THE ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION DRIVE

The Athletic Association is about to start a big drive to raise money to wipe out the debt under which the association now labors, and to raise money for the support of the baseball team the coming spring. Because of the war conditions which have prevailed the past two years the association has been unable to keep out of debt, and, according to Nourse, '19, president of the Athletic Association, who spoke to the student body in chapel Friday, now that we are back to pre-war conditions, the Athletic Association must again be placed on a paying basis, especially if the college is to boast a winning baseball team this spring.

The drive for money will last until the first of February, taking the form of class competition, and some keen rivalry may be expected to see which class contributes the most. Representatives will be appointed from each class to look after the campaigns for their respective classes. Other college organizations may also compete.

A list of contributors and the standing of the various classes and organizations will be published in the ECHO, so that those who give will receive due credit.

BASEBALL PROSPECTS.

With seven letter men from the championship baseball team of last year back, with the probable return of another letter man, and with several fine prospects in the freshman class, the chances appear bright for one of the best baseball teams, this spring, that ever represented Colby on the diamond.

The seven letter who returned are Bucknam, pitcher, Marshall, first base, Nourse and Taylor, second base, Fraas, short stop, Heyes, third base, and Pulsifer, outfield. The chances for the return of "Mickey" Driscoll, captain-elect, are good. Driscoll is now in the service, but hopes for an early discharge. Should he return, the pitching staff and infield of last year will remain intact, a thing that seldom occurs on a college team. With the experience of playing together last year, this infield should be a remarkably well oiled machine.

No impression should be given out, however, that there will be no competition in the infield, as some of the new prospects will make the veterans hustle if they would hold down their old positions. Among these newcomers are Stearns, formerly of New London, Conn.; White, from Lisbon Falls; Sullivan from Winthrop, Mass.; Currier from Colby Academy; Carter, from Maine Central Institute; and Grant from Houlton. All these men come with the reputation of being fast players.

Carsonson, from Winthrop High School, Mass., a southpaw and all-interscholastic player, will be a valuable man on the pitching staff, should he make good. The box was the weak spot last year. Since Bucknam was our only first string pitcher, all the work was piled upon him.

There are two outfield positions vacant; but between some of the old second team men and those of the new men who do not make the infield, a strong outfield will without a doubt be developed.

"Baggy" Allen, who was so successful last year as a coach, will probably be on the job again this spring. With this combination of stars and coach a team of championship caliber may be looked for.

CENTENNIAL PLANS.

Colby College will celebrate its 100th anniversary in June, 1920; and that the celebration will be the greatest event in the history of the institution is putting it too mildly. Plans are already under way for this centennial and a general committee has been appointed to have charge and to appoint all special committees. This general committee is composed as follows: Herbert C. Libby, '02, chairman; Norman L. Bassett, '91; R. W. Dunn, '68; Woodman Bradbury, '88; and Rex W. Dodge, '06.

It is planned to have the largest gathering of alumni and alumnae present that the old campus has ever seen. Prominent educators from all over the country will undoubtedly be present. One feature planned by the committee is a Centennial History. Two days of the Commencement will probably be devoted entirely to the Centennial Celebration. Undoubtedly it will be a brilliant occasion, and one long to be remembered.

PROFESSOR NELSON ON MEXICO.

Professor Nelson of the faculty who has spent several years in Mexico gave a very interesting talk on the "Mexican Peons," last Friday morning. His speech was in brief as follows:

"The Mexican Peons are very kind, polite, hospitable, patient, but slow, rather careless, gloomy, unhappy, and forgetful about the future. They have been kept in debt so long by their landowners and their church that they are very poor. These Peons own no land and consequently are forced to work for the landowners. The church imposes excessive taxes upon them, so that, at times, they owe for the baptisms and funerals of their grandfathers. Nevertheless, though poverty and illiteracy have kept them suppressed, they know enough to see that they are imposed upon. Villa gets their sympathy because he promises them that he will divide the big estates among them, if he is made ruler of Mexico.

