

GIRLS CLOSE MUSICAL SEASON
WITH CONCERT AT JUNIOR HIGH

Women Are Well Received In Final Concert
Of Year By An Enthusiastic Audience--
"The Quest Of The Gypsy" Proves To Be a Pleasing Innovation.

On Tuesday evening, April 20, the Women's Musical Clubs presented their annual Waterville concert in the Junior High School Auditorium, to a most appreciative audience. The program this year was somewhat different from those of preceding years in that the second part was taken up by a musical comedy entitled "The Quest Of The Gypsy." This feature was the cause of much favorable comment, and displayed the talent which is to be found among Colby students. The program consisted of several musical numbers in the following order:

The Dawn of Love.
Paupée Balsante,
Orchestra.
It Was a Lover and His Lass.
O Solo Mio.
Glee Club.
Connecticut March.
Popular Selections.
Mandolin Club.
The Swan.
Glee Club.
Ave Verum Corpus.
Gavotte,
Orchestra.

Operetta, "The Quest of the Gypsy."
Cast of Characters.

Gypsy	True Hardy
Country Boy	Harriet Towle
Isabel	Martha Allen
Barbara	Helen Smith
Ida	Mary Holland
Myra	Edna Cohen
Dorothy	Pearle Grant
Rhoda	Ruth Daggett
Jean	Claire Richardson
Lillian	Viollette Bonfleur
Cora	Elisabeth Gross
Faith	Olive Richardson
Lena	Alexandrine Fuller

Glee Club.

The argument in the operetta was as follows: The chief of a band of "real bachelor" gypsies (True Hardy) tells the audience that he, and they, are looking for a crook. None in the audience offering themselves for such a purpose, he wanders off still looking for one. But stay! Singing is heard off stage and a bevy of charming maidens dressed in brilliant colors enter with dancing step. No, they are not gypsies though they wish every one to think so. However, and much more to the point, they are the graduating class of a famous cooking school in Boston with "back to nature" as their slogan. They appropriate the gypsies' camp. Although perfectly good cooks (with diplomas) they soon discover that they lack the where-with-all and so accept with enthusiasm the offer of a passing country boy (Harriet Towle) to "stock them up with victuals." The Gypsy man now returns to find one lone girl (Martha Allen) in possession of camp and concocting something delicious in a chafing dish. Cupid, combined with the odor of real cooking, brings about love at first sight and the girls returning with supplies interrupt a most charming romance. The Gypsy man is introduced and is much surprised and delighted to find two more cooks. Says he, "I have already secured one—for life—but in my hand there are ten splendid fellows whose lives have been made miserable by experimenting cooks, so let's away to my woodland home," and off they all go to the "happiness that waits on good digestion."

Martha Allen was a wonderful leading lady. The scene with which she executed her part showed that she was a born actress. She was the object of much favorable comment which she justly deserved. True Hardy made an excellent "ho-man" who could not help but entice even the most fastidious of women. She made love to Isabel in a most becoming manner. Her rich, deep tones showed a remarkable voice, and her acting was very clever. Harriet Towle played the part of the country boy to perfection. Glad in overalls and a large "cow's breakfast" hat she made a very portly little boy, who, even though a bit bashful at first, found that he loved the fortune-teller, especially when she told "him" such a nice fortune. Helen Smith as the fortune-teller sang very pleasingly when she told the "boy" "his" fortune, and Edna Cohen recited the "Chaperone Song" in a very delightful manner. The other members of the cast proved themselves to be superlative chorus girls, and the audience was charmed by such an array of pulchritude. During the operetta, Bernice Collins entertained with a sailor's hornpipe which was very well given, and Louise Chapman did a Negro clog dance which was very clever. Each one of the musical numbers was well rendered and showed a fine display of musical talent.

Much credit for the success of the two concerts, in Oakland on April 16, and in Waterville on April 20, is due to Mr. Harry Smith of Waterville, who directed the Glee club and the operetta. Others who worked towards making the concerts successful are Emily Heath, '26, leader and president of the Musical clubs; Arline Mann, '27, manager of the Musical clubs; Mollie Seltzer, '26, leader of the Orchestra; Elisabeth Gross, '28, leader of the Mandolin club; and Jessie Alexander, '28, pianist for the orchestra, glee club, and operetta.

