

TENNIS TEAM TWICE VICTORS

Both Bates and Maine Bow
Before Colby Netmen.

At a meeting of the tennis letter men, Captain Sackett was unanimously re-elected, and John A. Barnes, '24, was elected to act as manager for the next season. Sackett is well fitted for the position having played on the team all three years of his college course, and twice with Gow winning the doubles championship of the state. This spring he was runner up in the singles tournament and was only defeated in the finals after the hardest kind of fight for five long sets.

The tennis team has had a successful year winning two out of its three dual meets by overwhelming scores and taking the doubles championship of the state. Next season the team will lose Gow, but will retain three of this year's team.

Colby, 5, Bates, 1.

The Blue and Gray netmen met and defeated the Garnet, Friday, May 25, on the Colby court by the score of 5 to 1. In the morning Colby won both doubles matches and in the afternoon Bates took her solitary point when Fairbanks of Bates defeated Barnes of Colby in a single match.

As was expected state doubles champions Gow and Sackett easily defeated Roberts and Farrington of Bates. A surprise came however when Smith and Barnes duplicated the slaughter. Leonard and Fairbanks took the first set 6-4. Nothing daunted Smith and Barnes crashed through with a 6-3 victory in the next set. In the third set the Garnet team won leading 5-4 and had a 40-0 advantage. Another point and the Bates team would have taken the set and the doubles score would have been evened. The Colby men tightened up however and managed to take the next few points and eventually the set.

Gow opposed Capt. Roberts of Bates in the first singles match and won easily 6-3, 6-2. The Bates captain seemed dazed by Gow's bullet-like drives.

Captain Sackett playing brilliant tennis always kept a good lead on Farrington of Bates taking his match 6-2, 6-3.

Bates scored her one point of the meet when Fairbanks of Bates defeated Barnes of Colby in the hardest fought match of the day. The results were 9-7, 7-5.

In the final match Smith defeated Leonard of Bates in straight sets. In the thirteenth game of the first set Smith won the Bates man's nerve. The latter did not rally again and Smith out did himself winning the second set 6-2. The first set was Smith's 8-6.

Summary

Doubles: Sackett and Gow of Colby defeated Roberts and Farrington of Bates, 6-3, 6-0; Smith and Barnes of Colby defeated Leonard and Fairbanks of Bates, 4-6, 6-3, and 8-6.

Singles: Gow of Colby defeated Roberts of Bates, 6-1, 6-2; Sackett of Colby defeated Farrington of Bates, 6-2, 6-3; Fairbanks of Bates defeated Barnes of Colby, 6-7, 7-5; Smith of Colby defeated Leonard of Bates, 8-6, 6-2.

Colby, 5, Maine, 1.

Colby duplicated her win over Bates with Maine on Monday afternoon at Orono taking both doubles and three out of four singles matches. The day was ideal for tennis and both teams were at their best. Colby did not arrive until afternoon, but even then had time to play out the full schedule.

Gow and Sackett met and defeated Smith and Davenport of Maine by the score of 6-0, 6-3, showing their superiority. The next match was a bit harder for the Colby men, Barnes and Smith to take. Carter and Judkins took the first set 11-0, but the Blue and Gray came through in the next two sets, 6-3, 6-8.

The first singles match was between Ex-Capt. Gow of Colby and Webber of Maine. Gow easily took the match showing his usual skill, the sets resulting 6-0, 6-1. Captain Sackett took his match with Smith of Maine to the tune of 6-0, 6-3. The former's chop placements against which Smith seemed powerless were in

IVY DAY CELEBRATED

Japanese Masque and Shakespearean Play Successfully Presented by Women's Division.

The Women's Division of Colby college held their annual Ivy Day exercises, Saturday, May 26. In the afternoon promptly at 2.30, the address of welcome was given by Miss Doris M. Dickey, of Clinton, a member of the senior class. Following Miss Dickey, Miss Annie Brownstone of Portland, chairman of Ivy Day, gave a short address. Miss Brownstone told of the untiring efforts of the Dean, Miss Nettie M. Runnals, and as an attempt to show grateful appreciation for her services, Ivy Day was dedicated to her. Miss Brownstone presented Miss Runnals with a pair of hammered silver candlesticks as a token from the junior class.

