RESOLUTIONS

(Sent to President Wilson by the Students of Colby College.)

Whereas, The United States is facing one of the greatest crises in its history, because of the unprecedented policy of maritime destruction interfering with the rights of American citizens upon the high seas, which policy Germany proposes to carry out; and,

Whereas, The President of the United States needs the unqualified support of every true American; therefore,

Be it resolved: That the student body of Colby College heartily endorse President Wilson's attitude, and pledge to him their loyal support in whatever course he may follow "for the protection of our seamen and our people in the prosecution of their peaceful and legitimate errands on the high seas."

WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT BRINGS STIRRING MESSAGE.

Large Audience Hears Great Speech.

"If we must take a part in world affairs, let us be the leader," said Ex-president Taft in his address on "Our World Relationships," delivered before an audience of 1100 people in the Opera House, Wednesday evening.

Mr. Taft was introduced by Judge Leslie C. Cornish, as a man who is everywhere loved and honored as a true American. (Mr. Taft, after some remarks concerning Maine weather and recollections of his stay at Colby, last year, said that he was to treat his subject with reference to two principles first laid down by Washington: First, that we should have reasonable military preparation; and, secondly, that we should improve the advantage of our isolation by keeping out of European troubles. He said that we have observed the latter, but failed to observe the former. Mr. Taft then went on to enumerate our possessions and to make clear our obligations to these and to other countries whose integrity we have recognized. Our liability in the case of Cuba, for instance, is greater than if we actually owned it. He spoke briefly on the dangers liable to arise from our present attitude toward the immigration of Chinese and Japanese into this country.

Mexico, he referred to as an "international nuisance." While we would be entirely justified in entering Mexico, success would be realized only at a great cost in money and human lives. Judging from our experience in the Philippines, 250,000 troops would be required and these would need to be skilled in guerrilla warfare. Every town would have to be garrisoned and the bandits gradually crushed.

He next referred to the Monroe Doctrine and its effect on our world relationships. He said, "For my part, I do not think that this policy should be abandoned, since it has been the means of keeping European nations out of the Americas. It is better to let the countries on this side of the Atlantic work out their own salvation. Moreover, the Monroe Doctrine has been observed 98 years without a shot being fired."

Nevertheless, Mr. Taft compared our present condition, in consideration of our many outlying possessions, to that of a farmer who has a large amount of hay cut when a storm threatens. "In the case of a world storm we have a lot of hay out."

"Isn't it our duty to take away the temptation by making war impossible through military preparations?"

Mr. Taft attributes our present lack of preparation to the policy of Jefferson who cut down the army and navy believing that the country could depend on popular response in time of need. He went on with a resume of our wars and their fortunate results, considering our state of preparation. He here brought in a quotation from Bismark, "The Lord intervenes in favor of children, drunken men, and the United States."

He said that under normal conditions Germany could land on our shores 600,000 men in six weeks. Our only defense from the possibility of such invasion would be a navy superior to theirs. Such a navy will be the outcome of the recent appropriations by Congress.

"We ought to insist that there be universal preparation. Young men should have at least one year of military training," declared Mr. Taft. He criticized the modern tendency which is making young men weak through lack of discipline.

In summing up this part of his address, he said, "We can no longer hope to keep out of world affairs. Therefore, if we must take part in them, let us be the leader. We are potentially the most powerful nation in the world. We are by location logically neutral. Let us prepare to take our rightful place and to perform the greatest possible service to the world."

He then outlined the proposed "League to Enforce Peace," the object of which is to enforce arbitration before war is begun. Its proposed stipulations are these: First, all questions of such a nature that they can be settled by law are to be settled by a court formed for this purpose. Second, all questions which cannot be settled in this way are to be settled by arbitration or conciliation. If any nation of the league begins hostilities before decision has been reached by such means, the whole force of the league shall be brought to bear on it to punish the offender. If nations knew that any unwise or hasty act would bring such overwhelming force against them, the need of such drastic measures would be unlikely.

He explained what true arbitration means, not a "heads I win, tails you lose proposition," but transaction with the possible need of sacrifice for common good.

"From selfish motives alone, we should enter such a league, but there is, too, a higher duty in obedience to which we should enter. God has showered blessings upon this country. He has given us immense power. We ought to do our share to insure peace."

In closing, Mr. Taft told the story of a conversation between two members of the committee which has in charge this proposed plan. One man said to another: "Would you be willing to lose your son in a controversy between Austria and Servia in which we have no interest, but into which we should be drawn if we should enter this peace league." The answer was: "If lives offered up in this way could prevent world-wide suffering, such as is in Europe today, they could not be offered in a better cause."