"The Peon wears trousers of thin cotton cloth, one shirt, a straw hat and sandals. In the winter time, he has a serape—a small blanket with hole cut in the middle, which he puts on over his head. This blanket is like the chasuble worn by the Catholic priest at mass. When it is extremely cold, the Peon twists a blanket around his neck in a special way.

"He sleeps on a straw carpet thrown on the bare ground, using the day blanket for covering at night. His house, called adobe, is made of sun dried brick. In the poorest houses there are no windows, and only one door, thus making living conditions unhealthy.

"The bandits we hear about are exceptions. A traveler in Mexico hired a Mexican Peon to carry his trunk from the station to the hotel, which was only two blocks away, for one dollar. By the time the porter had gone one block, he decided to sit down. Then he told the traveler that he needed only fifty cents, and asked for his pay. Besides this, he ordered the traveler to get someone else to carry the trunk the rest of the way.

"The food of the Mexican Peon consists of tortillas. This looks like a pancake, and is made of corn, boiled and crushed, and then baked into cakes. Other foods are chile, beans, and squash. The tortillas is used as a spoon with which to eat the beans. Meat is eaten in very small quantities, and looks as though it were cooked in the sun, rather than over a fire. For fuel, anything that can be picked up on the plains and that will burn is used.

"I have often heard the Mexicans say, when asked concerning their attitude toward the United States, 'We like the Americans but they do not like us,' by which they mean that they are willing to look up to the Americans, but that they resent being looked down upon. It does not matter how humble a person may be, he has pride enough to resent being snobbed."

NOTICE.

Professor Chipman, the librarian, announces that all books now out of the library must be returned at once to be checked up. These books may be taken out again as soon as they are checked.

BOWLING.

It is surprising how lax we have been in getting our interfraternity bowling league underway. We have maintained bowling during the winters of the past few years, and because of inertia and inability to wake up to the fact that we have played the "aviation game" long enough, are we going to drift along and let the season pass by unnoticed? This year, above all years, should each fraternity promote and vindicate interfraternity competition. This is a period of reconstruction work, and, for that reason alone, it behooves us to get started, and to arouse the college spirit. We all realize that bowling is our major activity during the winter months, and that without it, the college will seem lifeless, and like a nice place to spend a quiet Sunday afternoon.

Through the generosity of Mr. Pooler, proprietor of the Casino Bowling Alleys, a cup has been offered to the winning team. Mr. Pooler will make every endeavor to contribute to our welfare. So let us emerge from our state of sluggishness and start the balls rolling.

BOWEN AT CHAPEL.

Lieutenant Robert Hall Bowen, '14, of the aviation corps spoke at chapel Friday morning. His talk which was most interesting dealt with his experiences in the air.

Among other things Lieutenant Bowen said that most of the magazine articles on aviation are written for home consumption and make those who have really gone up laugh. He said that the three great moments of an aviator's life are when he makes his first trip up, when he makes his first "solo" flight, or flies alone for the first time, and when he flies above the clouds. "Flying above the clouds with the blue sky overhead and nothing but clouds below is like sailing over a vast sea with no land in sight. It is a tremendous experience to fly above the clouds."

Lieutenant Bowen while at college was a brilliant student, graduating with extremely high honors. He has also won distinction for his good work in the various training camps where he has been stationed.

SOPHOMORE ELECTION.

The result of the Sophomore class election which took place yesterday was as follows: President, Joel E. Taylor of Skowhegan; vice-president, Ernest A. Adams of Whitinsville, Mass.; secretary, Albert G. Snow of Blue Hill; treasurer, Raymond H. Spinney of South Eliot.

DID YOU KNOW

That Benjamin F. Butler, the famous governor of Massachusetts and Civil War general was a Colby graduate, and that his room was in the northwest corner of the parlors of the Lambda Chi Alpha House?

