

GENERAL LORD CHAIRMAN

MAXCY PLEDGES STUDENT SUPPORT

Function of Council Is to Encourage Growth of College.

Student organizations as well as individuals are expressing their support of the Colby College $500,000 Development Fund Committee. Horace P. Maxcy, '29, president of the Student Council and the Senior Class, described the enthusiasm of the Council as "whole-hearted" in a recent statement exclusive to the ECHO.

"Since its organization it has always been the purpose of the Student Council," said President Maxcy, "to sponsor and lend its aid to organizations and enterprises that would help to improve and build up Colby. This year we have been more than fortunate in having events come about in such a manner that all of us, those whom we represent as well as the Council, can take an active part in a great constructive enterprise that will benefit Colby College in the near future.

"In the eyes of the Student Council the Colby College $500,000 Development Fund Committee was organized for a greater purpose than to raise funds for a gymnasium; it is a step consistent with Colby progress. All of us who are here or have been here know what Colby can and does do for her sons, but this effort will go farther than the walls of the College; it will broadcast the worth of Colby to the entire country and the effect cannot be overestimated.

"The members of the Council are enthusiastic over the enterprise and we are giving it everything we can. The project cannot fail with every student doing his part and with such an efficient leader as Mr. Brown who has started the campaign off with true Colby spirit. We are pledging him our whole-hearted support."

Horace P. Maxcy,
Pres. of the Student Council.

June

ANNOUNCE PLANS

The appointment of the Inaugural committee which will handle that part of the Commencement program devoted to the formal induction into office of President-elect Franklin Winslow Johnson, was made last week when official notification was sent out by Secretary Whittemore of the Board of Trustees. The committee, as named, consist of Professor Herbert C. Libby, '02, chairman; Justice Norman L. Bassett, '91, Augusta; and Dr. J. Frederick Hill, '92, of Waterville.

The chairman of the committee is now in communication with President-elect Johnson to ascertain just what he has in mind for the inauguration ceremony. It is understood that Friday of Commencement week will be given over to the program of inauguration. This will include the reception and entertainment of delegates from other colleges, the inaugural ceremonies to be held in City Opera House in the afternoon, a banquet to the guests at 6 o'clock, to be followed by the President's Reception in the evening.

Aside from the inaugural ceremony it is expected that the dedication of the Alumnae Building and the laying of the corner stone for the men's gymnasium will be included in the Commencement exercises. Plans for these are not yet complete and will be announced later. The other usual activities connected with Commencement such as Senior Class Day, Alumni and Alumnae luncheons, will occupy the regular places on the program with the exception of the Commencement play which will be omitted to allow Friday afternoon to be devoted to the inaugural ceremony.

WOMEN'S GLEE CLUB CONCERT SUCCESSFUL

Production Great Credit to the Members of Organization

FEATURES LISTED

The annual concert of the Colby Girls' Glee Club which was held at the City Opera House on Friday evening, Jan. 11, in no way fell short of predictions made for its success.

The particular feature of the program which elicited enthusiastic comment was the original operetta, "Come to the Fair," in three acts, written by Annie Hooper Goodwin, '29, of Winslow. This production in Old English style gave evidence not only of a great deal of work but of considerable talent on the part of the cast and on the part of Mrs. Goodwin, who was director as well as author.

The story of the operetta centered around the household of an English squire, a part admirably taken by Miss Jessie Alexander, '29, Miss Ruth Daggett, '29, was a prominent member of the cast as the lively Squire's Lady. The love affair of the Squire's daughter Judith, played by Martha Allen, '29, and an apprentice, Johnny Jenkins, played by Muriel Sanborn, '29, was the main theme of the piece. There was also a second affair between Belinda, Muriel Farnum, '30, and Michael Moriarty, Harriet Johnston, '30. Comedy was furnished by two admirers of Belinda Barnaby, Florence Connors, '31, and Simon, Violette Boulter, '29. The Squire discouraged the aspirations of Johnny Jenkins in favor of Sir Quincy Jones Quincy, Q. Q., a most acceptable villain, played by Harriet Kimball, '29. Eleanor Lunn, '29, and Pearl Grant, '29, took the part of peasant girls and unwelcome admirers of Simon and Barnaby. A colorful feature was the appearance of the Fiddler, Martha Johnston, '32, and the Piper, Janet Locke, '31, in quaint costumes.

