Keene was put out on third, Pike was allowed his base on this put-out and Pugsley fanned.

In Maine's half, three little flies by Larrabee, Carr, and Davis, three little catches by Pike, Leighton, and Pugsley, and everything was ready to begin the ninth and last, which closed with the score 5 to 1. The championship banner was hauled down.

EASTERN MAINE ASSOCIATION OF ZETA PSI.

The graduate members of the Zeta Psi Fraternity who live in Eastern Maine held a banquet at the Penobscot Exchange, Bangor, Friday evening June 6, and organized the Eastern Maine Association of Zeta Psi. Hon. Hannibal E. Hamlin, Colby '79, presided. Among the Colby men in attendance were Forrest Goodwin, Esq., '87, O. L. Hall, '93, G. A. Wilson, Jr., '93, E. L. Herrick, '00. Twenty-five men sat down to the banquet and some ringing speeches were made after the dinner was served. The Chi Chapter of Colby, was represented by active brothers, W. H. Rockwood, '02, and C. W. Steward, '03.

PRESIDENT WHITE RECEIVES SENIORS.

President and Mrs. White gave a reception at their home, last Monday evening, to the members of the Senior class and invited friends. Martin H. Long and Julius H. B. Fogg, assisted in receiving. Refreshments were served during the evening, and the college orchestra dispensed very good music from an upper room. This reception had the good quality of not being crowded, and perhaps that fact helped contribute to make the function the exceptionally pleasant event it was.

GRADUATE NOTES.

'01. Alexander M. Blackburn, during the past year assistant in German and Mathematics at the Robbins School, Norfolk, Connecticut, has been elected principal. Charles F. T. Seaverns of the same class at Colby will be the instructor in Greek and Latin at the Robbins School next year. He and Blackburn were roommates for four years at Colby and accordingly will appreciate the renewal of active friendship and labor together. During the past year Seaverns has been a student in the Harvard Graduate School and has obtained his Master's degree in one year, which is an exceptional performance.

BOWDOIN 1, COLBY 0.

In one of the fastest games of baseball ever played upon college field, Bowdoin defeated Colby, Wednesday, June 11, by the close score of 1 to 0. Both teams played almost professional ball. Colby fielded finely but could not hit Oakes. More than once, a hit would have won for Colby, but the Bowdoin pitcher stood firm, and the hit could not be made. Pugsley pitched as he never pitched before. He had all kinds of curves and the speed of chain lightning. He could change his speed at will, and he had almost perfect control, allowing not a single base on balls. He had some pretty fielding chances and took them all without a slip, making two put-outs and four assists. It was just the kind of pitching that makes a college proud of its pitcher.

Lord did great work on third accepting four chances—two put-outs and two assists. Saunders seems to have found his position on second bag, for he covered lots of ground and covered it well. But the one star of the game outside of the box, who was a star from start to finish was "Bunny" Pike at short. To accept ten chances without an error is playing some, and that's just what Bunny did.

"It was a hard game to lose" has been heard from almost everybody, but the sentence tells the story. It was hard, but Bowdoin played a great game and the victory came not without a struggle.

Bowdoin was first up, Stanwood failed to connect, and then a few pretty ones made White go way back and sit down. Greene thought he had a hit, but he struck in Pugsley's mit, and three were out. Leighton struck out, Saunders flied to Havey, and Munro closed the inning by catching Cowing's fly.

In the second, Havey, Munro and Kelley were out in order to Keene, Pike and Lord. In Colby's half, Meserve, Keene and Pike struck out, but before Bunny's retirement, Oakes got a bit wild and Teague won a walk.

Allen, Bly and Oakes told the story for Bowdoin in the next, Bly striking out, and the other two falling to Keene on assists by Pug. and Pike. It looked as if Oakes was weakening when Pugsley and Lord were given bases on balls, but the tune changed when the lad with the black and white hose struck out Leighton and Saunders. Cowing ended the inning by flying to White.

