

DR. BLACK TO LEAVE COLBY

Accepts Position as Head of Department of History at Union.

"While accepting this opportunity to labor in another community, I look forward with a great deal of pleasure to spending my summers as heretofore in the state of Maine," declared Dr. J. William Black, professor of history and political science at Colby College, to a representative of the Colby Echo, Monday afternoon.

Dr. Black tendered his resignation to President Arthur J. Roberts on Friday, January 4, but owing to PROF. J. WILLIAM BLACK, Ph. D.

President Roberts' wish it was not disclosed at the time. The announcement that Dr. Black had accepted the professorship of history at Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., was a surprise even to his friends, although negotiations had been carried on between Dr. Black and President Richmond of Union for almost a year.

Last spring it was practically agreed that Dr. Black should go to Union in September, but Dr. Black reconsidered and decided not to go. The president of Union was insistent, offering to hold the position open for a year, with the result that Dr. and Mrs. Black went to Schenectady, December 18, where they were entertained by President Richmond. The next day Dr. Black agreed to accept the position at Union.

Union college has an enrollment of 1500 students of which 800 are in the arts and science department located at Schenectady, and the remaining 700 are in the various professional schools at Albany. Union college has a medical school, a dental school, and a school of pharmacy. The campus contains 75 acres, and is situated on rising ground overlooking the entire city. The school is non-sectarian and is not co-educational. All the affairs of the college are run on the honor system. It did not drop the Greek requirements for an A. B. degree until last year, and was the last college in the country to do so.

Dr. Black said that he was very sorry to leave Colby for many reasons, and declared that the ties made during 30 years were not lightly cast aside, but that the Union offer was one he could not afford to refuse.

"I am very much attached to the state," he said, "and hope to keep in contact with its activities in the future as much as possible."

Dr. Black's new position at Union is a very important one. He has been offered the chair and directorship of the department of history where he has full control. With him in the department are three associate professors. Dr. Black is to give two courses in European History. One course will be in General European history, while the other will be an advanced course beginning with the French revolution and leading up to the present time.

Four teachers formerly connected with Colby are now at Union. They are Eastman, Mrs. Grover, and Mrs. Hurd. Prof. Grover, Crowell, Hurd, Hurd are with their husbands at Union, so that Dr. and Mrs. Black will not be entirely among strangers.

Dr. Black was born in Baltimore, Md. He graduated from Johns Hopkins University where he received the degrees of B. A. and Ph. D. He received his doctor's degree in 1901. The first year after his graduation from college was spent as a visiting professor of history and political economy at Georgetown College in Georgetown, Ky. The next two years were spent at Oberlin, Ohio, as associate professor of economics. In

First Games.

The first game of the Colby Inter-fraternity Basketball Tournament were run off last Tuesday afternoon in the gymnasium. The Non-Frats came through in the first game by handing the Zeta Psi quintet a 19-4 defeat. The winners showed fine teamwork and will have to be reckoned with in the final games. The Zetas had a decidedly off day and were able to score only one basket from the floor. The lack of practice was evident in the work of both teams. The Non-Frat forwards were on the job all the time and knew where to find the basket. Chafetz was the shining light of the fray and was responsible for eleven of the nineteen winning points. Mason and Miller played well for the same team while Powers and Soule were the Zeta's best bets.

BROWNING MOST POPULAR POET

Students in Survey Course
Vote on Favorite Poems.

"Has the modern student depraved literary taste?" is a question often raised in these days of jazz novels and vacuous stories. It is reassuring, therefore, to find out that Browning is the most popular author in one of the classes of Colby.

The class in English Literature I, known as the "survey course," was asked recently to state what was "the poem that means most to me." As a result Robert Browning received the most votes, being mentioned by eight members. Tennyson and Gray were tied for second with four each, while Wordsworth, Burns and Shelly received three, two and one vote respectively. Two students named prose works instead of poems: Newman's "Idea of a University," and Bacon's "Of Adversity."

"Rabbi Ben Ezra" Most Popular.

