COLBY 29, TUFTS 22.

Most Exciting Game of the Season—Mass. Boys Outplayed.

By far the most exciting game of the season was played in the gym. last Friday night between Tufts and Colby. The game was for blood from the first and the amount of dash displayed by both teams, together with their team work, went to make up a game well worth seeing. Although numerous fouls were called they were occasioned more because of the fast pace set than from any intentional roughness. The only exception to this was the uncalled for hard usage served up to Libby by his six-foot opponent.

Both teams started out with a rush and during the entire forty minutes not a man had a chance to loaf. Getchell was soon seen to be the dangerous man on the Tufts team, and in spite of careful guarding, was successful in throwing six baskets. Willey had his eye down the foul goals and secured eleven baskets out of thirteen tries. McClellan took Libby's place at the middle of the first half and proved a very valuable man for the rest of the evening. Not only did he keep his big opponent from taking a very active part in the game, but also added four baskets to Colby's tally.

With the score against them, 15 to 10, at the beginning of the second half, the home team went on with a rush that quickly told, and by the middle of the second period the outcome of the game was evident.

SOPHS. 12, FRESHMEN 9.

Before the Tufts game the Freshmen and Sophomores lined up against each other for two fifteen minute periods. The various elements of basket-ball were sadly lacking but the spectators had a chance to watch a good lively mix-up. The two teams seemed well matched in their ignorance of the game and to pick out any one shining light would be an extremely delicate task. Farrar's goal was probably the most unexpected thing of the evening and should not pass unmentioned.

"THE VEILED LADY."

A Piece of Fiction by Charles F. Foster of the Class of '55.

There has recently been called to attention of the Echo a piece of fiction, "The Veiled Lady" by Charles F. Foster, Colby '55, published last summer by the Broadway Publishing Co. of New York.

The story has its plot laid in the Alps, where a young doctor, Hatherly Sealis, the supposed author, who has left his New England city for a rest from his practice, meets a young lady while sauntering through the Park at Wiesbaden. This young lady, Marie De Lanette, who is suffering from a strange and distressing mental condition, appears nowhere in public and whenever seen upon the street has her face heavily veiled. The curiosity of the young man is greatly aroused because of this veiling, which also arouses the curiosity of the reader. She suddenly leaves Wiesbaden, and soon he resumes his travels going to Geneva, where he meets his college chum, Joe Lewis; together they continue touring among the Alps. The descriptions of the places at which they stop and of the people whom they meet, all serve to keep the reader interested.

At last his friend leaves him and he starts for Florence, where, as he has learned through a letter, Miss De Lanette is devoting her time to painting and music. While in Santa Croce, a church famous as the burial place of many distinguished persons, he meets her and later she tells him her life story and the cause of her distressing mental condition. At length they are married, this strange young woman proving to be the innocent link in a chain of mystery which has been forged with artful skill.

This book will undoubtedly be of interest to those associated with Colby in that it was written and published by one of her graduates.

DEBATING SOCIETY.

The Debating Society meetings for mine. What's the use of going to a theatre? That was the opinion of everyone who attended the meeting last Wednesday night. Nothing was lacking. A fight to the finish between the principals, over a momentous question of civic government, scrappy side bouts by members from the floor, and then the specialties. The poor we have always with us, but not the Women's Division, so we were more than pleased to have the talented representatives from Foss Hall contribute so generously to the program. The Mandolin Club deserved the cheers which they received and great credit is due their trainer Mr. S. E. Whitten '08. Everyone enjoyed themselves, that's all.

N. B. We have one suggestion to make. Please start the meetings earlier; we don't have time to go down to Hager's and get back before ten o'clock.

MRS. KATHERINE HOBBS MILLETT, '94.

In Hanover, Mass., February 10, 1906, Katherine Hobbs, Colby '94, wife of Robert N. Millet, Colby '93, passed away after an illness of a day. She leaves one son three years old and another two days old. She will be greatly mourned in the town where she has made many friends during her four years and a half of life there. Mr. Millet has the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community.

THE DRAMATIC CLUB.

For several weeks the members of the dramatic club have been hard at work upon their parts in the production to be given in the near future for the benefit of the athletic association. They deserve the hearty support of the student body for two reasons. In the first place, membership in the club this year has been made strictly competitive, as it has not been in previous years, so that this activity is truly representative of the dramatic interests of all the men in college. As such the club should commend itself to the support and patronage of the whole student body. In the second place, the proceeds of the play to be given here are to go to the athletic association, which feels the need of as large a fund as can be raised. The dramatic club is the only organization in college which turns its earnings into the fund for athletics and for this reason, especially it should receive the backing of the entire student body. The play this year is claimed to be one of exceptional merit, while the personnel of the club is above the average in histrionic ability and experience. The production, which will occur the first of March, is deservedly being looked forward to with much interest.

STUDENT CLUBS.

The organization into clubs of the students from different sections of the state and from the several fitting schools well represented at Colby, is a movement that deserves wider notice. These clubs are social in nature but have as their chief object the getting of new students to Colby. Several more might easily be started if a few students would take the initiative. At the other colleges in the state such organizations have been maintained for some years and have doubtless had much influence in drawing students to their respective institutions. We at Colby have not been in the past aggressively interested in such work, but it is not too late to begin. Indeed if some such steps are not taken immediately there is a real danger of a marked decrease in attendance. In this day of business rush and competition, even the educational institutions of the country feel compelled to advertise extensively. It is, therefore, the duty of every student at Colby to be always on the alert for ways and opportunities of bringing his college to the serious consideration of interested preparatory school students.

THE JOHN BARRETT PRIZES.

The ECHO has received a circular announcing the subjects and the rules for the competition for the prizes offered by the Hon. John Barrett, United States Minister to Colombia. There is a first prize of $100, a second of $75, and a third of $50, to be awarded the best papers on the subjects announced, which deal with the political, economic, and historical facts of the South American republics. The papers must be submitted not later than September 1 to a committee composed of President Butler of Columbia University, Mr. Albert Shaw, editor of the Review of Reviews, and President Finley of the New York City College. Further information regarding the competition may be had of the editor of the ECHO.

GLEE CLUB CONCERT.

The Musical Clubs added another success to their list in the concert given at Hallowell Tuesday evening, February 6. The concert was given under the auspices of the Odd Fellows.

At the station the men were met by a member of the Odd Fellows committee and conducted at once to the Hallowell House. Here rooms were assigned and then the Glee club went to the hall for a rehearsal. The Mandolin Club rehearsed later in the hotel parlor. A little walk around town, supper, a change of clothes and the time for the concert had arrived.

When the curtain rose a few minutes past eight o'clock the members of the Musical Clubs looked out upon a crowded house. The applause for the first number seemed to lack enthusiasm, but the crowd was not long in warming up.

All the other numbers were received in a manner which convinced the members of the clubs that their work was heartily appreciated.

The University of Pennsylvania contemplates granting the privilege of wearing the "P" to men who during the year succeed in making the University debating team.

The musical clubs at Maine have introduced the feature of a system of assistant leaders, who shall conduct a part of the rehearsals. By this arrangement it is hoped that leaders will be trained and developed from the lower classes, and that there will be men of experience ready to successfully fill any vacancies.