SHERIFFS GUARD
DEKE PRISONERS

Deputies Patrol Frat House
Forcing Dekes Into Solitary Confinement Because Of Scarlet Fever Scare.

The Deke house was put in quarantine last Friday by the County Public Health Commissioner Dr. Young. The reason for this is that Donald Tupper of Worcester, Mass., who is a student at Colburn and is residing at the house, has been stricken with scarlet fever. Dr. Young put the ban down for five days. The frat house has been patrolled diligently by deputy sheriffs, sworn to do their duty, along with their trusty mastiffs so that, without a doubt to rankle our minds, this contagion is unlikely to spread except in the Deke house.

It is a sad dilemma into which the Dekes have been thrust and we, who are watching the progress from the outside, sympathize greatly with their unfortunate fate. However, no matter how great a misfortune it may be, they seem to be taking it by no means seriously and a holiday atmosphere hovers, seemingly about them. Let us hope that, in all seriousness, Mr. Tupper will soon recover and that the Dekes will be able to enjoy their freedom.

Y. W. C. A. INSTALLS
OFFICERS AT BANQUET

The annual banquet and installation of the Colby Young Women's Christian Association took place at Posa Hall on Tuesday evening. Miriam E. Rice, '27, acted as toastmistress. After dinner speeches were made by the retiring president, Hilda M. Fife, '26, who expressed her appreciation for the loyal support of the members during the past year and urged to give as loyal cooperation to the new cabinet and its officers. Julia D. Mayo, '27, the newly-elected president emphasized the service which members of Y. W. C. A. might render during the coming year and expressed her earnest desire to carry on effectively the work of the organization. Mrs. Clarence H. White, wife of Professor White, who has been a member of the Y. W. C. A. advisory board for a number of years told of the duties of this committee twenty years ago. The student members were represented by Alberta L. Van Horn, '28, whose speech was rendered in poetry, the subject being, "Yes, We Will Answer the Call of Y. W. C. A." Following the speeches an impressive installation service of the officers of the cabinet took place in the Assembly hall.

"POWDER AND WIG" TO PRESENT REVUE

Entire Proceeds of Musical
Comedy To Go To Gymnasium Building Fund.

The Powder and Wig Society is going to present its first annual production at the City Opera House on Tuesday evening, May 11. The proceeds to go to the Colby Gymnasium Building Fund.

The first show is to be a musical revue in two acts, under the title of "Bobbette" with The Midnight Sons of Colby. There are to be a variety of scenes, some serious and some not so serious.

The leads in the show are to be Charles M. Hannafin as Bobbette, and Edwin W. Harlow as Bob. The cast includes a large number of principals supported by a large chorus.

It is the aim of the society in future years to put on dramas by well known authors, but until the women's dramatic club is given permission to cooperate with Powder and Wig such an effort would not be feasible.

ANNUAL ELECTION IN WOMEN'S DIVISION HELD

At the annual spring elections of the women's division the following officers were elected for the coming year:

Manager of Musical Clubs, Harriet Towle.
Editor of Echo, Women's Division, Helen Mitchell.
President of Reading Room Association, Evelyn Estey.

TENNIS TEAM FACE
STRENUOUS SEASON

Squad Practicing Hard for Longest Schedule of Tennis History.

The Colby tennis squad has begun active work for the ensuing season. The Blue and Gray players have a difficult schedule for the season, the hardest that a Colby tennis team has ever faced.

The schedule will take the men on two out-of-state trips; one to Massachusetts during which games will be played at Worcester and Boston; the second to Durham, where the Colby racquet wielders will encounter the New Hampshire University representatives. Besides these there several trips including those to Augusta, Portland and Orono.

Captain Macomber is the only man on the squad who has had any real varsity experience. Knox and Foote are left from last year's squad, but they have never borne the brunt of a varsity battle. But the fact that they have been on the squad makes them valuable men. Capt. Macomber is also acting in the capacity of coach. Last week he took his men to Oak Grove gymnasium at North Vassalboro where they went through their first workout of the season. Since then the squad has been having daily workouts in the Colby gym.