The specific works that were mentioned are as follows:

- 5 named "Rabbi Ben Ezra."
- 4 named "Elegy in a Country Churchyard."
- 3 named "Character of the Happy Warrior."
- 2 named "Merlin and the Gleam."
- 2 named "Unco Guid."
- 2 named "The Lady of Shalott."
- 1 named "Andrea del Sarto."
- 1 named "Pippa Passes."
- 1 named "Ozymandias."
- 1 named "Ulysses."

Comments of the Class. That the modern student is sincere in his appreciation of real literature may be judged from the following comments:

"Ozymandias" impressed me more than any other poem I have ever studied.

"The Lady of Shalott," has an unusual appeal to me, and has come to mean more and more to me with each reading.

"The Character of the Happy Warrior," is a challenge to me. If I can incorporate it into my life, I am sure of a life of true worth and happiness.

I firmly believe that for many years to come I shall never forget the

VESPER SERVICES HELD IN CHAPEL

Prof. Marriner Speaks on "The Open Door of The Future."

A Vesper Service was held Sunday afternoon in the chapel. It was well attended by members of both divisions. Prof. Ernest C. Marriner was the speaker. He discussed the "Riddle of the Future." Among other things he said that no man can possibly shut the door against the future. In connection with the thought he chose the following text, "I have set against thee an open door and no man can shut it."

Another interesting point was stressed with regard to the Door of the Future which leads into many different rooms. Four of these divisions were discussed in detail. First, concerning companionship, it was said that "we inherit our relatives but we can choose our friends." Further it was noted that we want a religion that will take care of chance—a religion that will help us in times of adversity as well as in times of good fortune.

The necessity of patience was brought out. It was said that anything really worth while takes time. The lesson here was: "Learn to labor and to wait."

Prof. Marriner next spoke of effort. He said that the great sin is refusal to try.

The problem that we must all face is, how shall we go through the open door?

Several vocal and instrumental solos were rendered during the service by college students.

true values which the "Lady of Shalott" has pointed out to me.

I can honestly say that nothing has ever made such an impression upon my mind as the philosophy expressed in "Rabbi Ben Ezra."

"Andrea del Sarto," contains the most inspiring lines I have ever read.

Since the Eighteenth Amendment many are getting drunk on water—outside the three mile limit.

HOCKEY SCHEDULE

Manager Gorham is trying to get games with several colleges in order to fill out the schedule, which now has a few open dates. The first exhibition game, which was scheduled with the University of Maine at Orono, January 12, was postponed because of the thaw.

The schedule is:
Wednesday, January 16, Maine, Orono.

Saturday, January 19, Maine, Waterville.

Wednesday, January 23, Bowdoin, Brunswick.

Saturday, February 16, Bates, Waterville.

Wednesday, February 20, Bowdoin, Waterville.

Wednesday, February 27, Bates, Lewiston.

LIST OF COLBY FAMILY TIES INCREASE

The twenty-six pairs named in last Colby Echo have increased to thirty by the addition of Frank L. Sanborn, '26, Llewellyn H. Sanborn, '26; Charles L. Lewis, '24, Roger Lewis, '27; Preston Cadwallader, '27; Jean Cadwallader, '27; Lindsay Varnum, '25; Avis Varnum, '25.

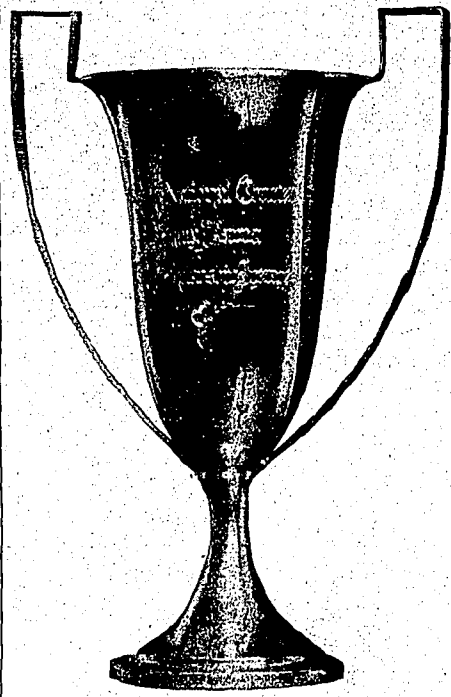

This list brings the total of brothers and sisters in Colby to 60 and is an interesting commentary on the strength of Colby tradition in many families.

