"HALF-BACK SANDY."

The Dramatic Club Scores a Hit in Waterville.

The much-talked-of and long-looked-for production of "Half Back Sandy" was given in the City Opera House on Friday evening, April 19th, and in every way measured up to the good things that had been promised about it by the management and publicity bureau. Shortly after the seats were put on sale at Hawker's early in the week it was evident that there was to be a record-breaking crowd, so that the club was not surprised when the curtain went up, to see a full house before them. From start to finish the play ran through without a hitch and that it was being enjoyed and appreciated was made evident by the frequent and hearty bursts of applause from the audience.

"Half Back Sandy" is advertised as a true-to-life, up-and-coming college play full of spice and ginger and as it was presented last Friday night, it certainly lived up to its reputation. It is easy to see that its author is a college man—a graduate of the University of Rochester—for not only in the essentials but in some of the minor points as well, are manifested little touches of college life that could only be put there by one who has been through it all. The interest of the play centers around "Sandy" Smith and his career as a football man. The play begins at the home of "Sandy's" uncle, Josiah Krop, in the Adirondacks. In a near-by city are two rival colleges, one of which, Queenstown, is being attended by "Sandy's" cousin, Philip Krop. The other college goes by the name of Kingston. Both of these rival colleges have heard of "Sandy" Smith and want him as promising material for their respective football teams. As the play opens we find a representative of each on the ground in the persons of Philip Krop and Kenneth Sumner, each doing his best to land the desired prize. Through the aid of Sue—the darky maid-of-all-work—Kenneth finally secures "Sandy" for Kingston. Fourteen months elapse between the first and second acts. In the meantime "Sandy" has established his reputation as a football player and the act opens in one of the students' rooms on the eve of the contest between the two rivals. Queenstown fears the results of "Sandy's" playing and some of the fellows have decided that as long as they cannot get him to play for Queenstown they are going, at any rate, to keep him from playing against them. So Philip Krop and his chum, Bill Short, dress as girls—Phil as a counterfeit Sue and Bill as a dashing athletic girl—and after a number of amusing experiences succeed in carrying "Sandy" off, bound and gagged, to the ante-room of one of the recitation rooms where they consider that he will be safe from discovery. The third act takes up the experiences of the next day—the laughable class-room scene and the football game. The Kingston players cannot imagine where their half-back can be, till he is discovered by Sue in the closet where he has been left, bound and gagged. "Sandy" immediately upon being released, dons his football togs and succeeds in making a final touchdown which turns the tide in Kingston's favor. Along with this general plot the love experiences of "Sandy" with Kenneth's sister, Mabel, the comedy work of Prof. McReady, and the general air of college life that is always evident, work together to make the play one of interest from start to finish.

It would be a difficult task to run through the cast and say which one took his part in the best manner. Much care was taken in the assignment of the parts early in the season and, as has seemed to be the general opinion since the play, it appeared as if the play had been written to fit the strong points of those who were in the cast. Bonney, '07, took the leading part as "Sandy" Smith. His lines in many places were difficult, but throughout the entire play "Tess" had the better of them. This is Bonney's fourth year in the dramatic club and as its president this past season, he has worked untiringly to make the production a success. McCombe, '08, as J. Booth McReady, the retired actor and Shakespearean devotee, made a decided hit. "Ike" fitted into the part as if it had just been taken from the tailor shop and all he had to do was act natural and say his lines. Brownlow, '10, as Sue, provoked a laugh at each appearance. His impersonation of the little negro maid was all that could have been desired and proved one of the strongest parts of the play. The counterfeit Sue, Pease, '10, also took his part satisfactorily and in the last act, when both appear on the stage together, they could well pass as the Siamese twins.

Gould, '08, as Bill Short, who rigs up as a girl and assists in the kidnapping of "Sandy," caused many a laugh. This is especially true during his discussion of "love" with Sandy and again in the last act during the football game. Probably, however, the part that has called out the most favorable criticism since Friday night is that of Mabel Sumner. This was taken by Jones, '08, and to say that he did well is putting it mildly. Not for years has the dramatic club been able to present such a leading lady. In speech, manner and costume, Jones was at every minute a true lady and received merited applause. In like manner the rest of the cast might be spoken of. Every man did his part well and did his share to make the production one grand success.