That Elijah Parrish Lovejoy who was the first martyr to the cause of freedom for the Negro race was a graduate of Colby in the class of 1826?

That Nelson Dingley, whose name was closely connected with the tariff measures (The Dingley Tariff), was for two years a student at Colby?

That the Editor of the Saturday Evening Post, George Horace Lorimer, pursued special courses in English here in '97-'98, and that he is a loyal Colby man?

That the editors of the Bangor Commercial, Bath Times, Waterville Sentinel, Madison Bulletin, Eastport Sentinel, Zion's Advocate, Civic League Record, and Aroostook Pioneer, are all Colby men?

That President Roberts is the chairman for Maine of the National League to Enforce Peace?

That Colby lost 16 men in the European War, several of them giving up their lives on the field of battle?

Y. M. C. A. BULLETIN.

"The majority of our people realize that our soldiers have fought for a New Democracy and are coming back to put their lives squarely into enterprises of unselfishness, and that we shall have good reason to be ashamed if our lives serve less than theirs. But just how to design community programs, what forms of activity to emphasize, what are to be the vital issues concerning Industry, the Home, the School, the Church and the State are the all perplexing problems."

To help answer the above questions, and to endeavor to solve some of these vital problems, the Third Efficiency Conference, under the direction of the State Y. M. C. A. Committee, will be held in Augusta on the dates of January 24, 25 and 26. This year the theme will be "Reconstruction," and for international speakers there will be Raymond Robins of Chicago, just returned as United States representative to Russia, and Fred B. Smith of New York, a leading lecturer at the two previous conferences. Other men on the program are Henry F. Merrill, treasurer of Randall-McArthur Co., of Portland; Charles Towson, industrial welfare expert, of New York; Mr. Henry Israel, editor of "Rural Manhood," of New York; Orlando Frost, of Belfast; and Mr. Robert H. Gardiner, of Gardiner.

The officials of the conference announce that a selected group of college delegates will be entertained free by various alumni of different colleges of Maine. Colby will, of course, have a good delegation at this conference. Any details will be furnished by the president of the Colby Y. M. C. A.

A representative of the State Y. M. C. A. office will be the speaker at the regular Y. M. C. A. meeting in the chapel at 7.30 P. M. on next Tuesday. His name will be announced at chapel on Monday.

Say fellows, who stood by us when we were under quarantine? Who gave us a place where we could get together? Who secured stationery, a victrola, a piano and reading matter for us? The Y. M. C. A., of course! Let's not be pikers, now that the war is over. Drop in at the next meeting and get a surprise. If you like a good "sing," here is the place to get it. Every bit as good as those old company "sings." The new service song books have come, and they are certainly,—well, come in and see if you don't think so.

Last Tuesday night the first meeting of the Y. M. C. A. was held. The speaker of the evening was our new president, "Bill" West, who gave a very interesting talk on "The Power of Ideals."

A meeting of the Y. M. C. A. cabinet was held at the home of Professor Brown on Monday night and plans were laid for the coming year. An every member campaign has been started. Representatives in each fraternity and among the non-fraternity men have membership cards, one of which each man in college is expected to sign. It costs nothing to join, so no one has any excuse for refusing to help make the Y. M. C. A. the liveliest organization in Colby.

THE ORACLE BOARD.

The personnel of the Oracle Board for the present year has been completed and is as follows: Editor-in-chief, Robert E. Sullivan, '19; associate editors, John W. Brush, '20, Curtis H. R. Hatch, '20, Charles E. Vigue, '20, Colby B. Kalloch, '20, Henry L. Bell, '20, Hubert Emery, '20, Harriet L. Sweetsir, '20, Lucy Teague, '20, Alice Hanson, '20, Ruth Wills, '20, Eliza Gurganus, '20; business manager, Harry E. Lewin, '19; art editress, Alice Mathews, '20. The board is already hard at work on the next issue of the Oracle which will appear in June.

