BOSTON ALUMNI BANQUET.

Friday evening, the twenty-fourth of February, some seventy alumni of "Old Colby" assembled at the American House Boston, to renew old associations and pledge anew their loyalty to their Alma Mater. Prominent among them was the class of '68 which had six members present, and Prof. William Mathews class of '35.

A little after seven the march was taken to the banquet hall, a group picture was made, and after the invocation by Rev. E. F. Merriam, '68, the college quartet favored us with a selection. The singing of the quartet was a feature of the evening, and their willingness and hard work, as well as fine singing, won them the confidence and appreciation of the the graduates present. Many were the words of commendation.

The courses were interspersed with cheers, singing and piano selections. It was a most social affair.

President Gustavus I. Peavey, '75, introduced President White as the first after dinner speaker. After a most feeling tribute to the late Prof. Smith and "Sam" he reminded the alumni that they could best support the College by sending to it their sons and daughters, stating that there were only four of the present student body whose fathers were alumni. After announcing the late vote of the Trustees in regard to separate colleges, which was most heartily applauded, financial matters were discussed.

President Peavy then called on Hon. Leslie C. Cornish of Augusta, Secretary of the Board of Trustees, who made a sincere and affectionate plea for the whole-souled loyalty of each and every alumnus, particularly deploring the chronic fault-finder.

We all sit at the feet of Prof. William Mathews when he speaks and this night was no exception. E. S. Small, Esq. '68 spoke for the members of his class present. After a song all slowly dispersed to their homes believing more than ever in the future of our Alma Mater on the banks of the Kennebec "Way Down in Maine."

M. S. GETCHELL, '93, Secretary.

The 24th annual banquet of the Boston Alumni Association was held at the New American House last Friday evening. The event was a most enjoyable one and plenty of college spirit and loyalty was manifested by the old "grads."

The evening opened by a reception at 6 o'clock at which acquaintances were renewed and pleasant recollections were recalled. At 7.30 about seventy-five alumni sat down at tables and after the preliminaries the banquet began. Outbursts of enthusiasm and loyalty to our Alma Mater were interspersed between the courses in the form of college yells, and cheering our distinguished alumni.

The banquet was followed by speeches from Pres. White, Prof. William Mathews, LL.D. '35 and Hon. Leslie C. Cornish. These were full of hope and assurance for the future of the college, and many amusing incidents were told of things that have happened in the old days. We were all disappointed not to have the opportunity of hearing Judge Bonney and Hon. Forrest Goodwin, who were unable to attend.

The undergraduates present at the banquet were impressed with the enthusiasm shown by the men who have preceded us, and by their many testimonies of their love and loyalty to their Alma Mater. This same spirit is what we need here in college; and it would be a great benefit to every member of the college to be present on such an occasion to see how everything that is done in college is jealously regarded by the Alumni and to make him feel that we are working not merely for ourselves, but for our college.

CLASS GAMES.

The four classes of the college will strive for the class basket ball championship in the gymnasium Saturday evening. These games will be full of fun from start to finish. The game between the Sophomore and Freshmen teams will be a spirited contest as both teams will contain men who have played on the Varsity. It would add a great deal to the excitement of the evening if the supporters of the different classes could be bunched and would enthusiastically cheer their team on to victory or defeat. There will be three games the Freshmen vs the Sophomores, the Juniors vs the Seniors and the game between the winners. Everybody come and see the fun. Come and show a little class spirit. Class spirit breeds college spirit, which has been lacking to a large extent in the basket ball games so far this winter.

U. OF M. 19, COLBY 9.

The game of basket ball at Orono Wednesday evening resulted in a victory for U. of M. by a score of 19 to 9. Contrary to the statement of the papers, the game was not a championship one. It was simply an exhibition game, played for the financial part of it, and Maine cannot rightfully claim the championship because of the victory. The game was uninteresting compared with the other Colby-Maine games, both teams lacking snap and team work. At times both teams passed well, and good team work was displayed. Then they would take a slump, and nothing but a rough mix-up would follow. The score at the end of the first half was 13 to 4 in Maine's favor. This was due to the poor covering of the Colby men and the excellent work of Capt. Huntington of Maine, who got three goals in succession and all pretty throws. In the second half things were different. Colby took a decided brace and the half ended with the score 6 to 5 in Maine's favor.

