FOOTBALL RULES.

Now that the season is over in football, the experts are beginning to give their opinions as to their success. On some points there is a general agreement among the coaches and on others a wide diversity of judgment.

Most opinions concur that the new rules have accomplished in a measure their primary object. The game is safer. Dr. Carl Williams, representative of the University of Pennsylvania of the rules committee and chairman of the advisory board of coaches is among the first to voice his idea as to the success of the rules in regard to injuries. He says, "There is no question that under the new rules there has been a decrease in the number of injuries."

As to whether the game is more or less interesting, there is considerable discussion. The weight of opinion seems to be, however, that the game is full more interesting for the spectators, if not for the players, than the old style of play.

There are many suggestions being made at present about alterations in details of the new game. As usual suggestions are being made about the forward pass and onside kick. On neither of these plays is any sweeping change suggested. The reform of not letting the man with the ball have interference is both approved and criticised. On the whole, however, the coaches of the big colleges and those who might be considered as experts in the game, suggest very few alterations in the rules of this year.

CROSS-COUNTRY.

Coburn Won From Freshmen.

On Monday afternoon, Coburn won a three mile cross-country race from the freshmen of Colby College. The race started at the waiting room in front of the college. From there the runners went half way up to Fairfield and back. The score was 29 to 26.

The freshmen were represented by Reynolds, Green, Pineo, Farrar, and Wyman. Coburn's runners were Willey, Pierce, Carrington, Bryant, and Tozier. The men finished in the following order, Reynolds, Willey, Pierce, Green, Pineo, Tozier, Bryant, Carrington, Gillingham and Farrar.

GLEE CLUB.

The first concert of the musical clubs will be held next Thursday evening at Vassalboro. The list of those who have made the club are:

First tenors, E. H. Hussey, R. M. Hussey, Jones, Welch, Silver, Tyler.

Second tenors, Rideout, E. H. Cole, Knight, Bisbee, Joy, Lord, Nardini.

First bass, Hardy, Hogan, Perry, Pratt, Morgan.

Second bass, Fletcher, Keyes, Keppel, Fuller, Morse, Cleveland.

JOHN M. STEWART.

John M. Stewart, a member of the class of 1913, died at Kezar Falls, Me., Tuesday, Nov. 29. Mr. Stewart had planned to return to Colby this year but just before the opening of college, he was seized with a severe attack of rheumatic fever. Until a few weeks ago, he seemed to be recovering slowly, but pneumonia set in and caused his death.

The funeral was held last Friday afternoon at the home of his parents in Kezar Falls. Roger Hodson, '12, and Clyde Benson, '13, attended the funeral as representatives of the college and the class of 1913.

RESOLUTIONS.

Whereas; It has pleased God, in his infinite wisdom, to take from us our beloved classmate, John McKechnie Stewart; be it

Resolved; That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the family of the deceased, and be it further

Resolved; That in his death our class loses a faithful and earnest member, and the college a loyal and true member; and be it further

Resolved; That as a token of high esteem, a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family of our former classmate and that they be published in THE COLBY ECHO.

GEORGE L. BEACH,
CLIFFORD J. SHARP,
ROBERT E. WALSH,

Committee for the class of 1913.

INTERCLASS RELAY RACE.

The trials for the Interclass Relay Race will be held Wednesday, December 14, at 3 p. m. sharp. The finals will be run Saturday, December 17.

The sophomores and freshmen will run in one contest; the seniors and juniors in another. The winners of these races will compete for first place.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the Athletic Association for the election of officers was held in the chapel Saturday morning, December 3. The slate of officers presented by the executive committee was turned down; and the election of the following officers was recommended to the executive committee by a unanimous vote.

President, Maurice E. Lord; vice president, Samuel C. Cates; secretary, Philip W. Hussey; executive committee, Bridges, Cole, Rogers, Packard, 1911; R. H. Hussey, Herrick, Jackman, 1912; Welch, Mikelsky, Bisbee, 1913; Dubor, Moores, 1914.

An amendment to the constitution was proposed and placed on record so as to be acted upon at the next annual meeting. The purpose of the proposed amendment is to change the required length of time for posting a new slate of officers from ten days before the annual meeting to three days before the annual meeting.

WHEN THINGS WERE DIFFERENT.

Rowing and Polo Once Popular at Colby.

