FOUNDATION OF GOOD CLOTHES

A Coat depends upon its Canvas as a house does upon its foundation. Our canvases are made entirely by hand, the material is thoroughly cold-water shrunk and the hair cloth of best quality. Our method tends to keep a coat in shape longer—from puckering or breaking should the wearer get it wet—and adds materially to the life of a coat.

BASEBALL

Maine, 3; Colby, 0.

Maine defeated Colby on Alumni Field, last Wednesday in a good game, of which the score was 3 to 0. Ralph Good held the visitors down without a hit until the fourth, when J. Scales doubled and scored on McHale's single. In the ninth, with one out and the score 1 to 0 in Maine's favor, Bearce reached first on Frohock's error and made third base on Johnson's single. Phillips was struck out by Good, with only one more man to get. McCarthy was given first on a close decision, Bearce and Johnson scoring. Smith flied to Vail.

Colby had a man on third four times during the game, but still was unable to score. A feature of the game was a swift double play from a caught foul fly, executed by Cary and Reed.

Maine, 3; Colby, 0

Colby was defeated by University of Maine at Orono, Saturday, 3 to 0, and thus Maine now has the championship of the Maine college series.

Pond's home run with two on bases in the first inning was what turned the trick. After that, neither side scored. Reed was the only man who hit McHale safely. The center of the Maine diamond is higher than is ordinarily the case, and this proved a puzzle to the Colby men. Ralph Good held Maine down to five hits.

Colby Junior League

The Colby Junior League games, participated in by Hebron, Coburn, Ricker, and Higgins, were scheduled for Friday of last week, but unfortunately the final game was not played. In the morning, Ricker beat Coburn, 5 to 2, and Hebron defeated Higgins, 21 to 0, in six innings. The deciding game was advertised for the afternoon, and Hebron was ready to play, but Ricker objected, claiming that her men were unable to play eighteen innings in one day, and insisting on her protest, made to the Colby management Thursday night, that the deciding game should not fall on the same day as the preliminary games. Hebron, on her part, refused to play on Saturday, as six of her men were entered in the Bowdoin interscholastic track meet.

The following were the results of the two preliminary games: Ricker, 5; Coburn, 2.

Ricker had the best of the contest throughout, chiefly because two of Coburn's players had left sick beds to participate in the game. Welch of Coburn was replaced in the box by Gilman in the eighth. Carpenter of Ricker led both teams in hitting, with a two-bagger and a three-bagger. Coburn made but three hits off Peaslee. Score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9

Hebron. 21; Higgins, 0, 1

The game between Hebron and Higgins was a terrific slaughter, and was stopped in the sixth, though the Higgins boys were willing to play it out. The final score was 21 to 0, Hebron piling up ten runs in the fifth inning. Score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6
Hebron	0	5	3	3	10	x	—21
Higgins	0	0	0	0	0	0	—0

Runs made by—Winston 3, Besse, Stobie 2, D. Baker, Gilpatrick 4, Carll 2, Twaddle 3, Brown 3, Patten 2. Hits—Hebron, 19; Higgins, 0. Errors—Hebron, 0; Higgins, 5. Bases on balls—Off Patten, 3; off Snow 3. Struck out—By Patten, 6; by Snow, 2. Umpire—Allen of Fairfield. Time—1.45.

TENNIS

On Thursday of this week the Colby Tennis players will play off a tournament with the Mass. Agricultural College team. This Team is making a trip through the state, playing Bowdoin on Tuesday, Bates on Wednesday, and Maine on Friday. The team consists of four men, Rockwood, Captain; Thomas, Manager; Johnson, and Lin.

The Colby players will be selected on Wednesday and the matches posted on the bulletin board. Both courts will be reserved all day on Thursday.

DEBATE

On Thursday evening the last meeting of the debating society for this season was held in the chapel. The debate was in charge of Mr. Libby's class in Argumentation and counted for the mid-semester examination.

The question was: Resolved, that the State of Maine should adopt a system of Direct Primaries. The affirmative side was supported by Ramsden, '10, Vail, '11, and Carter, '11. The speakers on the negative side were Higginbotham, '11, and Tidd, '10.