The Masque

A masque of old Japan, "The Sun Goddess," was then presented by members of the Women's Division. The scenery was very attractive and the bright costumes of the dancers made a most pretty picture. The dances by Miss Clara Ford of Worcester, Mass., who interpreted the part of Usumi, the celestial dancer, and that by Miss Doris Wyman of West Medford, Mass., who was the soul of all the butterflies, were particularly fine.

The cast of characters was follows: The Sun Goddess, . . . Mary Warren Usumi, the Celestial Dancer, . . .

Clara Ford

Ito, a Cynic Philosopher, . . .

Elizabeth Larabee

Ha Sa, an Artisan, . . .

Marguerite Starbird

Koto, a Priest, . . . Viola Jodrey

O Ku Re, a Poet, . . . Helen Pratt

Akino, a Young Man, Lucy Osgood

O Sana San, . . . Louise Cates

Hasu, . . . Marion Johnson

Osano, . . . Edythe Porter

Toya, . . . Marcia Davis

The Willow Maiden, . . .

Rosamond Cummings

The-Soul-of-all-the-Butterflies, . . .

Doris Dewar

The-Soul-of-the-Wisteria, . . .

Evelyn Rushton

Rice Maidens, Souls of the Cherry Blossoms, Souls of the Wisteria, Other Maidens, Villagers, and Children.

Planting the Ivy.

Following the masque was the professional march, led by the seniors in cap and gown. The planting of the Ivy was conducted by Miss Edythe Porter of Lubec, president of the senior class. Miss Porter gave the trowel to Miss Ruth Allen, who as president of the junior class, accepted it. The senior class sang their ode and for another year the Ivy Day exercises were over.

Much credit is due the Misses Melva Mann of Calais and Doris Wyman of West Medford, Mass., who coached the speaking and dancing parts in the masque. In token of appreciation for their services the junior class presented them with bouquets of American Beauty roses. Miss Annie Brownstone of Portland also deserves much praise for her efforts in making the Ivy Day so successful. To Miss Marjorie Smiley of Caribou, who was pianist for the dancing in the masque, recognition is also due for her part in securing the success of the afternoon. The Misses Margaret White of Fairfield and Marion Johnson of Pittsfield assisted with the cello and violin.

The Play

In the evening William Shakespeare's "The Tempest," was presented by the women of the class of 1924.

The production was very fine and the women are to be congratulated on their work. Miss Anna Erickson of Middleboro, Mass., was excellent in her character as Prospero, rightful duke of Milan. Ariel taken by Miss Mary Ford of Mars Hill was portrayed most charmingly. Undoubtedly the most difficult role was that of the monster, Caliban, and Miss Mary Gordon of Rowley, Mass., deserves high praise for her interpretation of the character. Miss Ruth Allen of Portland as Trinculo, the Jester, and Miss Marion Brown of Waterville as Stephano, the drunken butler, procured many a hearty

NEGATIVE WINS MURRAY PRIZE

Waugh, Ayer and Fassett
Given Decision on Philip-ine Question.

The fourteenth annual Murray Prize Debate was held in the college chapel Friday evening, May 25. The question for debate was: "Resolved, That the United States should retain possession of the Philippine Islands permanently." The negative team won the debate.

The negative side was supported by Robert M. Waugh of Sangerville, Me., Coburn H. Ayer of Parkman, Me., and Frederick G. Fassett, Jr., of West Medford, Mass. The affirmative side of the question was upheld by Edward H. Merrill of Yarmouthville, Me., Alfred K. Chapman of Portland, Me., and Willard A. Seamans of Winthrop, Me. President Arthur J. Roberts presided.

The debate was very closely contested, both sides presenting strong arguments. The arguments of all the debaters showed careful preparation and were presented with marked ability. Several humorous incidents brought up in the course of the debate furnished amusement for the audience.

The decision was rendered by a board of fourteen judges, giving the negative the victory by a vote of nine to five.

Merrill, the first speaker of the evening, outlined the case for the affirmative side and gave a comprehensive history of the question showing its vital importance at the present time. He endeavored to prove that the United States is under no moral obligation to grant to the Philippines their independence and that the United States is morally bound to retain possession of these islands permanently. He brought out, in proving his point, the fact that the United States bought and paid for these islands and advanced evidence tending to show that the leaders in the islands wish the United States to keep control. He also showed that if the United States should withdraw, order in the islands would be reduced to chaos.

