GEOLOGY STUDENTS VISIT BAR HARBOR

Annual Trip Is Made by Auto.—Many Interesting Formations Are Seen.

The students of geology made their annual trip to Bar Harbor last Thursday under the supervision of Dr. Perkins and Prof. Day of Coburn.

The group numbering thirty-three, with Mrs. C. Harry Edwards as a chaperon, left the college by auto early Thursday afternoon and arrived at Bar Harbor in time for supper.

The girls of the party stayed at the Y. W. C. A. and the fellows quartered themselves at the Y. M. C. A., retiring early in preparation for the strenuous day to come.

The party arose early Friday morning and after a bird-hunt with Dr. Perkins and a hearty meal at the Y. W. C. A. started their journey to Cadillac mountain.

The return trip down the mountain was made in a very short time as a dinner was to be eaten at Schooner Head, at some distance from Cadillac mountain.

After dinner the party explored the coast, climbing over cliffs and through caves, viewing the beauties and wonders of wave and water work.

After this climb they returned to the Y. W. C. A. for supper and thence to their various lodging places for a much needed rest.

Many complained of stiff joints and tired muscles, yet all thought that the hike had been worth the work.

Saturday morning only a few turned out for the bird hunt but all were out for breakfast and the climb to Jordan mountain.

This trip was made to cover the most of the island not viewed in the previous explorations so consequently, after stopping along the way for supper, and clams, the party did not arrive in Waterville until late Saturday night.

All feel that the trip has been a great benefit to their study of geology and a good many plan to make the trip, if it is possible, next year.

SEEKINS IS PRESIDENT OF NEXT YEAR'S SOPHOMORES

Class officers were elected a week ago today by members of the freshman class. Mayo A. Seekins of Pittsfield won the presidency, receiving more than a majority for the office.

Seekins without question is one of the most popular men at the college. He has been very prominent in athletic circles since entering Colby last fall and looks to be the best bet that has appeared as a candidate for track in some time.

Charles A. Cowing of West Springfield, Mass., was the choice for vice president. He was one of the regular ends on the freshman football team last fall and is figured as material for the varsity squad.

The joint office of secretary-treasurer will be held by Henry E. Tattersall of New Bedford, Mass. Tattersall was a regular wing on the freshman hockey team during last winter and is now one of the regular members of the varsity tennis team.

ALPHAS INSTALLED BY KAPPA DELTA RHO

Local Group Becomes Xi Chapter of National Fraternity.

The local Alpha fraternity of Colby was installed as the Xi chapter of Kappa Delta Rho at the formal initiation service conducted by the installing officers of the National Council of the fraternity last Saturday evening at the Modern Woodmen hall.

The first regular meeting of the new fraternity was held Sunday morning at ten-thirty for the purpose of electing the new officers. This meeting was followed by the installation banquet which was held at the Elmwood hotel at two o'clock Sunday afternoon with over fifty Kappa Deltas present.

The party arose early Friday morning and after a bird-hunt with Dr. Perkins and a hearty meal at the Y. W. C. A. started their journey to Cadillac mountain.

After dinner the party explored the coast, climbing over cliffs and through caves, viewing the beauties and wonders of wave and water work.

After this climb they returned to the Y. W. C. A. for supper and thence to their various lodging places for a much needed rest.

Saturday morning only a few turned out for the bird hunt but all were out for breakfast and the climb to Jordan mountain.

Representing the National Council, Herbert R. Johnston, Cornell, '17, spoke of the Xi's three-fold responsibility to its own members, to its alumni, and to the other chapters.

In 1918 a chapter was established at Cornell, and from time the fraternity has followed a conservative plan of expansion until at present it has chapters in the following places: Middlebury College, Cornell University, New York State College, Colgate University, Bucknell University, Franklin College, Penn. State, University of Illinois, Ohio State University, University of California, University of Michigan, University of Indiana, and Colby College.

The installing officers were: Arthur M. Otman, Middlebury '17, of Schoenectady, N. Y.; Herbert L. Johnston, Cornell '17, of Buffalo, N. Y.; Franklin Williams, Middlebury '18, of State College, Pa.; Weldon Powell, University of Illinois, '22, of New York City; and Nell Willard, Cornell '18, of Buffalo, N. Y.

The members of Alpha initiated into Kappa Delta Rho are as follows: Honorary members, Dr. Thomas B. Ashcraft; Alumni members E. Stanley Kitchen, '23, Strong; Everett C. Marston, '24, Boston, Mass.; Edward H. Morrill, '25, Waterville; Verne E. Reynolds, '25, Sidney; and Robert C. Waugh, ex-'26, Strong; class of 1926: Kenneth W. Bragdon, Westbrook; Lawrence H. Clark, Caribou; Donald C. Freeman, Augusta; Leslie E. Knight, Gorham; Bernard Nickerson, Hulls Cove; J. Bernard Sprague, Bingham; Claude L. Stineford, Waterville; and Lindsey C. Varnam, Waterville.