COLBY SIGMAS WIN HONORS

Alpha Chapter is Awarded National Scholarship Cup.

Alpha chapter of Sigma Kappa is the proud winner of the Scholarship Trophy Cup which is awarded annually by the National chapter to the chapter receiving the highest scholarship average. The basis of award is the ratio between the number of courses taken and the number of courses passed.

As it happened, five chapters had a perfect record, so Alpha chapter was awarded the cup because it had the highest numerical average of rank. The average mark of the Colby chapter during last year was 81 per cent.

It seems quite fitting for Alpha chapter to be the first to have its name inscribed on the back of this cup since this year marks the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the sorority; and since the national convention will be held here in Waterville next summer.

WOMEN PLAN WINTER CARNIVAL

Ice Frolic To Be Held In February.

The second week of February has been set tentatively as the date of the winter carnival to be held by the Women's Division, sponsored by the Colby Health League. An outing club is to be formed which it is hoped will promote interest in the carnival.

The skating rink is in good condition this year and everyone will have a chance to do something in the skating line—from beginners to professionals. There will be class competition, obstacle races and the committee hopes to arrange for a few short snowshoe races.

Plans for illumination of the rink have been made and a successful carnival is expected under the management of Miss Ethel M. Reed, '24, in cooperation with Miss Ruth A. Allen, '24, president of the Health League, and assisted by Miss Amy V. Robinson, '25, Miss Doris A. Dewar, '26, and Miss Marguerite Chase, '27.