The Old English setting was an ideal background for Old English folk dances, which were capably directed by Miss C. B. Van Norman and C. Harry Edwards, and for the Old English folk songs which composed a good part of the music.

Y. W. C. A. Hears Talk On Foreign Missions

Paul Alden, candidate Secretary of the Northern Baptist Convention, addressed the girls at the Y. W. C. A. meeting last night. Mr. Alden is a Colby man. His talk was most interesting, and everyone felt the insistent need of workers in the field of foreign missions.

Mr. Alden spoke of the lack of candidates for the work. These candidates are chosen for their merit in health, temperament, education, and personality. However the waiting list is long for those fitted for the work.

The call for missionaries came from the international convention held at Jerusalem; the call comes continually from the Orient. The religious of the Orient, in spite of their many great principles, are not enough. Mr. Alden pointed out the glorious adventure of carrying the needed message to these people.

BANQUET HELD FOR STUDENT COMMITTEE

Twenty Students, Present—
List of Speakers
Given

Charles S. Brown, director of the Colby College $500,000 Development Fund Committee, was the chief guest at a dinner given by Senator Herbert E. Wadsworth, chairman of the Board of Trustees, to twenty members of the college student executive body at the Elmwood Hotel last Saturday evening. Professor C. Harry Edwards, head of the athletic department, and George F. Terry, Jr., of Waterville, were also guests at the dinner.

G. Cecil Goddard, '29, of Portland, acted as toastmaster of the evening, introducing his post-prandial with a short talk in which he said that the main purpose of the dinner was to get together the members of the student organization who will be able to render considerable service in the raising of the development fund.

Ernest E. Miller, '29, editor-in-chief of the ECHO, spoke next assuring those present of the loyal support of the college publication in every way possible.

Professor C. Harry Edwards stressed the importance of the influence students can bring to bear through their criticisms of the college. He said that criticism is often to be desired but that too often the students are prone to be unthinking and give nothing but destructive criticism. He urged that the students should boost Colby if they haven't something of a constructive nature to offer.

George Fred Terry, Jr., speaking for the alumni, assured the undergraduates of the college of the support and unflinching loyalty of every alumnus.

The toastmaster introduced Mr. Charles S. Brown, who outlined the methods the committees intend to pursue in carrying out the development fund program, and asked for the loyal support of the students.

Among the members of the college student executive committee of the drive present were: Oscar M. Chute, '29, of Beverly, Mass.; John Walker, '29, of Winthrop, Mass.; Gordon M. Trim, '29, of Cutler; William S. Chapin, '29, of Sheffield, Mass.; George Grady, '30, of New Haven, Conn.; David F. Kronquist, '29, of Rumford, R. I.; Franklin Dexter, '29, of Mattapoisett, Mass.; Charles Jordan, '29, of Auburn; Webster Brown, '29, of Lynn, Mass.; Horace Maxcy, '29, of Rockland; Carl Clough, '29, of Houlton; Sterling Ryder, '29, of Portland; Charles Cowing, '29, of West Springfield, Mass.

Questionnaire Sent To College Seniors

Questionnaires and letters have been sent to all the members of the senior class by the registrar's office, purposing to initiate a new policy at Colby, that of maintaining personnel records, both of the graduates and of the undergraduates.

The questionnaire is titled with "Colby Placement Bureau," and is composed of a series of questions pertaining to the individual student's college history; of his prospects after graduation, whether or not he is going to continue his study with graduate work, or whether he considers a business position; of his previous experience with business experience; and concluding with a list of references which he may wish to submit.

The letter enclosed with the questionnaire reads as follows: "The enclosed questionnaire is being sent to all members of the present senior class.

"It is the purpose of the College to maintain personnel records from now on, both of the graduates and of the undergraduates, and the information requested is needed for initiating this work. It will also assist the office in making recommendations of prospects to employers.

"Will you be good enough to fill out this enclosed form as accurately as possible and return it to me at the earliest possible moment.

"Very truly yours,
Malcolm B. Mower."

