X. FOSS HALL

Eliza Foss Hall is the gift of Mrs. Eliza Adeline Foss Dexter of Worcester, Mass. It was opened to the students in September, 1905, and stands on College Avenue, near the college campus. This building contains well-furnished double and single rooms, which accommodate seventy-five women. In addition, it contains an Assembly Hall, a large dining hall, a reading room and parlor, the offices of the dean, and a small gymnasium.

MUSICAL COMEDY A SUCCESS

Haines Well-Filled

The Student Endowment Committtee's entertainment at the Haines Theatre last night was a complete success, the playhouse being well-filled with an enthusiastic audience of town and college people.

The comedy was a medley of songs, humorous banter and comic dancing, representing a lively afternoon in a frat house. Among the features were J. F. Choate, '20, who sang, "On the Road to Mandalay," and responded to an encore; J. F. Hois, '21, with trombone solos; T. G. Grace, '21, as "Mose," the cheerful colored janitor; R. E. Wilkins, '20, with his sensational modern dancing; some men from the Mandolin Club; and a quartet from the Glee Club. R. A. Daniels, '23, was at the piano.

The Haines management furnished moving pictures before and after the performance.

EASTER VESPERS HELD

Rev. Dr. I. B. Mower, a trustee of Colby, spoke in chapel Sunday afternoon at a vesper service given by the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. Dr. Mower spoke appropriately to the Easter season, dwelling mainly on the doctrine of the immortality of the soul. He lamented the current "recrudescence of spiritism," quoting a London physician, to the effect that about 100,000 English people had gone insane as a result of the movement. The time-honored belief in the life beyond, as taught by Christ in the gospels, and so wonderfully expounded by St. Paul in the epistles, has still its potency and charm. Dr. Mower told a story about the late Joseph H. Choate, who shortly before his death, invited Marshall Joffre, Mr. Balfour, President Butler, and other friends to his house to discuss at length the question of the immortality of the soul. The speaker closed by reading Oliver Wendell Holmes's famous poem, "The Chambered Nautilus."

An Easter anthem, a processional, and a recessional, were sung by a mixed vested choir, directed by Miss Lucile Kidder. Miss Marion Waterman, president of the Y. W. C. A., presided.

ALCHEMY DISCUSSED

The Chemical Society, last Friday night, listened to the first of a series of papers on the history of chemistry. The meeting was held in the Delta Upsilon House. Asa Adams, '22, read a paper concerning the alchemists and their work and theories.

INTER-CHURCH SPEAKERS COMING

Mr. N. C. Fetter, Jr., for several years secretary of the Y. M. C. A. at the University of Michigan, has been visiting the college today, as a forerunner of the Inter-Church team that will visit the college during the week-end of April 9. In this team will be Rev. Alden Clark, for many years a successful missionary in India, Rev. Clement G. Clark, for many years pastor of the Congregational church of Peoria, Ill., and now one of the most effective speakers in the Inter-Church World Movement, Miss Ruth Cornish, Recruiting Secretary for the Y. W. C. A. in the northeastern field, and Mr. N. C. Fetter, Jr. There will probably be another member in the team, which will endeavor to reach all of the students by means of meetings and conferences.

More than 100,000 new workers will be needed during the coming five years in the world campaign of American Protestant churches united in the Inter-Church World Movement. More than 9,000 new missionaries must be recruited for the foreign fields alone and thousands of other workers, lay and clerical, are to be obtained for churches and affiliated organizations in this country.

NEW ALUMNUS INTERESTING

"Athletics at Colby" is an article in the new issue of the Alumnus that is well worth the reading. Coach Ryan writes on the "Track Situation at the College," E. W. Bucknam, '20, on "Our Baseball Prospects," and Libby Pulsifer, '21, on "Colby Football for 1920."

President Roberts contributes an article on the Endowment Campaign, with a complete list of subscribers to the fund up to February 13, together with the amount pledged. The fall meeting of Board of Trustees, by Charles Owen, is another interesting article.

"Americanism" by Judge Leselie C. Cornish, '78, is an exceptionally timely article. It is the address given to a group of citizens in Augusta who had just been naturalized.

The Alumnus also contains a continuation on "Lovejoy as a Christian," by Melvin Jameson, and many other interesting items, beside a number of editorial notes.

Sculptor (desperately)—"Now dawgonnit, I'm going to make a statue or bust.

—Rollins Sandspur.