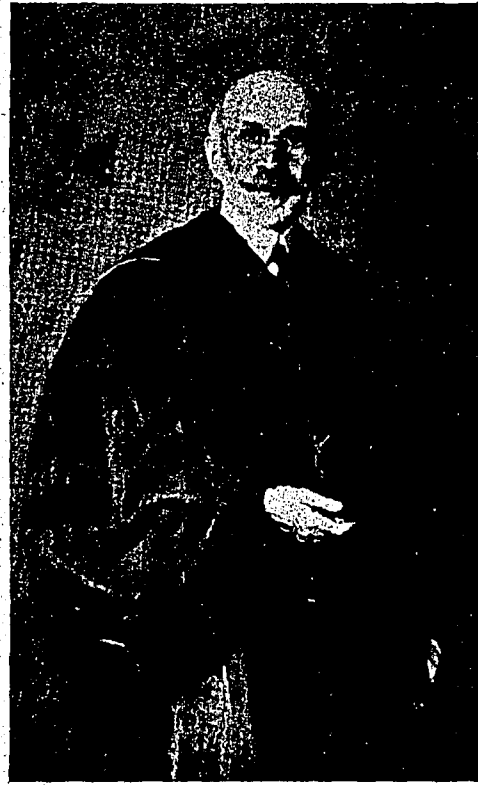

The major event on the Colby schedule is the State Tournament which will be held in Waterville. This will bring representatives of the four Maine colleges to the Elm City to battle for the tennis championship of the state.

Plans are now under way and are being pushed to the limit to hold a school meet. This, if successful, will bring court warriors from Maine high and prep schools to fight it out on the Colby courts.

ALBION WOODBURY SMALL DIES
AT UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO

Colby Loses Eminent Member Of The Class
Of '76---Was a Distinguished Author And Educator--Formerly President Of College--
Is Said To Have Introduced Sociology As Science To America.

It was with the keenest regret that both those acquainted with Dr. Albion Woodbury Small and those acquainted with his books heard of his death on the 24th of last month. Dr. Small had been forced to resign from his duties at the University of Chicago last June because of ill health and finally succumbed to a weak heart.

Albion Woodbury Small, Ph. D.

The loss of a man so great in both Science and Education will be deeply felt. He was an excellent student, standing at the head of his classes, an industrious and deep thinking scholar but above all else, an educator of the first degree. His students revered him; his colleagues respected him; there was inspiration in him. He had that sense which enabled him to look forward into the future and discern just what would be matters of moment. This aided him not only as an educator but also in selecting and delegating duties to others. As a professor he will be remembered for his knowledge, his friendship, his human sympathy and perception of moral issues. Writing in reference to Dr. Small, Frederic J. Gurnsey of the University of Chicago says: "Great scholar and investigator as he was, Dr. Small's primary interest was in human beings. Great teacher as he was he taught not a subject but people. His perception of the moral issues of any situation was unerring and his attitude with regard to principles was absolutely uncompromising, but his aim was to make people see the right and help them to do it."

Dr. Small is credited with having introduced the science of Sociology into America. In this respect he ranks with Auguste Comte and Lester F. Ward. His founding of the American Journal of Sociology in 1895 was a signal advance in the field in which he was so eminent.

Dr. Small's connection with Colby was characterized by his thoroughness and industry in teaching, and by his judgment in administration. During his short stay as president he strengthened the faculty and the college (both financially and intellectually).

Albion Woodbury Small was born in Buckfield, Me., May 11, 1854. His parents were Rev. Albion K. P. and Thankful (Woodbury) Small. He entered Colby college in 1872, receiving his A. B. in 1876 and the master's degree after having spent three years in Newton Theological Institution. During his college career he gave promise of what was to follow by taking first prize in the Sophomore Declamation. In 1879 he studied at the University of Leipzig, and the following year at the University of Berlin. After returning from Germany he taught for seven years in Colby as professor of political economy. In 1880, after a year as reader in history at John Hopkins University, he was granted the dogree of Doctor of Philosophy. During the following three years he served as the president of Colby college. In 1892, despite the regrets of both student body and faculty, President Small resigned to accept the professorship of Sociology in the University of Chicago, which position he retained until ill-health forced him to resign in 1925. Thirteen years later, in 1908, Dr. Small was elected Dean of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences and vice president of the University. Dr. Small founded the American Journal of Sociology soon after becoming connected with the University, and has acted as its editor ever since. In 1904 he was Editor of Arts and Sciences at the St. Louis Exposition, a position in which he exerted much influence.