Unpaid subscriptions to the War Work Fund should be paid at once to Charles McGann, Ticonic National Bank, the community treasurer.

PRESS OF THE CITY JOB PRINT

Now that Colby has resumed her normal activities, why would it not be a good idea to use a portion of Roberts Hall as a college union? Roberts Hall could be adapted for social gatherings at a very trifling expense. Is it not true that the men of the college "hang together" in cliques and know few men outside of their own immediate associates?

The clique has its peculiar disadvantages which may be properly omitted here. If the men of the college could be brought together in a social way at some suitable place each day, the danger of cliques would be eliminated to a great extent. Roberts Hall, now unused, offers this opportunity.

The equipment and furnishings of the building may be found around the college as for example, a piano, a victrola, tables, chairs, magazines, and newspapers, and possibly a billard table. The latter would make the union attractive to the young men who perhaps frequent pool rooms of questionable repute. Smokers, card parties, and billiard tournaments could be held from time to time and Colby would become acquainted with itself.

We men have given to us a trust that we must keep. The war is over, and the college has gone back to the pre-war basis. A large number of old men now in the service will return to college next year. They will expect to find that those who have remained have kept the college activities alive and thriving. They will expect to see the old Colby spirit stronger than ever.

We must fulfill these expectations. Already the college publications are under way. The Musical Clubs have made a good start. The Y. M. C. A. is very active. Not much, however, has as yet been done concerning dramatics. The Bowling League will soon start. Let us each and every one enter whole-heartedly into these various activities. Particularly, let us support dramatics, an activity which has never been very strong here. Let us show the returning boys that we are true sons of the old college, fully capable of keeping its activities and spirit alive.

The January number of "The Colbiana," the literary publication of the Women's Division, came from the press this past week. This number contains a number of excellent short stories, articles and poems, and is a creditable issue.

The fact that the women at Colby are able to publish a magazine of literary merit prompts us to express regret at the apparent lack of literary effort in the Men's Division. There are many men in college capable of writing well,—why do not these men more often give expression to their ability? It may not and probably is not practicable now to start a literary publication among the men, but the ECHO furnishes a convenient means of publication for any stories or papers of sufficient literary worth for printing. The ECHO will gladly receive contributions of the sort, and, in fact, solicits them. The men should not let the women outdo them in literary effort. Let us do more writing and less talking.

Everyone out and support the Athletic Association drive for money. Prospects this year for one of the best baseball teams ever seen at old Colby are bright. But to have this team the Athletic Association must have money. The association is now in debt. Let everyone work the next two weeks. Show the old Colby spirit. Open your pocketbooks and come across.

The editor repeats his warning of last week. In order to publish the ECHO on time, the material must be in the printer's hands by Thursday, and nothing will be received later than Wednesday night.

A MORAL BALLAD.

There was a lassie here in Maine;
She hailed from old Skowhegan;
She's broken many a heart in twain;
Her name was Katie Wiggin.

She journeyed down to Waterville,
To get an education.
Soon perched on Foss Hall window sill,
She rather sought flirtation.

Oh, why this lover's ogling eye,
These walks of Sunday evening?
'Twas but another heedless fly,
Caught by the spider's weaving.

While counting broken hearts each day,
Her color got pale yellow,
For there's a broken heart, they say,
For every Colby willow.

Now Katie's name alone remains;
She went back to Skowhegan;
But watch ye! Foss Hill still contains
The shades of Katie Wiggin.

J. W. B., '20.

DRAMATIC CLUB.

It is doubtful if the Dramatic Club will endeavor to produce any play this year, on account of the lateness of the season and the fact that the year has been so broken up. Manager Hanson has not returned to college and this leaves the position open. There is a great need of some hustler to take hold of this job and put something into it, to push it through and make the Dramatic Club a worth-while organization, as it has not been for the past two or three years.

How about it? We would like to hear from the Dramatic Club.