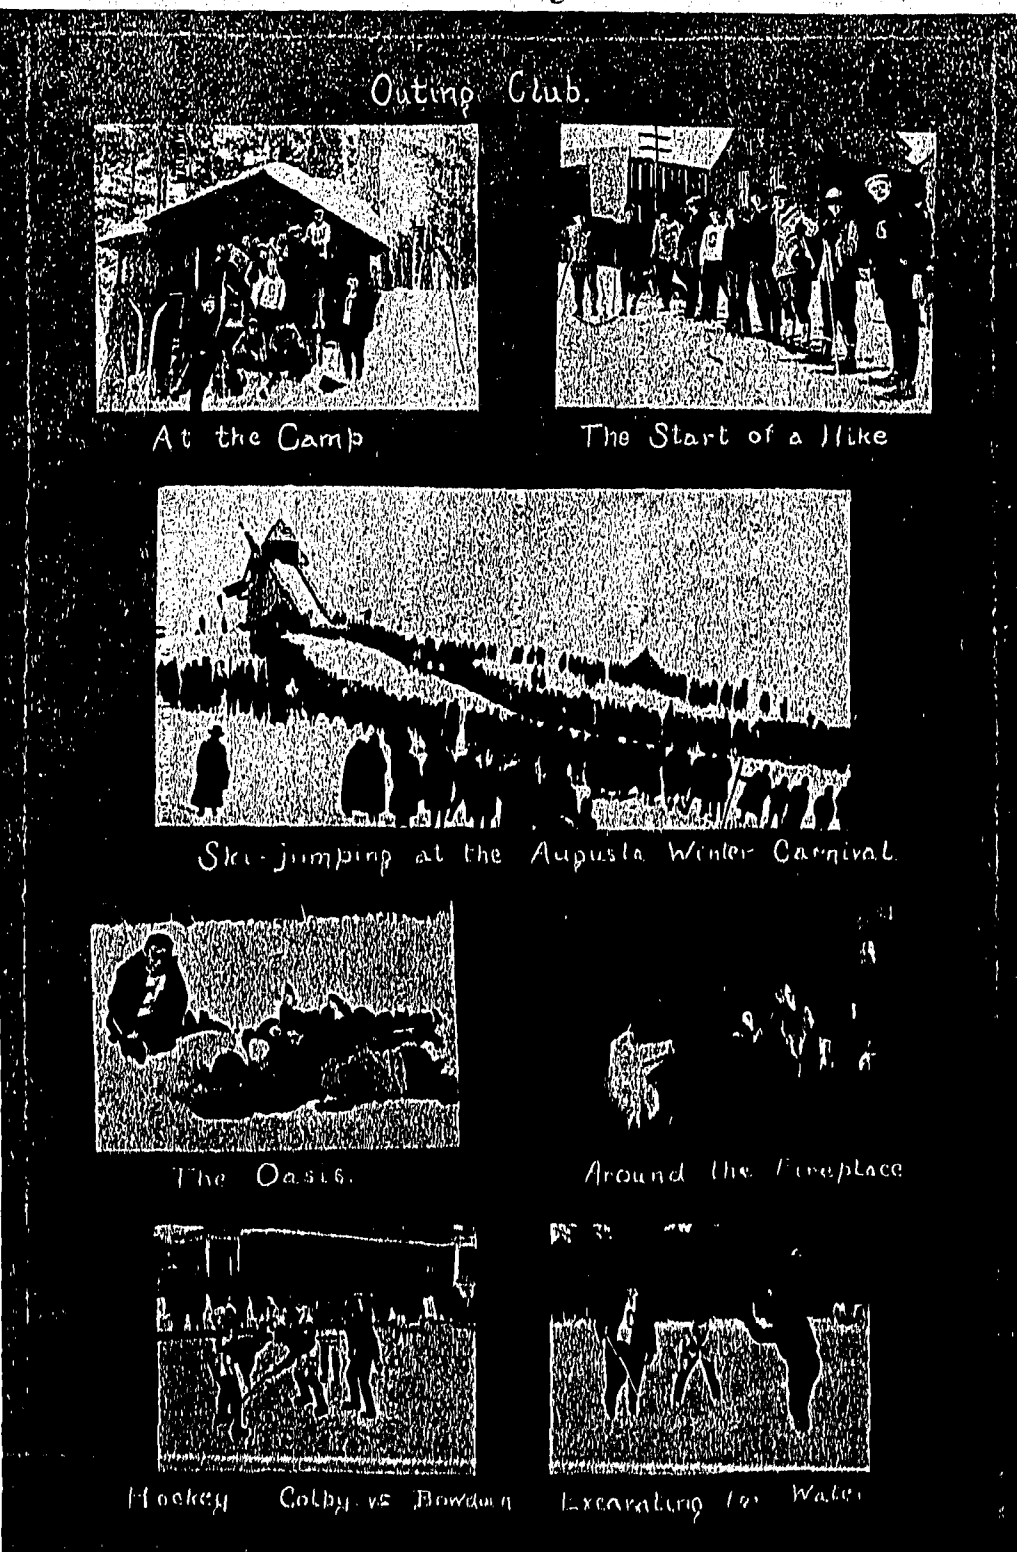

TOWN GIRLS LEAD Y. W.

The regular meeting of the Y. W. C. A. held on Tuesday evening, January 8, was a most interesting one, conducted by the Town Girls' Committee, Miss Ethel L. Littlefield, '25, chairman of the committee, presided at the meeting.

Various examples of the hymns which are sung today were discussed by several of the town girls, who told under what circumstances each composer happened to write the hymn. After each hymn was discussed, it was sung by the members of the association present.

Those who took part in the program were: Ethel A. Childs, '25; Miss C. Adams, '25; Lynn A. Norcross, '27; Ethel P. Mason, '25; and Davida Clark, '27.

"Study first is safety first!"

Two things loom large on the college horizon: Mid-Years and Winter Sports.

We reiterate: In about two weeks you will be wishing that you had started boning TODAY.

The Bates Glee Club took an international trip during vacation—they gave concerts in Mexico and Norway.

Henry Van Dyke says that college students have a vocabulary of about 250 words of slang. Maybe that is why they so often tell the instructor that they have the idea but cannot express it.—Boston Herald.

The lad that lectured to the Harvard professors on the fourth dimension at the age of fifteen is now out of jail and has a job running an adding machine, according to recent news items. MORAL: Never lecture to Harvard professors on the fourth dimension until sixteen years old!