Waugh outlined the case for the negative, tending to prove that the inhabitants of the islands are capable of governing themselves. He pointed out many great leaders and national heroes who are capable of controlling the future policies of the islands. He then outlined their school system and pointed out that literacy among inhabitants is higher than in many European nations.

Chapman, the second speaker for the affirmative, pointed out the economical advantages both to the Philippines and to the United States for the latter to retain possession of the islands.

Ayer, the second speaker on the negative, argued that the Philippines already have a stable government, moulded on the plan of our own and that this government is efficient.

Seamans, the third speaker for the affirmative, argued that the Japanese are only waiting for the United States to grant the Philippines their freedom in order to step in and take control themselves. He endeavored to prove his point by showing that the geographical location of the islands places them directly in the path of the future Japanese expansion program, and cited evidences of the past policy of Japan to show that this danger is a very real one.

Fassett, the third speaker for the negative, stressed the moral side of the question, and declared that in retaining possession of the islands the United States was following a policy contrary to every ideal for which it stood. He stated that the United States has promised the Philippines independence and could not go back on its word.

In the rebuttal both sides attacked the evidence brought out in the course of the debate, the contest centering around the moral issue. The educational issue was severely criticized by Mr. Merrill, who declared that statements made by the negative on this question were unfounded, in fact, and brought forth evidence showing that literacy among the Philippines was far less than stated by the negative.

The debate is made possible through the gift of George Edwin Murray, of the class of 1870, of Lawrence, Mass., and is given annually to stimulate an interest in debating.

COMMENCEMENT ISSUE

The next issue of the ECHO will be a special souvenir edition issued on Commencement Day. Besides a full account of the commencement activities, it will contain a pictorial record of the whole year. Undergraduate subscribers who will not be here may have their copy mailed to them by leaving name and address with the Business Manager.

WORK STARTED ON L. C. A. HOUSE

Will be Most Modern on Campus—Cyr Given Contract.

Work on the new Lambda Chi Alpha House has begun at last after a prolonged delay. Last Friday the contract was awarded to the Cyr Construction Company of Waterville, their bid being about $22,000. On Saturday morning the work began.

Since December 4, 1922, the building has been an eye-sore for passers-by, as a result of the disastrous fire in which four lives were lost. The walls will be partially torn down in order to face the reconstructed walls with the original bricks.

Shortly after the fire, plans for a new house were drawn up by Walter D. Berry, a fraternity brother in the class of 1922. So well worked out were these plans that they were accepted by the building committee, practically in their entirety; and were submitted to Bunker & Savage, architects, of Augusta.

The new fraternity house will be ideal and modern in every respect as the four outer walls will allow.

The first floor will include the library and the toilet, and the largest reception room on the campus. The stairs will not be conspicuous in the reception room, as they are to be enclosed in a fire-proof brick wall in the southeast corner. The stairs will be of metal with automatic fire doors at each corner. This stairway may be entered either by the front door and reception room or through the new entrance to be constructed in the southeast corner of the building. In the basement there will be two rooms. One will be fitted up as a lounging or smoking den, while the other will be available for a dining room.

The second and third floor will contain six study rooms each. On the fourth floor will be three more rooms, and on the street side of the building, a spacious fraternity hall.

The top floor as before, will contain the ram-pasture sleeping room and the trunk rooms. Fire escapes are sufficient, should they ever be required again.

The building is to be completed by September 1, so that the fraternity may be settled before school opens.

LIBRARY GETS VALUABLE BOOK

Survey of Constantinople by Prof. Johnson and Dedicated to James Perry, '11.

The college library has recently received from Mr. Wilder W. Perry, '72, of Camden, a copy of "Constantinople Today; or The Pathfinder Survey of Constantinople," by Prof. Clarence R. Johnson of Robert College, Constantinople. The book bears the following inscription:

"Presented to the Library of Colby College, Waterville, Maine, by Wilder Washington Perry (Colby 1872), Father of James Perry (Colby 1911) who organized this survey and to whom the book is dedicated."

The dedication reads:

Taylor, '26, of Pittsfield, Me.

