CAWLEY RECEIVES BIG BOOST.

The Boston Traveler, in picking its all-eastern football team, has placed upon its lists Captain "Eddie" Cawley of Colby. In giving Captain Cawley the fullback position, the Traveler says:

"'Eddie' Cawley of Colby has been the scourge of Maine state this year. He has been almost unstoppable, and didn't have the interference other collegiate backfield stars have to help out the situation.

"Everywhere I went this fall where the Colby team had played I heard praises of this lad. He was captain this fall, and his team was champion of Maine. He punts, drop kicks and forward passes with the accuracy of a Hank Gowdy throwing to Maranville. He has a knee action that's the last word in aggravation to would-be tacklers. In running back punts he usually manages to start a panic, and if you don't believe that statement ask the Navy about him.

"A year ago Cawley ran back two punts for touchdowns against Annapolis, one for 35—the other for 65 yards. Had he done this in New York, the name of Cawley would forever be bracketed with football greatness as is that of Elmer Oliphant of West Point, fortunate enough to show his spectacular ability in just such a sensational run-back before a flossy crowd of 45,000."

The All-Eastern eleven as picked by the Traveler is as follows:

Ends—Comerford of Yale and Weeks of Brown.

Tackles—Wheeler of Harvard and West of Colgate.

Guards—Fox and Black of Yale.

Center—Wray of Pennsylvania.

Quarterback—Anderson of Colgate.

Halfbacks—Pollard of Brown and Hubbell of Colgate.

Fullback—Cawley of Colby.

FRESHMEN FAIL TO RESPOND.

A meeting of the Student Endowment Committee was held in Chemical Hall, November 25th. The members of the committee reported their progress in their canvass of the student body. These reports showed encouraging responses by the three upper classes, but there was evidence of apathy on the part of the freshman class. Plans were projected to increase the interest in the campaign and to secure the signatures of a greater number of students.

COLBY WILL SEND DELEGATES TO KENTUCKY CONVENTION.

Plans are under way for sending delegates from Colby to the national convention of the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association, to be held at Lexington, Kentucky, December 28-31. It is hoped that two or more delegates, including one from the women's division, may be sent.

Representation at this, the greatest convention of its kind ever held, will mean not only great honor, but also much practical benefit to Colby. It will bring the spirit and messages of the great convention directly to the college, and it will train leaders for the work of bringing this important problem to Colby students.

The conflict with liquor is bound to culminate within the next few years. Votes are to be taken in many states, and an amendment for national prohibition is a possibility. Students now in college will be brought face to face with the struggle, and with opportunity to lead and help the moment they step out of the college halls.

The Lexington convention is to be the greatest ever held. Over 1500 delegates are expected to represent colleges and universities from the University of Maine to California. The speakers will include men of national and international reputation. Among them are William Jennings Bryan; Charles Stelzle, the world's greatest expert on laboring men; Daniel A. Poling, president of the National Temperance Council; Louis C. Reimann, left tackle of the University of Michigan football team; Rev. Elmer L. Williams, "the Fighting Parson of Chicago," and many others.

The inspiration gained from men of this calibre and from the host of other delegates will be of untold value. Every effort will be expended that Colby may be represented and have a part in this great event.

TWO FORMER COLBY MEN WIN TRACK HONORS.

At the National Intercollegiate Cross-Country run held at New Haven on November 25, two former Colby men distinguished themselves and brought honor to the colleges which they were representing. These men were Ezra Wenz, ex-'17, and "Lavy" Lavine, ex-'18. Wenz, who was on the victorious Cornell team, came in third. Lavine, who ran for Yale, crossed the tape fourteenth.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR RELAY TEAM.

Although the board track has not yet been laid, tryouts for the relay team will soon be in order. The prospects of having a successful relay team are bright this year. With such candidates as Everts, Tilton, Bressett, and Philips fighting for places on the team, Captain Thompson, Heyes, and Wiseman of last year's squad will have to "show speed" in order to maintain their places. Captain Merrill of last year's team leaves the only vacancy.

The Boston A. A. games are now only about two months distant. On February 13, in Mechanics Hall, Boston, Colby will strive to regain the championship relay honors of the state,—honors which she won in 1914, but lost in 1915. Captain Thompson intends to have every candidate train faithfully; and with such a nucleus of fast sprinters available, he has a fine chance of leading another Maine championship relay team.

