NOTED PROFESSOR, AUTHOR, LECTURER SPEAKS UPON IDEALS OF CULTURE.

Professor William Lyon Phelps of Yale University addressed the students of both divisions of the college in the chapel, Monday morning. The theme of his address was "Happiness," and his forceful personality, clearness, and sparkling humor made the hour pass all too quickly. The high ideals of culture and of life fairly emanating from the ripe experience of the speaker made the event one of untold educational and cultural value.

He gave as a definition of happiness a quotation from President Dwight of Yale. "The happiest person is the one who thinks the most interesting thoughts." Yet, he said, the ordinary conception of happiness is physical comfort, money, health and luxury, and it is this false idea that brings unhappiness. He gave, as a reason for men going to the bad, that they can't live with themselves, and it is the lack of education, not being able to think interesting thoughts, which accounts for their being in such a state.

Professor Phelps vigorously denied that youth and happiness go together, and he scoffed at the "idiots" who bemoan "lost youth," and "disillusionment," declaring that every time an illusion is lost, a new idea takes its place.

He humorously described the daily life of a cow as an example of perfect physical comfort and luxury, explaining how the cow, after eating all that she can, "sits" down and chews her cud exactly after the fashion of a healthy, happy American girl chewing gum. However, he said, in spite of this ease and comfort, no one wants to be a cow. We had much rather have a few troubles and be human.

He then made the statement that if but one sex could be educated, it should be the women, for women are obliged to spend much more time alone than the men.

He named four great "sluices" from which happiness may be easily obtained, since they pour culture and education into the mind from innumerable sources. The first of these is music. Music, he said, is open to everyone as a means to culture and happiness, for anyone who can hear can be musical, and can thoroughly enjoy classical music by cultivating a taste for it. The second and third sources are art and nature. Culture from great paintings and sculptures, and from nature are easily and cheaply obtained, yet are of true value in the search for happiness.

The last source the "book-slucice" is Professor

Phelps's favorite path to happiness. He said that he had always had a craving for books, and, since he believes that no matter what we want, we may have it, if we want it badly enough, he now has five thousand volumes in one room of his home, and he has a stream of books, at the rate of about ten a week, coming into his home, costing him nothing. "I can't stop them," he declared.

He divided books into two classes. Books of mathematics and science, and books of literature. He pointed out a unique difference between the two kinds, placing books of science as the greatest romances ever written, while books of literature are truth, for although they allow differences of opinion, yet they remain beautiful and true to human nature.

He summed up the four sources of culture and education which lead to happiness, and then showed that all of these may be included in a college education.

NEW YORK ALUMNI HOLD ANNUAL BANQUET.

The twenty-second annual business meeting and banquet of the New York Colby Alumni Association was held on the evening of Friday, January 19th, at the Sherman Square Hotel, New York City. There were thirty-three Colby men present, which is just one short of the record number for the annual banquet. President Roberts was present and brought with him Lieutenant A. Raymond Rogers of the present student body.

President William Winter Drew, '02, presided, and opened the post-prandial exercises by relating some of the experiences which he had had during his college course. He then called on R. H. Bowen, '14, who made the reports of secretary and treasurer for the year just closed. After the regular business had been concluded, the toastmaster called on a number of speakers, whom he introduced in the manner traditional among toastmasters,—a manner which proves amusing, if not altogether truthful. A. Raymond Rogers, '17, was the first speaker, and he gave those present a glimpse of campus life at Colby today. He was followed by R. O. Metcalf, '86, E. F. Stevens, '89, P. L. Thome, '06, D. G. Munson, '92, Hon. Harrington Putnam, '70, H. E. Pratt, '02, F. H. Edmunds, '85, and A. H. Bickmore, '93. President A. J. Roberts rounded out the list of speakers. Further plans for the raising of the $500,000 endowment fund were considered, and A. H. Bickmore appointed a committee to cooperate with him in an active campaign for raising funds in New York City.

The officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, W. W. Drew, '02; vice-president, George A. Marsh, '01; secretary and treasurer, E. B. Winslow, '04.

Those present beside the speakers whose names have been given, were F. H. Hanson, '83, C. S. Estes, '84, W. L. Soule, '90, G. P. Fall, '92, D. J. Gallert, '93, W. H. Holmes, '97, W. G. Hooke, '00, G. A. Marsh, '01, L. P. Knapp, '03, E. B. Winslow, '04, R. F. Brunel, '05, A. I. Lockhart, '05, B. A. Gooch, '06, M. W. Crowell, '10, C. R. Choate, '10, J. E. May, '12, G. W. Perry, '14, D. W. Ashley, '15, L. I. Thayer, '16, N. Weg, ex-'17, and P. Buhler, ex-'18.