DEMOCRAT SPEAKS

Mr. F. W. Clair, for many years a prominent lawyer of this city and an ardent Democrat, on Thursday and Friday afternoons of last week, addressed Prof. Libby's advanced public speaking class and about thirty other men interested in politics, on the subject: "Why I am a Democrat." On Thursday afternoon Mr. Clair gave a brief history of the Democratic party, discussing the old issues of the tariff and bi-metallism. On Friday he explained the establishing of the Federal Reserve System to counteract the power of Wall Street, which was described as being "the invisible government of the United States." He applauded President Wilson's attitude toward neutrality in the first few years of the war and defended Sec. Daniels's position in the charges made by Admiral Sims. He praised the draft system of raising the army and President Wilson's choice of men and their acts in the Peace Conference. The treaty fight, he claimed, was waged merely for political purposes. He emphasized the fact that every true American should be interested in politics and the welfare of the country. If all citizens would accept the responsibilities of the conscientious voter, many of the imperfections of our government would be remedied.

PROFESSOR LINCOLN'S POETRY

Professor Chipman, the college librarian, has written the following review for the Echo:

"Houghton, Mifflin Company of Boston have just issued a volume of poems entitled 'Rhymes of a Homesteader,' by Elliott C. Lincoln, Colby, '06. The forty-four poems in this little book show a wide range of subjects and style, and a variety of verse form. Although the author is a college professor, these are no closet poems, but breathe the very spirit of the open. It is a man's book, strong and clean and bracing, with none of the depressing atmosphere which characterizes some of our younger poets. There are insight into human nature and good common sense in these verses, and humor as well. One is tempted to quote some of the shorter poems, but after all the most satisfactory way will be for the reader to get the book and discover for himself how much real enjoyment it contains."

NEW BOOK LIST

A partial list of new books received by the college library within the last six weeks is as follows:

Bachelor: Man for the Ages.

PHILOSOPHY CLUB MEETS

"Religion and Evolution" was the topic discussed at the second meeting of the Philosophy Club, which was held at the Deke House on Tuesday night, March 16. Professor Wells led the discussion, which was interesting and instructive. A blazing fire on the hearth, and the smokes for all, were welcome. The following men were present: Choate, Craig, Rockwell, Brush, Pollock, Show, Holt, P. Bailey, Robinson, Sacks, Mercer, Barnum, Ware, Coach Ryan, and Dr. Wells.

THEY SAY THAT—

A certain Colby professor, walking down College Ave., stopped short and said "By Jove, I've left my watch back in ———. I wonder if I've time to go back and get it?" He then proceeded to TAKE OUT HIS WATCH and saw that he hadn't. I wonder if this is true or "just libel."

The "social lions" are already "swapping" dances for the Prom.

COLBY For COLBY MEN For COLBY

The Pageant Committee is anxious that every Colby student should realize his own responsibility in making the centennial celebration a complete success. The pageant will be a great event in the history of Colby, and everybody connected with the college will regret himself in future years if he does not contribute his share to the undertaking. Remember, the June spectacle on our campus will be the event of a century.

The spring season in athletics has begun. Track and baseball candidates are working out daily in the gymnasium, and physical culture has been resumed. Now that the initial step toward a successful season in athletics has been taken, the next must be on the part of Colby students. They must give a full measure of support and cooperation to the athletic director and coaches. Their spirit and support will spell either success or failure this year. The track material is inexperienced, and the baseball men are, for the most part, of unknown ability.

This year presents golden opportunities for Colby men to represent their college. By next year the Athletic Department will be on a highly organized basis and the teams will not be lacking in expert material. In track, opportunities are especially good, as the other Maine colleges are weak in several events.

Colby men, you should not leave everything to the coach. He has made several attempts to receive your response by promoting inter-fraternity and inter-class meets. Thus far they have been discouraging. It is you who must do the work of fostering the right spirit.

The success or failure of Colby's athletic teams rests with you. What is your answer?

A. B. M.

For the reformer who sees the glaring evils of the social order and gives his life for the abolition of these evils, the world has little love. He is shunned as a long-faced puritan, and known popularly as a "kill-joy." Even the men who passively sympathize with the reform he is undertaking are loath to spend their love on him; indeed, he is feared and dreaded, much as the physician is dreaded by the secret dope-fiend.

However, when your reformer is stoned to death by an angry mob, or is choked by the blood of his own broken heart, the world hastens to honor his memory with flowers and with eloquent eulogies.

A college paper, unless it belies its mission, must assume the role of the reformer; consequently, it must in a measure suffer the reformer's fate,—passively tolerated by the majority, strongly condemned by a minority, and, if it grows too zealous, squelched into silence by a few strong, dark hands.

Rambling thoughts these, perhaps not very pertinent to present conditions. The point, however (and may we be pardoned for our preachment), is this: know your own mind, and take sides accordingly, avoiding always the dumb passiveness of the thoughtless. If you are with the reformer, let the world know you are; if you are not, then buy a rope to hang him. Some one has said: "Praise me if you can; condemn me if you must; but for heaven's sake don't let me pass unnoticed."