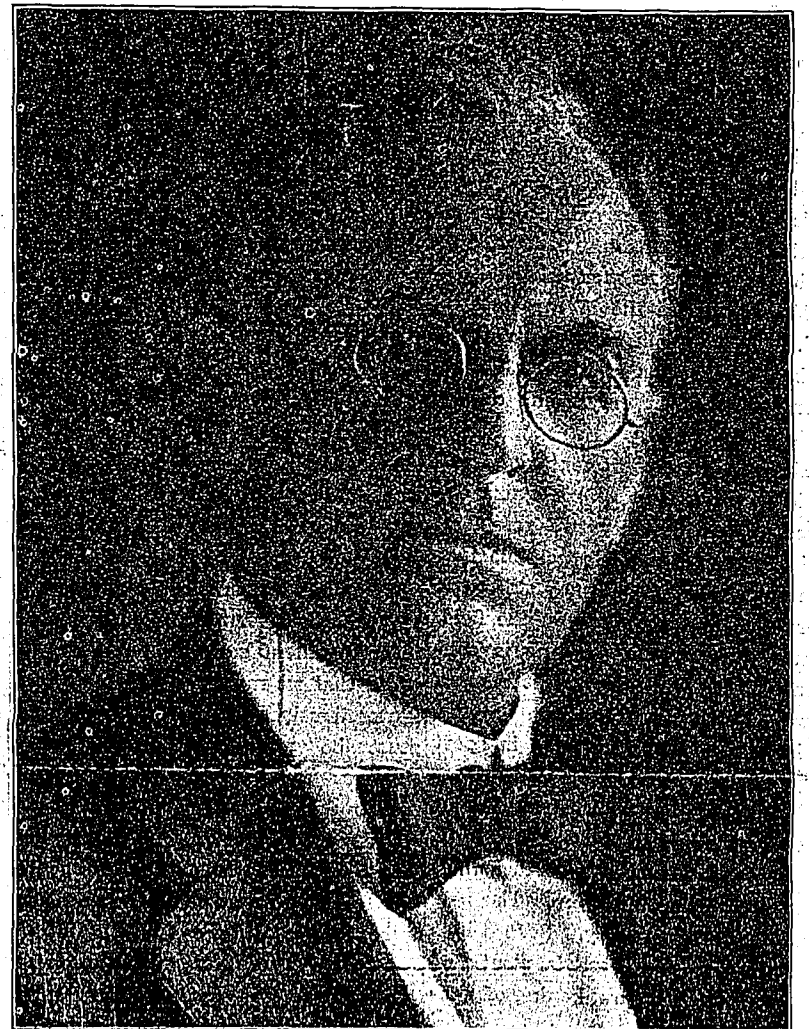

ACCEPTS GENERAL CHAIRMANSHIP OF COLBY COLLEGE DEVELOPMENT FUND

Will Direct Work from Headquarters in Washington—Is Present Director General of United States Budget

General Herbert M. Lord, '84, director of the United States Budget, has accepted the general chairmanship of the Colby College $500,000 Development Fund Committee according to an announcement made today by the Hon. Herbert E. Wadsworth, chairman of the Board of Trustees ley tariff. As clerk in Congress, Gen. Lord became acquainted with government finances, budgeting, taxes, auditing, and all that pertained to "ways and means."

During the Spanish-American War the present Budget Director was commissioned a major and paymaster of

of the college. General Lord has expressed great interest in the work of the committee and has volunteered to direct the organization from his headquarters at the Bureau of the Budget in Washington, D. C. While in Waterville last week to deliver an address to Colby students on "Our Nation's Business" he acquainted himself with the object and personnel of the committee and gave it his hearty approval.

The acceptance of the general chairmanship of the $500,000 Development Fund Committee is regarded by the Trustees and other college officials as a prediction of success and a near-realization of the committee's objective for General Lord has probably had more experience than any other man in the country in handling huge sums of money. He has been connected with the national government since he became clerk of the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives to which position he was appointed by Nelson Dingley, author of the famous Ding-volunteers by President McKinley. From that time until the establishment of the Bureau of the Budget he was engaged in the work of handling the army's finances. In 1899 he was put in charge of rehabilitation work in Cuba and directed the distribution work of funds used in aiding the discharged Cuban army in adapting itself to peaceful conditions. At that time General Lord established without doubt his reputation for strict honesty. He was given a lump sum and left to distribute it as he saw fit. There was a large loophole left for graft but a sum amounting to over five hundred thousand dollars was turned back into the treasury. On several occasions when given such trusts he has been able to execute his mission within the appropriation granted him.