The whole game was exceedingly rough, which was due to the slackness of both officials, and which of course gave Maine the advantage, being on her own floor. Several foot ball scrimmages were indulged in, and a good deal of amusement was caused by the roughness.

For Maine, Huntington and Owen did good work, both men playing good clean basket ball. Willey and DeWitt did the best for Colby. Peterson had poor luck throwing goals, having several free goals, but otherwise played a good game. The score:

MAINE	COLBY
Huntington lf	lf, Willey
St. Onge rf	rf, Peterson
Mathews c	c, Thompson
Owen rb	rb, McVane
Stuart lb	lb, DeWitt

Score U. of M. 19, Colby 9. Goals from the field Huntington 4, St. Onge 2, Owen 2, Stuart 1, Willey 2. Goals from fouls, Maine 1, Colby 5. Fouls called on Maine 5, on Colby 3. Referees, Bilvin of Bangor and Rogan of Bangor. Time, two 20-minute halves.

Charles Dwyer '08, returned from a visit to Hebron Tuesday.

FORESTRY LECTURES.

The lectures on Forestry given last Friday and Saturday in Shannon Hall by Professor S. N. Spring of the University of Maine drew out a large number of students, who were much interested in the subject. Friday afternoon Professor Spring presented in an informal way the History and Development of Forestry in the United States.

The first measures toward the preservation of timber were taken by the early colonists of Massachusetts and other New England States in the years 1620-1720. In New York and Pennsylvania steps were also taken towards the same end. Forestry is essentially of Teutonic origin and the English people when they came over to this country knew the value of timberland. From 1790 to 1820 we find an apparent depletion of forests but a Massachusetts Society of Forestry emphasized the importance of preserving the timber for ship building. In this second period in the history of forestry the government also interested itself and planted orchards of live oak and cedar in Florida. These, however, did not prove successful. From 1820 to 1860 our transportation increased tremendously; ship building grew proportionately and no regard was shown for the forests, which were lumbered unstintingly. In 1840 the total value of the lumber product was 13 millions of dollars, in 1850, 60 millions, and in 1900, 567 millions.

Lumbering is the fourth industry in importance in this country and the annual cut in 1900 was sufficient to very nearly floor over the state of Rhode Island with boards an inch thick. In 1850 the New England states furnished about 55 per cent of the total lumber product but since then the Lake, Southern and Pacific states have taken the bulk of the business. Fire and lumbering have made such inroads into the forests that they will probably not last longer than fifty years.

The year 1870 saw great enthusiasm for the preservation of timber and a wave of tree planting swept over the entire country. In 1882 the American Forestry Association was organized and has been doing a most excellent work ever since in preventing undue destruction of timber. In 1898 a school of forestry was established at Cornell, and in 1901, one at Yale. A number of the state universities also have special courses in forestry.

In 1896 President Cleveland set aside a number of forest reserves and a large number more were provided for by the fifty-third Congress. At the present time there are sixty-one forest reserves in the United States, covering about sixty-five million acres of land. These are largely on the upper slopes of mountains and their chief use is to preserve and control the head waters of rivers.

The lines of work of the Bureau of Forestry are the gathering of material regarding forests, co-operative studies with the states, and getting proper forest laws enacted by Congress. Forest measurements, commercial tree studies, forest extension, and the planting of reserves is also carried on.

Saturday morning Professor Spring spoke on some aspects of Forestry and illustrated his remarks with some very interesting lantern slides, using the stereopticon in the Physical Laboratory. The views were mainly of the forests peculiar to the different sections of the country together with views showing lumbering operations and devastation wrought by natural and other causes. A. G. R. ## COLBY 29, HEBRON 22.