CHRISTIAN INFLUENCES EMANATING FROM COLBY.

A college, with all its academic, social, and religious activities, is really a community within itself. It cannot, however, escape being a part of the larger community in which it is situated, therefore, like any other part, it exerts a distinct influence on that community. Whether this influence shall be for good or for bad depends entirely on the college. Statistics show that more Christian work is carried on by privately endowed institutions than by those publicly sustained, and that, of the former class, the so-called "denominational" colleges, such as Wesleyan, Oberlin and Colby, are most active.

College Christian activities at Colby are carried on very quietly, hardly with the knowledge of many of the students, and certainly without the widespread press recognition given our athletic contests; yet the men engaged in these activities are rendering important service, and are accomplishing much in the world outside the confines of the college campus.

Much of this work, here, naturally centers around the Young Men's Christian Association. The Colby Y. M. C. A. does excellent service in nearby towns with its deputation work. A deputation team consists of from one to five men who visit a town and conduct a religious service there, furnishing the speaking and generally the music. A team is sent to any town or school at the request of any religious organization there. This year, such work has been far more extensive than ever before. Since the beginning of the college year, seven deputations have been sent out, one or more to each of the following places: Kents Hill, Readfield, East Vassalboro, Coburn Classical Institute, and Maine Central Institute. Eleven men have been members of one or more of the teams: I. E. Creelman, '19, E. C. Dunbar, '19, R. M. Hayes, '18, T. B. Madsen, '17, C. A. Mitchell, '20, H. L. Newman, '18, J. K. Pottle, '18, O. H. Rankin, '17, C. A. Rollins, '17, C. M. Tracy, '18, and W. B. West, '18. Several others have expressed their willingness to take part in the work; and R. M. Hayes, '18, chairman of the Deputation Committee, states that he could take care of double the number of calls for meetings which he is now receiving.

Indirectly connected with the Y. M. C. A. is the work of seven students who have pastorates in nearby towns, and who conduct regular religious services there. The influence of these men cannot be over-estimated. While they lack the mature experience of ordained clergymen, yet they have an advantage over the latter in being in such close contact with modern thought and progressive ideas at the college during the week as to give to their Sunday sermons a vigor and freshness seldom found in the addresses of small-town preachers. These students are: H. L. Newman, '18, at Cambridge; H. H. Upton, '17, at Oak Grove Chapel; T. B. Madsen, '17, at New Portland; O. H. Rankin, '17, at Wellington and Harmony; E. A. Rockwell, '20, at Hartland; G. R. Skillin, '18, at Shawmut; and Maude Spaulding, '18, at Sidney. Many other students, while not having regular fields, frequently accept calls to preach. Among them are P. E. Alden, '18, R. M. Hayes, '18, A. J. Minister, '19, and I. E. Creelman, '19.

Another of the Christian influences of Colby is the religious work of its faculty. Many of the members are preachers and lecturers of no small repute; and probably few colleges have a larger proportion of men prepared and willing to do definite Christian work. President Roberts, although speaking more often on educational subjects, is frequently called upon for religious addresses. He is always a power for good. His talk, "The Bible," is especially popular.

Professor Clarence H. White is known throughout the state as an active worker in the Congregational denomination, and only recently delivered a lecture before one of its conferences. Professor Herbert C. Libby, besides giving regular instruction at the Bangor Theological Seminary, is a popular lecturer and preacher. Dr. Gilbert Tolman, who has had missionary experience in the South, is a new man at Colby, but is already receiving invitations to speak at religious gatherings. Dean Mary C. Cooper is active in work among women, particularly in the matter of mission-study. An especially large amount of outside speaking is done by Professor Henry W. Brown, whose reputation and popularity in this line extends all over New England. He is particularly well liked in his lectures dealing with scientific interpretations of the Bible. His most popular addresses are, "Man, the Masterful" and "The Creation Story." Professors Taylor, Marquardt, Grover, Little, Trefethen, and several other faculty men give occasional addresses on special occasions.