Clarence R. Johnson, was an instructor at Colby from 1915 to 1918 and has many friends in Waterville. A review in the Boston Transcript for February 7 says of the book:

"It is more illuminating than any guide book could ever hope to be. The reader of this 'pathfinder survey' will be nearer the heart of things in this fascinating and mysterious Oriental city than he can approach, at second hand, in any other way."

COLBY LOSES TUFTS GAME

"Comedy of Errors" Feature
Memorial Day Exhibition.

Tufts won from Colby by the score of 6 to 0 in the Memorial Day game at Medford. The Colby team was way off form and played a very loose game, making ten errors. Odom started in the box for Colby and was hit hard throughout the game. Two of the Tufts men connected for home runs in the very first inning which gave the home team a flying start towards victory. One of these was by Merrill who pitched a good game. He was especially strong in the pinches, and once when Colby had two men on and no outs he struck out the next two batters and retired the side with an easy yell. Colby threatened one other time, also, but was not strong enough to push over any runs.

The score:
Colby 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0—0 7 10
Tufts 8 0 0 1 1 0 0 x—6 10 1
Batteries: For Colby, Odom and Lanpher; for Tufts, Merrill and Ronch.

COLBY SMOTHERS MAINE BALL TEAM

Plays Ring-Around-Rosie at Expense of Wilkie Clark's
Aggregation—Capt. Lanpher Hurt.

Colby defeated the University of Maine baseball team Saturday afternoon, June 2, on Seaverns' Field, with a complete shut-out. No time during the battle was the Blue and Gray in danger, and when the smoke had cleared away a victory of 16 to 0 was gripped by the down river aggregation.

A perfect day drew a large crowd of fans, and filled the stadium to its capacity.

Captain Lanpher, who was playing one of his best games behind the bat tripped over second base and badly sprained his ankle. His absence from the remaining games will be a hard blow to the team.

Tom Callaghan, the South Brewer south paw, began his work in the initial inning by retiring the first three batsmen in rapid order, and during the whole game he worked like a big-leaguer. Jowett perched on the mound for four innings, but was sluggish so badly he was sent to the showers and Repscha went in for reinforcement but it was not long before Parent's men were finding him.

Wilson started the fireworks by burning the sphere to third, and landed safely on first by Stearns' bad throw. Fagerstrom was handed a free ticket. Callaghan sacrificed advancing Wilson to third. "Tug" crossed the platter as Lanpher was thrown out with a slow bouncer to second.

After the third inning Jowett was only prey for the hungry sluggers and Colby scored three tallies in the fourth. Royal and McGowan who were first to the plate in the fifth, biffed the pill for two consecutive circuits.

Repscha now replaced Jowett in the box for the remainder of the game, but showed little better than the first twirler. Colby scored one against Repscha in the fifth, three in the sixth, four in the "lucky seventh" and two in the eighth. This ended the Colby batting and track work-out.

Maine viewed home plate but once from the hot-corner. Prescott the first man up singled to center field. Lunge received a pass on balls and Osgood scorched a grounder to short-stop and reached first on a fielder's choice, Fransen to Royal, retiring Prescott at third.

Stearns made second on an infield fly, thus finishing the rally when Fransen retired Lunge at second on Foster's grounder to shortstop.

The outstanding features of the contest for infield work goes to Cutler, when in the ninth inning a liner headed for a three sacker, was hauled down from the cold atmosphere above over second base.

Colby showed good baseball throughout the game, allowing themselves only one error while Maine was credited with eight errors and loose playing.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 6, 1923

It is with a feeling of enthusiasm mixed with trepidation that the new board takes up its duties for the coming year. We believe that the ECHO has never yet attained the power of influence that is possible for a college paper. As yet disillusioned by experience, the new board is optimistic enough to believe that next year will see the ECHO reach the highest plane of efficiency and service since its genesis in 1878.

It will be handicapped, however, as it has been this last year, by the duty of paying off a staggering burden of debt accumulated two years ago. This will again necessitate an excessive amount of advertising in the columns, unless a very much larger circulation can be obtained.

The system of distribution has been unsatisfactory and some changes in the organization and methods are contemplated to insure absolute regularity of mailing and distributing the papers. Our aim will be to build up a staff that will make the ECHO less than ever a "one-man publication."

