

COLBY DEBATERS WIN AND LOSE WITH N. H.

Negative Team Receives Unanimous Decision in College Chapel

AFFIRMATIVE LOSES

Dual Debate Held Friday Marks Opening of Season For Blue and Gray Speakers.

With a team representing each college winning a unanimous decision over its opponent the Colby and University of New Hampshire debaters scored a 3 to 3 tie in a dual debate last Friday evening.

Colby's negative team defeated the New Hampshire State orators in the college chapel while the affirmative defenders were receiving an unfavorable decision at Durham. All four teams showed a thorough knowledge of debating tactics but the negative team of Colby was more successful in the refutation of its arguments against the New Hampshire State men.

The proposition for debate was: Resolved, That the United States should cease to protect by armed force capital invested in foreign lands except after formal declaration of war. Colby's teams were composed of: Negative, Lowell P. Leland, '29, of Augusta; Chester E. Merrow, '29, of Mountain View, N. H.; and Donald H. Millett, '28, of Springfield, Vt.; affirmative, Arthur B. Levine, '28, of Waterville; David F. Kronquist, '29, of Rumford, R. I.; and Lemuel K. Lord, '29, of Pittsfield.

The morning services at the Baptist church were led by Lucius V. Lobdell, '31, of Hartland, Vt., and Muriel J. MacDougall, '31, of Brooklyn, N. Y. Those at the Methodist church were led by Mark H. Garabedian, '30, of Cambridge, Mass., and Mabel E. Dollitt, '30, of Winslow. The combined teams conducted a union service at the Methodist church in the evening.

PROF. WHITE ADDRESSES BOSTON COLBY ALUMNI

In an address before the Boston Colby Alumni association in the Chamber of Commerce building last Wednesday night, Professor Clarence H. White, of the Greek department discussed Colby affairs of the current year.

Professor White touched upon a theme of interest to all Colby students when he quoted Professor Colgan as saying, "Whatever good qualities the next president has or has not, he must be able to complete the spiritual integration that President Roberts began so that no longer shall that old attitude of defeatism, 'poor old Colby,' be shrieked from the rooftops."

The association was also addressed at this time by Randall J. Condon, '28, superintendent of schools in Cincinnati, Ohio, and William C. Crawford, '22, both trustees of the college.

Statements Show Generous Reply To Christmas Letter

In response to the annual Christmas letter to the alumni which was instituted by President Roberts and this year written by Dr. Julian D. Taylor, professor of the Latin language and literature, a total of over three thousand dollars has been received.

The final amount on the books of the treasurer is $3,061.62. This sum will be added to the general endowment fund of the college. A complete list of the pledges according to classes has not yet been compiled.

Dr. Taylor, in commenting on the response some time ago, said that many of the amounts received this year were double those given previously by the same persons. He deemed the gifts very generous but stated that the number was somewhat decreased because of the drive for funds for the new gymnasium.

VARSITY TEAM LOSES TO MAINE HOOPMEN

Newly Organized Basketball Quintet Gives University Close Rub.

PLAYED AT U. OF M.

Four Hundred Students Attend First Hoop Contest With Colby For Many Years.

Playing on a strange floor and against a well-organized and experienced quintet representing the University of Maine, the Colby basketball team, composed of the best men that the Interfraternity League could offer, went down to defeat after a fast and hard tussle by the score of 29 to 18 in the U. of M. gym, Saturday afternoon.

Lack of team work due to insufficient practice was a distinct handicap and contributed greatly to the Blue and Gray defeat. The game was played in the immense indoor field and portable basketball court, before a crowd of over 400 students.

The encounter started off with a rush, each team trying to break their way through the opponents' defense. Branscom, the U. of M. captain, broke the ice by hooping a clean shot. While Colby was familiarizing itself with the strange floor, Hansen, who played a brilliant game for Colby by scoring three field goals and one foul shot, came through with a clever goal from under the basket. During the early part of the first half the ball was constantly in Maine territory, and the Colby shots fell short. Cooke, however, with a pretty throw, scored from midfloor. The lead swayed back and forth but the better condition of the Pale Blue hoopsters gave them the ball on many occasions and they dashed down the floor time and again before the Colby defense had time to form. Branscom who was playing a stellar game for Maine, dropped in two field goals just before the whistle blew, ending the half with the score 17 to 12 in favor of Maine.