It has been said of General Lord that he has given the Treasury occasional "palpitations of terror" and that he has "cut red tape enough to tie bowknots in all the armies of Europe." In 1918 he created the finance department of the United States army and assumed the title of Director of Finance. In this post he showed an exceptional command of New England common sense and at the end of the war when thousands of disabled soldiers were returning without funds he paid them on their own certificates without authority. When Congress adjourned in 1919 it left unpaid claims of over a billion dollars for army supplies. Again General Lord paid out one billion two hundred seventy millions of the government's money without authority. Congress legalized both these enormous expenditures and expressed its thanks for his keen judgment.

In his present position as Director of the Budget, General Lord has made the departments of the government live within their incomes. He goes to it that the estimates of each department are made as low as possible and then urges it to save a generous portion. In his own words he is the "president's business manager." He attributes much of his success to his

New Resident Nurse For Colby Women

The women's division of college has a new resident nurse in the person of Miss Ann Dunn of Waterville.

Miss Dunn is a graduate of the Sisters' Hospital of this city, and has been occupied at that hospital much of the time since her graduation. This is not the first time that she has been with Colby women, however, since she was here during the influenza epidemic in the school year of 1918-19, and also during the years 1919-20, and 1920-21. Her satisfactory work at that time opened the present position to her when Mrs. Eleanor S. Woodman of Winthrop Center, so generously made it possible for the women's division to have a resident nurse this year. Because of illness, Miss Dunn was unable to occupy the position until after the Christmas vacation, the position being temporarily filled by Miss Ruby M. Stone of Lewiston.

WINTER SPORTS.

Most commendable action on the part of the Student Council! A winter sports carnival of the interfraternity variety is on the way.

For some time the need of means of satisfying the winter sports enthusiasts has been apparent. The need is real enough and the benefit which might be derived all around merits some attention. In 1927 two Colby winter sports men achieved enviable records at the Montreal carnival. Colby is still fortunate enough to have these men and a number of others who await only some opportunity to perform.

The athletic department showed a decided willingness to recognize the place of such activity two years ago, which makes it entirely possible that something worth while may still be in store for the contenders in the field.

Here again the college is confronted with the fact that it takes a number of athletic irons in the fire to keep individual interests in sport busy. It has been the custom to delay the time when such variety of interests would be acknowledged until a new gymnasium is forthcoming. Now is the time, however. The new gym is almost a reality. Before it is available for use there is plenty of chance to begin an awakening of general interest.

Again it may be said that, although interfraternity contests are helpful in promoting general interest in sports, the opportunity for the organization of teams and contests on the spot would be the best means of providing the most good for the most students. It is not a false statement that teams organized in P. T. classes are more creative of the proper spirit of sportsmanship than those in which games are taken as a matter of life and death. So it is in the matter of winter sports. Impromptu events run off without schedule could be easily managed. Why not begin now? The lack of snow handicap is not so likely to be encountered if the time of meets is not unalterably fixed, and if participation is limited to fraternity teams, or representations.

WHAT A "STUDENT" WOULD LIKE.

What would be the average student's conception of paradise has been created at St. John's College, Annapolis, Maryland—not a cloistered paradise of course. At the college mentioned a few scholarships for seniors have been created that "not only pay the student all his expenses during his last year in college but leave him free to pursue culture as he pleases, or not to pursue it if he pleases to do that. He need not attend classes, and a senior following can be terminated during the year of its tenure only because of the commission of a crime, as defined by the laws of the State of Maryland, by the fellow; or because the fellow becomes insane as defined by the laws of the State of Maryland."

This revolutionary idea in American education is sponsored by Dr. Raymond Pearl, biologist of Johns Hopkins University. Dr. Pearl admits that it is a blow aimed at the schoolmaster-pupil relation which he thinks redounds more to the advantage of the schoolmaster than to the advantage of the pupil. Most freedom in academic circles, he thinks, is given to the professors and not to the students. He wishes to give the student the chance to develop his intellectual powers in the way that he sees fit.

While we talk about "reading for honors" systems here at Colby, we may as well think this one over too. The Swarthmore plan of supervised reading is impossible here because of the overworked department heads and inadequate teaching staff. With the student's relations to professors cut off entirely unless he chooses to seek them out, there will be no added teaching burden. This plan is most practicable from the Colby standpoint. We'll be forced to forget what value the student may derive from a probable desultory course, and a nondescript degree.