THE FIRST THIRTY YEARS ARE THE HARDEST

The following item from the COLBY ECHO for Feb. 11, 1893, has singularly modern tone. It shows how far ahead of its time the paper was. But let us be patient. Rome was not built in a day. It has only been thirty years since this paper first called attention to the heating system of Recitation Hall. We shall hope for some action in Colby's Second Century. The item is as follows:

"We would humbly suggest that one of the very best uses to which an unappreciably small portion of the wealth derived from extra room rents could be put, would be into a Nineteenth Century heating apparatus for Recitation Hall. The climates of all seasons are represented in the different parts of the recitation rooms, while the drafts which circulate freely between doors and windows would easily furnish locomotion for a good-sized war ship. Such crude methods of warming and ventilating reminds us of the back-woods school house and are entirely out of place in such a place as our college is getting to be. The Astors and Vanderbilts for whom Colby is for the future intended, must have home comforts. Please give this matter your personal attention, Osborne."

THE ROYAL ROAD

Egyptian kings have had a genius for self-publicity. Good old Tut has been first page news for the last few months because of his sporty funeral tastes. One other king has come down through history merely on account of a simple question that is as common and as universal as man.

It seems that King Ptolemy became interested in a queer science of his engineers, called geometry. He at once pushed a button and summoned a brainy Greek named Euclid, who purported to be the inventor. "Now, young-fellow-me-lad," said the jovial king, "Isn't there some cinch way of getting this stuff? I hate the idea of wading through your book."

Through the centuries has come Euclid's imperturbable answer: "There is no royal road to geometry."

Euclid's theorems are even now incontrovertible. But just as sound is his answer to Ptolemy. Both are founded on the rock of truth.

We still ask the same question, but again and again Experience has demonstrated to us Euclid's theorem of the Royal Road. The proof is simple: Study gives knowledge; knowledge gives power; power gives success. Therefore, study gives success.—Q. E. D.

Disheartening as it may be, old Euclid is inexorable: "There is no royal road!"

WHAT ARE YOU TAKING NEXT YEAR?

Now that the time is drawing near when we must choose our next year's courses, on what principle shall we select our subjects? Shall we take snap courses? Shall we choose the subjects that we like best? Shall we specialize exclusively? Shall we choose our favorite professors? All these factors enter in, but after all, the main thing is to get the best education that the college offers.

The best education always consists of two factors: General knowledge and specialized knowledge. The man who gets the farthest in this world must know something about everything as well as everything about some one thing. It is the engineer, whose mind has been broadened by a classical education, who can dream in terms of world enterprises. The minister finds untold inspiration in a conception of the infinite ether and of atoms and of protoplasm.

Therefore, when we choose our courses for next year, let us bear it in mind to try to select those that will make us a "Jack of all trades and master of one."

THE ROAD TO HIGH ADVENTURE.

Oh! ye who know the swing and surge,
Of red blood in your veins,
Who have felt the Great Wild's pulsing call,
Though checked by Society's reins;
There's a primrose pathway that leads to the West,
And it starts at your very door,
And if you will follow it unto the end,
It leads to that dreamed-of shore.

'Tis the Road to High Adventure,
Will you—dare you take a chance,
And with light heart, lightly tread it,
In the quest of Life's Romance?
For Danger lies thick o'er the Pathway,
And many must fall by the Sward;
But Death is the end of all Living,
And the Life is its own reward.

There—men are real, men are primal,
There is nothing tame or flat;
Wild they are and even wicked,
But they're men for all of that.
Though they're hunted, driven out-laws,
Flying from their fellow's ken,
Still they'll all withstand the acid,
And they wear the brand of men.

There the Past may be forgotten,
In the Present's quick delight,
And the ways of Life and Living,
Never pull upon the sight;
For to paint that boundless Freedom,
E'en a master's brush must fail,
For his subject lies beyond him,
You alone may pierce the veil.

Come ye then! Ye Great Adventurer,
Leave your dull and prosaic home,
Follow where your Fancy leads you,
And obey the call to roam.
For the mantle of Life's Romance,
Broods the hills and mountains o'er,
Purple-deep amidst the silence,
Of some distant unknown shore.