On Saturday, in the morning and afternoon business sessions will be held, while in the evening there will be a banquet at the Elmwood Hotel. Among the scheduled speakers are Alexander Macomber, Grand Keeper of Exchequer; Roy Knight, Chief of Province 16; Leo Shesong, Chief of Province 4; and Franklin Pearce, Maine, '30, who will present a paper on "New House Plans." Two comedy sketches which have been prepared by delegates from appointed chapters will be presented and will also add to the evening's entertainment.

ing lecture last night Dr. Page discussed various subjects of international importance. His topic yesterday morning was "Nationalism and the Causes of War." "We went to war because we were drunk," he said, but went on to explain that we were drunk with emotions. Nationalism, the lecturer stated, is one of the greatest causes of war and had no little share in the precipitation of the World War.

In his address last night Dr. Page discussed the question "Is the United States Imperialistic?" He pointed out that we have been to a great extent and are still so today. At the chapel exercises this morning Dr. Page suggested various means for the "Out- (Continued on page 4)

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 7, 1928.

News Editor for the Week
ERNEST E. MILLER.

Now is the time for those students who have been clamoring for a chance to have a word about the destiny of the college! Now they may express their views on the choice of Colby's future president. The ECHO is sponsoring a straw vote that should give every one a chance to "come clean" on the matter without feeling that he alone is voicing an opinion. The vote polled will, of course, be entirely unofficial, but several of the leading colleges have recently resorted to straw votes on various questions and have found them altogether satisfactory.

Whether or not the new president should come from the educator group among the alumni, from the faculty, or from the outside is debatable. There are advantages in all three possibilities. An alumnus would have the advantage in having had association with the college and still could see the faults and the real position of Colby among colleges. To pick from the faculty would bring up the possibility of inbreeding—of inculcating too deep a respect for the past and too conservative an ideal—for we must admit that there are still frequent displays of mid-Victorianism incarnate. With the third resort, however, the greatest number of advantages and disadvantages are connected. Of this greatest number of advantages the one outstanding is the utter unhampered and unbiased conception of Colby's faults and imperfections. But in this case lack of Colby traditions might do as much harm as a superfluity of them.

These are but a few of the many facts that are now open for the review of the Colby student. Let us find out if a Colby student is capable of nurturing one of those abstruse abstractions called an "opinion."

THE WAR-GOD LAUGHS.

A Sonnet.

Watch: I will paint the blue-gold of the sky
With bursts of black and streaks of smould'ring fire.
The shepherds' pipes loud martial songs will try—
For I have builded high a mighty pyre.
Now hark to Asia's mutterings—'tis there
That I have shrewdly sown. The belching guns
Will wake the fecund earth and it will bear
Blossoms of blood and dancing skeletons.
Tremble, ye mothers, breed your sons
for war!
My sport will batter down your cities' walls.
No more parades? My laughter swells afar—
They'll soon forget Geneva protocols.
Men are droll, putty things and they afford
Sweet exercise for my intolerable

I heard you laugh,
A crystal laugh
Like little ice-bound rivers,
My heart grow cold,
My chill heart burst,
And tinkled down in slivers.

Ye Gladiator Column

Dear Gladiator:

In a recent issue of the ECHO I bemoaned the large number of required courses that are inflicted upon our innocent heads. In reply to this and an article by my friend Abe Lincoln advocating that a course be offered in geography, a certain Mr. Hal E. Butt wrote a lengthy reply which appeared in your last column.

Mr. Butt, if I may quote him, says: "He (Mr. Lincoln) recommends that a course in geography be required for graduation." Mr. Lincoln did make the two following statements: "A comprehensive course in geography would be an asset to the curriculum of any college. Let us hope that some day such a course will be offered here." But Mr. Lincoln did not even suggest that such a course be compulsory, as Mr. Butt accuses. Mr. Lincoln made an innocent statement in which he remarked that geography was a required course in European Universities and Colleges. For the benefit of Mr. Butt and all others who may be a bit vague on the subject, Colby College is not, and is not even considering becoming, a European University or College—not with Mayor Thompson of Chicago to defend our American traditions!

Concerning my own article on required courses Mr. Butt has made the following statements: "A canvass of the Frosh in any house will reveal to our disgruntled brother that no one of them encounters more than two instructors in his program of studies. Moreover my recollection of my yearling year is that the instructors were far more stringent in their requirements than the heads of departments."

No one has denied the above statements.

Mr. Butt is to be sympathized with. He has so much trouble in grasping a statement. For his benefit I shall quote from my article of the other day: "Most of the courses flunked by freshmen are not those taken under professors and assistant professors but those that are given by instructors; and the instructors generally have required courses." So Mr. Butt's gentle insinuation that instructors are more stringent than heads of departments is no news after all, but only confirms my statement of the previous week.

