THE SOCIAL IDEAL IN MODERN CIVILIZATION.

Before an audience even larger than that of the week previous, Dr. Edward Howard Griggs delivered his second lecture, in the Baptist church, last Wednesday, March 5. Dr. Griggs chose for the subject of his second lecture, "The Social Ideal in Modern Civilization." In treating his subject, he spoke, at the beginning, of the incorrect idea of modern civilization which is gained by a comparison of it with the tendencies of the past. We should rather, he said, consider the ideals existing in the present period, and realize the effect which these "dynamic ideals" must produce on the future of civilization. It is these ideals which determine the social evolution; and which, on that account, forecast for us the next step in civilized conditions.

Just as a small amount of leaven will impregnate a large mass of dough, so will a small amount of advancing ideals diffuse itself through the whole social order and raise it to a higher level. In society, the leaven is the men and women who are awake, and on the advancing margin of life, and the higher level at which the leaven aims is the plane of happiness and prosperity on which mankind may realize a true life which is worth the living. In modern civilization, the greatest social ideal is that of aiding men and women throughout the land, not as dependants, but through the free, co-operative activity of each. This ideal, though old, has spread so widely in the last two decades, that it may justly be called a new ideal.

Characterizing the different countries of Europe and Asia in terms as different as are their languages, Dr. Griggs pointed out how in each the leaven of society is present, and how each may do its part in bringing about a social betterment. Then, turning to the United States, he remarked about the way in which the social idea is taken here; and how that, instead of taking too precipitous action, as we are wont to do just to show that we can accomplish things, we should rather temper our enthusiasm with wisdom. Taking heed lest, "old standards obscure new issues," we should refrain from depending too much upon the precedents of history; for, as the same conditions never appear twice, so "history never repeats itself."

At the present time, declared Dr. Griggs, the political affairs are not of chief importance; with us that day has passed. What concerns us most is the social and industrial conditions, which are continually presenting to us problems of ever increasing complexity. To attend to these problems wisely, we must recognize the individual demand, as well as that of the class; and realize, all the while, that the great problem which underlies all of these conditions is that of social relationship.

ATHLETIC COUNCIL.

The regular weekly meeting of the Athletic Council was held last Monday evening in the association rooms. The Student Council was represented at the meeting. Their suggestion that a "C" Club be formed in college, was accepted by the athletic committee. Accordingly, it was voted to ask all "C" men in college to be present at the next regular meeting of the athletic council, Monday, March 17.

The contract with Holy Cross for two dual track meets was approved. The first meet will be held in Waterville, May 10. The matter of sending a relay team to the Pennsylvania Carnival, at Philadelphia, April 27, was favorably discussed. It was voted to lay this matter on the table for one week.

THE DRUIDS.

The annual initiation of the Druids, the Junior society for men, was held on Monday evening. Following the initiation a banquet was enjoyed at the Chop House. Lawrence Bowler, '13, acted as toastmaster and a number of short speeches were listened to with pleasure. The initiates were: George O. Dudley, Wilmer A. Mooers, Delta Kappa Epsilon; Frank S. Carpenter, Robert E. Owen, Zeta Psi; Robert H. Bowen, Harry P. Fuller, Delta Upsilon; Earle H. Davis, Vinal H. Tibbetts, Phi Delta Theta; Harvey Knight, Milroy Warren, Alpha Tau Omega.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

The members of the faculty of Colby College wish to record in this minute their profound sorrow at the death of their former colleague, the Rev. George Dana Boardman Pepper, D.D., LL.D., which occurred on January 30, 1913, and express their sincere appreciation of his life, character and services.

Dr. Pepper served this college as its president for seven years, from 1882 to 1889, and again from 1893 to 1899 as professor of Biblical Literature, giving the institution during all those years the very best of his energy, of his rich experience as an educator, and of his ripe and progressive scholarship; and though he is known personally to but a few members of the present body of the students of the college, his work remains and his influence is still felt; and his name, his attractive personality, his sunny disposition, his unselfish consideration for others, his intellectual mastery, his power of analysis, the keenness and kindliness of his wit, his qualities of leadership in thought and action—remain as precious memories, and have served as a stimulus to better living, deeper thinking, and greater activity on the part of those who have come in contact with this distinguished man and sincere friend.

As a man of Christian fortitude and deep religious conviction, Dr. Pepper stood pre-eminent among all those with whom he was associated in his long career; and his influence upon the religious life of the college, and upon the religious life of the community in which he spent so large a part of his life, is the most important heritage that he has left.

Sincere and tenderest sympathy is extended to the members of Dr. Pepper's family; and it is voted to spread this minute upon the records of the faculty and to transmit a copy to the family.

For the Faculty,

JULIAN D. TAYLOR,

J. WM. BLACK,

CLARENCE H. WHITE,

Committee on Resolutions.

ATHLETIC AND STUDENT COUNCILS.

As a result of the many complaints which have come to the ears of the Athletic and Student Councils, because of the apparent lack of a proper regard for public property here in Colby, a joint meeting of the two bodies was held, Monday evening, in the trophy room in Recitation Hall.