Class of 1927: Frank T. Adams, Houlton; Alvarus F. Bennett, Abbott; W. Preston Cadwallader, Waterville; Charles H. Eaton, Jr., Morris Plains, N. J.; Willis E. Herbert, Franconia, N. H.; T. Francis Monaghan, Gardiner; Marion N. Rhoades, Belfast; Gwyoth T. Smith, Brownville Junction; Fred L. Turner, Somerville; and Raymond Sullivan, Hincley.

COLBY IS NAMED IN HALL'S WILL

Former Managing Partner of Ginn & Co. Leaves Bequest to His Alma Mater.

By the terms of the will of the late Dana Warren Hall, class of 1890, Colby has been bequeathed the sum of $10,000 outright, and ultimately the balance of the estate which amounts to $180,000.

Mr. Hall was a trustee and devoted friend of Colby, one of the three or four men who have done the most toward its welfare.

Dana Warren Hall was born in East Dixfield, Me., April 4, 1866. He attended Wilton academy, Coburn Classical Institute, and entered Colby in 1886. He was a good student, by dint of hard work attaining the Phi Beta Kappa, took part in much extracurricular activities, and held the good will of the student body.

Gamma Alpha chapter of Alpha Tau Omega held its annual spring dance on Friday evening at the Augusta House and on Saturday held an informal dance in the fraternity house.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 2, 1926.

Again class elections have been held and again evidence of fraternity politics is prevalent. In the election of one class, a member whose fraternity was well represented was nominated and did not receive a single vote. Members of that class came from the election feeling that the voting had been previously arranged. In another class meeting, three officers were elected and each received the same number of votes, varying by one on a single ballot. Immediately before that election a fraternity man approached a member of another fraternity and offered frankly to swap group votes but was refused. More evidence of political intrigue can be found but that is sufficient.

The Colby Student Council should conduct all elections and either the entire council or a special committee be present and alert. Any evident political action could then be discovered and investigated and the person or groups responsible summarily punished. The solemn oath taken but a short time ago seems meaningless to many persons and drastic student council action seems the only solution.

The petitions asking for reconsideration by the faculty of their recent ruling regarding senior examinations which petitions are being signed by members of the three lower classes should be given much consideration by the faculty. The undergraduates are considering the ruling sanely and have sufficient basis for their petition. No member of the student body entered Colby with the understanding that he would be required to take such examinations. Because of this, the action of the faculty seems unfair to them. It is not mob action but the result of consideration of both viewpoints. The faculty desires to make a better college but no more than do the students as they are ultimately the ones affected. This whole question rests in the fact that present undergraduates will consider that the faculty has discriminated against them and the resulting attitude toward that body will be patently undesirable.

It would surely be shameful for any undergraduate to leave college without paying his gymnasium pledge.

The action of the English department in obtaining Charles J. Woodbury to talk to the students of the college is to be highly commended. This is one of the wisest expenditures of college funds which could possibly be made and it should not end with Mr. Woodbury. Another year a definite plan should be made to secure a number of such men to lecture to the student body. This scheme has been contemplated for some time but has never materialized. It does seem that the desire of the student body should be respected in this vital matter.

At last a means of getting the entire student body to attend a lecture has been discovered and it would indeed be folly not to make the most of the possibilities furnished by a joint chapel. If possible the student body should be given an opportunity, by means of a joint chapel, to sample every speaker who visits the college. If this were done the morning of the lecture, a large number of undergraduates would surely attend in the evening as they would most certainly recognize the merit of speakers. It may be that the men do not wish the members of the opposite (fairer or not) sex to know that they are heathen. It may be there is an entirely different reason that causes them to attend a joint chapel. Whatever the motive, it is effective.

LITERARY COLUMN

T. S. Stribling's "Teefallow" is the best book of its kind that has been published this year. This accolade bestowed, particulars may be cited. It is of the highest type of realism, although some natives of Tennessee may assert that it is a one-sided and fragmentary picture of Tennessee hill-people. We can't, of course, believe that the whole of Tennessee is like this, but the story seems to give a wonderfully vivid picture of a certain section of the state—the hill districts where flourishes "the last theocracy." Mr. Stribling ought to know whereof he writes, since he was born in the heart of Tennessee, twenty miles from a railroad.

Although it is realistic, the story is by no means a bitter indictment. We feel that the author pities his people, feels a strong sympathy for their harsh, narrow lives, so cruelly inhibited by ancient Calvinistic and Wesleyan doctrines. It seems incredible that in these "enlightened" days can be found a community so grotesquely governed by queer, distorted Bible laws—and yet, remember the Scopes case.

