BASE BALL.

The Prospects for the Coming Season and the Schedule of Games to be Played.

Colby will open the baseball season this spring with the prospects the brightest that they have been since the championship team of 1906 was turned out. There is an abundance of first class material in college at the present time and the squad that is working in the cage is one of the largest in the history of the institution. Any man who is fortunate enough to make a position on the team this year will not only have to work to make his position but he will have to work harder to keep it. There are several men out for each of the places and a lively contest is promised before the final picking of the team.

The squad reports at the gym daily to get what practice may be had indoors. Some are doing batting work in the cage down stairs while others are getting their arms into shape by passing the ball in the gymnasium. Captain Shaw has charge of the work and after the first weeding out, which took place a few days ago, he has 30 men on the squad.

Cary will probably represent the college behind the bat, where he may be assisted by Sturtevant, a freshman from Maine Central Institute, and possibly by Vail who played right field on last year's team. Good will do most of the work in the box, while Captain Shaw and Tibbitts may help here if needed.

Buker who played first base on last year's team is out again for the position. Nutting, '12, from Westbrook Seminary, is looking for the same place and if able to hit he may hold first sack. Alton Blake is again out for second base as are Michaud from Caribou and Herrick from Higgins, both freshmen. Tibbitts is showing up strong this year and may be able to hold his position at third. There are several other candidates, including Jordan, '12, and Carpenter, '12, but at the present time Tibbitts is the favorite man, since he is a good thrower and a fair batter. Haley Hammond and Macomber, a freshman from Higgins, are out for short stop.

Outfield candidates are more numerous than ever this year. Captain Shaw will undoubtedly play in the center garden, and Vail will probably be found in right field where he played last year. Hammond, if not used at short, may make good for left field for which Smith of M. C. I., Dow a member of the junior class, and several freshmen are to be considered.

If the snow continues to disappear as it has lately and we get no more big storms the campus should be dried up early in April so that the men can go onto the diamond immediately after returning from their spring vacation.

Manager McLellan has announced his schedule as follows:

DELTA KAPPA EPSILON.

Entertains Guests at Annual Reception and Ball at Chapter House.

Xi chapter of Delta Kappa Epsilon held its annual reception and hop at the chapter house, 21 College Avenue, on Friday evening, March 5. The house presented a very attractive appearance. The decorations were exceptionally artistic and Colby and D. K. E. colors intertwined everywhere. On the front of the house was the fraternity emblem in colors and within all was joy and pleasure.

The reception committee consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Dana P. Foster, Rev. and Mrs. Cyrus F. Stimson, Mrs. Frank S. Gould and Monroe E. Young, '09. During the reception and throughout the evening, music was furnished by the Wentworth Orchestra of Waterville. At the conclusion of the formal reception, an informal dance was held which was thoroughly enjoyed by all. The dance orders were novel and attractive.

During the evening dainty refreshments were served to the guests from a table presided over by Mrs. John Hedman, who was assisted by Miss Caroline D. Noyes, Miss Ruth N. Gould, Miss Christine M. Daggett and Miss Louise Drummond.

Representatives were present from other chapters of the fraternity and from the four other Colby fraternities, as follows. Zeta Psi, Joseph W. Hammond, '09; Delta Upsilon, T. L. Mahaney, '10; Phi Delta Theta, Reginald Farrar, '10; Alpha Tau Omega, Charles L. Haskell, '10; Theta Chapter of D. K. E., Hiram Harris, and Thomas W. Williams, '10, of Bowdoin.

Those present from the faculty were: President and Mrs. Arthur J. Roberts, Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Hall, Prof. and Mrs. John Hedman, Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Black, Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Lawton, Prof. and Mrs. F. L. Thompson, Dr. and Mrs. G. F. Parmenter, Prof. Webster Chester and Dr. M. S. Crosswell. Among others present were, Principal and Mrs. G. S. Stevenson, Prof. Alton I. Lockhart and Miss Davidson of Cöburn, Rev. J. H. Roberts and Miss Roberts, Fairfield, Mr. and Mrs. Philbrick, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Daggett, Capt. H. L. Pepper and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Drummond.

The committee on arrangements consisted of Leo S. Trask, '09, Nathan H. Garriick, '10; Wilbur V. Cole, '11, Donald G. Roby, '12. Ushers were Clarke Blance, Wilford G. Chapman, Jr., J. Willard Kimball, and Harold E. Donnell.

MAINE COLLEGE CONFERENCE.

The first mid-winter conference of the Young Men's Christian Associations of the four colleges of Maine comes "in response to a general feeling of the need of closer union in Christian activity at these institutions and a greater sense of mutual helpfulness." At a recent meeting of the presidents of the associations an invitation to hold the conference at Bowdoin was received and accepted and consequently the conference will be held at Brunswick, March, 12, 13, and 14, or next Friday to Sunday, inclusive.

The primary purpose of the conference will be the consideration of Christian activities among Maine collegemen. The program will consist of technical talks and discussions and a number of addresses. The conference will open with a reception Friday evening at 8 o'clock. The regular sessions of the conference will be held in Hubbard Hall, but on Saturday evening a meeting of a popular nature will be held in Memorial Hall and the Bowdoin musical clubs will give several selections.