TO COLBY AUTHORS.

Collecting the material for our department of reviews of "Books by Colby Authors" has brought to light the surprising fact that a large number of the books written by Colby graduates are not in the college library. The library can not buy all of the books that it would like, so it would seem perfectly appropriate, to say the least, for Colby authors to present copies of their works. It adds a special interest if the book bears the author's autograph.

The next time that you have anything published, therefore, please make it a point to send a copy to the Colby library.

THE SEVEN WONDERS.

A few days ago the New York Herald published a symposium on the Seven Wonders of America. The opinions of twenty-three leading men in the country were printed and furnished an interesting diversity of opinion. It might be noted in passing that two of these twenty-three were graduates of Colby.

The idea was stimulating and opened up the question of what might be considered the Seven Wonders of Colby. We should be glad to receive contributions on this subject from our readers. Just as a starter we submit the following:

1. The spirit of service.
2. The Lovejoy tradition.
3. The Milton bust.
4. The achievements of Colby alumni.
5. The Boardman Willows.
6. The Civil War memorial.
7. The stadium and athletic field.

WE AIM TO PLEASE.

One of the troubles of an editor is the difficulty in finding out what elements of his paper are satisfactory and what parts are a waste of type. If the sales fall off he knows that something is wrong, but even that guide is denied the editor of the ECHO. Therefore, he would appreciate any word, spoken or written, which would indicate what parts are most in need of improvement: editorials, news, local items, or editorial page features.

The Business Manager also would like to know whenever, for some reason, one's copy fails to arrive. It is often impossible to check up on the mailing list and it is all too easy to slip up occasionally.

POETRY

LOSS.

By Elliot C. Lincoln, '06.
Just for a fragment of morning we two were together.

Trail joined trail in the hills, and we rode to the west.
Chance-met comrades in youth and
the upland weather, Wasting our priceless minutes in banter and jest.

Short was the way, but I learned life's song from her singing,
Learned from her slow sweet smile,
and the gray of her eyes,
Saw with new vision the clustered
yucca bells swinging,
Thrilled to the beauty of white peaks meeting the skies.

How could I know that the hills would grow dark with her going?
Laughing, I watched her ride into the south, and away.
Mine was a living gleam of high god's bestowing;
Lightly I tossed it aside in a spirit of play.

I should have put aside all things, and made her road my road,
I should have followed her down to the ends of the earth.
Blind, I have followed the dim trails,
missing love's highroad:
She could have led me to honor,
and glory, and worth.

Mine was the folly of wisdom, and mine the transgressing.
Now must I keep through time's blurring, and treasure for gain,
The grace of a white throat, formed for a man's caressing,
Brown hair and a girl's wrist bent to a bridle rein.

printed in "The Lyric West" and had the honor of being reprinted with comment in the Current Poetry department of the Literary Digest for

COLLEGE LIFE IN CHINA

Letter From Foster, '13, Tells of Experiences.

To the Editor of the Echo:

After having been in Maine for a few weeks and having seen college in session it is hard to realize that it is ten years since Mrs. Foster and I left Colby and that the last four years have been spent in a locality almost directly on the opposite side of the globe. You asked about some of our "Experiences." We have had plenty of them and of all kinds. In looking back over the recent years the most deeply imbedded impressions are those of traveling. We figured that our little boy John, who is now four and a half years old, had traveled 16,000 miles before he was six months old. Since then he has added at least 13,000 more miles. Fortunately traveling is quite easy and, on the whole, our recollections of the journeyings are very pleasant.

We left for China in the summer of 1919, shortly after getting out of the army, and spent our first year in Nanking. I attended the University of Nanking Language School and Mrs. Foster attended mostly to the wants of John. After mastering (?) the language we then proceeded to Changsha, eight hundred miles up the Yangtze river valley, where the Yale Mission is carrying on its most interesting piece of philanthropic mission work.