GENIAL EX-PRESIDENT SPENDS BUSY DAY AT COLBY.

When the 1.27 train from Boston stopped a hundred yards below the station yesterday noon, everyone realized the trouble. The railroad men claimed that a mishap to the up-station water-tank necessitated the pause, but the crowd that had gathered knew that the presence of Judge William Howard Taft on the train made the process of rounding the curve a slow one. When the Pullmans finally reached the lower end of the platform, President Roberts was waiting with an expectant air. After the porter had adjusted his little stool, Judge Taft descended from the car, preceded by his friend, Mr. F. M. Cramm. Prexy took their bags and handed the men into a waiting carriage, while the crowd of students and townspeople clapped joyously.

Judge Taft was driven to the Elmwood, and after an hour's rest, proceeded to Foss Hall, where a reception was given him. In the receiving line were Mrs. A. J. Roberts, Judge Taft, Mrs. Leslie C. Cornish, and Dean Mary C. Cooper. The ladies of the faculty, the members of the women's division of the college and several ladies from the town were presented to the judge by the student ushers.

At four o'clock, Prexy called and took his visitor to the College Library, where another reception was tendered him. President Roberts and Judge Taft were assisted in receiving by Judge Leslie C. Cornish, the Chairman of the Board of Trustees. The faculty and the men students as well as many townspeople were presented to the guest of the college. Hugh S. Pratt, '17, the president of the Student Endowment Fund Committee, assisted by his corps of ushers kept things moving. Judge Taft delighted everyone by sitting on the edge of a table and cracking jokes with Prexy and Judge Cornish in the intervals when the visitors were few. Many of the students stopped for a chat, with the resulting opinion that an ex-president can be human, after all,—and very human, at that.

In the early evening, President and Mrs. Roberts entertained the judge at their home. The other dinner guests were Judge and Mrs. Leslie C. Cornish, '75, and Rex W. Dodge, '06, representing the trustees, Dr. and Mrs. J. William Black, representing the faculty, and Dr. and Mrs. F. C. Thayer and Mr. F. M. Cramm, personal friends of the ex-president.

Reports that Judge Taft was to leave on the famous "ten o'clock," Wednesday evening, brought a number of students to the station. The appearance of Prexy on the scene strengthened the supposition, but the Pullman conductor reported that no reservation had been made and the Maine Central decided not to wait, so the train went to Boston, Taft-less.

After spending the night at the Elmwood with Mr. Cramm, the ex-president left on the 8.57 train, this morning, on his way to Indianapolis to deliver a lecture there.

COLBY MEN DISPLAY PATRIOTIC SPIRIT AT LINCOLN NIGHT RALLY.

Resolution Expressing Loyalty Sent to President Wilson.

Patriotism and the spirit of '61 dominated the rally held last Monday night in the chapel. A large number of students and faculty members were present, full of enthusiasm and ready to give their all for the honor and glory of our country. There was not the spirit of a football rally; but, from the first note of the "Star Spangled Banner" to the last one of "America," there was that of the sentiment so well expressed by Lieutenant Rogers: "America, may she always be right, but, right or wrong, my country!"

President Roberts was the first speaker introduced by Chairman Eddie Cawley. He brought out forcefully the fact that, while even in times of peace we should be proud to gather at a patriotic rally on the birthday of Abraham Lincoln, we should be doubly eager to gather there in this time of trouble, when we are facing actual war. He said that our United States has proved herself a peaceful country, and a protector of the oppressed; but it is justifiable to declare war in self-defence, or in defence of a weaker neighbor. It is the former that we may be obliged to do, in spite of the sincere efforts of our worthy President. In closing, he said, "If war comes, it is an inevitable war, and I am sure that Colby men will not be found wanting in the defence of our country."

Doctor Towne was then introduced as "the best doctor, and the best 'feller' on the border." He told of the intense interest and patriotism which proved the true value of the National Guard, in spite of the appellation, "tin soldiers," given them on the start. "Our nation is all army," he said. "Those that enlist are the active militia, those that are afraid to do so, are the reserve militia." Then he mentioned the superb spirit of patriotism shown by the Colby boys of '61, and expressed his hope and belief that we of the present would be just as loyal to our president and our country.

Lieutenant A. Raymond Rogers, '17, had for his subject, "Loyalty." He emphasized the need of discipline. "The spirit of loyalty is essential, but discipline increases efficiency, and to train our 18,000,000 available men in a day, or a week, or a month is impossible." He declared that now is the time to prepare ourselves for service to our country. "It is here at Colby, while we still have opportunity, that we should become disciplined to serve."