Heed ye then the Great Wild's calling,
Or the song of the open sea,
Or the Breaker's roar on the rock-bound shore,
And the scent of the locust-tree;
Then fare ye forth on the open road,
And cry that the Past is dead;
And follow that primrose path to the West,
And Life—Real Life is ahead.

COLBY LOSES
TO MAINEHome Run by Foster Decides Thrilling 2-1 Battle.

Colby met her second defeat in the Maine series, Saturday, at the hands of Wilkie Clark's charges on the University of Maine athletic field at Orono. The result of this game was an unlooked surprise to the baseball fans of the State and changed the outlook of the State championship, giving Colby but a slim chance of annexing the bunting.

The game opened on a wet field and to this fact is due most of the errors. The credit for the win may be given to Jowett, the Maine bespectacled twirler. He pitched airtight ball throughout the game allowing only six hits and after Foster's homer in the sixth he was invincible.

Neither team scored in the first inning but in the last half of the second Lunge started with a nice two bagger, Howard booted Osgood's bunt and then fumbled a bunt by Stearns, filling the bases. Foster then came into the limelight and with a clean single over second, scored Lunge and Osgood. Captain "Johnny" Lanpher prevented further scoring by catching Stearns off second with a characteristic snap throw to Fransen after Jowett popped up to Royal, Foster was caught stealing, Lanpher to Fransen.

Maine threatened again in the third when Newell singled with one out, took second on Dunham's sacrifice, but was left when Shanahan made a nice catch of Prescott's long fly. Again in the fourth Osgood got a clean hit and Stearns drew a pass. Foster fanned and "Pop" Royal ended the inning by stopping Jowett's hard drive over third, touching the base for the last out.

Colby did her scoring in the sixth. Shanahan and Royal singled on two successive pitched balls. Shanahan was forced at third on Fransen's bunt. Both runners moved up when Jowett threw wild to second. Royal scored on a wild pitch. Fransen on Wilson's long fly to left field. Dunham made the final put out of the inning catching McGowan's fly to left center.

Foster shone again in the last half of the sixth smashing a terrific homer way over the center fielder's head.

This sewed up the game for Maine as neither side scored again. Jowett had the edge on Howard, altho the hits were even. Jowett always kept ahead of the batter and was never seriously in the hole. Colby's outfield had eight putouts showing the wonderful support given the Colby twirler.

Lanpher behind the bat and Fagerstrom in center field both played sweet baseball, the former catching two men off second, and the latter making four putouts all of which were difficult running catches.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR HOLDS INSTALLATION.

At the First Baptist Church there is a live organization of college young people in the Christian Endeavor society. The society holds weekly meetings on Sunday nights at 6.30, which are open to everyone.

Last Sunday night in the regular evening service of the church, the officials for the coming year were publicly installed for the first time. As the secretary called the roll, each officer and committee chairman took his place on the platform. Rev. Walter Quarrington gave a charge to society duty and church loyalty. Following this, the president made a few remarks, saying that the society would be loyal, that the church was co-operating, and that a bigger year is in store when the fall term begins.

The officers for the year are as follows: President, Howard B. Tuggey, '25; vice-president, Marion Cummings, '24; recording secretary, Margaret Smith, '26; corresponding secretary, George Barnes, '26; treasurer, Charles Ide, '26.

The committee chairmen are as follows: Lookout, Marion Cummings, '24; prayer-meeting, Mark Ames, '24; social, Eleanor Taylor, '26; missionary, Irma Davis, '26; finance, Charles Ide, '26; music, C. B. Chapman, '25; pastor's aid, Coburn Ayer, '25; publicity, Nellie Pettie, '25.

The summer convention of the Kennebec County C. E. Union is to be held in the First Baptist Church in Fairfield on Friday, June 1. To this service the college young people are invited. The program includes addresses by Prof. Herbert L. Newman and others, as well as departmental methods conferences. The address of the evening will be given at 7.30 by Rev. J. Charles MacDonald of Auburn, who is well known among the young people.

LAW PARTY
GREAT SUCCESSStrawberry Festival Given by Women's Dramatic Club.

As a celebration of the afternoon's victory over Maine, the members of the Dramatic Club of the Women's Division held a Strawberry Festival Saturday night in the athletic field back of Foss Hall. The affair was given for the benefit of the Colby Y. W. C. A. and was quite successful.

