LANE OF BATES WINS PROHIBITION CONTEST.

LABELLE OF COLBY SECOND.

The third annual oratorical contest of the State Intercollegiate Prohibition Association was held in the college chapel, Thursday night. Bates, Bangor Theological Seminary, and Colby were represented by speakers. A fair sized audience gathered, although many students were kept away by other meetings. The state president being ill, the vice-president, C. E. Bodman of Bangor presided. A brief explanation of the nature of the contest was followed by prayer by Professor H. W. Brown. All the speakers deserve great credit for the excellence of their addresses and their effective delivery. The judges, Dr. F. L. Phelan, Rev. E. M. Holman, and Dr. C. E. Owen, awarded the first prize of seventy-five dollars to Perley W. Lane of Bates, and the second prize of ten dollars to Claude A. LaBelle of Colby. The amount of the first prize, it was announced, was large in order to defray the expenses of the winner to the national contest to be held in Indianapolis on June 26th.

Mr. Lane, the prize winner, spoke on "Nation-Wide Prohibition." He cleverly showed the analogy between liquor and militarism, each being fearfully destructive. The great financial resources of the liquor interests were mentioned. The speaker then dwelt upon the importance of making prohibition national, and gave a graphic word-picture of a home made desolate through drink. He closed with a strong plea for the removal of this awful curse.

Mr. LaBelle, the second prize winner, took for his subject, "The New Crusade." The war in Europe, he said, is not greater than the world-war that is being waged against intemperance. He gave three reasons for the failure of the temperance cause in the past. First, people like to make themselves believe that liquor is not harmful; second, liquor has been exploited by its manufacturers; and third, we have not faced the issue squarely. The arguments against prohibition advanced by its enemies were proved fallacious. The speaker closed with a call to arms for the new crusade—the crusade against alcohol.

Cecil A. Rollins, Colby's other speaker, spoke on "The Way Out!" His article was very clear and convincing, showing the guilt of John Barleycorn and the necessity of either killing him or being killed. Joseph W. Beach of Bangor Theological Seminary delivered an article on "Retaking Lost Territory," which dealt particularly with the problem here in Maine. Don H. Stimpson of Bates took for his subject, "America and the Liquor Problem."

Before the meeting, the following state officers were elected for the coming year: President, Henry A. Peterson of U. of M.; vice-president, Don H. Stimpson of Bates; treasurer, Joseph W. Beach of Bangor; secretary, Winthrop L. Webb of Colby; reporter, C. E. Bodman of Bangor.

NEGATIVE WINS MURRAY PRIZE DEBATE.

The seventh annual Murray Prize Debate was held in the chapel, Tuesday afternoon, June 13, before a good sized audience. As the donor of the prizes, George Edwin Murray, of the class of 1879, was unable to be present, the chairman of the debate was Rev. Charles E. Owen, D. D., also of the class of 1879.

The prizes in this debate, which is open to competition to all students electing the course in Debating V, aggregate one hundred dollars: seventy-five dollars is distributed equally among the members of the winning team, and twenty-five dollars is given to the losers. For the fifth time the first prize went to the team upholding the negative side of the argument.

The question for debate this year was:—"Resolved, That power should be granted to the Governor of the State of Maine to remove sheriffs for just cause." The speakers for the affirmative were: Fred A. Pottle, '17, J. Gleason Perry, '18, Herbert L. Newman, '18. The negative speakers were: Lester E. Young, '17, Raymond H. Parker, '18, Norman D. Lattin, '18. Both sides advanced good sound arguments and the decision was very close.

Of especial interest, this year, was the novel way in which the debate was judged. Instead of having three well-known judges as is the usual method, there were in all thirty-three judges. Among them were prominent men from the city and a number of men from the student body whose names had been approved by the debaters. Possibly this board of judges didn't render as fair a verdict as might have been given, but they certainly helped to make up a fine audience.

The time-keepers were Newton L. Nourse, '19, and Isaac D. Love, '19.

MAINE WINS LAST GAME.

By knocking Cawley out of the box in the fourth inning, Maine romped away with the last championship game of the season, at Orono, yesterday. The features were the terrific hitting of Maine and a wonderful barehand catch by Nye in the ninth inning. Mike Driscoll, pitching his last game for U. of M., held his opponents to five hits, and was never in trouble after the first stanza.