Just as in the first three innings, only three Bowdoin men were given a show in the fourth. Stanwood flied to Leighton, Keene put out White and Greene and then looked around for more colors to conquer, but three were out and Pike and Pugsley made the assists. Meserve came up and found Oakes for the first hit of the game. Keene flied to Munro. It looked as if the Brunswick twirler was afraid of the bat in the hands of Colby's ex-captain, for he gave Teague another base on balls. Munro caught Pike's liner, and Oakes and Munro caught Teague at second.

Havey struck out at the opening of the fifth, Munro flied to Pugsley, Kelley sent a single into right field, and advanced another on Leighton's error. Allen hit to Pike who made a quick throw to first, but Keene failed to hold the ball and the runner was safe. Bly was put out by Pike and Keene. Munro put out the next three Colby men, Leighton on White's assist, and Lord on Greene's.

The baseball game with Bowdoin last Wednesday settled Colby's position in the series of championship games. It is useless to comment upon the situation. From the fact that Colby has won more baseball championships than all the other Maine colleges together, our alumni look to us to make a grand good showing in this branch of college athletics. This year has certainly been an exception among baseball seasons, and the exception is an unfortunate one for Colby. The season opened with good material in every college in the state, and this material was predicted to be very evenly balanced. At the very outset, Colby was beset by disadvantages arising from peculiar conditions, and these unfavorable conditions clung to the team until the season was nearly over. Captain Teague worked early and late, but he could not achieve impossibilities. Captain Cowing was badly handicapped from the beginning of his captaincy. Up to the middle of the season, daily practice was never what it was desired to be, and it was no great surprise, although something of a disappointment, when the team lost the first three championship games. Up to this time, all things considered, U. of M. seemed to have the strongest team in the state, and when Colby beat Maine 5 to 1, a more hopeful aspect was assumed, and a much-needed spirit was instilled into the team. Then came the hard fought game with Bowdoin and—defeat by a single score, just as a single score settled the other Bowdoin-Colby game. Hard luck was on Colby's side in both these games but—baseball is baseball, and the result must be borne. Colby has had excellent material for a pennant team but the result of the season, although disappointing, is hardly less than the conditions would suggest. Inability to secure a better standing in the league may be traced to three reasons:—first, insubordination of certain players, second, lack of coach, and third, "just hard luck."

It is certainly a shameful condition of things, when a visiting team leave their belongings in the college gymnasium to find them gone, on their return from the field. This is what happened a few days ago. The thieves are undoubtedly small boys from the town who sneak into the gym during the excitement of a game on the college field. This is not the first time that articles of value have been stolen from our gymnasium. This thing must be stopped. It has gone too far already. The conference board or some other agency has a matter of paramount importance clamoring for settlement. The matter involves college honor. It must be investigated.

BOWDOIN v. COLBY

Oakes, Stanwood and White were put out in ein, zwei, drei order by the man with the Brunonian past, Pug and Pike getting an assist apiece. Saunders died, Oakes to Munro, and Cowing to Greene. Meserve got his base on Munro's error, and second on Havey's, which sent Keene to first. Teague struck out.

Greene got a hit for a starter in the seventh, but was put out on second by Pike and Saunders. Havey got his base on this put out, and Munro got his base when Havey was retired at second by Saunders on Lord's assist. Kelley fled out to Pike. Pike came up for Colby and sent a fly to Bly. Pugsley was out by Munro, on White's assist, and Lord by Munro unassisted.

Allen died easy, Pugsley to Keene, Bly singled, Oakes went down on an attempted out, Stanwood struck out, and White fell, Pike to Keene. Leighton fled to Havey, Saunders went out on Greene's throw to first, Cowing went down on Havey's fumble, and Meserve fell a victim to Havey and Munro.

The ninth opened with the score 0 to 0. Greene sent a liner right into Lord's mit, Havey took a single and Munro followed with a double. Kelley hit a little brisk one to Pugsley and Havey started to run home; Pugsley threw to the plate with lightning speed and the sphere struck the catcher's mit just as the Bowdoin captain made one desperate lunge for the plate. There was a collision in the midst of which, Captain Cowing of Colby dropped the ball, and Captain Havey of Bowdoin scored. Allen fled to Pike and Pugsley struck out Bly.