After the speeches, Chairman Cawley, as president of the student council read the resolution formulated by that body. It was then unanimously voted that the resolution, expressive of the sentiment of Colby men, be sent at once to President Wilson.

[The resolution appears upon the cover of this issue.—Editor.]

MUSICAL CLUBS PLAY TO CAPACITY HOUSES.

The combined musical clubs returned last Saturday from their trip down the Maine coast. The weather, during the trip, was ideal—perfect concert weather, and the citizens of the various towns where the clubs appeared took advantage of this fact.

On Tuesday, February 6, the musical clubs started for Belfast, arriving there in ample time to become acclimated to the salt air and to listen to tales of the sea, including a rumor that there was a German coaling schooner out in the harbor. The concert was given without a slip, although the audience was much amused at several of the younger members, who had not entirely mastered the art of sitting down in full-dress suits. A dance, which added much to the pleasure of the evening, was given after the concert.

The following day, at noon, the troop left for Rockport, via Camden, on the steamer "Islesboro." A few of the boys, more or less confined to the land all of their lives, were quite overcome by the greatness and magnificence of Penobscot Bay—or, was it the continual rolling of the sea? However, no one was disappointed when the boat docked at Camden. The concert at Rockport, which is a few miles out of Camden, was a decided success. Many people remarked that last year's clubs "couldn't hold a candle to those of this year." There was a dance after this performance, also.

Thursday saw the "bunch" on the "Governor Bodwell" headed toward Vinalhaven, an island out in the bay. Although the day was foggy, the beauty of the Maine coast lost none of its splendor. At about eight bells (which, according to the skipper, means four o'clock) the trip was completed. "Pus" Soule, a former Colby football captain and principal of the Vinalhaven high school, saw that all the members were well entertained. Nearly seven hundred people "turned out" for this concert; and, by the applause and the favorable comment after the performance, Caruso himself would have been the least bit "puffed up." The concert at Vinalhaven was, perhaps, the most appreciated one of the trip. The people on this island seem to enjoy the best in music.

The return trip landed the clubs in Brooks, Friday afternoon. Lester H. Shibbes, '14, principal of the high school there, had prepared amply for the boys. The concert and the dance were well attended, an appreciative audience greeting the clubs and soloists.

The success of the trip gives assurance that the clubs are in fine trim and capable of giving an unusually high class performance. The glee club was in good form, the orchestra played excellently, the mandolin club put all kinds of "pep" into the program, the quartet sang in good ensemble, and the trio and soloists acquitted themselves nobly. Particular mention should be made of Winthrop L. Webb, '17, and R. O. Brinkman, '20, vocal soloists, and of J. Gleason Perry, '18, and Robert Cary, '19, who appeared as readers. Mr. Perry, who read for the first time, added much to the interest of the program, appearing in three of the performances. Mr. Cary showed his ability as an excellent reader (and acrobat) at Brooks. Mr. Lattin, violin soloist, played with his usual dash and mastery.

DELTA UPSILON HOLDS SECOND DANCE.

The second informal dance, under the auspices of the Colby Chapter of Delta Upsilon, was held at the new Elks' Hall, Tuesday evening, Feb. 13. The escutcheon of the fraternity shed a glow of good cheer over the scene, while the swaying couples glided around the hall to the strains of the excellent music furnished by Whiting and Cary. Dr. and Mrs. Black were the patrons and Dean Cooper served as special chaperon to the Foss Hall girls.

The invited guests were: Misses Lord, Tozier, G. Fletcher, E. Murray, Getchell, Clarkin, Vincent, A. Murray, Sturtevant, Lambert, Loane, Greene, Matthews, Smith, Titcomb, Blackwell, H. Fletcher, Kelliher, Norton, Washburn, Barton, Proudman, White, Sweetser, McGann, Wilkins, Sprague, Moulton, Soper, R. Harvey, Baxter, D. Harvey.

SUCCESS OF LECTURE.

Much credit is due Professor Libby and the Student Endowment Fund Committee for the excellent success of the lecture, last evening. Not only was the speaker well chosen, but his coming was very timely, adding greatly to the interest of the occasion. The large audience evidenced the unceasing endeavor of those in charge of the affair and insured a good sum for the Endowment Fund. The present method for giving the students a part in raising money for the college, while it brings no undue burden, gives the same pleasure and profit. Such a lecture as William Howard Taft gave last evening cannot but have an important practical and educational value.

COLBY PATRIOTISM.