The lawn was set with many small tables and decorations of Jack o' Lanterns suspended from wires were very attractive. Prettily gowned members of the club served refreshments of strawberry short cake, ice cream and punch while a continuous program of entertainment was in progress.

The entertainment consisted of a Japanese play, "The Wooden Bowl," in which Misses Helen M. Freeman of Bath, Edythe D. Porter of Lubec, Mary C. Ford of Mars Hill, Helen H. Pratt of Corning, N. Y., and Mary L. Watson of Houlton took parts in the cast. Misses Elizabeth H. Kellett of Lawrence, Mass., and Ruth A. Jagger of Sanford gave a Japanese dance and the program was concluded by several selections by a quartet composed of Misses Melva M. Mann of Milltown, Grace A. Fox of Skowhegan, Marcia L. Davis of Livermore Falls and Helen H. Pratt of Corning, N. Y.

The affair was in charge of Miss Gertrude C. Fletcher of Monticello, who was aided by Miss Leonette M. Warburton of Lawrence, Mass.

ALPHA DELTA PI

Miss Helen Partridge of Portland was the week-end guest of Clara Collins, '26.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Robbins, Miss Agnes Masse and Herman Masse of East Vassalboro were guests of friends at the Hall on Ivy Day.

Miss Mildred Bell of Norridge-wook spent the week-end with Doris Keay, '26.

Madeline Merrill, '26, entertained Marion Will of Madison on Ivy Day.

Mrs. Cora E. Gray and Miss Helen Noyes and Marion Kilby of Stonington and Mrs. Ernest Weston and Miss Barbara Weston of Madison were the Ivy Day guests of Helen and Edith Gray.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Small and Miss Harriet Small of Worcester, Mass., called on Margaret Gilmour, '24, on Saturday.

Madeline Merrill, '26, spent Sunday at her home in Madison.

SIGMA KAPPA.

Elizabeth Rebecca Whipple, of the class of 1921, was married to Leon Melvin Butler, Friday, May 25, in the Park Congregational Church of Grand Rapids, Mich. The wedding was very quietly solemnized in the presence of the mother of the bride and intimate friends of the groom.

Mrs. Butler was educated in the public schools of Waterville, and graduated from Coburn Classical Institute in the class of 1917, and from Colby College in 1921. She was very prominent in the activities of the college and was a member of the Sigma Kappa sorority. Mr. Butler is a graduate of Bowdoin, and a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity. He is at present one of the advertising staff of the Grand Rapids Herald. Mr. and Mrs. Butler will be at home after June 1 at 255 Lagrave Ave., Grand Rapids, Mich.

Located in leading medical center of America; up-to-date laboratories for study of chemistry, physics, biology, anatomy, physiology, radiology, bacteriology, surgery, etc., connected with the new and thoroughly equipped Osteopathic Hospital of Philadelphia; excellent facilities for clinical experience.

Four years' course of study, with required attendance at clinics and internship in the Osteopathic Hospital of Philadelphia, leads to Doctor of Osteopathy. Graduates admitted to State Board Examinations (including those of New York) and practice successfully throughout the United States and many foreign countries.

Entrance Requirements: Standard four-year High School course. Students desiring to qualify for practice in Pennsylvania require credits for a year's work in each of the sciences, biology, physics and chemistry. College preparatory work is valuable, but is not essential to success in practice, and is, therefore, not required. Four years in the Philadelphia College of Osteopathy will fit you for your profession. Next term opens September 18, 1923.

GEOLOGISTS GO TO BAR HARBOR

Twenty-seven Students Take Annual Field Trip.

Monday morning, May 28, twenty-seven members of the Geology classes started out on the annual Field Trip to Mount Desert. Three automobiles and a truck furnished the means of locomotion.

The first stop was made in the afternoon to visit The Owens, Cathedral, and other rock formations on the shore. The party arrived at Bar Harbor shortly before supper and went to the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. where they were quartered.

Tuesday morning was spent in climbing Champlain Mountain and a picnic dinner was eaten near Schooner Head. During the afternoon various places of interest were examined in different parts of the island.

laugh from the audience for their clever work.