It must be remembered, by the way, that all these activities by students and faculty alike are carried on without interruption to their regular college duties. Mention of Christian work within the college itself and in the city of Waterville has been intentionally omitted. The local churches, Sunday schools, and young peoples' societies, however, are largely officered and supported by students. The professors are also active, several serving as deacons, Sunday school superintendents and teachers of Bible classes.

Another source and one of the greatest of Colby's Christian influence abroad is the work of missionaries, ministers and Y. M. C. A. secretaries in the ranks of the graduates. It would be hard to find a college with a larger proportion of Christian workers among its alumni.

In view of all these Christian influences going out from the college, and with a hope for an even greater degree of such usefulness in the future, we may emphatically say, with President Roberts, "Colby is a Christian College."

MUSICAL CLUBS ANTICIPATE CHRISTMAS TRIP.

With the Christmas recess scarcely two weeks off, the musical clubs are putting in "double time" preparing for the Aroostook trip. The trip is practically assured and lacks only the approval of the advisory committee which is, at present, considering it. The schedule of concerts includes seven, to be given in the leading towns of Aroostook county during the latter part of the Christmas vacation.

Leader Webb, '17, of the Glee Club, who has been ill with appendicitis for the past three weeks, will be able to take the trip, and the manager urges that, in his absence, all contestants for positions be present at the daily rehearsals.

COLBY IS TENTH.

From the football averages of forty colleges, for the present season, Colby ranks tenth, with an average of .888. Bowdoin is given twenty-eighth place, with an average of .571. Following closely in thirty-first place comes Bates, with a total of .429. And at the bottom of the list stands Maine in the fortieth position, with an average of .000.

CONCERT TO SEND DELEGATES TO LEXINGTON, KY.

To help raise money to send delegates to the National Convention of the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association at Lexington, Ky., a concert will be given Saturday evening, December 16th.

Mrs. G. B. Franklin, as reader, and other college talent will furnish a program that will be the feature of the college functions before the holidays. Mrs. Franklin, although new to Waterville audiences, is a reader of unusual ability and charming personality.

The college talent will be the best the institution affords in both divisions, and, all in all, the entertainment should meet with high favor. More definite announcement of the program will be made the last of the week.

THROUGH THE PERISCOPE.

Oberlin has a new club composed of her red-headed students. They call themselves "The Order of the Golden Fleece."

The freshmen at University of Maine seem not to be of good social calibre; at any rate, a recent ruling debars them from the Sophomore Hop, the Junior Prom, and the Senior Reception.

Woman Suffrage is rampant in the West. The women of Lawrence have thrust off all traditions of inequality and have banded together to attend the football banquet and all future "stag" functions. We hope that they plan to pay their own way.

Bowdoin students are well dressed every day now; they have sent their old clothes to war prisoners in Europe.

Lew Fields and his comely lassies in "Step This Way" at the Majestic, received a visit from the Tufts men the other night. The students were a most enthusiastic crowd.

The Sophomores of McGill University (Canada) had a meeting to instill class spirit the other night. They did it. Incidentally, each member of the class was later assessed a dollar to repair damages to the chapel furniture.

President Wilbur of Leland Stanford University recently declared that, because of its professional coaching system and spirit of "anything for victory," American football is the greatest menace to intercollegiate athletics.

NEW COVER DESIGN.

To keep pace with the progressive spirit of our paper, the ECHO is soon to have a new cover design. This will give a standard cover scheme in place of the varying ones which have been used thus far this year. The new design will be appropriate and in good taste. It will be drawn by an alumnus of the college, an artist of international fame. Watch for it.

STATE HOCKEY SERIES?

Rumor has it that hockey may become a championship sport among the four Maine colleges during the coming winter. According to the Kennebec Journal, Bowdoin is practically sure to form a 'varsity ice team. Maine and Colby have several times threatened to try this sport, and Bates would no doubt come in on a four cornered series. The rumor is certainly not unreasonable.

LEXINGTON CONVENTION.

Sending delegates to the great National Convention of the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association is a project of much import to Colby as well as the student body. It means an inspiration and broadening of vision such as only the great college conventions of today can give.

The entertainment which is to be given to finance the undertaking will give everyone an opportunity to have a part in the project, and, incidentally, to obtain a musical and intellectual treat. Keep that evening free, but if you are unable to attend, your quarter will be accepted for the good of the cause and Colby.