Besides many magazine articles Dr. Small wrote text books on Sociology which are standard. His principal work are: "General Sociology," (1905); "Adam Smith and Modern Sociology," (1907); "The Cameralist," (1909); "The Meaning of Social Science," (1910); "Between Eras, from Capitalism to Democracy," (1913); and his last publication, "Origins of Sociology," (1920).

STUDENTS URGED TO ATTEND CAMPS

Citizens Military Training
Camps Appeal for Enrollments.

Major General Preston Brown of the regular army has made an appeal to the physical training department of Colby college to further the interest of the student body in enrollment for the Citizens Military Training Camps. Since these camps are conducive to the development of physical health, mental vigor and moral excellence they fall in line with the athletic policy of the physical training department of the college and it is deemed an advisable step for candidates for various athletic teams and others to enroll for the various courses offered at those C. M. T. camps.

They have received the full approval and endorsement of such football coaches as Hugo Bezdek of Penn State, and W. W. Roper of Princeton, as the outdoor life, regular hours, discipline and military training are helpful in developing the necessary qualities of a successful football player. It is hoped that Colby men will avail themselves of this opportunity of 30 days of hiking, baseball, football, shooting, tennis, boxing, track and field sports, sham battles and week-end trips.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES
CONSIDER PETITION

Many Members of Board
Unable to Be Present---
Action on Gym Postponed---Favorable Decision
Expected in June.

The April meeting of the Board of Trustees of Colby college was held last Saturday in Portland. Circumstances intervened to make it impossible for several members of the board to be present. Due to the sessions of the Supreme Court Judges Bassett, Philbrook, Barnes could not attend while Trustees Bailey, Seaverns, Alden, and others found it impossible to be at the meeting. The board deeply regretted the absence of W. P. Bailey, Esq., of Winthrop, Mass., who has missed but two meetings in twenty-five years. They also learned with keen sorrow of the severe illness of Dana W. Hall of Chicago, one of their most faithful members.

President Roberts reported favorable conditions at the college but stated that the scholarship campaign was moving slowly and needed the active cooperation of alumni, trustees and friends of the college. The finance committee through George C. Wing made a satisfactory report.

A report on the Colby fitting schools was given by Secretary Whittemore who will make further report at the meeting in June. The committee on the 150th anniversary celebration of Phi Beta Kappa reported through President Roberts that plans were progressing in a satisfactory manner. The retirement allowance for professors as provided by the Carnegie Association was adopted and statement was made that the college was now ready to carry out the plans upon application. President Roberts also presented the matter of faculty group insurance which was referred to the finance committee with powers.

Formal announcement was made to the board of the death of Albion Woodbury Small of the class of '76, former president of Colby, and the secretary of the board was instructed to draw suitable resolutions to be placed in the records and a copy to be sent to the bereaved family.

In the absence of Judge Bassett, Hon. Herbert E. Wadsworth gave the report for the committee on buildings and grounds. Satisfactory progress was reported and recent activities of the committee reviewed.

One of the most important of the reports was given by Secretary E. C. Whittemore who is engaged at the present time in writing a history of the college. Secretary Whittemore stated that progress on the history was being made and that the first draft had been completed. Further research which will continue through the summer is needed and the history should be completed sometime during the late fall, in the author's opinion. The finally completed volume will be a book of approximately three hundred pages, it was announced.

The petition of the student body in reference to a new gymnasium was favorably received although no definite action was taken. This, however, will occur at the June meeting. Development of a supplementary athletic field was also discussed and this was referred to the committee on buildings and grounds.

A complete report of the meeting will be found in the next issue of the Alumnus which will appear within three weeks.

INSTALLATION OF "Y"
OFFICERS TAKES PLACE

On Tuesday evening, April 13, the new "Y" officers were installed. Remarks were made by retiring President Kenneth J. Smith and President-elect Herbert L. Jenkins.

A meeting of the cabinet was held Tuesday, April 20. Plans were laid for a "Carry-on" meeting of the cabinet at Lake Umbagog to be held the week-end of May 9. Lawrence Pankas was elected as a representative to the New England Field Council. In this capacity he will serve as chairman of the Northfield committee.

Tuesday evening at the regular meeting the Deputation Team reported on the services held at Dover-Foxcroft, Saturday and Sunday, April 17 and 18. The team consisted of Kenneth J. Smith, '26, William Garabedian, '26, Herbert Jenkins, '27, and Howard Towle, '20.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 21, 1926.