One thing (although there are others) that is lacking in the Echo, these days, is the expression of student sentiment. To start an influx of good letters, let someone write a letter in which he gives the Echo editors his frank opinion of their work. There has not been one scrap of paper dropped into the Echo box since the present editor took up his duties. Had he had a good letter to publish, this week, the editor would not have had to insert some of his own doggerel telling of an ancient and long-forgotten love-affair. Go to it.

CAMPUS CHAT

Professor White was a judge in a debate at Hebron Academy, last Friday night.

Professor Wells was a visitor last Wednesday night at the Lam Chi House, where he examined the workings of the ouija board.

The freshmen relay meet, to have taken place at Brunswick last Saturday between Bowdoin, Bates and Colby, was cancelled by the Bowdoin manager, who stated that Bowdoin and Bates had already held the meet. The Colby runners were disappointed, to say the least, at this misarrangement.

Hervey Allen, '12, called at the Phi Delt house last week.

D. O. Smith, '21, was in Biddeford, Me., on business, last week.

Ray Smith, '20, has accepted a position as Instructor of Mathematics at Ricker Classical Institute.

Rufus M. Grindle, '22, spent the week-end at Bath, Me.

"Lib" Pulsifer, '21, "Red" Sprague, and Coach Ryan report a successful trip to Hebron Academy last week-end.

S. R. Gammon, a graduate of Lafayette College, and V. B. Ulmer of Pottsville, Pa., called at the Deke house last Wednesday.

Julius P. Loeffler, ex-'21, has been staying at the D. U. house for several days.

Mr. Newell Titcomb of Littleton visited Good at the D. U. house this week.

Milford Umphrey, '21, attended the Alpha Tau Omega banquet at Brown University, Saturday evening.

Malcolm O'Brien, ex-'15, is an instructor of science at Deering High school.

Harry Umphrey of Washburn called at the A. T. O. house last week.

Neil F. Leonard, '21, read at Skowhegan this week.

Charles Vigue, '20, is attending class again after several days' illness.

John W. Greene, ex-'19, made a short visit at the Lam Chi House last week.

Howard Sewell and Edward Riley, of Livermore Falls, visited D. B. Bailey, '21, at the Lam Chi House last week, on their way to the University of Maine, where they are students.

Hodges, '21, left for Brooklyn, last Saturday, to take up a position in the high school there.

Fifteen men from the Lam Chi House attended the Goodwin-Boivin wedding Sunday night in the Congregational church at Winslow. E. M. Cook, '20, was best man. Goodwin was formerly a member of the class of 1921.

L. J. Treworgy, '23, was the winner of a first prize of $150 for supplying the last line to one of the daily limericks in the Boston Post.

An informal birthday party was held by Chas. H. Gale, '22, in his room in Hedman Hall last Thursday evening.

Rev. Harry Taylor, of Topsham, visited E. A. Rockwell, '20, at the Lam Chi House today.

INTERCOLLEGIATE NEWS

Cornell

The seniors have revived the old custom of wearing corduroy trousers.

The university has dropped 298 men because of mid-year failures.

Brown

A presidential straw vote was recently held at Brown. 360 voted for Hoover as an independent candidate. Wood, with 254, led the Republicans, Johnson with 146 being his nearest rival. The Democratic vote was interesting: McAdoo, 87; Palmer, 70; Bryan, 34; Cox, 20; Edwards, 8.

TO M. H.

Why my fickle heart grew careless,
Friend of old, I cannot tell;
Sere my breast to utter bareness;
Search my heart and know it well.

Did I give my word of honor,
Or did you imagine so?
If I did, I was the donor?
Of a heart I did not know.

Sad it is, love unrequited—
God forgive me, if I sinned;
Soothe your maiden soul benighted,
Cast your sorrow to the wind.

We shall both be far the wiser;
You perhaps the sadder, too.
He will be no heart's-love miser,—
He whom Fate has made for you.

The Y. W. C. A. held a Silver Bay meeting Thursday evening at which all those who went to the conference last year gave short interesting descriptions of the various activities.

Dr. Phelps spoke in chapel Wednesday noon on "The Church and College Women."

Mr. Thompson addressed the girls Thursday noon very interestingly on the Inter-Church Movement.

The usual meetings of the glee club and the Literary Society were omitted this week, and the time was devoted to pageant committee meetings with Miss Gilpatrick, ex-'92.

Wednesday afternoon the college girls living in the three dormitories entertained the "town girls" at a tea and musicale. Mrs. Kierstead sang, accompanied by Mrs. Brown, who also played several piano solos. The music room, the social room, and the lower hall were all charmingly decorated in green