1917 FOOTBALL CAPTAINS.

Election of football leaders in this state for next year show linemen as favorites over backfield men for captains,—three of those chosen being linemen. This is in direct contrast to the year just past, in which all four captains have been backfield players. Following are the four leaders for 1917:

Colby—Perry, left end.

Bates—Shattuck, centre.

Bowdoin—Peacock, right half back.

PHI DELTA THETA HOLDS DANCE.

What proved to be one of the most enjoyable social functions of the early winter occurred on Monday evening, November 27, at Assembly Hall. The Phi Delta Theta fraternity was the host, with some fifty couples as guests. Dancing continued until twelve o'clock, when the merry crowd broke up. Light refreshments were served during the dance and at intermission. Simple but attractive decorations adorned the walls. Music was furnished by the College Novelty Orchestra of three pieces. Dr. and Mrs. J. William Black were the chaperons.

Among the young ladies present were: Misses Lambert, M. E. Titcomb, Day, Prince, Smith, Clair, Ladd, Worthing, Soper, A. Murray, E. Murray, Ware, Shaw, Wilkins, Fleming, Eddington, Hillman, McLellan, Sweetser, Pike, D. Harvey, D. Spaulding, Donnelly, M. Hoffman, C. Kelley, Proudman, Sturtevant, Kimball, Norton, Harlow, Eaton, Moulton, Fletcher.

FIRST NUMBER OF THE ALUMNUS IS PUBLISHED.

The first issue of the Colby Alumnus for 1916-17, published in November, is a live, interesting number, combining high rhetorical excellence and neatness of arrangement with Professor Chipman's characteristically readable style.

This is the beginning of the sixth year of the Alumnus. A change has been made, owing to the increase in the cost of paper, so that the publication is now in pamphlet form without covers. The quantity of material, however, has not been diminished.

The first article is by Judge Leslie C. Cornish, '75, on the "Colby Endowment Fund." Judge Cornish names four sources from which we can obtain the one-half million dollars needed for our endowment fund: first, from the trustees, as men who are most closely identified with our college; second, from the alumni, alumnae, and non-graduates, who owe to Colby their success; third, from friends of Colby who are interested because they have a strong bond of sympathy with the institution; and fourth, from "philanthropic men and women looking for opportunities where investment in human life will pay more satisfactory dividends than in stocks and bonds."

The second article is a description of the new library reading room, the gift of Mr. Charles T. Seaverns of the class of 1901. Two excellent photographs show the room in detail.

"Colby Day" by Professor G. B. Franklin is an interesting account of our last Colby Day celebration. Following this is a short summary of our championship football achievements, with a photograph of the team, and a photograph of eight "Colby Sons of Colby Fathers,"—students in the entering class.

Editor Charles P. Chipman has three editorials:—one, an explanation of the "new dress" in which the alumnus appears; another, an appeal to make Colby Day more than a mere athletic rally; and the last, urging loyalty and sacrifice by Colby men and women in the effort to obtain the fund that will make Colby larger in influence and more enduring in fame.

The column of reviews calls attention to some interesting books, written by Colby men, and published during the past year.

Under "Alma Mater" is a short article on the work of the trustees at the November meeting, one on the changes in, and additions to, the faculty, and a statistical review of the campus, including the number of students, the honor students, and other campus activities.

The last article consists of reports of the alumni, with interesting items, concerning the happenings of the past few months.

ADVANCED PUBLIC SPEAKERS PLAN SCHEDULE.

Professor Libby, who has charge of the public speaking and debating courses, has announced an ambitious program for his advanced public speaking class. This program requires each member of the class to deliver two long addresses during the college year. The first of these series will be a discussion of the various professions, each student selecting the one in which he is most interested. The date set for the delivery is January fifteen, and the topics and speakers are as follows:

The Bar of Justice.....	M. I. Friedman, '17
Engineering.....	M. B. Ingraham, '17
The Sea as a Profession.....	A. C. Little, '17
The Appeal of the Legal Profession...	F. Eaton, '17
The Teaching Profession.....	L. E. Young, '17
The City Manager.....	E. R. Craig, '18
The Ministry.....	H. L. Newman, '18

Association Work.....	J. G. Perry, '18

COMMONS CLUB GIVES WHIST PARTY.