The lives of the characters are peculiarly static and otiose. No one progresses, no one is disturbed by inspiration, no one tries to change his environment. The only possible exception is Adelaide, the daughter of Railroad Jones, and at last she, too, succumbs to the awful pressure of habit. Somehow, despite their wretched, abortive lives, the characters are real and unforgettable. There is Railroad Jones, the massive, pig-guid, subtle financier; Abner Teefallow, the awkward hill boy who sometimes experienced bud-brief flashes of divine fire, who was flogged to insensibility for seducing Nessie Sutton; Mr. Belshue, the weak little jeweler who saved Nessie by marrying her; Mrs. Roxie Biggers, who suffered from a particularly hateful form of religious paranoia.

Mr. Stribling marred his book slightly by giving it a happy ending. A train providentially killed poor Mr.

Belshue and Abner Teefallow married Nessie. Except for this, it is a consistently good piece of work.

Sometimes
When o'er the mountain's hazy blue and purple shadows
Eale clouds sink low
And lose themselves in twilight mists,
My thoughts
Like evening moths, in beauty stirred,
Rise silently.
Reaching out eager hands,
I strive to catch their fragile loveliness,
But in the fleeting light
They brush my aching finger tips
And vanish,
Leaving a lingering caress
And powdered gold
Where their frail wings have touched.

CONN. AGGIES DEFEAT COLBY

Blue and Gray Loses 9-7 in Close Game—McGowan and Keith Hit Homers.

The Colby ball team went down to defeat by a score of 9 to 7 before the Connecticut Aggies on Seaverns Field last Friday afternoon.

Colby started to score in the first inning when Smart was given a free pass. Peabody sent a line drive to center field which was fumbled, enabling him to follow Smart across home plate.

For the Aggies the third was the lucky inning, in which they did all their scoring. Allard was given a free pass and Ahearn hit safely sending Allard to second.

Here Trainor went in and did fine work, holding the Aggies scoreless the remainder of the game.

WHAT THE CAT BROUGHT IN

The intercollegiate track games are now history. The athletes certainly did fine work this year.

The basketball team lost to Connecticut Aggies, Friday, to the tune of 9 to 7.

Bates conquered Colby, Saturday, in a rather loosely played ball game.

Anderson's curve was certainly breaking at Lewiston, the trouble was it was not breaking over the plate.

Although not wishing to rush the season just one glance at our next year's football prospects make one feel more or less optimistic.

What Is A Life Underwriter?

One who executes and delivers a life insurance policy. In other words, a person whose business it is to offer the known benefits of life insurance to individuals, to corporations, to partnerships, etc.

But further, the life underwriter is one who must convince those clients of the benefits offered. This means stimulating contact with human character, and with large affairs.

Furthermore, the business of life underwriting pays highly for initiative and ability.

It is worth while to think these things over now and to remember them when, perhaps, you find yourself wrongly placed in whatever business you may have chosen.

THE LIBERTY BELL

Sesquicentennial to be Celebrated Next June.

On New Year's eve the tones of the Liberty Bell were broadcast by radio for the first time in history.

The famous relic has not been rung since 1895, when it cracked as it tolled the sad tidings of the funeral of Chief Justice John Marshall.

The Liberty Bell was originally cast by Thomas Lister, of Whitechapel, London, and arrived in Philadelphia in the latter part of August, 1752.

Early in September "it was cracked by a stroke of the clapper during a test without any violence," according to a contemporary account, and was recast.

Few people realize the dimensions of the bell. The circumference around the lip is 12 feet, around the crown 7 feet 0 inches, from the lip to the crown it is 3 feet, and its weight is 2080 pounds.

Where two steam locomotives formerly puffed and strained to pull a 360-ton freight train up the steep slope of Maltrata incline, two electric locomotives haul a 650-ton train, with power to spare.

Electricity levels the Mountains

In Mexico, romantic land of pretty señoritas and languorous minstrelsy, practical American engineers have harnessed streams so that mountains may be leveled.

The winding thirty-mile Maltrata incline on the road from Vera Cruz to Mexico City is now electrified. Ten electric locomotives replace twenty-three steam engines. The electrics haul twice the tonnage of the steam locomotives—and in half the time, with obvious benefits to traveler, rail-roader, and shipper.

Yet Maltrata is but an example of electrical progress. For electricity is conquering the grades of railroads and of industry alike, the world over.

Impressive, no doubt, but still modest when compared with the possibilities of electricity in years to come. And it remains for college-trained men, with trained capacity for initiative and leadership, to become ambassadors for further electrical conquests in foreign lands.

The General Electric Company required but eighteen months to electrify Maltrata incline—locomotives, power plant, transmission equipment complete. Easy engineering skill, backed by vast manufacturing facilities, has enabled G-E to serve humanity in many ways.

A series of G-E advertisements showing what electricity is doing in many fields will be sent on request. Ask for booklet GEK-1.