Colby got away to a whirlwind start, scoring two runs in the opening inning, but after that Driscoll settled down and was invincible. Cawley went along nicely for Colby during the first three rounds, then he became unsteady, and was forced to retire in favor of Matthews. After this, the game was never in doubt.

This game completes the Maine College series as the postponed game with Bates will not be played. Maine easily won the championship, and Colby is firmly fixed in last place.

COLBY LOSES IN THE FIRST INNING.

Scoring seven runs in the first inning, Bates safely tucked away the game with Colby, last Wednesday afternoon, the final score being 10-4. Shirley started the game for Colby and failed to retire any of the first six batters who faced him. In that brief period he gave two passes and allowed two hits, which, with the aid of an error by himself and one by Driscoll, accounted for four runs. At this point Matthews relieved him, but the run-making continued, a hit, a base on balls, an error, and a sacrifice fly accounting for three more. From that time, Matty pitched good ball, and with snappy support would have held Bates scoreless for the remainder of the game.

The real feature of the contest, however, was the heavy hitting of both teams. Allen led the swatfest, getting four hits in as many trips to the plate, while Duncan, Schuster, and Simpson all hit for extra bases.

Colby's scores came in the fourth and fifth innings. In the fourth, with one out, Ashworth beat out a grounder to Talbot. He made third on Schuster's fly to right and scored on Allen's single. Smith ended the inning by flying to Marston. In the fifth, with one out, Matthews was safe on a grounder to Talbot and went to third on Simpson's two-bagger to right. He scored on Nye's out. Ashworth hit to left and Simpson scored. Schuster smashed the ball to deep right for three bases and Ashworth scored, but Heyes grounded to Logan for the third out. Bates scored in the third, fourth and sixth, by combining bases on balls with hits and errors.

COACH COHN'S RESIGNATION A SURPRISE.

One of the surprises of the season came to the students, last week, when Harvey Cohn, the head of Colby's track department, announced this as being his last year at Colby. For the past three years this smiling, little New Yorker has been track coach and trainer of Colby's athletic teams. In that time, he has won the friendship, respect, and admiration of every student in the college. An air of jovialness and optimism, which makes up a part of his most remarkable personality, has brought him the popularity and friendship of the whole student body.

It is rumored that he has the choice of two very flattering offers. One is with the Irish-American A. C. in New York City, as a track coach, the job lasting the year around; while the other lasts only during the track season at one of the largest universities in the middle West. Which one he will accept is, of course, in doubt.

Harvey Cohn was born in New York City, and ever since has made his permanent residence there, although since his marriage to a Waterville girl he has temporarily lived in this city. As a member of the Irish-American A. C. he gained prominence as a distance runner, and took the trip to Sweden with the United States Olympic team. At these games he won the 1500-metre race and established a new record over the course.

Harvey came to Colby in 1918, and has been a continual "live wire" in the college ever since. Besides his regular work, he has been the originator of those enjoyable "gym" nights, inter-fraternity track meets, and other contests.

During his three years he has been confronted with the problem that brings gloom and despair to every track coach in the country, the lack of good material. Although instrumental in bringing several New York stars to Colby, which he developed into wonderful individual runners, his material has never been sufficiently numerous or well-balanced. Nevertheless, the success of Howe, Meanix, Royal, Wenz, and others in the big meets of the country put Colby on the map in track athletics and brought much glory to the little Maine college.

Of course, Colby deeply regrets losing "Harvey," but the entire student body extends their best wishes for success to the happy little track coach—Harvey Cohn.

FRESHMAN CONTEST HELD THURSDAY.

Unusual interest was shown this year in the Freshman Prize Reading for the men's division, held in the chapel, Thursday afternoon. The six speakers had been previously chosen from the members of the Freshman Reading class by President Roberts and a board of judges. A comparatively large audience was present. The speakers were all exceptionally good and the contest was of a high grade of excellence. Isaac D. Love was awarded the first prize of ten dollars, and Robert Carey the second prize of five dollars. Professor H. W. Brown presided, and the judges were Professor J. W. Black, Dr. George Averill, Rev. H. C. Turner, R. J. Patterson, and H. D. Bates.

The program:

Appeal to Italy, (Maeterlinck), John C. Ashworth; The Guillotine, (Hugo), Harry A. Bourne; Address to the Convention of Delegates, (Henry), Frederick D. Blanchard; Reply to Mr. Corey in Irish Parliament, (Grattan), Robert T. Carey; The Republic Never Retreats, (Beveridge), Isaac D. Love; Memorial Address on Garfield, (Depew), Earle S. Tyler.