Miss Celia Clary of Livermore Falls played the part of Ferdinand and her portrayal was fine, while Miss Marion Cummings of Hebron made a most pleasing Miranda. Genalo, the old councillor at Milan, was taken most cleverly by Miss Ethel Reed of Harmony, while the parts of Antonio, Sebastian, and Alonso were excellently taken by the Misses Carolyn Hodgdon of Portland, Mary Watson of Houlton and Donnie Gatchell of Pittsfield.

Not a little of the attractiveness of the play was due to the music which was furnished by Miss Grace Fox of Skowhegan, piano; Miss Marion Johnson of Pittsfield, violin; Miss Mollie Seltzer of Fairfield, violin; and Miss Margaret White of Fairfield, cello.

The business manager for the class was Miss Genevieve Clark of Portland. She carried out that end of the production with a great deal of care and success. The play was coached by Professor Carl J. Weber.

SPRING FEVER.

For the Echo.

Beneath the sun's bright rays, as it glows with the warmth of spring,

Beneath the moon's benign gaze, and the memories it brings,
Both night and day, through every hour, fond thoughts of thee remain,

Thy form and face like some sweet flower, never vanish from my brain.

Minutes pass and turn to hours, the dreary days roll endless by,
In my dream built castle towers, with their spires in the sky,
Long I sit and dreaming ponder, my dreams, my thoughts are but of thee,

Thy absence makes my heart grow fonder, thy image ne'er departs from me.

In my dreams your dark eyes shine, your curly locks so soft and brown,
Once again my heart entwines, in its clasp securely bound;
Your slender hand within my palm, I hold and gently press,
Your little hand upon my arm, I quietly caress.

Eternal shall these memories be, never from my thoughts depart,
Always shall they be with me, wrapped forever in my heart.

Years may come and years may go, time, with ceaseless tread, stalk by,
But, like the river's endless flow, my love for you shall never die.

EXTRACT FROM "A LIBERAL EDUCATION."

By Thomas Henry Huxley

Suppose it were perfectly certain that the lives and fortunes of every one of us would, some day or other, depend upon his winning or losing a game of chess? Don't you think that we should all consider it a primary duty to learn at least the names and moves of the pieces; to have a notion of a gambit and a keen eye for all the means of giving and getting out of check? Do you not think that we would look with a disapprobation amounting to scorn upon the father who allowed his son, or the state that allowed its members to grow up without knowing a pawn from a knight?

Yet it is a very plain and elementary truth that the life and fortune and the happiness of every one of us, and, more or less of every one connected with us, do depend upon our knowing something of the rules of a game infinitely more difficult and complicated than chess. It is a game that has been played for untold ages, every man and woman of us being one of the two players in a game of his or her own. The chess board is the world, the pieces are the phenomena of the universe, the rules of the game are what we call the laws of nature. The player on the other side is hidden from us. We know that his play is always fair, just and patient. But we also know to our cost that he never makes a mistake, or makes the smallest allowance for ignorance. To the man who plays well, the highest stakes are paid, with that sort of overflowing generosity with which the strong take delight in strength. And one who plays ill is checkmated—without haste, but without remorse.

Well, what I mean by education is learning the rules of this mighty game. In other words, education is the instruction of the intellect in the laws of nature, under which name I include not merely things and their forces, but men and their ways; and the fashioning of the affections and of the will into an earnest and loving desire to move in harmony with those laws.

That man I think, has had a liberal education who has been so trained in his youth that his body is the ready servant of his will and does with ease and pleasure all things that, as a mechanism, it is capable of; whose intellect is a clear, cold logic engine with all parts of equal strength and in smooth working order, ready, like a steam engine, to be turned to any kind of work and to spin the gossamers as well as forge the anchors of the mind; whose mind is stored with the great and fundamental truths of nature and the laws of her operations; one who, no stunted ascetic, is full of life and fire, but whose passions are trained to come to heel by a vigorous will, the servant of a tender conscience; who has learned to love all beauty, whether of nature or of art, to hate all villainess, and to respect others as himself.

Such a one and no other, I conceive, has had a liberal education; for he is, as completely as man can be, in harmony with nature. He will make the best of her and she of him. They will get on together rarely; she as his ever-beneficent mother; he as her mouthpiece, her conscious self, her minister and interpreter.