Mr. Butt has evidently misconstrued another statement. In the above quotation he informs a doubting public that no freshman has more than two courses under instructors. In the previous line he calls my attention to that fact. Now Mr. Butt, if you were attempting to tell me something new you really wasted some highly valuable time. I was well aware of that fact despite your gentle hint that I had denied your statement. What I did say was: "Why is it that the majority of the young and inexperienced profs are in charge of freshman courses?" For your benefit let me inform you that this does not make the slightest pretense of denying that most of a freshman's courses are under professors and assistant professors. Really, Mr. Butt, you argue for, rather than against me.

Although I would not recommend that anything be forced unwillingly upon Mr. Butt, if I might make a suggestion to so illustrious and distinguished a personage as the gentleman in question, I would humbly advise that he subscribe to a correspondence course in "How to Read the English Language." But perhaps Mr. Butt might apply the knowledge he has derived from Bibliography 1 and obtain the desired and much needed information without recourse to the United States Mails.

A Fellow Crab.

BATTERY CANDIDATES REPORT TO PRACTICE

Workout Periods Announced
by Coach E. J. Roundy
—Promising Material

With the baseball season rapidly approaching and indications pointing to a good outdoor playing surface in the near future, Coach Edward C. Roundy's call for battery candidates has found a likely group of ball tossers and receivers waiting. As a result the old pill is having its first rides through the ozone as the men take their initial workouts of the season.

Twenty men answered Roundy's call for candidates and among that number there are some promising material for a strong battery. More men are expected to report within the next few days.

Three veterans of last year's pitching staff are among the candidates and it will be around these men that Coach Roundy will have to build his hurling outfit for the strenuous 18 game schedule.

Durward Heal has had three seasons of experience in a Colby uniform and has improved steadily each year. He is a cool number when under fire; has plenty of speed and endurance to spare. The big East Millinocket southpaw is in fine condition and should have a great season in the box.

Johnnie Trainor, ready to start his fourth season sporting the Blue and Gray of Colby on the baseball diamond, presents another stronghold in the hurling corps. Johnnie, aside from his experience as a college pitcher, has seen service with some strong summer teams and proved himself a capable performer.

Bobbie Brown, former Lawrence high and Hebron twirler, should have profited from his work as relief pitcher on the Colby squad last year and may be used to advantage by Coach Roundy this season.

The most likely looking candidates from the Freshman ranks are Howard Ferguson and Kenneth Mansfield. The former performed well in the box while at M. C. I. while the latter did some good work for Winslow high.

With the possibility that Danny Shanahan, hero of many a baseball encounter, will not find time to devote to the national pastime this spring comes the prospects of a hard struggle for the catching berth. George Hansen of Manhasset, N. Y., and Earl McKeen of Millinocket are two men who have been with the Colby squad for two years. Hansen has a good arm and is a heady boy behind the plate but is a bit weak with the willow. McKeen is a handy man with the stick and if he develops his throwing arm a bit will be a strong contender for the open position.

Charles Hedderic tops the Freshman candidates for the receiver's berth and his experience in the Coast League last summer along with knowledge of the game gleaned from prep school contests should put him well up in the battle. Lovett, another Freshman athlete, saw service behind the plate while at Coburn. His hitting ability may make him a strong candidate for the position.

Other battery candidates are: Robert Stirling, '31, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Henry Schick, '31, Seymour, Conn.; Milton and Orville Edes, '31, Sangerville; Dana Simmons, '30, Oakland; Dexter Elmore, '30, Grand Lake Stream; Wendell Thornton, '30, Rockland; George Andrews, '30, Tucson, Ariz.; Clarence Dyer, '30, East Sumner; (pitchers), Andrew Karkos, '31, Lunenburg, Mass., (catcher).

Sturhahn To Captain Blue and Gray Sextet

Has Played Brilliantly for Colby in State Series Games.

At a meeting of the Varsity hockey letter men last week Edward J. Sturhahn, '30, of Hartford, Conn., was elected captain of Colby's next season ice sextet.

That the Blue and Gray pucksters who uphold Colby's name on the ice during the next season will be led by a classy and dependable performer, there is no doubt. Sturhahn came up from the freshman fold last year immediately after the first semester expired and won a place with the varsity outfit. The experience which he got as a member of the team last year stood him in good stead and from the first appearance of hockey candidates this season "Eddie" has been outstanding.