The play this year has been under the supervision of Stephen H. Hanson, '95, who has put much time and labor into getting the fellows into the best possible trim. After his success with the fellows this year, it is to be hoped that his services can be secured again.

Too much praise cannot be given to the management for the way in which it has carried on the business end of the club. Not only have the bills been kept down to the minimum, but great care and thoroughness has been taken in the advertising and the means of keeping the play before the notice of the public. A. K. Stetson, '07, has worked hard in his position as manager, and much credit is due him. In like manner McCombe, '08, and Hatch, '08, should be commended for the time and energy that they have put into the preparations.

Baseball Season Opens with a Victory for Colby.

Colby defeated the University of Maine's baseball team in the opening game of the season on Alumni field last Friday afternoon. It was an exhibition game and so does not count for the championship. The Colby team showed up well, both in the field and at the bat. Although there were only four men in college, who played on the team last year, still the game played Friday showed that Colby is very much in the race for the championship. Three pitchers were tried out and all proved to be an enigma for Maine's batsmen. Each played three innings. Maine made only three hits in all; one off Good and two off Shaw. Carey played an excellent game behind the bat. Buker and Peterson at first, Cotton at shortstop, and Guptill at third, all new men at varsity baseball played a first-class game, none of them making an error. Tilton at second base accepted nine chances without an error. Against Maine's three hits, Colby made nine, two of them for two bases and one for three. Maine has had little outdoor work. Only two errors were made by them, but their fielding was not as snappy as it will be with more practice.

Colby started scoring in the first inning piling up three runs before the third man was out. Carey led off with a single and stole second. Good and Tilton struck out. Tribou scored Carey with a two bagger and when Guptill knocked another for two bases Tribou came home. Cotton singled and Guptill came home with the third earned run of the game. In the third Tribou got to first on Higgin's error, and came home on a three bagger by Tilton, who scored himself a moment later on a passed ball. Carey scored again in the seventh making the final run of the game.

NOTICE.

Owing to the fact that there has been some confusion in regard to the Dexter Club and the Dexter Art Club, the members of the latter wish to inform the public that the Dexter Art Club is a distinctly separate organization, whose membership is limited, and whose object is the cultivation of artistic tastes and tendencies.

Prof. Robert's Junior and Senior English class was favored with a most interesting lecture upon "The Faith of Robert Louis Stevenson" by Rev. Fred M. Preble last Wednesday.

It has been customary for the Dramatic Club to close its work for the season with the presentation of the play at Waterville, and until very recently that has been the plan this year. But since the appearance of "Half Back Sandy" at the Opera House last Friday evening, so many requests have been heard for the repetition of the play, that a scheme is being worked out for the substitution of "Half Back Sandy" for the usual band concert on Wednesday evening of Commencement week.

For several years it has been thought by some that the band concert has failed to meet the demands of the occasion and that some more appropriate entertainment ought to be found. The band concert draws a crowd, it is true, but very few of the students or alumni find much in it to attract them; consequently the crowd that congregates is made up largely of those who have no interest in the college and little regard for college property. It has been the settled conviction of many of Colby's friends, that the sooner the band concert is abandoned for something else, the better it will be for the college. The plan to present "Half Back Sandy" on Wednesday evening of Commencement week is meeting with the hearty approval of both students and friends of the college in the city.

The United States Marine band, in the concert Wednesday afternoon, paid a pretty compliment to a Colby boy by playing one of his compositions as an encore. It has not been generally known in the city, perhaps, that H. J. Crosby, Colby '10, has been meeting with flattering success as a composer and that he has had some half dozen works published. One of these is the Elkinstown Club march and this was played by the band. For so young a composer to have his work known and played by such an organization as the Marine band is a high musical honor.—Waterville Sentinel.

DR. BLACK'S LECTURE.

Saturday evening the members of the Dexter Club were entertained by an illustrated lecture given by Dr. J. William Black. His subject was "The Life of a Monk." After giving a few facts about the various monkish orders and especially the Benedictines and their wonderful monastery at Monte Casino, Italy, he went on to speak at length of the Trappist order. Dr. Black has visited various monasteries and at one time spent several days in a Trappist cloister in Canada. His account of the daily routine of the monk's life, enlivened by personal reminiscences of his own visit was very interesting and amusing. The lecture was thoroughly enjoyed by all who heard it, and especially by the students who have taken the course in European History.