It would seem as though Colby is threatened with an epidemic of scarlet fever. As usual student opinion seems to be divided on the matter both as to whether one exists, or whether one is really desirable. Some of our fainter hearts have left for points both East and West while some of the braver proselytes of learning who are here are devoutly praying that said epidemic may sweep the campus. It has been said on good authority that "the poor we always have with us." This might be expanded to say "the fools we always have with us," unless perchance some of them may have fled,—from what they know not of.

Scarlet fever is a serious thing and should be taken seriously. The city should be complimented on its quick precautionary action. However no group of officials can expect to deal with 650 students unless they have their cooperation, not without the aid of the militia anyway. So let's not wholly nullify their efforts by treating the matter as a joke. If Colby was to have an epidemic of the chicken pox or the mumps it might be particularly humorous, but scarlet fever is an entirely different matter. It is one of the most virulent and serious of the contagious diseases,—not so much during its actual program but because of the complications which are apt to set in during convalescence. These are often fatal.

The symptoms are an intensely sore throat, chills or rigors and complete nausea. These are followed by a discharge from the ears and the characteristic rash which breaks out first on the throat and chest. Any student exhibiting these symptoms should immediately consult a physician and in the meantime keep away from other students. It is both foolish and useless to go home as the authorities are required by law to bring you back anyway. If the patient really has scarlet fever the travelling involved may prove fatal. Let's use our heads, and in the interim the scare may have passed anyway.

It might be timely to remind the men that the money pledged to the "Gymnasium Fund" is due a week from Friday. Provision should be made to pay the money on the day it is due. Let's not fall down on the first thing we ever attempted for the Gymnasium.

The present senior class will go down as famous in more ways than one. We actually saw a baseball game with the University of Maine on Patriot's Day, 1922.

The Girls' Musical Clubs closed their season last night before an enthusiastic audience in the Junior High School. The concert was the best we have heard in the past four years at Colby. The idea of having an operetta or "musical comedy" on the second half of the program was a delightful innovation. It surely should have an important part in the program for the succeeding years.

This operetta was by far the most outstanding feature of the evening's program although the last two orchestral numbers on the first half of the program were also pleasing. The two solo dancers were a revelation. We didn't know that such talent existed in the college.

After listening to the excellent concerts put on this year by both Glee Clubs, we cannot help but wonder why it is that we are not allowed to hear a concert by the combined Glee Clubs of both divisions. Surely the success of such a venture is assured beforehand. But shades of our immortal predecessors,—perhaps this is even too much, even to suggest.

In the meantime however, it does seem that the girls are deserving of a larger "turn out" on the part of the men's division to witness their musical efforts. This year was a vast improvement in this respect for there were more men present this year than during the last three years combined (if our memory serves us correctly). But even this year there were not nearly as many men present at the women's concert as there were women (unescorted) at the men's concert.

We do not wish to be accused of being exponents of co-education nor pan-feminists for these are farthest from our mind. In all sincerity however, are the women getting a 50-50 deal from the men?

LITERARY COLUMN

"Mary Glenn," by Sarah Gertrude Millin, is an uninteresting resume of a girl's life in the South African village of Lebanon. Mary Glenn, a girl with a well-developed inferiority complex, strives desperately to make an impression in the petty social life of an obscure town. She marries an attractive but indigent English gentleman who takes her to London. After several years she returns to Lebanon, despising her nice-looking husband for his shiftlessness and forced to accept aid from Brand Van Aardt, an old sweetheart. While on a hunting trip in the African bush, her husband accidentally shoots their young son. Mary nearly dies from grief at his loss. She recovers in the last chapter and makes a grim determination to accept her husband, with all his weaknesses and virtues, as philosophically as possible.

This book, heralded by many as a work of some strength, is very dull and purposeless. It is what Christopher Ward would call "a futitarian novel." Not only that, but the author has several unpleasant mannerisms. She persists in starting very many of her sentences with "And" or "But" and she arbitrarily divides her chapters into numbered sections. In one long paragraph she started every sentence with "Now." Not so hot.

"Fig Iron," by Charles Norris, is a strong, satisfying novel. In the early eighties Sam Smith left his father's farm and came to New York. He flung himself mightily into the turmoil of the city, worked hard, loved blindly and made money. Step by step he forced himself up and at the time of the World War, was one of the most powerful men in the country. But his happiest days were lived. At the age of sixty, despite his beautiful wife, fine children and uncounted millions, his greatest pleasure was to tune in on the radio. No, it doesn't read like an article in the American Magazine—it is a powerful story of the disintegration of a fine character.