At the suggestion of the previous meeting of Y. M. C. A. presidents each association will be represented by two faculty members and ten students. The following from Colby will attend as delegates: Professors Simpson and Lawton, Read, Goode, Vail, Perry, Stacey, Clark, Maxwell, Goodwin, and Sinclair. It is expected that most of the delegates will be entertained by the fraternities at Bowdoin.

Asher C. Hind of the class of 1883 will be a candidate for Congress to succeed Amos L. Allen in the first district and Mr. Hinds's Portland friends are already hard at work in his interests. The Portland Press recently published a paper by a classmate of Mr. Hinds's and the following is an extract from the interesting reminiscences found therein:

"The first time I ever saw Asher C. Hinds was in the fall of 1879. It is not easily explained, but now and then certain experiences imprint themselves on one's memory forever. Such was my first meeting with Asher Hinds. He was a little boy sitting on the granite steps of the north division of North College at Colby. I can see that bright smiling attractive face today. I thought him the young brother of some college student, but the next day found him numbered among the members of my own class. The first year we roomed on the same floor and soon became fast friends. His father and mother had died long years before. The little property left would under strict economy give him and his younger sister an education to fit them for the duties of life.

"Like many of us boys Asher received from the college scholarship aid amounting to tuition and room rent. That such help was truly appreciated is shown by the fact that after leaving college, when the opportunity came, he paid back the whole amount with interest. Nor has he ceased to be grateful or helpful to his alma mater, of whose trustees he is a valued member.

"During our sophomore year we roomed together. We had an old woolen carpet, a luxury in those days, some well worn furniture, a couple of desks and a few pictures. The whole outfit was not worth over $25, but when the sun shone through our windows draped with turkey red cotton, we had the cosiest room imaginable. We were proud of our room and as happy as boys could be.

"Asher was a great favorite with the boys. No social circle was ever complete without him. He always had a quaint or witty story to tell. Studious, open-hearted, generous and congenial, he won the respect and esteem of the professors and students alike.

"Asher Hinds's tastes led him into literary pursuits and he selected journalism as his profession. He first became associated with the Portland Daily Advertiser and later with the Portland Daily Press. When Mr. Reed became speaker of the House, Hinds became one of his clerks. For about 20 years Mr. Hinds has made Portland his home, being absent when Congress is in session.

"Though Asher Hinds has continued as parliamentary clerk under the speakers who have succeeded Mr. Reed, though he has published the Rules of the House and nine volumes of a thousand pages each on its precedents, though he may acquire new honors from his intimate knowledge of its rules, he will still be one of the boys. He makes us proud. He makes us glad."

THE 1909 ORACLE.

If any one wishes or is willing to pass in any drawings for THE ORACLE, he must do so before the 20th of March. If there is any work in the literary line to be handed in, it must be in the hands of the editor by the 31st of March.

The student body have received admonitions concerning Oracle work, through THE ECHO, through the daily papers, and through the associate editors, although the editor has avoided harping. In any case everybody knows what The Oracle needs; and everybody knows that everybody is expected to contribute.

At the present writing, however, aside from the work mapped out for the associate editors, hardly anything has been received; not a single contribution, voluntary or otherwise, has been received or promised from the Women's Division. Have the sororities, have the fraternities, for that matter, no interest in the 1909 Oracle? If so what is the reason? Is individual effort, individual genius, less valued than formerly? Is fraternity honor of less consequence? Or is it that the student body does not realize that it is impossible to produce even a passably creditable Oracle without the co-operation of all?

The editor does not ask for sympathy, he doesn't want it, he wouldn't know what to do with it if he had it; but he does want a little college devotion manifested. We find when we go home and try to fish some one for Colby that the Oracle is the very best introduction we can possibly give him to the institution. It is the College in a nutshell,—“men, women, and things.” Is it not true that we judge a college very largely by its Annual? Will we not, then, make every effort to have the coming Oracle the very best possible advertisement for Colby? What does the management,—the manager and the board of editors,—get for its days and nights, and hours and hours of wearying, discouraging, distracting toil? It gets its labor for its pains and a slam in the ECHO, and the satisfaction of having done something for the college. Well, isn't that reward enough? Don't you all want a share in it? “Come! Come! Let's get busy! Hit 'er up” and flood the sanctum with every conceivable kind of literary effort,—poems, stories, plays, character sketches, slams, articles on things of college moment and interest, sonnets, odes, satires, jokes, sayings of Profs., college incidents, escapades, puzzles, problems,—anything, anything that has a subject and predicate, and can be by any freak of the imagination called literature. It may be anonymous or signed by yours or somebody's else name as long as it is original and is given to an associate editor or to the editor himself. It will all be duly sifted and tried in the fire. There is only one admonition: if you can't write poetry, don't try it! Write prose. There will not be another notice. Watch the dates at the head of this article, and please work hard and hustle!

Yours for Colby College,
EDWIN W. MERRILL,
Editor of the Oracle.