ROBERT H. BOWEN, '14,
Secretary-treasurer.

REGARDING THE TAFT LECTURE.

Student tickets for the Taft lecture, to be given at the City Opera House on the evening of February 14th for the benefit of the student endowment fund, will be put on sale probably tomorrow morning. The price of admission for the general public will be a dollar a seat, but a special price of fifty cents a seat will be offered to the students of the college. A reservation of 450 balcony seats has been made for the student body, and it is hoped that the students will take advantage of this offer as soon as possible so as to allow the committee time to dispose of any seats that will not be needed in this reservation.

It should be made clear that the earlier plan of having the students take three tickets apiece has been abandoned, and that they will now be expected to take only one ticket, regardless of their former pledges. Such tickets will not be exchangeable, however.

Governor Carl E. Milliken has assured the committee that he will be present at the afternoon reception of the ex-president, and will, if possible, remain for the evening address. Other prominent men have signified their intention of being present. Already the call for tickets from those outside the college gives the committee every reason to expect a packed house to greet Mr. Taft on the night of the 14th.

Besides the reception to be held in Chemical Hall on the arrival of Mr. Taft, to which those holding tickets are invited, arrangements are under way for a second reception to be given at Foss Hall between the hours of 5 and 6, whereby the ladies holding tickets will have an opportunity of meeting Mr. Taft.

INTERCOLLEGIATE DEBATERS CHOSEN.

The trials for the Colby-Bates-Maine debate were held last Wednesday afternoon. On Saturday morning the decision of the judges was announced, the following men being chosen: C. B. Flanders, '17, F. A. Pottle, '17, H. L. Newman, '18, N. D. Lattin, '18, H. S. Pratt, '17, and J. F. Choate, '19. The alternates chosen are R. S. Owen, '20, and Earle Tyler, '19.

With a nucleus of four veterans, prospects look bright for a successful season in debating. Flanders, with a record of two former seasons as a member of the intercollegiate team, has always proved himself a formidable debater. Pottle, Newman, and Lattin, all members of last year's intercollegiate and Murray Prize debating teams, have shown themselves efficient in the art. The two new additions, Pratt and Choate, both excellent speakers, should complete two well-rounded teams. The date set for the debate is March 9, 1917.

CARROLL B. FLANDERS, '17,
Intercollegiate Debater for Third Consecutive Year.

APPRECIATION.

We must indeed compliment President Roberts upon his success in increasing the effectiveness and enjoyment of the chapel services. Even though the continued non-appearance of the new song books prevents the singing from attaining its possibilities, and though the disuse of the organ is unfortunate, yet there is no doubt that much better spirit is being shown by the student body in every phase of the exercises. Especially when the front seats are filled is the service inspiring and a real power in the college. Too much cannot be said in praise of the instrumental trio and its continued unselfish contribution. The rapt attention of every person in the room whenever the trio plays is a distinct tribute to the musicians. The vocal music also affords a pleasing variation. The marked improvement in the chapel services and the instant response of the student body is a cause for gratification to everyone who loves Colby. The appreciation of all is due President Roberts and the others who are assisting in the new order of things.

TAFT LECTURE.

The coming Taft lecture offers a splendid way for every Colby student to display his college loyalty. The purpose of the lecture is primarily to raise money toward the student endowment fund. Truly, a worthy cause! The lecturer is a man of national repute, an authority on international law, and a speaker in great demand. Certainly, a rare treat! The price of admission for students is only fifty cents. Cheap enough! Let every student plan to attend the lecture, then. Your support is needed to make it a success and to assure the success of the endowment fund in the future.

My Dear Mr. Record:

I wish to express to you as the editor of the "Colby Echo" my hearty endorsement of what appeared in the January 10th issue, relative to the musical clubs. As I understand the situation, the musical clubs are largely a student organization with practically no supervision from the faculty, unless some particular member happens to come under its attention because of scholastic standing. My experience as leader of the Glee Club for two years while in college leads me to believe that unless the conditions have changed this organization is altogether too loosely formed and that as far as its business management is concerned it would be of no little assistance if some member of the faculty with business experience could be detailed to give general supervision to the financial arrangements of the musical clubs. If such supervision is not already being given, it might preclude the possibility of an occurrence similar to that which you outlined in connection with the Christmas trip.