PHYSICAL SOCIETY ELECTS OFFICERS

The Physical Society held its last meeting of the year on Thursday night. Papers were read by the following men: "Bridges," Fred C. English; "Osmosis in Plant Life," Lyman I. Thayer; "Magnetism," Waldo C. Lincoln. After the papers had been read, the following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: President, Andrew C. Little, '17; vice-president, Ray E. Whelden, '17; secretary and treasurer, Harris B. McIntyre, '18.

With this, the last issue of The Echo for the year, the new editorial and managerial board officially goes into office. The preliminary work of the new men has been of a high order and an excellent board will doubtless be developed.

The Echo, next year, as heretofore, will be published in the interests of the college and the student body. We believe that the purpose of the paper is to record college events and to reflect college spirit. This can be done only through the efficient co-operation of all who read the paper. To this end, communications, criticisms, and contributions will be gladly received by the editor from faculty, alumni, students, and other friends. Everything will be done to make The Echo a live, popular, representative paper. Several changes of greater or less importance will be made, and some special features, never before presented in The Echo, will be instituted.

The following from the Springfield Republican will be of interest.

"It is not surprising that Massachusetts' new commissioner of education, Payson Smith, comes from Maine. The wonder is that Maine men have evaded the office for so long. When a Massachusetts town seeks a high school principal, or, together with its neighboring towns, seeks a superintendent of schools, where does it turn? In a really remarkable number of cases it turns to Maine, or at all events finds a man who originally hailed from Maine. With the predominance of Maine men in Massachusetts education, symmetry demanded that a Maine man be chosen to head the system.

"That we are acting wisely, as we usually do when we choose our school officials from the discarded better half of our state, is proved by the record of Payson Smith in the office which he has administered from Augusta. As a state superintendent of schools appointed by a Republican governor, Mr. Smith had the distinction, shared only with the reporter of decisions, of being a Republican official who survived Gov. Plaisted's Democratic administration of 1911-13. In Maine, it will be seen there is no hazy sentimentality obscuring the practical principles of politics in dealing with political appointees. When you get into power you turn the other fellows out of their jobs and fill the vacancies with "deserving" partisans of your own. Yet even Gov. Plaisted felt that in Mr. Smith's case he had to make an exception to the approved rule.

"The eminence of Maine as a training ground for principals and superintendents is worthy of more study than it has received. Is it that education is held in higher esteem "down East" and that the men and women who devote themselves to it feel that they are undertaking a life work that shall be of real benefit to the community? Or is it that they receive an all-round college training which fits them to teach the many subjects that one man is compelled to teach in many of the rural high schools? Massachusetts and the other states no doubt provide more specialists than Maine does. But your all-round schoolmaster, the man who can teach the dozen subjects in the high school curriculum (no; not all equally well), who takes a leading part in the religious and social life of the community, who often must work for a salary that is barely enough for his own family's needs—this is a type of man of which Maine has sent us many examples in the past.

"It would be idle to pretend that they have been invariably distinguished as teachers. Some, indeed, who were admirable scholars and admirable men, have been only indifferent teachers. But they have seldom failed to help the community which has called them to its service. One is forced to believe that the Maine schoolmaster like the Maine sea captain, is an indispensable pillar of the American commonwealth."

"Yes," said the grad, "I guess that the thing that surprises the college man most when he gets out in the world is to find out how much uneducated people know."—Life.

"God helps those who help themselves." They need it if they're caught at the job.

REPUBLICAN CLUB HEARS MR. FERNALD.

Several members of the Colby Republican club enjoyed the address of Hon. Bert M. Fernald, last Thursday evening, at the rooms of the City Republican club. Mr. Fernald, an ex-governor of Maine and a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator, discussed the tariff and preparedness, closing with the plea to the business men and Colby men present to vote the Republican ticket at the next election, when the eyes of the country will be upon Maine as a guide.

EXAMINATION SCHEDULE CHANGED.

By a decision of the faculty, final examinations have been set ahead two days, making the last examination come Wednesday noon, June 21, instead of the following Friday afternoon, as scheduled.

This arrangement enables those who desire to begin their summer's work early an opportunity to do so.

The final examinations will begin, Thursday morning, June 15. Examinations in the morning are as usual from 9 to 12, in the afternoon from 2 to 5.

