MEMORIAL DAY EXERCISES.

The faculty and students of Colby assembled at City Hall Square, Friday morning, to escort the veterans of the Grand Army, the Spanish War veterans, and the Sons of Veterans, to the college campus. Captain Harold L. Pepper, '06, acted as grand marshal, and Robert H. Bowen, '14, assisted as student marshal. Accompanied by Co. H, N. G. S. M., and headed by the Waterville Military Band, the veterans and members of the college marched to Memorial Hall, where was held the annual service in memory of Colby's sons who were slain in the Civil War. The exercises were conducted by Post Commander Sylvester Haynes. Prayer was offered by the chaplain, after which Lincoln's Gettysburg address was given by Harold S. Campbell, '15. Harvey Knight, '14, delivered the oration, which called forth great applause. The exercises were then concluded by decorating the Memorial tablet, which service was performed by Comrade George Wilson, on behalf of the W. S. Heath Post.

Mr. Knight's oration was, in part, as follows:

Over half a century has gone by, now, since President Lincoln issued the first call for volunteers. The times and conditions of the country have changed materially since then; but it is still fitting that we should meet and, remembering the heroic self-sacrifice of those who gave their lives in that struggle, strive to see their patriotism in its finest sense; and to realize, if we can realize, at what cost this nation was freed from its curse of slavery; and, so, today, I extend to you the heartiest welcome of the college, as you come to unite with us and we with you in paying tribute to Colby's sons who fell in the Civil War.

As we glance over Colby's war record, and all of us should be familiar with it, we are not surprised that every graduate and undergraduate is proud of that record. From the murder of Elijah Parrish Lovejoy, of the class of 1826, by the mob at Alton, Ill., down to the surrender of Lee to Grant, in the last year of the war, Colby's sons were ever prominent in the ranks of the Blue. It was the daring of Lovejoy, coupled with his unflinching honesty, that bade him stand in the face of opposition and proclaim the freedom of the press and the injustice of slavery to the negro. He it was who, aided by a few loyal men, made the first armed resistance to the slave power; and he it was whose body was riddled with bullets by the mob at Alton; yet his death created a much greater impression than he in life could have made. It let loose the floods of oratory from the lips of Wendell Phillips; it was one of the moving forces in the life of John Brown; and the people throughout the country were stirred by the death of that man who in the face of death itself could say: "I have sworn eternal opposition to slavery, and by the Grace of God I will never go back." We should pay tribute to Elijah Parrish Lovejoy today because he was a Colby man. Yes! but greater than this, because he was one of the great men in one of the greatest wars ever waged for human liberty! Colby's war record! Why over one-third of all the graduates and undergraduates of the college were fighting in the ranks of the blue; and on yonder tablet you see written the names of twenty of those sons who did not return. Memorial Day! What a flood of recollections it must bring to these our brave friends here, who were not only living at that time, but who were there, and who were fighting that the oppressed might be freed, and that the Union might be preserved.

Forty-four years ago this building, the first of its kind in the country, was erected to the memory of Colby's sons who fell in the Civil War; so that every Colby man might have a lasting memorial of his brothers of the former days. Today, we have not the same problems to face as they; but whatever our problems, the memory of what they have done will serve to help us in what we about to do, if it is something which requires true courage and noble manhood.

We are citizens of the Union, and when we think how many men were sacrificed that every stripe might remain on that flag, and every star might still grace its blue background, our hearts are thrilled and we are proud that we are Americans. We are also sons of Colby. Every time-honored hall, every tree upon the campus, is dear to us. But dearer than these tangible objects are the traditions handed down for nearly a century. They teach us loyalty, that quality upon which rests the confidence of friends, and which has ever been the basis of government. They teach us honesty, that old-fashioned quality which ever makes for true manhood. They teach us love, that divine attribute which enabled both armies to return home after the Civil War with malice toward none and with charity for all! And as long as one stone shall remain upon another in these buildings which they so dearly loved; as long as the world shall appreciate these qualities of loyalty, honesty and love, which they have in tradition passed down to us; as long as the memory of the war itself shall last,—the memory of Colby's sons who took part in that war shall not be forgotten, but shall endure!

COLBY LOSES TO MAINE.

Colby lost her chances for the baseball championship, last Wednesday, when she was defeated by Maine, 6-2, on Alumni Field. The first inning of the game was scoreless. During the second inning, Colby captured two runs, which were her grand total. In the fourth and fifth, Maine jumped ahead and netted three runs. Through the rest of the game, Maine bunched hits at opportune moments, and at the finish was six runs to the good. Steves replaced James in the ninth inning. Jack Lowney played an especially fine game.

THE BROWN GAME.

Colby met defeat at the hands of Brown University, Saturday, by a score of 8 to 2. In the second inning, an unfortunate combination of errors and passes allowed Brown to get seven runs. After this, however, Colby played a fighting game, and only one man was able to score. Colby's two runs also came in the second inning. Steves, who replaced James in the second, played an excellent game, as did the rest of the team after the fatal inning.