The judges were Charles Atchley, and Mark Bartlett. The contest was very close, but the decision was awarded to the negative side. On account of the bad weather there were only a few present at the meeting.

BENEFIT CONCERT

The Musical Clubs gave a benefit concert in the Opera House, Friday, May 27. Only a small audience greeted the musicians, but all those who did attend were well repaid by the interesting and high grade concert which the boys gave.

The stage was fitted up to represent a college room, with all the necessary fixings such as banners, couches, tables, chairs, etc. The boys were dressed in dark coats with light outing trousers. They entered into the spirit of the concert with great zest, and acted out the part of college men to perfection. The jokes and fun helped out a great deal, and there wasn't a dull moment from the time the curtain went up until the close.

It was too bad that so few were present to enjoy the occasion, for it certainly was deserving of a large and appreciative audience. The visitors from the preparatory schools attending the Junior League Baseball Meet were provided with tickets, and many of them took advantage of this as was shown by their presence.

The proceeds from the concert will go toward the Northfield Fund for this coming conference. Any who were not present can help out if they wish by handing their contributions to any of the Y. M. C. A. officers.

Y. M. C. A.

The Tuesday evening meeting this week was led by Robert Baker, '12. Next Tuesday will be the last meeting of the association until next year. Let every man be present.

The cabinet will meet next Tuesday evening at 7.00 o'clock, before the regular meeting.

At the meeting on Tuesday evening it was voted that the Y. M. C. A. extend a vote of thanks to the Glee Club for the work which they did in preparing and giving the concert on Friday evening. We take this method of thanking all the members of the club for their kindness.

Let every man who can possibly do so plan to attend the conference at Northfield this year. A fine program has been arranged and you cannot afford to miss it. It is worth any amount of sacrifice. Be sure to go.

The Commencement season is close at hand, and with its many delightful anticipations comes also that stress and strain incident to the winding up of a year's college work. The next two weeks bid fair to be strenuous ones, and may none fall by the wayside!

Schedule building is hard enough at the best, as the managers of the Colby teams can testify. Is it true that the schedule of the Colby Junior League was purposely disarranged by the track management of another Maine college? Let us have publicity. "Fair play and may the best man win" is a good motto—if lived up to.

It is all "fixed," now! "Cy" Coombs and his championship base ball team of 1906 will appear on the Colby diamond on the afternoon of Monday, June 20. No postponement and no rain checks! Mr. Coombs can be in Waterville on that day only, and must make a long journey by rail in order to make connections, but he is willing to show his loyalty to Colby in this manner. Every member of the 1906 team expects to be present, except possibly Craig, who is in Texas. It will be a great day for Colby. In Portland, where Coombs has many admirers, they are beginning to speak of it as "Coombs Day at Colby." Do not forget, dear Alumni. It is to be June 20. Come early and avoid the rush.

An ancient controversy was settled the past week, when the flag-pole on the campus was taken down to be painted—a controversy as to the exact height of the pole. For years beginners in surveying have tried their 'prentice hand at measuring with instruments the distance from the ground to its top, and as usual among beginners, they came to various results. So the height of the pole has remained in doubt, and a subject for acrimonious debate. Last week, as it lay on the ground, its total length was found to be 75 feet. Measuring from the point where it entered the ground to the top, the height was found to be very slightly under 60 feet. While this is a small matter in itself, it is here recorded in order that some measure of satisfaction may be obtained by those who attacked the problem in former days, and whose results, obtained by transit and logarithms, closely approached the distance found by actual measurement.

MEMORIAL DAY EXERCISES

The faculty, students, and many alumni of Colby joined with the W. S. Heath Post of the Grand Army of the Republic, Monday A. M., in Memorial day services at Memorial Hall. The parade which formed on Common Street between eight and nine o'clock, consisted of the Waterville Military Band, the members of the Grand Army of the Republic in carriages, escorted by Co. H. 2d Inf., Camp No. 11, United Spanish War Veterans, and following these, the members of the college faculty, many of the alumni, and a large body of students.

The procession marched up Main street and College avenue, to the college where they assembled in Memorial Hall for the memorial services.