We of today are apt to believe that baseball and football have always held the major positions that they now hold in college athletics. But one will find it interesting and instructive to listen to a "grad" of the 80's and after tell of the athletic activities of his time. What did they do?

Why, the University Boating Club rowed its annual race against its rival, the Colby Boating Club, on the Messalonskee, and all the students and friends in the city would line the banks and see the finish at the bridge. Each of the fraternities had its scull and crew and not a little excitement and fraternity spirit developed in the occasional contests which were held.

The high wheel bicycles were new, and so of course the college must support its crew and the classes their champion. On any one of the country roads near the city one might meet members of the Colby

ROGERS, CAPTAIN 1910

Bicycle Club speeding over the good portions of the road in training for the speed and distance races that would be held during the latter part of June.

Polo had its various representations in college. All the classes in both divisions supported their teams. The old field day programs offer something unique in the line of sports, as hare and hounds, out of which our cross country has developed. The mile walk had its advantages for the long legged man. Other prize events such as the three legged race, the sack race, hitch and kick, bar shoot, obstacle race, and back to back races were engaged in.

The dashes and distant runs as now had important places in the list.

The evolution of athletics in the past quarter century has been so marked that we cannot predict what sort of sports will be represented in Colby in the future.

At Princeton the average yearly expenditure per student is $919. The minimum for each year is $200; the maximum is $2,500.

Skating!

That Colby alumnus who gives a generous sum for prizes in public speaking, and then sends an additional amount for the expenses of the contest, shows a thoughtfulness that is frequently lacking in those who donate money to educational and other institutions. Usually their princely gifts serve but to overburden an already staggering maintenance account. The clear-sightedness of Mr. Hallowell should be remembered by Colby alumni when the long pull and the strong pull is made for that new Colby men's dormitory which must soon be erected to accommodate the present and future growth of the college. ]

An example of the esprit de corps which has come to be characterized as "the new Colby spirit," was given by the annual meeting of the Colby Athletic Association Saturday. And we may add further that it was a vindication of fraternities as factors in college life. Each man on the rejected "slate" was a representative man individually, and would have served the college well as a member of the executive council; but when it was discovered that other circles of the life of the college were left practically without representation, each was willing to sacrifice his own ambitions for the good of the college. When such a thing as this is not only possible, but is actually carried out and becomes a matter of record, who can doubt the future of Colby, or the sturdiness and fair-mindedness of that citizenship the college is contributing to the nation?

HOW FRATERNITIES GROW.

Societies Have More Than 1700 Chapters.

In a quarter of a century the number of members enrolled in the national college fraternities has risen from 72,000 to almost 270,000, of whom 30,000 are women. The undergraduate membership in a normal year now ranges between 30,000 and 35,000, and of the more than 1700 chapters of these societies, 1100 own or rent houses, which at a conservative estimate are valued at more than $8,000,000.

THE ORACLE.

A special meeting of the Oracle Board of Editors was held on Friday afternoon at Chemical Hall. Plans for the 1911 Oracle were discussed, and a few innovations will be made. Any literary work or slams will be gratefully received by the editors. Any one desirous of making drawings should confer with Mahlon T. Hill, Assistant Editor.

The Oracle is essentially a student publication and for its success depends upon the hearty co-operation of all the students. Your work may not be accepted at first, but if you keep on trying, it will meet with recognition. Let each one do his best to make the 1911 Oracle the best yet.

COLLEGE DRAMATICS.

Importance of This Line of Activity in Larger Colleges and Universities.

With a record last year of thirteen performances, the Colby Dramatic Club must come pretty near bearing off the palm, when the showing of other colleges in this line of activity is taken into account. For the purpose of determining what position the dramatic association of the larger universities and colleges of the country hold at the present time, two hundred letters were sent to the heads of these associations asking the following questions:

1. When was the organization in your college founded?
2. What is the size of the dramatic association?
3. Do you act in a private or public theatre?
4. What type of plays do you produce?
5. Is the authorship of the plays amateur or professional?
6. Do you make trips, and if so, how extensively?
7. Is your coaching system professional or amateur?
8. What plays have you produced?
9. What are your future plans?

To these letters about eighty-five replies were received from which the following facts were gathered.