While we still hope that the misfortune of war may not be necessary, if war does come and men are called to defend the rights and honor of our country, the attitude taken at the rally, last Monday night, shows that Colby men are ready to do their part. They will not be found wanting in loyalty and courage. The spirit of patriotism and sacrifice of Colby men of the past will burn again in the breasts of Colby men of the present. Once more, if necessary, the doors of the college will close, while Colby boys rally to the defence of their country.

MILITARY TRAINING.

The question of military drill here in college, as suggested by Chairman Cawley at the rally, Monday night, is worthy of more than passing consideration. That, in the event of war, Colby men may not be in utter ignorance of military discipline is reason enough for such training. This phase of the question was well brought out by Lieutenant Rogers at the rally. But, even if there were no thought of war, military training would be a fine thing. There is no doubt but that such discipline is beneficial to college men. We are fortunate in having an experienced army officer in our midst, so that the new plan could be easily put into effect. Do the men want it? The action must come from the students, themselves. After deliberation, is the spirit shown at the rally to have no practical results, or will Colby men begin now to prepare themselves in a way to make their loyalty count for the most?

COMMUNICATION.

To the Editor of the Echo:

As a sincere lover of Colby with her fine traditions of the past and her high ideals for future development, I call the following matters to your attention. I write this in no spirit of unjust criticism, but in an honest endeavor to call attention to some matters which can easily be remedied and by which the future of our college will be benefited. I feel sure that in so doing I represent the common sentiment of the student body.

If a college is to turn out men and women who will be able to make a success in life, it must prepare them to compete with the world as it is today. Outside of the science and the economics departments, Colby is failing to do this. It is especially lacking in the department of History. At present, only two courses are offered: one in so-called European History, which treats mainly of the Holy Roman Empire and the early Franks, and makes no attempt to give even a bare outline of events after the Reformation, and the other in so-called American History, which extends only through the formation of the Union, in 1789, and should more properly be named Colonial History. These courses, excellent as far as they go, are inadequate for the needs of college graduates. There is a desperate need for a course in Contemporary History and Politics, or, if that is not possible at present, for a rearrangement of the present courses, so that a student can get some basis for study of recent events in the world.

A similar fault is noticed in the present courses in English. Broad subjects like the English Novel, the Drama, and American Literature are crowded into a half year each; and, since it is necessary to lay a foundation in the works of standard authors, we are left hopelessly in the dark as to present-day literature. The same courses could have been given a generation ago, so far as modern developments are concerned. Each of these courses is deserving of a full year's study, at the least, and the curriculum should be so arranged that they may receive proper attention. To do this, it would be necessary to have an additional instructor, but here is a crying need. In the past, Colby has made every endeavor to keep abreast of modern conditions. Had it not done so, it could scarcely have become the college it is today. I feel sure that some steps will soon be taken toward the extending of these courses and that, in a short time, we shall be able to point to our up-to-date curriculum with honest pride.

SMITH UNANIMOUSLY ELECTED BASEBALL CAPTAIN.

Ralph N. Smith, '17, three years 'varsity first baseman, was unanimously elected captain of baseball at a meeting of the "C" men, Tuesday afternoon. Smith came here from Worcester Classical High School and has played a star game at the initial sack for three years. The choice is a popular one, and it is believed that the new captain will make a fine leader. He is a member of the D. K. E. fraternity.

EXCUSE OFFICE CHANGES HANDS.

Professor Crowell is taking charge of the excuse office for the present, while Dr. Little, who has conducted the office for four years and a half, takes a well deserved vacation from this responsibility.

During the time Dr. Little has been connected with the office, he has built up an exceptionally efficient system of excuses, establishing it as an institution of the college, and, by his eminent fairness in performing this delicate duty, he has won the respect and appreciation of the students and faculty.

Now, however, he wishes a rest, for the duties of the excuse office are both confining and annoying. Consequently, Professor Crowell will take charge until next fall, when Dr. Little will resume his task.

CAMPUS CHAT

In order to include a report of Ex-president Taft, this issue of the ECHO was purposely delayed one day.

It was an inspiring sight to see practically every student in college grouped in the balcony, last night.

The musical clubs will give a concert at Fairfield, next Thursday night, under the auspices of Lawrence high school.

Clifton Tracy, '18, was visited by his father and brother, last Thursday and Friday.

Monday is no longer a day for seeking grace via the excuse office. This department will now be open for business at the usual hours on Wednesday and Saturday only.

The class in Rhetoric 7, which is making a study of modern poets as a part of the work of the semester, met in the parlor of the C. C. House, this morning, to study the musical qualities of poems rendered by the Victrola.

FACULTY.