Harper & Brothers have published Noel Coward's three-act play "The Vortex." It is a tired, casual, weak little play in which the characters go around offering each other cigarettes and cocktails. Now and then, between acts or dances, someone makes a clever remark. At the end of the third act there is a tearful scene between Florence Lancaster and her son Nicky. Florence promises to give up her lovers and live the useful life. Nicky reciprocates, promising to give up his drugs and assist his mother in useful living. Then the curtain comes down and the audience goes home, one would think, unimpressed and only mildly amused. Meanings and messages are at a discount in this play.

THE STUDENT'S COMPLAINT
I'd like to make an airy verse
With wild and artless grace,
A trembling, vivid little thing
With wide-eyed, joyous face.

A verse that gambols in the sun
And cries of wine and song,
That loves to live and lives to love
And dances all day long.

But gee! I can't, because I'm broke,
My hard earned cash I've spent.
I need some shoes, I've got the blues,
My landlord wants his rent!

SPORTOLOG

The athletic epitome of Saturday's meeting of the board of trustees is as follows:

The petition for a new gymnasium which was presented by the Colby Student Council in behalf of the student body was very favorably received and not a word of opposition to the new structure was heard. Several members of the board spoke enthusiastically in its favor and President Roberts stated that a new gymnasium must be the next big development at Colby. The secretary of the board was directed to acknowledge receipt of the petition and express the entire sympathy of the trustees with its spirit and object. The absence of several of the most influential members of the board prevented action at that time but definite plans will be made at the June meeting to secure the gymnasium as soon as possible. It is not known exactly what steps will be taken. The trustees were extremely optimistic and the press informant, a member of the board, expressed the opinion that the new structure would be completed within three years. The student body can be sure that the trustees will do all in their power to obtain the new building and that they are confident of success. The student body, however, cannot rest upon this assurance. Powder and Wig started the move which must be adopted by the entire college when they voted all proceeds from their play to the gym fund. The entire student body must catch this spirit! They must not forget the slogan given them a week ago—FOLLOW THROUGH!

And other trustees action occurred like unto the latter: It is understood that a field off the campus is available for the use of the college athletes and will probably be developed within a short time. A committee of trustees is working to obtain such a field but pending the securing of additional grounds the field behind Hedman Hall will be smoothed and made available immediately. Certainly the need was never greater. Does your work make you worthy of their support?

The second of the un-Christian ball games between the habitants of Hedman who are just breaking their hibernation, was played this week and the Wet Drops, claimants of the intrafraternal championship, did a Davy Jones when deluged by a great Splash. The sinking occurred on the historic battlefield where but one week ago the Drops were swallowed up by the Drops. The usual ground rules obtained and the first bounce was not out. The game was called just before dark due to the fact that Bill Blake, recently released by the Kennebunk Punks, has hit in the head with only ball which necessitated removing the latter from the game. The freshies are now using it for a beanbag. Mundt and Sansone, the latter a triple threat a week ago, were very consistent and each gave a good exhibition of an Egyptian fan bearer, touching the ball only after the game. Moth Miller, pitched for the Splashes, made eleven men walk the plank into the dark and dismal strikeout abyss. Flatfoothead Grant was terrible.

BASEBALL SEASON
OPENS SATURDAYPostponed Exhibition Game
Between Colby And U.
Of M. To Be Played.

Because of the continuous cold weather and poor diamond condition the exhibition game between the Colby and University of Maine ball tossers, which was to be played on Patriot's Day, has been postponed until Saturday. Only with continuous sunshine and warm weather will the field be ready by the 24th.

Instead of the Maine game and in order to draw a better line upon the right men for the various positions, Coach Roundy selected two teams and held a practice game. The work of the men in this game and in the coming week of practice will be an important factor in deciding upon what men will be taken on the Southern trip next week.

"Punk" Keith, captain of last year's football team, caught for team A, the winning team. Keith played a steady game and may develop into a dependable back stop. Muir, a southpaw and captain of the hockey team tossed them over.

MacGowan, a last year's veteran, played at the keystone sack. This is Mac's last year and it should be his biggest.