Our college life is an abnormal one. Housed in crowded dormitories, burdened with outside activities, and concerned with the pursuit of a higher education, we dash recklessly along from one thing to the next. Out of this abnormal hurly-burly springs the great problem of attaining health and happiness. The women's division has faced the problem squarely, and in response to a great need has formulated a certain group of regulations, oftentimes ridiculed, but nevertheless providing a safeguard to the interests of the women.

Health is dependent particularly upon the amount of rest and quiet afforded our physical mechanism. Hours which a student may call her own, when she is free to study, rest or sleep, undisturbed and uninterrupted, are invaluable. Yet in dormitory life they can be acquired only by regulations intelligently made and strictly enforced.

But linked with the idea of health is the equally important and almost interdependent goal of happiness. In order that we may live peaceably and harmoniously, the life of each one must be protected against petty thoughtlessness. Human nature makes it imperative. Without the standard held before us by regulations, each of us would be prone to overlook the interests of the group in our innate selfishness.

No, the regulations of the women's division are not a set of harsh rules imposed by a body of inquisitioners, but rather the endeavor of all the women to live together in health and happiness, to work together unselfishly and considerately, and to make a successful and unified college community.

Literary Column

BOOK OF COLBY VERSE TO BE PUBLISHED NEXT WEEK.

The "Anthology of Recent Colby Verse," composed by Norris W. Potter of Islington, Mass., will be published the latter part of next week. There are ninety-nine poems in this collection, most of which have appeared in the ECHO and ORACLE within the last two years. Merle Crowell, Colby, '10, editor of the American Magazine, has written the introduction. The book has been dedicated to Prof. Cecil A. Rollins. A fuller description, including reviews by several members of the faculty, will appear in next week's ECHO.

HILLTOP IN THE RAIN.

By James S. Childers.

Reviewed by
Cecil Augustus Rollins

"Hilltop in the Rain" is an honest attempt to show what sadly needs to be shown—the plight of the artistic soul caught in the machinery of "higher education." Morgan Henley, the unheroic hero, has written a novel that impresses publishers, critics, friends and a double-handful of readers. On the strength of advance royalties and golden prophecies, he marries; and then, to pay expenses, "while writing another novel," undertakes to teach English at the local college.

Fifteen years of teaching pass. Henley lectures, writes news articles, works for a higher degree, becomes dean of the college.

His unwritten novel gnaws at his vitals, but there are bills to meet, and routine which saps his energy and kills his inspiration. Then—then—he hears a cardinal bird whistle to a springtime breeze; he sees a "cherry tree," and a cloud "like a fluffy elephant"—and begins his second novel.

Many have written of college life lately, from Percy Marks and Upton Sinclair to Alexander Meiklejohn, few with as much information and restraint as Mr. Childers. He knows whereof he speaks. One may feel, to be sure, that he paints his picture with an overplus of drab and black; but the artistic soul often sees college in those tones. But there are more vivid colors as well. The joy that may come to a true teacher, the joy of creation in a medium certainly more enduring than ink and paper; the disciplined tolerance and insight which accrue from time well spent in study and instruction—these positive goods need touching up to make the picture real. And why should we expect that the college, alone among human institutions, will reach perfection? Nevertheless it should be fitted to human nature more closely, with more give-and-take? In showing where the shoe pinches, Mr. Childers does a service to us all.

The story is a workmanlike job. It has moments of power, a few people who leap alive from the pages, natural incidents naturally organized, and a style that is usually adequate and sometimes excellent. "Hilltop in the Rain" is a novel that is good for the reader's soul and often good fun.

Professor Carl J. Weber, head of the department of English, upon being shown a copy of the "Anthology of Recent Colby Verse," remarked, after examining it, that he would be glad to purchase a copy, if only to obtain Norris Potter's "The Burial of Thomas Hardy," and Miss Dunn's "A Free Foot." "The rest of the volume," he remarked, "represents extremely unequal work—promise rather than achievement; but two such poems as those I have mentioned are good enough to redeem many a crude attempt. I shall be glad, too, to have in book form Mrs. Goodwin's prize poem, 'Morning.' This volume is the result of a very interesting endeavor and deserves encouragement."

My Dear Gladiator:

I note with pleasure the letter of last week by A-1 regarding the return of Professor Wilkinson.