Fourteen tables were occupied at a progressive whist party, given by the Commons Club at its chapter house on Friday, November 24. The rooms were decorated with evergreen, bouquets of pinks, and the fraternity flower, the red rose. Music was furnished by the club orchestra, and refreshments of harlequin ice-cream and cake were served. The chaperons were Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Grover, Dr. and Mrs. H. P. Little, Prof. and Mrs. G. B. Franklin, and Mrs. C. L. Young. The following were the guests: Misses Green, Atwood, Washburn, Roberts, Starbird, Hazel Robinson, Emily Kelley, Hilda Bradbury, Flora Norton, Dorothea Spaulding, Althea Harvey, Fleming, Sweetser, Willey, Bertha Norton, Taylor, Nellie Davis, Peasley, Teague, Mabel McCauseland, Power, Winifred Greeley, Mildred Jordan, Phyllis Cole, Shepherd, Towne, Megquier, Bishop, Irene Robinson, Mary Jordan, Emerson, and McLaughlin.

CHEMICAL SOCIETY KEYS ARRIVE.

Among the noticeable arrivals on the campus this week are the new chemical society keys. The key is of gold being triangular in shape, modest in size, neat and attractive. Upon it are inscribed the Greek letters Gamma Gamma Sigma, the symbols of the society.

The "New Hampshire" points with pride to the fact that there are forty-eight varieties of trees on the campus at Durham.

CAMPUS CHAT

Don't forget the football dance, tomorrow night, to buy sweaters for the championship football team.

Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. meeting last night was a "Billy" Sunday meeting. The speakers were Rollins, '17, Skillin, '18, Newman, '18, McCormack, '19, and Johnson, '20, all just back from the "Billy" Sunday services in Boston. Each speaker took a different phase of this wonderful man and his equally wonderful work. Fine descriptions were given of the tabernacle, the multitudes that crowd each service, and the speaker himself.

A. Raymond Rogers, '17, led Y. M. C. A. Tuesday evening, November 28th. His subject was "Y. M. C. A. On The Border." He spoke feelingly of the valuable work done in Texas, citing several interesting examples. He told how the Y. M. C. A. grew, with headquarters first in a tent, and finally in a building with reading and writing rooms. He told how General Funston paid the Y. M. C. A. a fine tribute, saying as he passed the new headquarters, "That is the brains of our army."

It is hoped that Mr. Rogers will soon have an opportunity to repeat his address before the whole student body.

FACULTY.

During the vacation, Professor Harry took a short hunting trip up in the big woods, a little beyond Jackson. He reports that deer are extremely scarce this year.

Professor Ellis was at his home in North Fairfield over the week-end.

President Roberts addressed the men's class of the Congregational Church, Sunday, November 26. He took as his subject, "Life." He said, briefly, "The fundamental thing in life is character, founded on, and buttressed by, religion. To a life thus begun education furnishes the later development and is the means of securing the happiness for which we all strive." He said that, in his opinion, religion did far more for education, than education for religion. All of our leading colleges and universities, except perhaps those most recently established, were founded by the various churches. On the other hand, education in many cases lends no help to religion.

President Roberts gave the principal address at the dedication of the Bailey library, at Winthrop, last Saturday.

Professor Libby preached at the Unitarian church of Augusta, Sunday evening.

Professor Black spent a very pleasant vacation in Boston. During his stay there, Professor Black attended two of Billy Sunday's meetings.

Professor Crowell entertained a large number of his students, last Friday evening, at his home on Essex road.

Professor Brown gave the opening lecture at the annual convention of the Maine Dairy Association, Augusta, Monday evening.

Professor Tolman spoke at Readfield, Sunday.

D. K. E.

Ralph Smith, '17, took a short hunting trip with "Buster" Holt, '15, to Clinton, Saturday, November 25th.

The annual swimming lessons of the Deke House took place quite early on Monday morning, November 27th. The sophomores demonstrated their ability to swim at a standstill either in two inches of water or under twelve inches. The ice which floated around on top the "swimming pool" was somewhat of a hindrance to the doughty "sophs," however.

Nathan Grant, '19, returned, Monday, from a trip to Boston and to Hartford, Connecticut.

Lauriston Craig, '19, visited relatives at Augusta over the vacation.

Percy Goldthwaite, '20, spent the holidays with Justice Cornish, '75, at Augusta.