I also agree with you that the musical clubs do not take their proper place in the life of the college at Waterville. I have always felt that a well rendered program by a group of representative students is of no little assistance to the college as an advertising medium when away from Waterville, but the clubs should take the opportunity of being more in evidence in Waterville. In many colleges it is the practice for the Glee Club to give a concert at Commencement time, which has its regular place in the Commencement program. Many of our alumni never have the opportunity of hearing the Glee Club, and a concert at this time would be very helpful in adding to the social interest of the Commencement program and, as President of the Alumni Association, I believe it would be a distinct advantage if such a concert could be arranged.

If the members of the musical clubs are so disposed, I am sure that a place in the program could be given for a concert during the Commencement exercises of 1917.

Very truly yours,
 REX W. DODGE,
 President Alumni Association.

LEXINGTON'S CHALLENGE TO COLLEGE STUDENTS.

Lexington—famous art thou—but this time beyond the Alleghenies. In this Kentucky city celebrated for its cattle, blue grass, women, and whiskey was held December 28, 29, 30, and 31 the most far reaching convention of its kind ever held in the United States.

That the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association is a permanent organization, at least, until its mission is accomplished was abundantly manifested by this gathering.

Collegians from Maine to California found a royal welcome in this hospitable city—the birthplace of Henry Clay. Among the delegates were leaders in general activities of their colleges and universities, workers in Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. and social service—all stirred by an indomitable purpose to take up the fight in their respective communities.

The challenge of the convention came from the many needs in our American and college life. William Jennings Bryan, the leading speaker of the convention, made a ringing appeal for the cooperation of the college students of the country in pledging their respective parties to nation-wide prohibition as a striking feature in their respective platforms. "Young men and women," rolled out the voice of the silver tongued orator, "forget yourselves and attach yourselves to a great cause. Among the great causes of this generation, the greatest is the crusade against the saloon, against alcohol, the greatest enemy mankind has today."

Another challenge came in the form of the social effects of the saloon upon the great cities of our country. Rev. Elmer L. Williams, "The fighting parson of Chicago," in telling of his experiences in the heart of a great city, sounded an appeal which only the bravest of college men dare answer.

The economic and scientific aspects were discussed by such men as Dr. Winfield Scott Hall, Ex-Gov. Boss of Massachusetts, Charles Stelyle, and others of equal prominence. All agreed that the liquor business presents a grave challenge from the standpoint of economics and scientific investigation.

One of the underlying appeals of the convention and one of the most immediate practical value to college men was the movement for clean athletics and college life. Such men as Reiman, the University of Michigan all-American tackle, and others who stand high in college circles, brought to the attention of the college world this great and far reaching crusade for a more wholesome college life.

The whole convention appeal may be summed up in the words of this popular convention chorus:

"Tramp, tramp, tramp, the states are marching,
 One by one to victory;
 But we will not cease the fight
 Till the Nation all is white,
 So we'll wage it from Niagara to the sea."

Such appeals, especially in the face of the fact that we are now the leading liquor consuming nation in the world presents a virile challenge to every red blooded American.

Let us look at some of the measures proposed at this convention for answering this appeal.

The following pledge was suggested and made a part of the life program of practically every delegate: "It is my purpose, God helping me, from this hour forth in whatever calling engaged, to give the prohibition of the liquor traffic a primary place in my life's program."

A number of delegates at the call of Dan Poling ascended the platform and volunteered for life service in the temperance reform movement.

A proposal was initiated by the I. P. A. for the uniting of the temperance forces of the country into a unit and the convention pledged 5000 college men to take an active part in the next National campaign and in the state campaigns. The union thus formed and the added impetus of the college men would insure at least a majority in Congress pledged to National prohibition and would force the political parties to stop parleying with the question. Bryan puts it this way, "You will find that the politicians will dodge while dodging is good, but the same instinct of self-preservation that makes them dodge will make them toe the mark when they find that toeing the mark proves profitable."

Another Bryanism runs this way, "If a tiger was after my boy, the blinder the tiger, the safer my boy." The tiger is our challenge as college students and it is our duty as loyal, patriotic citizens not only to put out his eyes but to put him out of business.

HERBERT L. NEWMAN,
 Colby Delegate.

BENEFIT ENTERTAINMENT AT FOSS HALL.

Miss Exerene Flood has kindly offered to give an evening's entertainment at Foss Hall Saturday night for the benefit of the student endowment fund. She will read selections from the play, "The Rivals." Miss Flood is a reader of charm and finish, and deserves a large audience on that night. The price of admission is only fifteen cents. The college trio will furnish music for the occasion.