I have been here three years and sorry to relate I was never fortunate enough to have taken one of Professor Wilkinson's courses while he was here. This has not, however, prevented me from hearing a great deal about him and leading me to really believe that I have been a very unfortunate Colby man in not having had a course to him. Where there is smoke there is always a fire and I have heard so much about him that I should heartily welcome his return and would be among the first to sign for one of his courses.

Wilkinsonianly yours,
A. Jr.

Dear Gladiator:

A professor recently commented upon the fact that when the college opens in the fall the class of pictures shown at one of the local theatres changes. And the change is not for the better.

This theater is careful, very careful, to state at odd moments that the selection of pictures is governed by the desires of its patrons. A flash upon the screen: "If you have enjoyed this program please tell us by applause, that we may be governed in the selection of future programs. (Most psychologically). The Management." The natural reaction of the audience is to applaud—the management, granting that it is governed by this applause, continues to procure the same class of pictures. But does the audience applaud because it desires that particular type of picture?

College students are regular attendants at the theatre—especially when noted speakers are at Colby—and they, at least, are presupposed to have some discrimination in the plots and themes of the pictures they see. If they want better pictures, then they should make that desire manifest in some way.

"But how can we know what pictures have been released, what pictures are good? How can we tell until we see the pictures themselves?" These questions bring me to the real point of my letter.

This same professor also suggested that there should appear in the library a list of recommended photographs which would serve as a guide for students attending the theatre. This list could be compiled from the advance contracts of the theater if the management was willing to co-operate.

The entire success of such a plan would rest, after all, entirely upon the shoulders of the students. If they refused to attend pictures which were not recommended, the theater, in order to retain their patronage, would be forced to raise the standard of pictures shown.

Yours,
Bohunkus.

Dear Gladiator:

Evidently the Gym Fund Drive has commenced in real earnest. Committees of the students have been appointed and a stenographer hired. We must not lie down on the job now; this is the time when we should make most diligent efforts to give the college all the publicity we can—the right kind of publicity.

The trains bringing college students into Maine from the Christmas recess were characterized by railroad men as "the worst ever," and the "White Mule" was largely held responsible.

There are two types of college men: one, the coon-coated, flask-toting nonentity of the "College Humor" class; the other, a man of judgment and increasing intellect. A jealous guardian of his own rights, he above all respects the rights of others. And the honor of his college is as dear to him as his own; he will never see it smirched by any act of his.

The torch is passed to us; we must run our own race. Shall we run a clean race or a foul one? If you're "all wet" you may as well admit it. I think you are.

Polonius.

WOMEN REPORT FOR VOLLEY BALL LEAGUE

A plan has been adopted this year to create more interest in volleyball for the women's division and has so far worked out most successfully. The girls have joined the teams with the idea that as soon as the new gymnasium opens any girls who wish to go out for volleyball may drop out of the league.

At the game Saturday afternoon, January 12, Ada Cram's team lost to Marion Lewis' team with a score of 32 to 31, and Barbara Heath's team defeated Abbie Boynton's team with a score of 60 to 35.

Team 4 of the Sophomore class played the Junior team headed by Pauline Brill, Monday night, January 14, and was defeated with a score of 53 to 27.

There will be another game the last of this week.

COLBY ICE MEN IN TIE AT LEWISTON

Hand Dopesters Surprise by Holding Strong Bobcats

Coach Roundy's puck passers, regarded universally as the weak sisters of the Maine college hockey teams, traveled to Lewiston last Saturday and battled the veteran Bates aggregation to a 2 to 2 tie in two overtime periods.

The Blue and Gray took the lead in the opening minutes of play when Lovett took a pass from Pollard and shot past Topolosky for the first score. A few minutes later Scott picked up a loose puck and scored on a long shot.

In the second period the Bates offense got underway and bombarded Irvine, who was doing sensational work in the net. Later in the period Cogan shot past the Colby goalie and repeated his performance in the third stanza to tie the count.

In the overtime periods Bates forced the play but was unable to work their way through Carlson and Pollard and their shots were ineffective pokes from the blue line.

The game was marred by penalties, four of the five-minute variety being handed out during the contest. Irvine was the outstanding performer of the contest. His sensational stops in the Colby net kept the Muleteers out of danger many times.