Where Anything May Happen.
Changsha, a city of about 250,000 inhabitants, is the capital of Hunan Province, the central province of China. This state is of about the area of Kansas, is in the same latitude as Florida, and has a population variously estimated at from eighteen to twenty-nine million. Politically Hunan has declared her independence of the Peking government. She professes to a modern constitution, one which was modeled after California's, but it is little more than a scrap of paper. Her military governor is an autocratic despot who has maintained his seat for four years by intrigue and the force of his troops. Beholdings without trial have been common and have discouraged many an insipient revolution. Recent letters from Changsha indicate the probable overthrow of Governor Chao by this time. Just our luck to miss the excitement. One could write volumes on the interesting features of life in China, of the Chinese people with their customs, their habits of living, their history, the language,—both spoken and written, their religions, the home industries, modes of conveyance and of travel, on the diseases of China, etc., etc. There is so much that is different from what we are accustomed to think as correct and proper; but who are we, coming from a nation only one hundred and forty-seven years old, to tell the people of a nation whose recorded history extends back four or five thousand years that we are right and they are wrong? At least that is the view-point we come to hold at times.

"Yale in China."

At the Yale Commencement in 1902, President Hadley announced the formation of a society of Yale men to establish a mission in China. One man was sent out that fall and it was through his efforts that the decision to locate in Changsha was made. "Yale in China" was founded in 1905 and the following year school was opened with a faculty of three and a student body of thirty. The growth since then has been steady, until now, twenty-one years after President Hadley's announcement and seventeen years since the opening of school, we have at Changsha an institution containing a Preparatory Department, a College of Arts and Sciences, a Medical School and Hospital and a School of Nursing with a foreign trained faculty of forty and a student body of nearly five hundred. The material growth from the humble beginnings within the city to the present substantial and attractive group of buildings on the campus outside of the north wall of the city, has kept pace with the development in personnel. Yale in China is recognized as one of the important forces in education in China and represents a real achievement in only twenty-one years.

The purpose for which Yale in China was founded was to give a practical expression of Christianity to China in this transitory period of her history; to help train her young men for leadership in education, business, medicine and the sciences. China badly needs trained leaders who have Christian ideals of service. "Yale in China" is too young to have a list of notable alumni but we are encouraged by the large proportion of students who have continued on in their education; ninety per cent of our graduates and fifty per cent of the non-graduates are studying in graduate schools in China or abroad, or are employed as teachers in Chinese schools.

Athletics.

The student life at "Yale in China" is very much the same as in some of our smaller colleges in America. The students are kept busy with the regular curriculum work. Most of the subjects are taught in English, which, for them, is a foreign language, so it means real work. There is the compulsory morning chapel, compulsory athletics in the afternoons and study hall at night. They have their class organizations, Student Unions, debating and literary societies and musical clubs, the Y. M. C. A. and athletic association, etc. Athletics are still rather a novelty, but they are getting the spirit of play and competition rapidly. Basketball, soccer football, tennis, track and volley ball are the favorite sports. Owing to the distance from other mission schools not much is possible in the line of inter-scholastic or intercollegiate contests at the present. Interclass contests are the usual form and arouse a lot of interest and rivalry. With a growth of interest in athletics in the government schools there will soon be plenty of opponents within the province.

The members of the faculty live in quite modern brick houses on the campus. Life goes on for us very much as it would in any small college community and it is often hard to realize that we are actually in Central China and so far from home folks. The routine of teaching and medical practice in hospital and in the community along with a very pleasant social life makes time pass quickly. The women of the mission find plenty to do in their homes, in teaching or in social service work to keep them busy and happy. The children have good lawns to play on and plenty of playmates. We have enjoyable associations and the work and according to present plans will return to Changsha next fall.

John H. Foster, '13.

RESOLUTIONS.

Whereas it has pleased God in His infinite wisdom to remove from this life the father of our beloved brother, Roland W. Paine, be it resolved, That Epitaph charge of Alpha Fraternity express its deepest sympathy to our brother in this trouble, and be it further resolved,

That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family and published in the Colby Echo.

Second Series.

In the second series of games in the Interfraternity Tournament last Wednesday Delta Upsilon and Lambda Chi came out on top. Both of the games were hard fought and the final scores were close.