College dramatics have greatly increased in popularity during the last ten years; for we find that in the year 1909 fourteen associations of this kind were founded; in 1908, nine; in 1907, six; between then and 1900, inclusive, twenty-two. On the other hand, before 1900, only eighteen of these dramatic associations were in existence. The oldest among those taken into consideration is that of St. Louis University, founded in 1833, while Vassar is second, its dramatic association having been founded in 1865. It seems strange that Yale and Harvard should have been comparatively backward in the organization of such an activity; for not until 1900 was a dramatic association formed at Yale; and at Harvard it was founded but two years ago by a group of students interested in the development of the American drama and dramatists.

BAGNELL, CAPTAIN 1911

Twelve of the dramatic associations taken into consideration are unorganized, while the others vary in the number of members, the largest being those of Northwestern University and Columbia, having ninety-five and eighty-five members, respectively. The average membership is thirty-five.

The purposes of these associations differ greatly. By far the largest number were founded purely for dramatic reasons, while only seven aimed at social advantages; and fifteen were founded with an idea of combining the two.

Private theatres are maintained by about fifty per cent of the associations considered; and about forty per cent give their productions in public buildings, while the other ten per cent performed in the open air.

A fund has been started at Yale for the establishment of a theatre for the dramatic association, and $11,000 has already been raised, it being the purpose of the building committee to add about $3,000 to the fund each year, and when $50,000 has been raised, to commence building.

The majority of the casts sent out by college dramatic associations make very short trips, or none at all. Only eight make extensive tours, Yale, Columbia, Cornell, and John Hopkins being among them. At Yale one trip is made annually, during the Christmas vacation, which usually extends over two weeks.

The system of engaging professionals to coach the men seems to be favored, for fifty-four associations use professional coaches, while fifteen employ amateurs. Thirteen have both professional and amateur coaches.

In regard to the question of future plans, a variety of replies were received. Six associations planned to stage annual productions, five to make a trip, four to raise the standard of the plays produced, while two intend to produce unusual types of plays, such as untranslated dramas. Two associations will institute a series of short trips, while six will produce a new play each year. Three plan to produce two plays annually, and one will stage three plays. Modern drama will be presented by one club. The development of elocution is contemplated by another. Five associations which hitherto have not taken trips intend to do so in the future. To encourage authorship, to build a Greek theatre and to produce Shakespearian plays on the campus are the respective plans of three associations.

The drama is the most popular type of play among the college associations, for thirty-six of them have made a specialty of the drama, while ten produced nothing but comedies, and eight staged musical comedies only. Sixteen associations have divided their efforts between comedy and drama, while seven produced comedies, dramas, and language plays.

Shakespeare is by far the most popular dramatist, his plays having been produced one hundred and sixteen times. Of these productions, "As You Like It" was presented twenty-two times, while "The Merchant of Venice" was given fifteen times. Both "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and the "Twelfth Night" were produced twelve times.

Sheridan's most popular piece is "The Rivals," which was played twelve times, and Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer" was also a favorite, having been produced eleven times. There have been about six performances of "The Good Natured Man," "The Professor's Love Story," and "You Never Can Tell." The less popular plays selected and played two or three times are "At Yale," "Richelieu," "A Pair of Spectacles," "Charlie's Aunt," and "Halfback Sandy."

Pinero is another very popular dramatist, thirteen of his plays having been produced. Of his works, "The Weaker Sex" and "The Amazons" were apparently the favorites with four productions each.

In all, two hundred and thirty different plays were set on the stage by the college Dramatic Associations considered.

ALUMNI NOTES.

Cards announcing the wedding of John W. Coombs and Miss Mary Elizabeth Russ, which took place at the bride's home in Palestine, Texas, November 29, have been received in this city. The bride is the daughter of George L. Russ of that place. Mr. and Mrs. Coombs will be at home in West Kennebunk, Me., after January 1.

Fellowship appointments for 107 students at the University of Chicago include but sixteen women.

DRAMATIC CLUB.

The officers of the Dramatic Club have selected "The Private Secretary," as the play to be given this year. The books are expected the latter part of the week. They will be distributed to the different fraternity houses, where all will have a chance to look at them. Trials will be held next week. All those who compete will be required to know the part in the first act, for which they wish to try. A regular and understudy will be selected for each part. The management has plans under consideration for ten performances, but they are not ready to announce the date yet.