His work has stood out brilliantly in every encounter of the Colby puck-chasers. It was Sturhahn who brought victory to Colby in both tilts with Bates when he scored tallies in the closing seconds of play to break deadlocks. Again in the last clash of the State Series with Bowdoin, the flashy Blue and Gray athlete gave his team a good lead by scoring two goals in the first period of play.

The athletic activities of Sturhahn are not limited to the glazed surface sport. He is quite a capable performer on the gridiron and as a freshman held down an end position on the yearling outfit. He was a member of the football squad last season and although he was not used in any of the major games his work showed him to be a potential power in the pigskin game.

Sturhahn is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.

Zetes Take Over K. D. R. Basketeers

Forging ahead in the last quarter the Zeta Psi basketeers, Tuesday afternoon, took over the Kappa Delta Rho quintet to the tune of 28 to 21 in a fast and hard-played game. Simmons and Arber worked well for the winners while Stewart and Dow starred for the losing hoopmen.

team playing as a unit with Fiedler, Niziolek, and Klusiek coming up under their own basket, and by clever passing, bringing the ball within scoring distance. Callaghan and Hensen, playing the forward positions, attempted shots but the Maine defense tightened up with Fitzhugh and Abbott of Maine breaking in to stop the plays. Fitzhugh and Branscom each added four points to their team's total with two field goals apiece. Abbott made a long shot for a counter. The best Colby could do was four points from the floor, with Fiedler and Callaghan each making a goal. Fiedler also made a free throw good, which gave him three points for the day's total. Mansfield scored one from the foul line, making a total for the second half of six points for Colby and twelve for Maine.

The team was accompanied by James T. McCronry, '28, Adams, Mass., manager, and Conch Millett.

Council Report

A resolution to demand the resignation of all class officers found responsible for shortages in class finances was passed by the Student Council at its regular meeting Monday night.

The resolution, which met with the unanimous approval of the Council, was drawn up by the committee on class finances appointed last week. This committee consists of Augustus M. Hodgkins, '28, of Farmington Falls, G. Vinton Jones, '28, of Monticello, Harold E. Clark, '28, of Norwich, Conn., and Edwin W. Harlow, '28, of Gardiner.

The resolution, as accepted, is given below:

Resolved, that the Student Council shall definitely determine what officer or officers are responsible for any shortage in the funds of the class being considered, and

Resolved, that after definitely determining the person or persons responsible for the shortage the Council shall demand and secure the presence of said party at a regular meeting, and

Resolved, that the party responsible for the shortage be charged by the president of the Council with the offence and informed that unless restitution in full is made to the class within a space of time designated by the Council,

That a meeting of the class whose funds have been misused will be called by order of the Student Council, and,

That the members of the class will be informed of the offence committed by one or more of its officers, and,

That it will be recommended by the president of the Council to the class that a resolution be passed demanding the resignation of the officer or officers involved, and,

That a notice of such action of the class be printed in the Colby ECHO.

Delta Sigma Chi Hear Talk on Discipline

The regular meeting of Delta Sigma Chi was held in the Foss Hall assembly room, Tuesday evening, February 28. After a short business meeting, Betsy Ringdahl, '28, introduced Rose Black, '28, as the speaker of the evening.

Miss Black chose as the subject of her talk the problem of discipline. There are many causes for the need of discipline. According to Morehouse, these causes may be purely accidental and uncontrollable, or may be the result of motivation. Vanity, laziness, or a desire for torture are examples of the latter type.

The teacher who would maintain a well-disciplined classroom must command the respect of all her students. Her requirements must be reasonable and explicit, and she must notice and correct the first infraction of good order. Above all she must not expect disorder, and must not hastily attribute a misdemeanor to a child.

Indirect discipline, that is, a smoothly running class in which all pupils are doing rigorous mental work, obtains the best results. Mental alertness may be obtained by beginning each class exercise with vigor and promptness, and by striving to keep each member busy during the entire period. The teacher must see that the pupils are all interested in their work, for the learner is a doer.

There are several types of disciplinary problems, which vary from the incipiently disorderly class to the aggressively disorderly class. There may also be the disorderly pupil, the pupil in rebellion, or the vicious pupil. These problems may be controlled directly through discussion, regulation of environment, counter-attraction, and modification of behavior.

Punishment has several functions. If natural, it comes as the result of an act; if artificial, it must be a real punishment, and must follow the events immediately.

COLBY SENDS DELEGATION TO STUDENT CONFERENCE

Five delegates represented Colby at the Eastern New England Student Conference of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A.'s held at Poland Springs, March 2 to 4.