In the second game of the season the Colby basket ball team won from Hebron Academy Friday evening by a score of 29 to 22. Colby played in her own gym otherwise the score might have been different. It was one of those see-saw games in which one team will lead one minute and the other the next. At the close of the first half the score was 12 to 11 in Hebron's favor. The last half was fast, each team trying to gain some advantage that would make the game safe. In the first half the Hebron team worked signal plays and McFarland on these plays succeeded in getting three baskets. Both Willey and Green did excellent work in throwing fouls, the former getting 11 out of 15, while the latter got 6 out of 9. McVane played a star game considering the fact that it was his first game since his injury in the Taconnet game. He made one very pretty one hand throw during the last half. The line up and score:

COLBY	HEBRON
Willey (Capt.) rf	lb, Richardson
Peterson, Phinney lf	rb, McFarland (Capt.)
Thompson c	c, Abbott
DeWitt rb	lf, Stobie
McVane lb	rf, Green

Score Colby 29, Hebron 22. Goals thrown by McFarland 5, Willey 5, Peterson 2, Green 2, Phinney, McVane, Stobie. Fouls called on Hebron 15, on Colby 9. Goals from fouls Willey 11, Green 6. Referee Coombs, Timer Fogg. Time 15 and 20 minute halves.

The game between halves was Colby 2nd and the Columbia Hose Company, Colby 2nd winning to the tune of 19 to 14. The first half was almost a farce both teams having lots of chances but neither one being able to locate the basket with any accuracy. The last half was somewhat more interesting as the Colby boys seemed to take turns in throwing the ball in. First Weeden threw one, then Libby, then Morse, then Tilton, and Flood, not to be outdone, put in two and Libby finished with one more to his credit. The other team meanwhile had added eight points to their score and the half ended 19 to 14 in Colby 2nd's favor.

COLBY 2ND	COLUMBIA HOSE
Weeden rf	lb, Vigue
Flood lf	rb, Norman
Libby c	c, McAlary
Tilton rb	lf, Loon
Morse lb	rf, Marshall

Score Colby 2nd 19, Columbia Hose 14. Goals from floor by Marshall 3, Loon 3, Flood 2, Libby 2, Morse, Tilton, Weeden, Vigue. Fouls called on Colby 2nd 2, on Columbia Hose 7. Goals from fouls by Libby 3, Tilton, Flood. Referee Coombs, Timer Lyons. Time 15 minute halves.

The Japanese students of Columbia University recently gave an entertainment for the benefit of those made destitute by the present war with Russia. The features of the program were exhibitions of sword fencing, and sword dances, as well as several national songs and pictures of the Russo-Japanese war. Mrs. S. Uchido, the wife of the Japanese consul, was one of the patronesses.

THE ATHLETIC EXHIBITION.

It has been definitely decided to have an Athletic Exhibition during the last week of the term. There may be some difference of opinion as to the wisdom of this decision under the existing conditions, but since the exhibition is to be held every man should do his best to make it a success. Our numbers are small at best; many are excused from gymnasium drill for one reason or another; and the classes are therefore limited in size. This makes it more important than ever that every man should enter heartily into the preparations and do his best to make the exhibition a credit to the college.

CHEERING.

The opening of the base ball season will soon be here, and once more THE ECHO would call attention to the need of definite plans for organized cheering. Good, snappy cheering is not the result of chance but of hard practice. Our opponents come to meet us backed by larger numbers than our own. They are naturally able to surpass us in volume of sound. This makes it all the more necessary for us to train so thoroughly and enthusiastically as to be able to out cheer them in spite of their numerical advantage. It is none too early to begin now. One or two new yells well learned, together with an improved manner of giving the old yells, will give the nine the backing it deserves to have. Think of it; act on it.

THE PREACHER.

"No doubt but that we are the people and wisdom shall die with us." (With apologies to Job.)

That's the way we all feel sometimes, and those times seem to come quite frequently to some of us Colby students to judge by the way in which we indulge in "hot air." There's nothing which we couldn't better if we only had a show, especially about the college. Nobody on the faculty has any brains, in our estimation at least, and everything is going to ruin as fast as it can. So we imagine, and so we say.

But there's where we're off our trolley. The college got on very well for eighty years before we happened along, and it will probably continue to stagger onwards for another three quarters of a century after we've made our exit from its halls. To tell the truth we're not nearly as necessary to the welfare of the institution as some of us think we are.

Despite all that, you and I can be of use to old Colby if we really wish,—by keeping our mouths shut once in a while. If we keep up this continual fault-finding chatter when there's nothing to complain of, one of two things will result: Either people will finally conclude conditions are really what we claim; or else the time will come when a just complaint will be unheeded because it's a wornout story.