FORREST GOODWIN.

By the death of Hon. Forrest Goodwin, of the class of 1887, Colby has lost one of her most brilliant sons. One of Maine's most prominent Republicans, he was serving his first term as congressman from the Third Maine district. Death was due to hardening of the liver, a disease with which he had been troubled for several months and which had recently reached an acute stage. He died Wednesday, May 28, in Portland, where he had been taken for treatment.

Congressman Goodwin was born at Skowhegan, June 14, 1862. He was graduated from the High School with honors, in 1883, and entered Colby in the fall of that year, earning money for his tuition by conducting an ice business during the summer. During his four years in college, honors of all kinds came to him in quick succession. He made a statewide reputation by his work as a baseball pitcher, and gave Colby many a hard fought game by his ability on the mound. Prizes, scholastic honors, the editorship of THE ECHO, all followed rapidly, culminating with graduation as Class Orator, in 1887.

The summer following graduation found him pitching for the Bangor team. That fall the people of Skowhegan elected him to the Maine legislature, the youngest man who ever won that honor. At about the same time he entered the law office of Walton & Walton, and after two years of study was admitted to the Somerset bar. Upon the completion of a three years' course in the law school of Boston University in one year, Mr. Goodwin was appointed a parliamentary clerk to Speaker Thomas B. Reed.

After two years, he returned to Skowhegan and took up the practice of his profession, serving, at the same time, as postmaster from 1892 to 1896. Success in his chosen profession came almost immediately and with it further political honors; for he was elected for two terms to the state senate, of which body he was chosen President in 1905. Last year Mr. Goodwin was elected to Congress and took his seat at the beginning of the extra session.

The news of his death came as a great shock to the college. He has always shown great interest in all phases of her activities. For each of the past two years he has given the sum of $100, to be awarded as prizes among debating teams representing the high and preparatory schools of Maine. Having been himself a baseball man when in college, he was deeply interested in her athletic teams. He had served as a trustee of the college since 1908.

The funeral services were held at Skowhegan, Saturday. The college was represented by Pres. A. J. Roberts, who gave the funeral address. A representative from the student body and one from the Zeta Psi fraternity, of which the deceased was a member, were also present.

Hugh Simmons, Tufts, '16, was the guest of Hugh McKay, at the Delta Upsilon House, Thursday, of last week.

The death of Forrest Goodwin brings deepest sorrow to the college. A beloved son of old Colby, honoring her by his rapid advance to fame, he was cut down ere the fullness of age was upon him. Success came to him through his indomitable will. Although he was but a poor man at graduation, when he left us his name was known and honored in the most exalted legislative body of the land. He was a man whose example is worthy of emulation. President Roberts said of him, "By his death the college loses a loyal son and useful trustee; a man who could always be counted on to do his part and more than his part, in promoting the interests of his Alma Mater."

Next Saturday, the athletic association will elect its officers for the following year. Just previous to such elections, there is usually considerable uncertainty as to the outcome, and ambitious friends of some of the candidates have been known, in times past, to have agreed upon consolidation in balloting. This inter-fraternity log-rolling is not the proper method of handling an election. It is admittedly the poorest kind of poor business, and there is no good excuse for it. If such a principle is allowed to find its way into this, or any other, branch of college activity, it will not be long before Colby's name for fairness and honesty will suffer. Let us have an honest, straight-forward election, this year, with every member voting for the man he prefers, irrespective of political strings.

RETIRING CHIEF JUSTICE WHITEHOUSE HONORED.

Lawyers from all over Maine gathered around the mahogany at the Augusta House, Augusta, Wednesday evening, to pay tribute to William Penn Whitehouse, Colby, '63, retiring Chief Justice of the State of Maine. After the dinner bill had been tested by the Pine Tree State attorneys, stories, full of mirth and wit, were told about Chief Justice Whitehouse during his connection with the Maine bar. For the most part, every story contained a laugh, for it has been the custom of Judge Whitehouse to put as many laughs into the world as possible.

Judge George C. Wing of Auburn acted as toastmaster of the evening. Among the speakers was Hon. David D. Stewart, a classmate of Judge Whitehouse at Colby, in his ninetieth year, Nestor of the Maine bar, who told how the court used to be conducted when he first started to win battles before juries up in Somerset county. His remarks were a comprehensive and eloquent history of the Maine courts for the past sixty-six years.

Other speakers were Governor William T. Haines, J. O. Bradbury of Saco, Peter C. Keegan of Van Buren, Judge H. Augustus Simmons of North Anson, Hon. Raymond Fellows of Bangor, Hon. John R. Dutton of Belfast, Hon. Isaac W. Dyer of Portland, Hon. J. T. Lynch of Machias, Hon. J. H. Montgomery of Camden, Hon. Henry Hudson of Guilford, Hon. George W. Heselton of Gardiner, president of the Kennebec bar.