Professor Chester gave a brief talk at the Railroad Y. M. C. A., Friday evening. His subject was "Inheritance."

Professor Chipman has been called to his home by the death of his grandmother.

Professor Tolman is to speak at the Railroad Y. M. C. A., Sunday afternoon at 3.30.

Professor Libby spoke in Augusta, Sunday, on the subject, "Abraham Lincoln."

Y. M. C. A.

Rev. Isaac LaFleur addressed the Y. M. C. A., Tuesday night, on the subject, "The College Man's Opportunities."

Next week, the meeting will be conducted by four of our leading seniors, "Joe Deasy, "Ben" Flanders, Mark Thompson, and Hugh Pratt. The subject will be, "What I think of the Y. M. C. A. and why."

Chapel.

President Roberts once more brought up the subject of "cribbing," in chapel, yesterday morning. This time, however, the cheating had not been in examinations, but on outside work. In consideration of the fact that the college rules against cribbing as stated by the faculty, last year, are literally rules applying only to quizzes and examinations, the offender in the present case is simply given a warning. But from this time forth, any student found guilty of cheating in any form, including the copying of notebooks and themes, will be immediately expelled from the college.

D. K. E.

Gleason Perry, '18, has a slight attack of grip.

Vern Tooker, '10, has opened up a trunk of confectionery for public sale. The proprietor announces a reward for any information leading to the detection of the man or men who deposited his "store," last week, once in the attic, once in the cellar, and twice on the roof.

Bob Matthews, '18, has been out of college for several days with a bad cold.

D. U.

J. H. Dunn, '18, was removed to the Sisters' Hospital, Saturday, with a bad attack of grip.

W. H. Erbb, '17, spent Sunday at his home in Hallowell.

I. D. Love, '19, attended the State Conference of the Y. M. C. A. for younger boys held in Lewiston, last week. He acted as leader of a delegation from the Congregational church.

P. D. T.

Raymond H. Merrill, ex-'19, who is now an accountant in Filene's at Boston, is making an extended visit with friends at the Phi Delta House and about the city. He expects to return to college next fall.

"Husky" Warren, '14, spent Sunday renewing acquaintances about college. At present, he is employed by the American Woolen Company at Old Town, Me.

Martin Weisman, '19, was called to Brooklyn, N. Y., last week, by the N. Y. State Militia of which he is a regular member. He spent a week with his company on guard duty over the Brooklyn bridge until the war scare was over. He is now back at his duties as a student again.

Harry E. Lewin, ex-'19, has returned to college to take up his studies where he left off last year.

Mark Thompson, '17, was away over the week-end on business.

A. T. O.

Everett Bucknam, '20, attended the boys Y. M. C. A. conference at Lewiston, last week.

The A. T. O. basketball team defeated Coburn's quintet, in the Coburn gym, Thursday evening.

Pierce Long, of Boston, visited Robert Dowe, '20, over the week-end.

Robert H. Gallier, '18, is at the Sisters' Hospital, suffering from three broken ribs, the result of a bad fall. Though he had suffered considerable pain for several days, it was not until an x-ray was taken that the extent of this injury was revealed.

C. C.

James I. Wilson, ex-'19, plans to return to college next week. "Jimmie" left at the end of the first semester, last year, on account of ill health, and will continue his studies with the freshman class.

H. W. Goodrich, '18, wrenched his back severely when he fell down the steps at Palmer House, last Saturday night.

Alvin Record of Livermore Falls visited his brother, Wednesday and Thursday.

WOMEN'S DIVISION

Mrs. Enid White of Washington, D. C., inspector of Alpha Delta Pi Sorority, was the guest of Alpha Delta Chapter, last week. She was entertained at Foss Hall, and in this way had an opportunity to review her own college days. Among the social events was a party given by Mrs. Robert Crowell, one of the chapter patronesses. The whole sorority was invited and a most delightful evening was spent. Saturday afternoon, the other three sororities gave a tea for Mrs. White, at which she met the entire Woman's Division.

The Round Robins held their annual reunion at Palmer House on Tuesday evening, February 6. All except two of the original members were present and everyone did justice to the "feed" which was prepared. During the evening a tin shower was given for Hazel Robinson, '17, and Susie Smith, '17, and much laughter was caused by the little verses which accompanied each gift. Those present were, Hazel Robinson, '17, Susie Smith, '17, Hazel Gibbs, '17, Annie Treworgy, '17, Irma Ross, '17, Myrtle Aldrich, '17, Lillian Tuttle, '17, Iola Haskell, '17, and Ernestine Peabody, '19.