Now we all know that it's impossible to suit every one of six score men in every particular. That's a foregone conclusion. So the sooner we make up our minds to praise the things that please us and keep quiet about the rest so much the sooner will the existing abuses have a chance to disappear. We make such a noise now that nobody knows just what is the matter. Keep still and give 'em a chance to find out! So saith the Preacher.

CROSS COUNTRY RUNNING IN ENGLAND.

Warren Ellis Schutt, formerly of Cornell 1905, now Rhodes Scholar from New York, in a recent letter to friends in this country speaks as follows of a cross country run in which he participated:

"We don't know in America what cross country running really is. We started on a seven and a half mile course in a blinding cold rain. The first mile was in a forest path and was done in 4.38. I was not far behind the head man there. Then we struck one and a half miles of steep, up-hill, ploughed ground, muddy and clayey. I went up to my knees almost at every step and was nearly dead when I got to the top. A lot of men who were better on ploughed ground than I passed me here.

"At the top was two more miles of forest path, rough and ragged, and a mile up a steep hill on muddy roads. Then we had two miles of grass, perfectly flat. I passed man after man here and almost caught Goodby, but could not quite get up. I was four seconds behind him at the finish.

"It was the hardest run I ever saw. The fences we took were three and a half feet high, with ditches three feet from the ground down to the top of the water at the bottom. We jumped straight down into the water up to our waists and then climbed out all dripping. There were also barbed wire fences here and there. I was running along, blinded by the rain, and did not see one. I was cut quite badly in three places on each leg. I considered myself lucky to finish as I did. My time was 43m. 8s."

In closing Schutt says he intends to keep in training during the vacation, as he is going after the mile record of 4m. 10 3/4s. next term. He says that runners abroad make a great point of "dying in the first lap." "They run on a three lap track and in the mile do the first lap in 1m. 10s. or 1m. 20s.

The new chapel for Oberlin College, which is to cost $95,000, will be begun in the spring. The number of students at Oberlin has increased more than fifty per cent during the last four years. COLLEGE MEN IN POLITICS.

Hon. Seth Low, former Mayor of New York, addressed the Harvard Political Club recently on "A College Man's Influence in Politics." A few extracts from that address may prove of interest to Colby students.

"The first thing a man should guard against is indifference. Earnestness is a fundamental American characteristic. Another thing he must avoid is the habit of continual and destructive criticism. It destroys a man's usefulness almost as completely as anything can. I know of at least one newspaper which by constant indulgence of that habit has really reduced a large influence to almost nothing. We ought to recognize that a man without college training may be even a more useful citizen than we are. Another opinion that often greatly limits the efficiency of highly educated men is that universal suffrage, although inevitable in this country, is after all a mistake. The body politic is vastly safer that embraces the elements that feel and the elements that think. I don't mean to say that the man who thinks is always wrong or that the man who feels is always right, although I think he often is. What I want to make you understand is that it is of tremendous importance to our country to have represented in the suffrage both of those elements. I have never been convinced that it was a mistake to give the negro the suffrage. I believe in manhood suffrage for immigrants. I don't believe we want to restrict foreign immigration. We don't want to keep out men simply because they are poor. We don't know what geniuses we may turn away from our doors.

 "I don't suppose there is a man here who will live long enough to see the time when an effort will not have to be made to get a fair election in this country. A great problem is how to prevent fraud and corruption. Corruption has presented a new face every time it has been driven out of an old position. There is no permanent cure for it but to raise the standard among the people at large. The trouble is that when driven from one stronghold, corruption rises in another direction. Tweed, when in control of New York, literally stole. It could be proved against him and he was sent to jail. Crocker said he was in politics for his own pocket all the time. He didn't go to jail, and yet he is able to race horses in England out of the money he was able to get out of politics in New York. I don't know how much he got by ways that would be indictable, but what I do know is that when Crocker said he was in politics for his own pocket all the time he gave a money standard to political life that perfectly expressed, in my belief, the object in Tamany Hall, and that, at any rate, utterly demoralized all its members, because they said to themselves, 'If the leader of Tamany can publicly say that he is in politics for his own pocket all the time, why shouldn't I look after my pocket while I am in politics?'"

 "The thought I should like you to take away is that we have got to meet the dangers of to-day and to-morrow in the same faith and with the same courage as met and mastered the dangers of yesterday and the day before. To do this you must not only respect the people, but you must be men whom the people respect."