Chief Justice Whitehouse delivered a long and eloquent speech, in which he said:—

"I am not conscious of the weight of age or of other bodily infirmities, and in that respect my condition is unlike that of Lord Mansfield; but like him, 'my mind is cheerful and still open to that sensibility which praise from the praiseworthy never fails to give.' And when I look upon this splendid assembly of the representative men of the bar of Maine, I am deeply sensible of the distinguished honor which has been conferred upon me, tonight, so far as this gathering has reference to myself, personally; and I am profoundly grateful, not only for this special manifestation of the good will of the bar, but for the kindly sentiment which inspired it, for the terms of eulogy employed in referring to my service on the bench for the last thirty-five years, and for the kindness and courtesy I have always received from the bar of this state, since I became a member of it forty-eight years ago."

WILBER VOSE COLE.

Wilber Vose Cole, '11, one of Colby's most loyal young alumni, died at his home in this city, Monday evening. Death came as the result of internal injuries sustained by colliding with a baggage truck, while running to catch a train in Portland, last Wednesday.

Mr. Cole was born in Prospect Harbor, December 8, 1885. He prepared for college at Coburn Classical Institute, where his ability brought him many honors. He then entered Colby, in the class of 1911, and by his loyalty to the college and its activities, made himself popular with both students and faculty. He was a "C" man, belonging for four years to the track team, of which he was captain during his Junior year. He was manager of football, vice-president of the athletic association, and was elected to membership in the Junior society of Druids. He was a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

Since graduation, he has been with Boothby and Bartlett, insurance agents, in this city, and has been considered one of their most efficient men.

The college mourns the loss of a promising alumnus and a loyal friend.

WHEREAS, we are mindful of the loss of a true and loyal sister; be it

FRESHMAN PRIZE READING.

The finals in the annual Freshman prize reading contest were held Thursday afternoon, in the chapel. President Roberts, Professor Libby, and Professor Ashcraft acted as judges. The first prize was awarded to Norman W. Lindsay, and the second to Chester O. Wyllie.

TRACK CAPTAIN.

At a meeting of the track "C" men in chapel, Tuesday morning, William H. Meanix, '16, was elected captain for next year.

EPICUREANS.

The annual initiation banquet of the Senior Society of Epicureans was held at Buzzell's Chop House, Monday, June 2. The initiates, from the class of 1914, are: Frank S. Carpenter from Zeta Psi, Norman J. Merrill from Phi Delta Theta, Henry G. Pratt from Delta Upsilon, Milroy Warren from Alpha Tau Omega, and Everett L. Wyman from Delta Kappa Epsilon.

CAMPUS CHAT.

Roger A. Putnam, '15, addressed the students at Oak Grove Seminary, last Wednesday. He also spoke at York High school on, "Soldiers in Time of Peace."

The baseball team spent Memorial Day in Boston, taking in a big league game in the forenoon and the track meet at the Stadium in the afternoon.

William Meanix, '16, ran second in the 100 yard dash, and third in the 220 yard dash, in the games held by the Old Town A. A., Memorial Day.

David Miller, of North Jay, visited his son, Stanley B. Miller, '14, Friday and Saturday of last week.

Rev. Canon Nicholson led the exercises at chapel, last Saturday morning.

Instructor Henry W. Brown is able to attend to his classes again after a severe illness.

M. P. Roberts, '13, returned from his home, Monday.

J. C. Goldthwaite, '13, returned, Monday, from Caribou, where he has been coaching the Caribou High school track team.

Ernest C. Marriner, '13, was the principal orator at the Memorial Day exercises in City Hall, Friday. He gave an excellent address.

The final examinations begin a week from Saturday. Get busy!

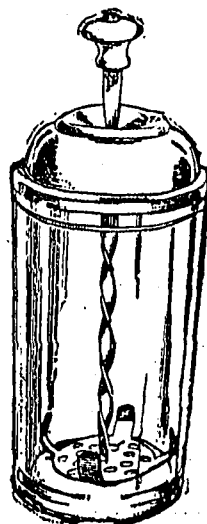

Clair F. Benson, '13, is substituting at Coburn for J. A. Bagnell, '12, who is sick with typhoid fever.

David Jack, '14, officiated at the Memorial Day exercises in Winslow, Friday.

David Campbell, '71, of Cherryfield, visited his son, John P. Campbell, '16, last Thursday.

In the list of summer reading suggested by the instructor as a preparation for English Literature 9, which was printed in last week's ECHO, several errors occurred. Captain Leighton, by Defoe, should have read Captain Singleton. And Eugene Cram, by Bulwer Lytton, should have read Eugene Aram.

A Great Opportunity For College Men

No household article placed on the market for many years has created such interest and enthusiasm among agents, canvassers and salesmen as the Roberts Lightning Mixer. Every mail brings unsolicited expressions from agents, such as, "Sells like hot cakes", "Sells on sight", "No trouble to sell them", "Every woman wants one", etc.

Our liberal advertising of them in the leading magazines has created a demand for the Roberts Mixer all over the United States.