The schedule is:

CLASSES.	EXAMINATIONS.
Monday 8 o'clocks	Thursday, A. M.
Monday 9 o'clocks	Thursday, P. M.
Monday 10 o'clocks	Friday A. M.
Monday 11 o'clocks	Friday, P. M.
Monday 1 o'clocks	Saturday, A. M.
Monday 2 o'clocks	Saturday, P. M.
Monday 3 o'clocks	Monday A. M.
Tuesday 8 o'clocks	Monday P. M.
Tuesday 9 o'clocks	Tuesday, A. M.
Tuesday 10 o'clocks	Tuesday, P. M.
Tuesday 11 o'clocks	Wednesday, A. M.

One exception to the above schedule is the holding of the examination in Physics I, in the gymnasium, Wednesday, P. M. The three divisions will all take the same examination under the direction of Dr. Obear and Instructor Young.

PHI DELTS HOSTS AT ENJOYABLE DANCE.

An informal Phi Delt dance was held at Oakland, Monday evening, in Messalonskee Hall. Although the dance order consisted of but eighteen dances owing to the young ladies having to return at eleven o'clock, the affair was thoroughly enjoyed. The orchestra was especially good, and contributed not a little to the good time. The feature of the evening was "waltzing in the moonlight," when the orchestra lights only were lighted. About seventy-five couples enjoyed the evening's festivities.

CAMPUS CHAT.

Professor Brown gave the graduation address, this year, at Higgins Classical Institute, and the high schools of Mt. Desert, Stonington, North Haven, and South Paris.

Barnum and Bailey's circus, featuring a spectacular Oriental pageant which depicts the famous tales of the Arabian Nights, portrayed by 1350 persons and hundreds of horses, elephants and camels, will come to Waterville, June 30, after college closes. Worse luck!

Professor Clarence H. Johnson spoke at Freedom Academy, last Sunday.

Harold Rand, '15, is visiting at the A. T. O. House.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Skillin of Somerville, Mass., were the guests of their son, George R. Skillin, '18, for a few days last week.

The Epicureans held their annual initiation banquet at the Elmwood hotel, Thursday night.

Watson, '18, and Patterson, '18, spent the weekend at Dexter.

Dr. Obear in Physics I.:—If light didn't travel in a straight line we could see a thing long after it has disappeared.

"Fergie" Murch, '15, is a visitor for a few days at the Deke House.

The college trio, Pratt, Lattin, and Prince, played, Monday night, in Clinton at the Clinton High School graduation.

Professor Libby spoke at the commencement exercises of Parsonsfield Seminary, Monday.

President Roberts made a business trip to Portland, Monday.

Dr. G. B. Obear of the Physics department was out of town on business, Tuesday.

Theodore Fieldbrave, '16, spoke in Oakland, Monday evening, to the members of the Epworth Leagues of Oakland, Benton, Waterville, Fairfield and Winslow, on missionary work.

This afternoon, the Colby students, together with the college band, participated in the monster Flag Day Parade organized by the citizens of Waterville. Following the parade, a review and exhibition took place on the Campus, at which A. Raymond Rogers, '17, delivered a Flag Day oration.

Robert H. Bowen, '15, has been visiting at the D. U. House, this week.

"Dutch" Bramhall, '15, is spending a few days at the D. U. House.

We all saw or at least heard the spirit of Lawrence High, Monday of this week. Don't you think we could do a lot more if we were filled with zeal and college spirit. This year is over now but when we come back in the fall, let's be bubbling over with Colby spirit and get into college life and make it worth while.

Shirley Blackinton, '16, Mark Thompson, '17, Paul

Thompson, '18, Harris McIntyre, and Wallace Hastings, '18, were the guests at a house party at Belgrade over the week-end.

Frank Howard and Ellsworth Prince, '18, visited friends over Sunday.

Louie Wilson, '14, visited the Phi Delt House over Sunday.

Benny Greer, '16, was a guest at a picnic up the Messalonskee, Sunday.

Newton of U. of M. visited Kimball, '16, at the Phi Delt House, Thursday and Friday.

A doorway has been cut through from the balcony of the library into the small room adjoining Memorial Hall. This is the beginning of the addition of a new reading room to the library. No further work will be done until fall.

The class numerals of 1917 and 1919 have at last been placed satisfactorily on the roof of the "Gym."