ZETA PSI.

John Stinson, A. Heath, F. Heath and Preston Libby spent the Thanksgiving recess hunting at Carratunk. Stinson shot a 200 pound buck.

Paul Christopher, '14, visited at the house recently.

Hiram Ricker, Jr., ex-'15, of Poland Springs, came to the city on business over the week-end. He was accompanied by Mrs. Ricker.

P. D. T.

Mark Thompson, '17, and Wallace Hastings, '18, spent the Thanksgiving recess in Houlton, the guests of Harris McIntyre, '18, and Ralph Hughes, '19.

Lincoln Heyes, '19, and Elliott Buse, '20, passed the week-end in Portland.

Paul Thompson, '17, spent the recess with friends in Lewiston.

Ralph Drew, '19, visited relatives in Corinna over Thanksgiving.

Milton Philbrook, '18, has been visiting friends in Bingham for a few days.

A. T. O.

Olin K. Porter was the guest of J. K. Pottle during the Thanksgiving holidays.

Harold E. Hall has again returned to college after an absence of three weeks.

Friends of John G. Selby, ex-'19, will be interested to know that he is now studying the civil engineering course at Delaware State College. During the season just closed, he played fullback on the 'varsity team and will probably make the 'varsity basketball team, basketball being a major sport there.

C. C.

Thursday night Mrs. C. L. Young, the mother of Ray C. Young, '15, gave a party to the boys who remained at the house over the holidays. The evening was spent playing games, and after a fine "feed," Mrs. Young, and the guests, Dr. and Mrs. H. P. Little, Professor and Mrs. R. W. Crowell, and Mrs. Rackliffe, were cheered lustily.

C. A. Rollins, '17, H. L. Newman, '18, and G. R. Skillin, '18, spent Thanksgiving vacation in Boston. They were able to hear Billy Sunday several times.

WOMEN'S DIVISION

Edited by the News Department of the Colbiana.

1917—Selma Koehler.

1918—Jennie Odelle Sanborn.

1919—Mary Elizabeth Tourtellott.

1920—Alice Helen Clark.

Business Manager—Grace Farnum, '17.

The girls who remained at the Hall over the Thanksgiving recess had nearly as enjoyable and festive a vacation as did those who spent the holiday at their homes. That they did not lack for "goodies" might be proved by the number and size of parcel post packages which poured into the Hall, and also by the bountifully spread tables in the dining room. The Thanksgiving dinner was an especially joyous occasion. In appreciation of Miss Butman's genuine effort to make it so, the following song, composed by Lucy Teague, '20, was sung to the tune of Phi Chi:

We're gathered round the table, girls,
Let's sing out clear and strong
In praise of "Butty's" dinner
That she has planned for long.
Alas for those who didn't stay;
We think that they were wrong
To leave this good Thanksgiving dinner.

Hooray, hooray, we feel so light and gay,—
Hooray, hooray, for this Thanksgiving day,
Chicken pies and lots to eat, and all that we can say

Is rah rah rah rah for "Butty."

Only two weeks more before the Christmas vacation!

Lucy Allen, '17, who was operated upon at the Sisters' Hospital, last week, for appendicitis, is gaining rapidly.

Madge Tooker, '18, who had tonsils and adenoids removed, last Thursday, is still suffering from the effects of the operation.

Miss Butman is confined to her room for a few days as the result of over work.

Mrs. H. C. Allen of Camden and Miss Ina Allen of Gorham Normal School have been staying at Foss Hall during the past week.

Professor Brown's chapel talks on the famous pictures, copies of which hang upon the chapel walls, are both interesting and instructive. The girls who cut chapel on Mondays, therefore, lose a profitable discourse on the art and interpretation of good painting.

Miss Pauline Sage, who is the executive secretary of the Northeastern Field Committee of Y. W. C. A., visited the Colby association, last week, and spoke at the Y. W. C. A. meeting on Tuesday evening. On Monday afternoon, the Advisory Board with Dean Cooper as hostess entertained Miss Sage at Foss Hall.

Have you seen the first number of the Colbiana? Subscription, 50 cents a year; single copies, 15 cents. For sale at all the leading book stores.

Helene Blackwell, '19, has returned to Colby to resume her studies.