With heavy hearts, Colby went to the bat for the last chance. Keene struck out, Teague sent a hot one to Stanwood, which some center fielders would not get, but Stanwood did; and it was all over when Pike fled to Bly.

FAIRFIELD 6, COLBY 5.

Saturday afternoon, June 7, on the Fairfield trotting park, Colby played Fairfield in an interesting game in the midst of some very uninteresting weather. A disagreeable rain made good playing almost impossible. The last inning contained some sensational features, and lost the game for Colby.

Pike was first at bat and he was put out, Taylor to Rowell. Saunders flied to Taylor, Cowing took a two base hit and stole third. Meserve struck out. Taylor took a hit and Allen followed ditto. Rowell sent out a fly to Leighton, Taylor scored before Meserve struck out, then Pugsley and Keene retired Connors.

Keene hit to second and was out, Connors to Rowell. Teague won a walk, Leighton hit safe, Pugsley and Lord flied to Allen and Connors. Hamilton flied to Teague, a passed ball gave Smith his base, McBain died to Pike and Flood scored Smith on a single, Taylor went to first, being hit by pitched ball, then Allen struck out.

Pike opened the third by fanning and Saunders went out Hamilton to Connors. Cowing singled, Meserve walked and Keene flied out to the Fairfield catcher. Rowell met his fate at Leighton's hands, Meserve fell, Pike to Keene, Connors hit and stole second, then Pugsley struck out Hamilton.

Teague drew another base on balls and the first error of the game sent Leighton to his base. Pugsley struck out, and Teague, in an attempt to score at an opportune time was caught at home plate, Hamilton to McBain. This manoeuvring gave Lord his base, but Pike struck out. Smith fanned, McBain singled and then Flood also succumbed to Pugsley's curves. Taylor took a hit, but Allen made three out, Saunders to Keene.

Saunders started inning number five and struck out, Cowing and Meserve were killed by Flood and Smith. This inning was just as short for Fairfield as it was for Colby. Keene put out Rowell, Meserve and Connors in order, on an assist by Cowing and two by Pike.

In the sixth, Keene flied to Allen, Teague struck out, Leighton gained by Taylor's error, then McBain and Rowell retired Pugsley. Fairfield's three men were out in order, Hamilton, Keene to Pugsley, Smith to Cowing, and McBain, Lord to Keene.

When the seventh opened, Fairfield led the score, 2 to 0, but Colby had played an errorless game up to this point. Lord was given his base on balls, but was put out at second Hamilton to Connors. This put-out landed Pike safe, but he was caught off first, Hamilton to Rowell.

Saunders took his base on an error by Bushey who now succeeded Meserve at left field. Cowing was hit by a pitched ball, and an error by Taylor, sent Meserve to first, Cowing to second, and Saunders to third. Keene cracked out a single and Saunders and Cowing scored. Teague went out, Connors to Rowell. In the other half, Flood fanned the Fairfield breezes and Taylor popped an easy one to Cowing. Saunders' error let Allen to first and Rowell's hit scored him after stealing second. But now Meserve and Lord did some fancy work, and Rowell was put out on third. Score, 3 to 2, with Fairfield ahead.

Leighton was put out at first on Hamilton's throw, and Pugsley at the same place on Taylor's throw. Taylor's error gave Lord his base and Pike struck out. Bushey fanned, Connors abdicated, at the recommendations of Pike and Keene, then Hamilton flied out to Cowing.

Saunders and Cowing started heavy in the ninth, each getting a single, and each was forced along one notch, when Meserve got his credentials for a walk. With the bases full, Keene struck out, but Teague was hit by a pitched ball and a score was forced home. Leighton sacrificed, scoring Cowing, sending Meserve to third and Teague to second. An error by Rowell now sent Pugsley to first, and scored Meserve. Lord was out at first base on Hamilton's assist.

Fairfield came up for her last trial with the score 5 to 3 against her. Smith flied to Keene, McBain went over on Lord's error. Pugsley now planted his Granite state feet firmly in the Somerset soil, and Flood summarily struck out. Taylor and Allen got a single pass apiece. There were now two out and a man on every base, and in this condition of the diamond, Rowell knocked out a single letting in the three runs and giving the game to Fairfield by a score of 6 to 5.