In the first game of the afternoon which was the best of the two the Delta Upsilon team won from the Deltas by a 34 to 25 score. The first half was a nip and tuck fight with neither team being able to hold margin for any length of time. The Deltas led at the end of the first half but the D. U. aggregation outdid themselves in the second frame and pulled through ahead. Hebert and Johnson were right there for the winners while the Deltas were satisfied with the work of Barnes and Peabody.

The second game proved to be a hard fight between the Lambda Chis and the Alphas with the former outfit winning by a 20 to 10 count. The Lambda Chis started the game with a rush and had netted three baskets before the Alpha offense had got going. The Alphas soon woke up and the half ended to the tune of six all. During the second half the Lambda Chis found the basket easy and piled up a ten point lead that could not be overcome. The work of Laughton and Lawson for the winners and of Felch for the losers was especially noticeable.

DRUIDS ELECT NEW MEMBERS

The Druids, a Colby Junior Honorary Society, held their annual initiation and banquet Monday night. After the initiation, which was held on the campus, the members went to the Young China restaurant, where a fine banquet was held.

There were fourteen new members initiated into the society. They are: Sylvester R. Sullivan of Belmont, Mass.; Nathan A. Lufkin of Adams, Mass.; John P. Flynn of Pittsfield, Mass.; Theodore R. Hodgkins of Farmington, Alfred K. Chapman of Portland, Kenneth E. Wentworth of Waterville, Edward M. Archer of Fairfield, Louis R. McBay of New Bedford, Mass., Donald J. Mills of Monticello, Robert C. Brown of North Haven, John M. Laughton of West Ripley, Elmer M. Taylor of Winthrop, Edward H. Merrill of Yarmouthville, and Raymond S. Grant of Sanford.

The Druid society gives 14 bids to members of the third year class who have stood out in various college endeavors. The custom is to allot these bids on the basis of two to each fraternity. The society was founded 14 years ago, and was organized for the purpose of stimulating interest in college activities.

In order to stimulate interest in scholarship the Druids offered a cup which was awarded annually to the fraternity having the highest scholastic average. This cup was lost in the fire which destroyed the Lambda Chi Alpha house in December, 1922. The society has always been interested in undergraduate sports, and has offered an interfraternity track cup, which is annually awarded to the fraternity scoring the largest number of points in the interfraternity track meets. These meets are conducted by the track department, and the cup has done a great deal of good in arousing interest in track among the students.

The Druids have donated an interfraternity basketball cup, to be awarded annually to the winner of the interfraternity basketball tournament. The freshman class won the cup this year.

"What a difference just a few cents make!"

PHI MU HOLDS INITIATION

Phi Mu annual initiation was held Saturday afternoon, January 12, and was followed by the banquet at the Elmywood.

The dining room was attractively decorated with the fraternity colors, rose and white.

Alice Manter, '24, was a very clever toastmistress. She introduced as speakers Hilda M. Fife, '26, Ida F. Jones, '23, Ruth Fifield, '25, Ethel Harmon, '24, Leota E. Schoff, '25, Helen B. Stone, '27, Anna C. Erickson, '24, and F. Christine Booth, '26.

Besides the initiates, Louise B. Butler, '27, N. Marie Buzzell, '25, Emily F. Candage, '27, Evie A. Ellis, '27, Hilda F. Desmond, '27, Dorothy M. Farnsworth, '27, Barbara M. Fife, '27, Helen Harmon, '27, Gwendolyn C. Johnson, '27, Julia D. Mayo, '27, Alice E. Rogers, '27, and Helen B. Stone, '27. Ida F. Jones, '23, Miriam Tyler, ex-'26, Josephine H. Warburton, ex-'25 and Mrs. Edith E. Luce, '18 of Pi chapter were present.

DR. BLACK TO LEAVE COLBY.

1894 he came to Waterville as professor of history and has been here since that time. About 10 years ago the department of economics was established and his title was changed to professor of history and political science.

Dr. Black has been at Colby 30 years. During that time he has made many friends, both in the college and in the city. Mainly through his efforts the department has reached its present high standard. The library of the department has increased from the 400 to 500 books at that time, to a very substantial collection of 3000 volumes together with a fine assortment of maps and photographs.