The program was as follows:

Selection by the band "America," Prayer by the chaplain of the Post. Reading of general orders by Adjutant N. S. Emery. Reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address by Thomas L. Mahaney, Colby, '10. Address by H. W. Kidder, Colby, '11. Decorating of Memorial Tablet. Reading of Roll of Honor. Selection by the band "The Star Spangled Banner."

Mr. Kidder said:

"Commander Lowe, Members of the Grand Army of the Republic, Gentlemen:

"With backward turning thoughts and hearts subdued with reverent and tender memories, we have assembled here to-day in loving tribute to the nation's dead. You of the Grand Army remember them as friends and comrades who will meet with you on earth no more. We of the younger generations honor them as heroes whom most of us never knew, but who command veneration through that full measure of devotion which they so freely gave in the service of their country."

"It is most fitting that you soldiers of the Grand Army should meet here with the college in this hall to-day. For the spirit of grateful remembrance, of respect and honor for our country's dead for which this day is set apart, and which fills your hearts so full cannot find its way too deeply into all American institutions, cannot, assuredly, be brought too close to the spirit and the life of our schools and colleges.

"We are grateful to our President whose thoughtful wisdom and patriotic spirit have brought about this meeting, and we are grateful to you for your efforts to bring the College into closer touch with the spirit of Memorial Day. We sincerely hope that this meeting of Post with college is a precedent which will pass into a college custom and that each year the spirit and services of Memorial Day will be fittingly observed by Colby.

"And this place, this hall, is eminently appropriate for the services we would observe to-day. It is Memorial Hall—the first Memorial Hall to be completed in the country. It is dedicated to the memory of Colby's sons, who in the black days of war left home and family, left the college, the happy days, the friends, left ambitions and dreams, and went away to fight for the country they loved, to die for the cause that was dearer even than life.

"They are now but a memory, but Oh! what a memory! What an honor to their college! What a priceless tradition they have bequeathed to their Alma Mater! Twenty sons of Colby dying bravely for "the union of a people and for the freedom of a race" have shed the lustre of immortal glory on the pages of her history.

"On yonder marble tablet you may read their names in letters of gold. The inscription above tells you that "To their brothers, dear even in their ashes, whose names are carved below, and who in the Civil War died for the union of the Republic, the alumni have erected this tablet." That inscription should be learned by heart by every Colby man. While that memorial lasts and the memory of those whose names are carved upon it, no son of Colby will ever lack inspiration or example for a noble life.

"This building, too, the alumni built and dedicated to the memory of their fallen brothers. At the laying of the corner stone in 1867, Gen. Plaisted said "We do well, indeed, to consecrate the beautiful edifice being erected on these classic grounds as a memorial to our fallen brothers. Were it to be of the whitest marble or of solid granite even, and rising till it over-topped the hills, it would not then transcend their worth." Those words are just as true of all the thousands who died for the great cause.

"Time does not allow us to discuss the part taken by the college in the Civil War. The details are matters of college and local traditions. It is enough to know that no college in the country had a more honorable record. None in proportion to her size cheered for more departing soldiers or wept for more returning dead.

"And so; Members of the Grand Army of the Republic, the college unites with you for your services for the dead. Not that anything from us can shed lustre on their names. Their glory is safe forevermore. We humbly realize that all the words we can say, all the garlands we might wreath, all the temples we could build would be but a slight expression of what we owe to you, honored veterans, and to those on whose graves you lay flowers to-day.

"But we are here rather that by drawing nearer in thought to those who lived and died so well, we may learn of them and feel anew their claims upon us.

"We do not come to mourn their loss but that reverently listening through celestial gates for echoes from those honored dead, we may subdue for a little while in our ears the clamors of a garish world and better atune our lives to the music of their immortal greatness."

Adjutant Nat. S. Emery read the roll of honor, containing the names of Colby men who died in the war. These were:

George Knox, Class of 1840.

John B. Wilson, Class of 1854.

W. S. Heath, Class of 1855.

Stephen Boothby, Class of 1857.

Sabine Emery, Class of 1858.

Leonard Butler, Class of 1865.

Weston H. Keen, Class of 1865.

William Nixon, Class of 1865.

Francis O. Perkins, Class of 1865.

A wreath was placed on the tablet to the memory of these men.