The general theme of the Conference was Internationalism, and the delegates were addressed on various phases of the topic by Professor Manley Hudson, head of the department of International Law at Harvard University, Professor Henry H. Tweedie of Yale Divinity School, and Leslie Adkins, newly elected pastor of the Old South Church in Boston.

The Colby delegation was comprised of: Professor Herbert L. Newman, head of the department of religious education, Warren R. Payson, '20, of Waterville; Virginia Dudley, '20, of Houlton; Eleanor G. Butler, '20, of Portland; and Carolyn A. Herrick, '20, of Augusta.

JACK ROGERS WILL ENTER PROFESSIONAL BOXING RING

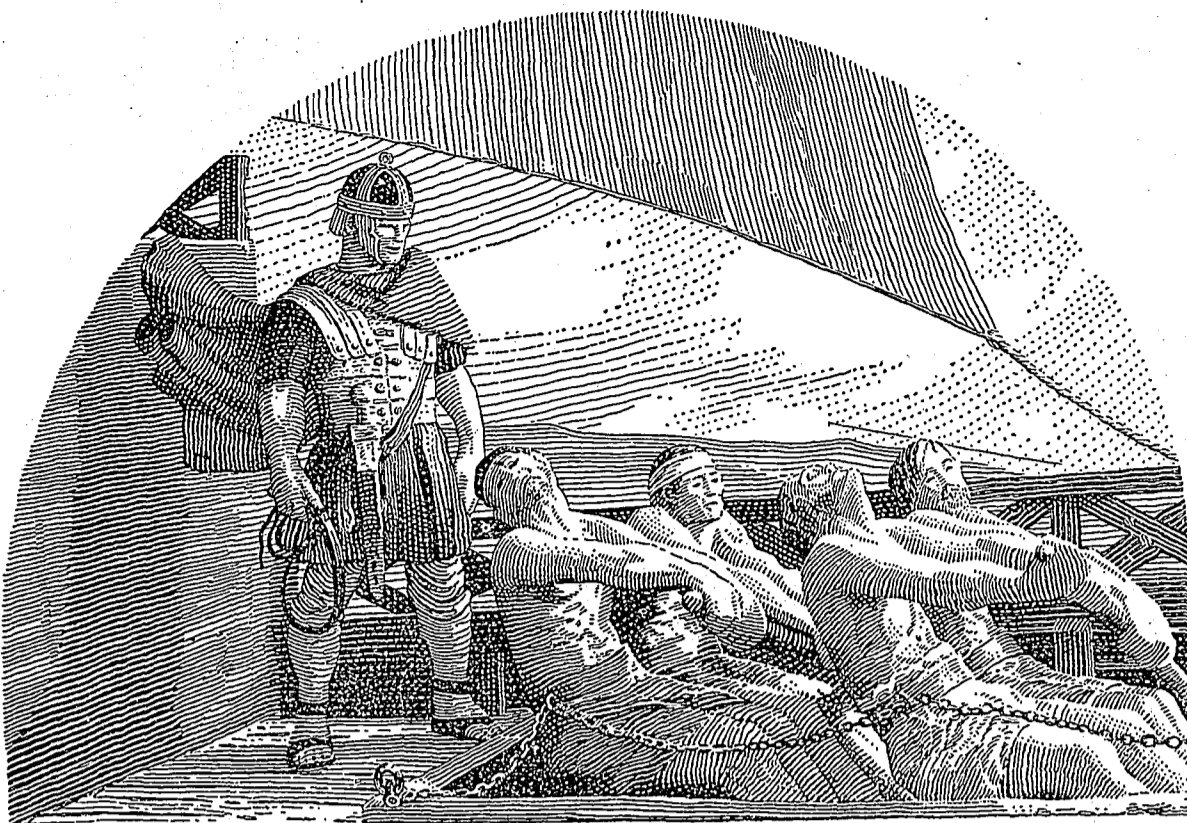

Jack Rogers, '20, one of the outstanding football players of last fall's championship team, has announced his decision to enter the professional boxing game.

Jack is 21 years old, solid, fast, and clever, and has had considerable experience as a welterweight in the amateur ranks. Since his decision to turn professional he has openly challenged all fighters in his class throughout the state of Maine. For the past few weeks Rogers has been trained by Edgar Paquette, a Waterville hockey player, who is a trainer of considerable ability and experience. Paquette has expressed a belief that Rogers will go a long way in the boxing world.

Jack came to Colby from Westboro, Mass., where he starred in high school football and baseball for four years. At Colby he has confined his ability to football. He is a member of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity.