NEW STUDENT FROM CHINA

Mr. To-Hua Tong of Shanghai is the latest student to enroll at Colby college.

Mr. Tong, whose father is manager of the "Silk Corporation of Shanghai," attended Mang-Yang college at Shanghai as a freshman, afterwards transferring to Peking College of Commerce and Finance where he completed a four years course in 1919.

Mr. Tong worked as an accountant for the Chinese government railways, first on the Peking Suí Yüan line; then on the Kiao-Tai railway after it was handed over to the Chinese by the Japanese government as a result of the Washington conference.

The Kiao-Tai railway sent Mr. Tong to the United States to study economic conditions in this country. He was influenced to come to Colby by his cousin Li Su who is studying here; Li Su was sent to Colby last year by Arthur G. Robinson, Colby '06, a Y. M. C. A. director at Tientsin.

HEDMAN HOLLERINGS

There isn't so much doing in the old Hall now days. Mid-years are coming and the boys are getting down to business. Those who aren't attending to their own business are at least attending to somebody else's so that accounts for the silence.

Everybody from Allen to Lorensky here participated in a close struggle with Prof. Edwards' Hygiene exam this week. The rest of the crowd get theirs next week. Many close scores are being reported.

Flannel shirts and galoshes are very much in evidence at the present. Most of the galoshes have sprouted and to see a Hedmanite winding his way up College avenue now reminds one of an ocean liner laboring under a heavy sea.

Don't forget to patronize Tom O'Donnell and Mutt Peavey when you want to invest in a new pair of kicks. When you wear your old shoes out don't wear them back in again but visit this team. If it's basketball shoes you want call on Pep Fasse. You will find that all of these boys have an "inexhaustible line."

Bill Macomber has crawled into a hole and dragged it in after him so there is naught to remark about this promising youth from Fall River in this issue. His two accomplices, Rainboth, the Kandy Kid and "Hairy" Kaufmann are still present however. "Tubby" Allen is still among the ambitious ones in the hall. Tubby took on weight over the holidays but P. T. will take it off him before many weeks.

Creek Jordan started off this term by sleeping through five consecutive classes. Perhaps Rip Van Winkle won't roll over in his grave when he hears that, eh?

Don't forget about volunteering services on the rink after a snow-storm. The hockey team has gotta be backed 100 per centimes by "we ites." Neglect not.

Mike Chafetz announces hot doings on the Chess and Checker squad. The recent snowfall put them back a bit but aside from that all are doing nicely thank U.

Clarence Hale has started in taking a course in voice culture. It's a correspondence course evidently and when he doesn't understand a certain assignment he just sticks his head out the window and asks his instructor about it. (The instructor lives in New York City).

Pictures for the Oracle have kept the boys busy dolling up recently. "Phizz zogs" of Hedmanites may be seen galore when the publication comes out.

This is White Mule week and everybody is looking forward to purchasing one of these magazines. Be sure and read them line for line boys 'cause mid-years are coming.

Still there are no light bulbs on the upper floor of the hall. We are "in the dark" on this subject and would like to be enlightened.

HIT THOSE MIDEARS OR THEY'LL HIT YOU.

Hoot Mon.

Josephine H. Warburton, ex-'25, who is attending Posse School of Physical Education at Boston, Mass., spent the week end at Foss Hall.

RELAY TEAM.

Last Saturday saw the first real competition of the new board track.

For a week Coach Ryan has been putting the men through light workouts getting them in condition. Saturday two teams under Captain Hearon and Joe McGarry put over an interesting race with the last two men finishing close. Capt. Hearon, McGarry and Fransen, veterans from last year, and Taylor, Brown and John Berry ran very well in the first race in which sixteen candidates took part.

The corners of the board track are being changed to make it much easier for the runners. This week, with the track in good condition, there will be several time trials.

If you are ambitious to learn how to become a high jumper, low jumper, broad jumper or any other kind of a jumper, step out of a shower bath and accidentally back into a hot radiator.

WE'LL ALL BE THERE!