Everyone in Hedman Hall is curious to know what Murray Friedman will do for a mirror this summer. There's a reason!

PREPAREDNESS.

We may have to go to war any day. In the event of war, a vast army of untrained men would take the field. From where will come the officers of this great body? They will be recruited from the ranks of the untrained also. The young men who are leaders in civil life will be the officers. The call will come to college men who have had training to accept officers' commissions. In action, it is the common soldier who more often takes his life in his hands. Officers are more valuable, and cannot be so lightly risked. Our college men, the best blood of the country, should not be the first to be sacrificed. Let us murder the uneducated first. Therefore let us have military training in Colby that we may all be officers, and not be slain till we have sent our brothers into the jaws of death. "GROUND-HOG."

WOMEN'S DIVISION.

1917—Selma Koehler.

1918—Jennie Odelle Sanborn.

1919—Mary Elizabeth Tourtellott.

Business Manager—Grace Farnum, '17.

Belle Longley, '19, spent the week end at her home in China.

Helene Blackwell, '19, and Martha Gregory, '19, passed Sunday at North Vassalboro.

Miss Ruth Davis of Westbrook has been visiting her sister, Nellie Davis, '19.

Almira Schaubel, Elizabeth Hoffman, Margaret Hoffman, Ruth Holbrook, and Hilda Bradbury, '19, gave a week-end house party at Snow Pond.

Thursday, June 8, the Kappa Alpha initiation and banquet was held at the home of Miss Frances Trefethen, West Court. After the initiates had been duly instructed in the solemn vows and mysteries of Kappa Alpha, they were rewarded with a banquet which must have surpassed the famous "feed of '98." When all of the ceremonies had been completed, the Kappa Alphas, old and new, gathered about the piano for a farewell "sing" in praise of K. A. and "Colby, Alma Mater, Dear."

Mildred Greene, '17, spent the week-end at Dexter, the guest of Atalena Atkins.

Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor was the recent guest of her daughter, Lucy Taylor, '17.

Madeline Daggett, '17, entertained her grandmother, Mrs. Caroline True, last week.

Miss Edith Washburn, '14, who has been teaching at Hampden Institute, is home for the summer, and visited friends in the hall over Sunday.

The junior members of Sigma Kappa were to have entertained the sorority at a picnic supper on the banks of the Messalonskee, Monday evening; but on account of the rain they were compelled to entertain in the frat hall.

Miss Claire MacIntire, ex-'16, stopped at the hall on her way to Augusta, recently.

Mina Titus, '16, is entertaining her mother at Foss Hall.

Fossie Seekins, '16, who has been ill at the home of Mrs. Ordway, has returned to Foss Hall.

Katherine Sturtevant, '18, went to Augusta on Sunday to meet her mother.

Miss Bernice Bradstreet of Bridgewater, Me., is visiting her cousin, Minerva Bradstreet, '19.

Hazel Durgin, '17, leaves, Wednesday morning, June 14, for Lynchburg, Virginia, where she is to attend the bi-ennial national convention of the Chi Omega sorority to be held June 17 to June 26 at Randolph-Macon Woman's College.

"Twelfth Night," this year's junior class play, given on the Foss Hall grounds, last Wednesday evening, proved to be as creditable and successful a production as those given in previous years. The various roles were well taken; and the rustic and artistic setting added much to the brilliant effect of the whole affair. Much credit is due Miss Flood and the committee for the successful production of the play.

Margaret Brown, '17, and Mollie Treat, '18, gave an announcement party to the Delta Delta Deltas at the sorority rooms, Saturday evening, June 10. After a bounteous repast of epicurean dishes prepared by the hostesses themselves, healths were drunk and toasts were given to the two happy girls.

Shisler—"How do you sell your collars?"

Merchant—"Two for a quarter."

Shisler—"How much for one?"

Merchant—"Fifteen cents."

Shisler—"Give me the other one."—Ex.

Regarding a recent controversy as to the long words in the English language I beg to state that I have several of them. All my words may be found in the large dictionary at the library. Remember also that my words are strictly hyphenless. Of course I would not doubt that "SMILES" is longer than mine because of the "MILE" between the first and last letters. Nor would I be so prone as to say that my words are longer than the word "RUBBER" for if "RUBBER" is not long enough you can stretch it. But to revert to the controversy which was carried on in the Boston newspapers some weeks ago. I hereby humbly present a list of words entirely different and longer than those quoted.