MacDonald, a last year's sub, covered second in good shape and Marr was stationed in the hot corner. Marr's hitting was a feature and should contribute in winning many games for the Colby nine.

O'Brien at short played his usual brilliant game. This looks like a big year for O'Brien also.

Last year's capable veterans held the outfield positions: Fagerstrom in left, Franson in center, and Captain Peabody in right. These men are all good hitters as well as fielders.

Hanson, a freshman, caught for team B. Heal pitched a good game in spite of the cold weather. Heal is just getting into shape and should have a good season in the box.

Erickson covered first base in good style. Jack is tall and rangy and is proving to be a good man for this position.

Hannefin at second, Mallor at third, and Tierney at short composed the rest of a snappy infield. Tierney, a freshman, has shown up well and should fill O'Brien's shoes to perfection next year.

Because of the cold weather the game only lasted five innings. Coach Roundy made several substitutions during the game.

Callaghan has proven a good fielder and should make the varsity outfielders stop for their positions. "Cal" is a good hitter and can also pitch.

McKeon, a catcher, and Soekins, a twirler, are also showing ability. Both are freshmen.

No one can predict now that we have a championship team, but a good backing up by the student body at all games will go a great way towards helping the Blue and Gray team come out on top.

"Is Nora there?"
"No, she isn't."
"Do you know where I can get hold of her?"
"I couldn't tell you, the boys say she is awfully ticklish."

TRACK TEAM FACES
HARDEST SEASON YETFirst Meet With M. I. T. on May 8th--Many Men
Are In Intensive Training.

Things are looking up for the hardest varsity track season in Colby's history. Coach Ryan has signed one of the toughest teams in the country for a dual meet, namely Massachusetts Institute of Technology who will visit Waterville on May 8th, one week before the Maine Intercollegiate. This same Tech team has had some of the finest track men in the country for a long time consistently being prominent in the weight events. As Colby is unusually weak in this department the majority of the points there should take a Massachusetts trip immediately after the meet. But it is not only in the field events that Tech is strong, as she has a brilliant array of runners who will make the Blue and Gray hoppers run the races of their young lives. Among these men are Leness, New England half mile champion and runner up in the National Intercollegiate half. He should be able to take at least one race without a doubt and may be a double winner. He is rated the best half miler in any American college by many of the experts. He took the New England title in 1.55 and ran 1.53 4-5 in the Nationals.

But that is not the only hard competition which the Colby men will face as the state and New England meets will be even harder. The loss of such men as Wentworth and Taylor cannot be covered in one year as it takes several seasons to develop men of their caliber. From an impartial standpoint this season does not look like a world beater from a team standpoint although the individual performers on the squad will undoubtedly bring glory to the college. It will be exceedingly hard on both the team and the coach if the student body expects too much from them this season as it can be readily seen that the opposition will be the favorites in every meet which we have thus far signed.

That sounds pessimistic. But with the present weather to aid the men in their development we should be able to scare any opponent which may be chosen. The men started serious training last Monday and from now until the final meet of the year will be working every day in preparation for the competition to come. They will be in perfect physical condition for the work which they must do and every possible point will be scored. Any man on the squad who has a point in his system will get it out.

The leading contenders for the various events according to Coach Ryan, although several other men may score points as this tentative list is wholly on past record as the season is not far enough along to get any accurate idea how the men will work out their winter laziness, are as follows: 100 yard dash, Mittelsdorf, Mathers, Sprague; 220 yard dash, Mittelsdorf, Mathers, Sprague; 440 yard dash, Captain Brown, Baker, Hunt; 880 yard run, Sansone, G. Hodgkins, Baker; one mile run, Sansone, Lines; two mile run, Brudno, Sullivan, L. Johnston, Towne; running broad jump, Severy and Barry; running high jump, Soekins, J. D. Johnston, Newhall; 100 yard high hurdles, Barry, Newhall; 220 yard low hurdles, Barry, Newhall, J. D. Johnston; shot put, Gatchell, Drummond, Soekins; hammer throw, Gatchell, Marr, Picher; discus throw, Gatchell, Drummond, Marr; javelin throw, Callaghan, Drummond, Marr. That list is of necessity incomplete but will form the backbone of the scoring possibilities and upon those men rest the hopes of the college during the coming season. The lack of supporting runners, that is, those who although they may not be able to win races can act as support for the Colby favorite in every race and possibly score second and third places, is woeful. In some of the events there will be but one man who can be depended upon and this condition makes it extremely hard upon those men carrying the burden as it increases their nervous tension and induces worry over their race. There must be more general response to the track call if Colby is to have a chance in the competition this year and every available man should report to Coach Ryan immediately as it is from inexperienced men who report this year that next season's team must be built.