CAMPUS CHAT

President Roberts has gone on a short business trip.

Professor Libby went to Augusta, Wednesday night, where he held a class in public speaking for a group of Augusta business men.

At chapel, Wednesday morning, Hois, '21, and Sussman, '19, furnished music, the former a trombone solo, and the later a violin solo. Thursday morning, the Rev. Mr. Knickerbocker of the Universalist church, gave an interesting talk. These special features greatly add to the chapel services.

A. K. E.

Final initiation followed by a banquet, was held at the House on Friday evening. The following were initiated: Hugh Whittemore, Portland; Evan Shearman, Portland; Marlin Farnum, Medford, Mass.; Charles Gale, Medford, Mass.; and Robert Jackson, Waterville, Me. Major Franklin Johnson, '91, was present at the banquet and gave a very interesting talk on his educational work among convalescent soldiers in this country.

Libby Pulsifer, '21, spent the week-end at his home in Skowhegan.

Z. P.

Word has been received from "Swipes" Simpson, '17. "Swipes" is in the medical corps at Camp Stewart, Newport News, Va.

"Pus" Soule, '14, was a recent visitor at the house.

Edward Fahey, ex-'20, is reported as on his way home from overseas.

E. Reginald Craig, ex-'18, has received his discharge from the Navy and has resumed his college studies.

Ensign Benjamin Lesseur, '17, has returned from overseas and is now stationed at Staten Island, New York harbor.

Donald Flood, '17, who recently resigned his ensign's commission has entered business in Boston.

Brophy, '22, and Marshall, '19, spent the weekend in Pittsfield.

Word has been received that "Babe" Crosby, ex-'19, has just returned from Flanders field and is now ill in a southern hospital.

A. P.

Arthur A. Hebert, '21, will not return to college this year.

Cyril Joly, '16, will leave his home in Waterville in about two weeks to attend the Harvard Law School.

Lieutenant Robert H. Bowen, '14, of the aviation corps, is visiting the college for a few days. He visited the fellows Wednesday evening.

Lester H. Weeks, '15, and Guy Whitten, ex-'19, called at the house, Wednesday evening.

P. A. O.

George Ingersoll, of the class of '19, has returned to college after two years in the Chemical Warfare Service.

Cadet George B. Dunnack visited his brother, Smith Dunnack, Wednesday. The latter who has been at West Point for the past four months, has returned to college on a six months' furlough to finish his course.

Frederick Gibson visited the fraternity for a few days last week.

Smith Dunnack visited at his home in Augusta last Monday.

Merle F. Lowery, '20, has accepted a position with the Great Northern Paper Company at his home in Monticello, Me.

A. T. O.

Ensign Harvey D. Knight, '14, paymaster at the navy-yard, Portsmouth, N. H., visited at the house the latter part of last week.

"Dutch" Fraas, '20, has gone to his home because of sickness.

Ensign Elmer Campbell, '17, made an early morning call, Monday, while on his way to Commonwealth Pier, Boston.

Maurice Coughlin, '21, and Greeley, '18, both of Oakland, have left college for the remainder of the year.

Raymond Manson, ex-'22, of Vassalboro, was at the house, Tuesday.

Raymond I. Haskell, '14, is now filling an excellent position at the Penn State Charter School, Philadelphia.

Philip Hussey, '18, of the American Red Cross, was at the house, Tuesday. Hussey wears two gold chevrons, most of his time overseas being spent as a superintendent of the construction of all the Liberty Hospitals and other Red Cross Buildings.

L. X. A.

News has been received at the house that Edward M. Cook, Colby '19, has arrived safely in New York. Cook was a member of the crew of gunners sent from our warships to sight the big guns that did such effective work in the last drive against the Huns.

Charles M. Treworgy has returned to college and is now rooming in the house.

W. S. Stearns, the former New Hampshire State quarterback, has been pledged and intends to remain at Colby.