All of the aspects of the situation were discussed and the following plans were made to check this evil in so far as the students are concerned: The Student Council is to call a mass meeting to discuss all phases of the case; each fraternity is to be addressed upon the subject by its member of the Student Council, and the Athletic Council is to impress upon all the "C" men that they must return all property belonging to the Athletic Association.

It is to be hoped that these measures will awaken a better sense of public honesty in the minds of the men who are using Athletic Association property.

MUSICAL CLUBS.

Daily rehearsals are being held by the musical clubs in preparation for the joint Colby-Maine concert, which will be given in the city Opera House, on the evening of March 21. The program on that evening will consist entirely of new music. Many new features are being prepared, one of which is a selection by the united glee clubs of the two colleges. Another is a lively two-step by the mandolin club, entitled "Universal Peace."

On next Friday evening, a concert will be given at Clinton.

Manager Keyes has announced the following schedule for the Easter vacation:

March 27, Livermore Falls; March 28, Farmington; March 29, Portland; March 31, Milo; April 1, Presque Isle; April 2, Caribou; April 3, Fort Fairfield; April 4, Houlton.

SENIOR BANQUET.

The Senior Class held the first of a series of informal banquets at the Royal Café, last Friday evening. All "C" men are requested to meet with the Athletic Council, Monday evening, March 17.

The new catalogue presents a very fertile field for the amateur statistician. The following figures have been compiled, not to while away the Editor's time, but because they may be of interest to students and alumni of the college. We heartily apologize to the Women's Division because they are not included in the statistics; but the task may better be accomplished by the Colbiana. There are in college 264 men. Of these, eight per cent claim Waterville as their residence. Fifty-five per cent come from the State of Maine outside of Waterville. Thirty-seven per cent come from without the State of Maine. Ten states besides Maine are represented: New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Missouri, and Washington. The largest delegation from outside the state comes from Massachusetts, twenty-two per cent of all the men in college being residents of that state.

The following item from the current issue of the Bates Student has attracted our attention: "The letter on Bates Hospitality calls the attention of every student who is deeply interested in the affairs of Bates to one of her most prominent deficiencies, from the alumni's point of view. How can we provide better means for entertaining the alumni who come back to visit the college? This question may not seem very important from our point of view, as students, but we shall remain undergraduates only a comparatively short time, and then we shall be able to see the question in its true significance."

The alumni problem is one that every college has to face and solve for itself. Men of the alumni return to college seemingly alive with loyalty. But they find the college changed. New buildings and modern conveniences have replaced the old. Old faces are missing; old scenes are gone. It is then that the alumnus needs some stimulus to awaken his college loyalty. We believe the solution is the college fraternity. In his chapter house, the alumnus finds men with strange faces, but with hearts bound to his in a common bond. There he is always welcome. There the truest hospitality awaits him. Nor is it a narrow hospitality, bounded by fraternity lines. It is the hospitality of his college. When the visiting alumnus ends his stay it is rarely that his love for the old college is not revived and magnified. We hope that Bates may soon come to recognize the desirability of entering the Greek world.

LIFE-WORK TALK.

The third life-work talk was given in the Y. M. C. A. room, Tuesday evening, by Dr. John G. Towne, whose subject was,

"Medicine." In an interesting speech, interspersed with numerous witty remarks, Dr. Towne mentioned both the disadvantages and the advantages of his profession. There were many discouraging features. The doctor became a slave of the public, suffered through the unprofessionalism of brother doctors, had to contend with numerous quacks, and, oftentimes, received small financial returns for his labors. Yet, in spite of all these difficulties, the doctor had the great satisfaction of having helped his fellowmen to live a little longer and of having saved them from pain and suffering.

COMMONS CLUB.

The Commons Club held an initiation last Thursday evening. After the initiation, refreshments were served, and a social hour was enjoyed. The initiates are:

1914—Evan Rupert Wheeler, Alanson Eugene Skillings, Everett Stanley Kelson.

1916—Albert Moulton, Cecil Augustus Rollins, Seymore Smith, Louis Winthrop West.

EXCUSE RULES.

The excuse officer has announced the following additional rule, to govern excuses:

When a student is tardy at any class, he will, at the end of the hour, present to the officer in charge of the class an excuse for his tardiness; otherwise, the officer will report him absent for the whole period.

THE NEW CATALOGUE.

The ninety-third annual catalogue of Colby College for the year 1912-1913 has recently been received from the hands of the printer and distributed among the students. A slight increase over last year's total enrollment is noticeable. Several changes and material additions have been made in the curriculum. A new course in "Books and Libraries" under Assistant-professor Chipman has been instituted. A course in Advanced Composition has been added to the Rhetoric Department, and courses in the English Novel and American Literature will also be given next year. This semester a course in Advanced Public Speaking is being given, which will continue as a whole year course next year. Important additions have been made to the science courses described under Mathematics and Chemistry.