PROM COMMITTEE SELECTS PROGRAMS.

The Junior Prom Committee, following up its recent plans, has contracted with the Charles H. Elliott Co., of Philadelphia, for its dance programs and invitations. The program will be of dark gray leather and in the form of a card case. On the inside will be the inscription "Colby Junior Prom—1918." The outside will be decorated by the college seal. The invitations are simple and very much like those of last year.

TRACK RELATIONS DISCUSSED.

A meeting of the Maine Intercollegiate Athletic Association was held at the Elmwood Hotel Saturday afternoon. Dr. G. F. Parmenter and Graduate-Manager Ervin represented Colby; Dr. Whittier, Bowdoin; Dr. Young, University of Maine; and Professor Pomeroy and Mr. Kennedy, Bates.

The matter of changing the present constitution so that track relations should be similar to those existing in baseball and football was debated. The solution of this problem resolved itself into two propositions which will be presented to the student bodies of the respective colleges for approval at a later date.

CAMPUS CHAT

No ECHO next week!

A. B. Crossman, '17, was elected to membership in the chemical society, Friday night.

In one of the fastest basketball games of the season, the Colby Comets lost to M. C. I., Saturday evening, at Pittsfield, by the score of 34-25. The Comets played a fine passing game and were strong on defensive team play, but they could not hold their heavy opponents from scoring. The Comets were: Lowery, rg, rf.; Fahey, lg; Marshall, c; D. Smith, rf; R. Smith, lf; Dunnack, lf.

Professor Cheney of Springfield Training School spoke at chapel this morning, upon Y. M. C. A. work. He mentioned the inherent strength of the organization as shown by its remarkable growth. Rapidly outlining the tremendous work which is being accomplished, he closed his speech by explaining the need of men for the work and the type of men wanted.

Murray Friedman has gotten his fur-lined gloves back. It is rumored that he wears a cap, sometimes, but the report has not been confirmed as we go to press.

Professor Black attended the presentation of "Very Good Eddie," Monday night. He was seated in the "student section"!

Dramatic Club.

Hugh A. Smith, '19, has succeeded A. H. Patterson, '18, on the cast of "Higbee of Harvard."

The members of the club are undergoing a period of intensive training in preparation for a trip after mid-year.

Y. M. C. A.

Seven delegates from Colby attended the State Preparatory School Conference at Bath, Jan. 19, 20, 21. They acted as assistant leaders, each having charge of a group of boys. They report great interest among the "prep" schools, and a large amount of work accomplished at the conference. The delegates were: C. A. Rollins, '17, T. B. Madson, '17, J. G. Perry, '18, F. D. Blanchard, '19, E. S. McCormack, '19, C. M. Tracy, '18, and J. O. Johnson, '20.

The Social Service Committee held a class, Monday evening. There were fifteen foreigners present, over twice as many as were there the week before.

STUDENT COUNCIL.

A meeting of the Student Council was held, last Thursday, the primary object of which was to appoint a committee to interview President Roberts with regard to improving facilities for indoor practice of sports in the gymnasium. Charles B. Price, '17, was elected as the non-fraternity member of the council. John Everett, '17, was elected vice-president and Lester Young, '17, secretary. It was voted that the secretary should post a notice of meetings thirty-six hours before the time set. A committee was also appointed to draw up a constitution for the council.

D. K. E.

Buster Holt, '15, who is coach of the Clinton High School basketball five, stopped at the Deke House after a Clinton victory over Winslow High School, Saturday evening.

Maurice Ingraham, '17, is having an attack of grip.

The Colby Trio gave an excellent program at the Oak Grove Seminary, Thursday evening. The occasion was a reception by the seniors to the juniors.

Z. P.

Raymond Rogers, '17, returned from New York, yesterday, where he was invited to speak at the New York Alumni dinner. Mr. Rogers reported a very enthusiastic banquet which was a success in every way.

The Woman's League will give an entertainment in Foss Hall Gymnasium on Saturday evening, January 27, for the benefit of the Endowment Fund. Miss Exerene Flood has kindly offered her services and will read "The Rivals," and an excellent musical program is also being arranged. The evening's entertainment promises to be of a very high order, and will be well worth the nominal admission fee which is to be charged. All of the men and women of the college are cordially invited to be present.

A mandolin club was recently organized by the members of the women's division. Myra Cross, '17, was chosen as leader. The pianist will be elected later. Rehearsals are to begin directly after mid-years, and all things point to a very promising musical club.
