

Colby

Colby Magazine

Volume 102
Issue 3 Fall 2013

Article 3

October 2013

From the Editor

Gerry Boyle
Colby College

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.colby.edu/colbymagazine>

Recommended Citation

Boyle, Gerry (2013) "From the Editor," Colby Magazine: Vol. 102 : Iss. 3 , Article 3.
Available at: <https://digitalcommons.colby.edu/colbymagazine/vol102/iss3/3>

This Contents is brought to you for free and open access by the Colby College Archives at Digital Commons @ Colby. It has been accepted for inclusion in Colby Magazine by an authorized editor of Digital Commons @ Colby.

Colby

volume 102 • number 3

Staff

Gerry Boyle '78
managing editor

Michael Kiser
executive editor

Ruth Jacobs
director of communications

Barbara E. Walls
director of creative services

Robert P. Hernandez
art director, illustration

Stephen Collins '74
college editor

Ben Greeley, Arne Norris
online coordinators

Robert Clockedile
social media coordinator

Maria O'Connell
class notes editor

Lanya Butler '14, Kristina Cannon, Farabee Chowdhury '16, Stephen Collins '74, Aurelie Drummond, Fred Field, Kristin Gates '10, Sean Alonzo Harris, Nina Hatch '13, Robert P. Hernandez, Kristina Katori, Shannon Kooser '14, Igor Meijer, Mika Mintz '14, Jeff Pouland, Michael Seamans, Jamie Shaum '13, Dustin Satloff '15, Mary Schwalm '99, Winifred Tate, Barrie Tovar '15, Hannah Tuttle '15
contributing photographers

Andrew Clark, Gary Green, Gerry Hadden '89, Kayla Lewkowicz '14, Jacob McCarthy, Bob Moorehead, Mike Pride, Pat Sims, Claire Sykes
contributing writers

Tonwen Jones
contributing illustrator

Administration

William D. Adams, president; Sally Baker, vice president; Meg Bernier Boyd '81, director of alumni relations

Alumni Council Executive Committee

Deborah Wathen Finn '74, chair and president; David C. Fernandez '89, immediate past chair; Meg Bernier Boyd '81, executive secretary/treasurer; Boyd Allen '75, Arthur Brennan '68, Lisa Kehler Bubar '73, David S. Epstein '86, Noriko Miyakoda Hall '87, Shaquan A. Huntt '13, Peter Reif '83 P'16, Arthur L. Young '72

To contact Colby:
Managing Editor, Colby
4354 Mayflower Hill, Waterville, ME 04901
e-mail to: mag@colby.edu
207-859-4354

Colby is published four times yearly.
Visit us online: colby.edu/mag

Facebook.com/ColbyCollege
Twitter.com/ColbyCollege

To contact the Alumni Office:
207-859-4310

All give, no take—the example of Tony Marin

It's mid-semester, the campus is bustling, and still there have been moments in past weeks when Mayflower Hill has felt oddly empty. The loss of Tony Marin will do that.

Tony, the smiling, chuckling, always-waving, pot-clanging (at hockey games) plumber for Physical Plant, died Sept. 11. He was 50 and had been ill for some time. His service filled Lorimer Chapel to bursting with people from all of parts of his very large life.

At Colby, Tony's loss means he won't be cheering goals at Alford Arena. He won't be the ice-breaker at staff gatherings here, getting President Bro Adams's Q&A session started with an unexpected Q. "What's the nature of that book you're taking time off to write?" or, tongue in cheek, "How's that flush working up to the house?" He won't be in the audience at every important event where faculty and staff are invited, listening closely to the lecture or speech and offering pithy commentary via his folksy delivery.

Tony had nearly daily 6 a.m. conversations with Adams, pulling the truck over as the president walked from his house to Eustis. He had morning chats with basketball coach Dick Whitmore and hockey coach Jim Tortorella when they were here. He had regular chats with many, many people, including me.

One time I mentioned that I was building a stone wall at home. "You want antique rocks?" he asked, with that cryptic Tony smile. He said he had some on his land in Clinton; I should check them out. So I did, with my wife, Mary (Foley) '78. We arrived at the back field in check-out apparel: sneakers and shorts. Tony looked us over skeptically and said, "You ain't exactly dressed for it, but let's get to work."

In Tony's get-it-done world, checking out the rocks involved loading fieldstone into the bucket on Tony's tractor. He dumped them in the back of his old pickup and, when the truck was full, springs sagging, handed Mary the keys.

"You take that load home," he told us. "I'll start rounding up some more."

Over several hours we loaded and dumped, loaded and dumped, sweating and talking. Much of the conversation had to do with projects he was doing—for someone else. Plumbing. Carpentry. Hauling. When we asked what we could pay him for the rocks, he said, "Whatever you think they're worth." We did, and I'm sure that money went into the next project, helping someone Tony thought could use a hand.

In these pages is a story about some intrepid and generous Colbians who gave back at Colby and have since made giving a big part of their lives (P. 22). Tony Marin didn't work with the Colby Volunteer Center or Colby Cares About Kids. He just cared about everybody, and his generosity of spirit and deed embodied Colby's sense of community, setting an example for students and colleagues alike.

His was a very tough act to follow, but follow it we should, and remember it we will.

Gerry Boyle '78, P'06
Managing Editor

CONTRIBUTORS

Pat Sims ("Bridge Builder," P. 28) is a Maine-based freelance writer. In addition to contributing regularly to Colby, she has been an editor for Bard College's literary journal Conjunctions since 1994.

Gerry Hadden '89 ("From Barcelona, a Homecoming," P. 72) is a writer and reporter living in Barcelona, Spain. He covers Europe for PRI's The World. His memoir, Never the Hope Itself, was published in 2011.

Kayla Lewkowicz '14 ("Stroke by Stroke," P. 30) is from Hopkinton, Mass. In addition to contributing to Colby, she is a member of the varsity swim and track teams and an admissions tour guide.