If Plato could shimmy, could Aristotle?

WHAT THE CAT BROUGHT IN

The first meeting of football candidates was held last Saturday in Recitation Hall and about twenty men reported. Coach Roundy outlined his plans. The spring work will be held on the freshman field on Thursday afternoon at 3.45.

Ted Smart, leading candidate for third base on the baseball team has been unable to work out for the past week due to a severe illness. This will severely handicap Coach Roundy. Marr will be at third during Smart's illness.

Coach Ryan, although he has not yet signed articles will undoubtedly bring the track team from Springfield Y. M. C. A. college here next Wednesday, April 28, for a dual meet. This will give the men plenty of early season competition.

Looking at the Massachusetts Tech team somewhat impartially they look like a hard bunch to beat but the men will work with that aim.

The tennis men were outside during the week and will be able to get into shape soon although the courts are not yet in good condition.

Charlie Hannifin, second base guardian on the ball club, is ineligible for the first game but may get up in his studies for the Massachusetts trip.

Captain Macomber and Cooke of the tennis squad lost a lot of valuable work because of their quarantine.

The game with Maine which was scheduled for last Monday will undoubtedly be played on Saturday of this week, and although a practice session, is important to the men as a workout and to the coach as an opportunity to look the men over.

The last round of the interfraternity track meet will be postponed until after the varsity season if Springfield is signed for April 28th.

Sacrifice by athletes for their Alma Mater is usually considered humorous but this year, with the Junior Prom coming the night before the Tech meet, it will be a reality. The captain of track, a senior, has never attended a Junior Prom because this conflict occurs every year.

DRUIDS ATTEND YEARLY BANQUET

The annual initiation of the Druids, the men's Junior Honorary Society was held just before vacation in Chemical Hall. After the ceremony the company adjourned to the Messalonskee Inn where they enjoyed the initiation banquet. Frank Goodrich, '26, was the principal speaker of the evening. He outlined the organization of the Society, giving some of its history and stating its purposes. He extended a welcome to the newly initiated members and proceeded to explain what would be expected of them as Druids. He then touched upon interfraternity relationships, the improvement of which is one of the primary aims of the Society.

Following the speech by Goodrich each member was called upon in turn to say a few words. The speeches were mainly characterized by humorous stories which greatly added to the enjoyment of the evening. The initiates were: Karl Rood and Archer Jordan, Delta Kappa Epsilon; John Nelson and Cleal Cowing, Zeta Psi; Clarence Emery and Carl Anderson, Delta Upsilon; Robert Bowerman and Richard Staunton, Phi Delta Theta; Darold Nickerson and Evan Johnson, Alpha Tau Omega; Lester Nesbitt and Clement Taylor, Lambda Chi Alpha; Gwyeth Smith and William Spinney, Alpha.

URGED TO ATTEND CAMPS.

to enter the C. M. T. C. are that a candidate be 100 pounds, 59 inches tall if 17 years old, or if 18 or over be 60 inches or more. A physical examination which is given free by any doctor in a candidate's neighborhood must be passed and the application of a candidate must be endorsed by a reputable citizen. The complete course at a C. M. T. C. covers four summers but there is no obligations on the part of a man to continue after his first year. In the first year class, called the Basic course, the man is taught the first steps that apply to all branches of the service. Advanced courses are called Red, White and the Blue courses. In these courses specialized training is given in Field Artillery, Coast Guard, Engineering, Cavalry, Infantry and Signal Corps.

Camps will be held during the month of August at Camp Devens, Mass.; Fort McKinley, Portland, Me.; Fort Ethan Allen, Burlington, Vt.; and Fort Terry, New London, Conn. The allotment for this corps area for this year is 3000 men.

Colby men desiring information of the camps, or wishing to enroll may consult any of the following men: Lieut. George H. Auffinger, Lieut. Theodore Pierce, or Sergt. Alexander Salzman, at the college, or Lt. Fred D. McAlary, chairman for Kennebec county, and Capt. John F. Choate, local chairman for Waterville.