The summary:

Non-Frats Win From Kappa Delt Hoopmen

The Non-Fraternity basketball team defeated Kappa Delta Rho in the first game of the season in the college gymnasium last Friday afternoon. The game started slowly but rapidly gathered speed, with the Non-Fraternity team having a slight edge most of the distance. The star for the Non-Frats was Wisnoski who succeeded in running up a high score of 13 points, while Slocum of K. D. R. followed close behind with 12 points. The final score was 28 to 21.

At the close of last week's schedule the Zetes are leading the Interfraternity Bowling league. At the start of the week they were tied with the Phi Delt for first place but by taking three points from the Phi Delt they showed them into second place. The D. Colby Relay Team To Compete In Boston

The Colby relay team will face its first competition of the winter season at the Knights of Columbus Games in the new Boston Garden on January 26. Colby will oppose the representatives of Boston University and Massachusetts Agricultural College at this meet.

This will be one of the hardest assignments that the wearers of the Blue and Gray will face this season. Boston University, with a student body of 10,000 to pick from, will be represented by a fast team. M. A. C. in past years has produced some excellent track teams and indications are that their team this year is a representative one. The Knights of Columbus Games will be the first track meet in the new Boston Garden and it is expected that a record crowd will be on hand to witness the innovation of track in Boston's new Mecca of sport.

Both Boston University and M. A. C. have facilities for training their relay teams indoors in the winter time and Colby will be at a great disadvantage in that the men will have had no previous opportunity to run on the indoor boards this year and the change from the biting cold of Maine to the warm interior of the Garden will surely hamper them in their work. The extremely severe weather of the last few days has made it very difficult for the men to do any intensive training recently. Coach Ryan has been suffering from a slight attack of the gripe, a circumstance which has further hampered the work of the tracksters.

While Coach Ryan has been working hard with his men in an effort to build up an aggregation which will make a creditable showing in the coming Knights of Columbus Games he will not be able to present his full strength. Of the six fastest men on the squad at the present time, three will be unable to compete a week from Saturday having been declared ineligible by an edict of the faculty. These three, Potter, Goode and Newhall will be severely missed in the coming competition. Webster Brown, a veteran of three years experience who has shown up particularly well in the sprints recently, is ill in bed at the present time and while he will undoubtedly be able to compete his long illness may slow him down considerably. All four of these men have been training faithfully for the indoor competition this winter and the loss of the three by ineligibility and the possibility of the incapacity of the fourth will severely handicap Colby in the competition in the Boston Garden next week.

There is a possibility that the three men who are ineligible at the present time will be available after the period of the mid-year examinations which begin on January 28. This will not make them available for the first competition of the season.

Larry Robinson, the freshman prodigy who established a new college record in an intramural meet last fall, has also fallen under the faculty ban and unless he makes up his work between now and the spring season, he will not be available for track this year.

A meeting of the Chi Epsilon Mu is to be held Friday the 18th at four o'clock in Chemical Hall. Each member will be expected to present a short discussion on some current chemical event. The most interesting of these will be discussed.

STRONG TEAMS IN FRAT HOOP LEAGUE

Close Race Expected With Many Veterans Available

The Interfraternity Basketball league tournament, which got underway last week when the Non-Fraternity and Lancers Club got away to win, gives promise of being one of the most closely contested in recent years. Both of the games played last week were hard-fought contests and indicated that several of the teams, which in recent years have not stood high in the final standing will be strong contenders for the title this year.

Delta Upsilon, winners of the championship trophy presented by the Student Council last year, seem destined to repeat because they lost but one member of their championship winning quintet. They have from last year's team the most effective defense in the league in the persons of Nizolek and Klusick. Both men are veterans of several seasons and their work in the backcourt was largely responsible for the D. U. victory last year.

Clough at forward remains from the high-scoring combination of last year. He is a hard worker on the floor and may be depended upon for many points in the coming series. Thornton, a veteran of last year's team, will probably guard the center of the court. He was among the high scorers of the league last year. Mansfield, who saw some service in the games last year will undoubtedly be called upon to fill the vacancy left by the graduation of MacDonald, although there are many freshmen who are reported to be experienced in the court game and who may win places in the starting lineup. This will be an aggregation which will be hard to beat in the coming tournament.

Alpha Tau Omega, runners-up last year, may be counted upon to give the D. U.'s plenty of opposition in their quest of the title. Although weakened by the loss of Callaghan, high scorer of the league last year, and Trainor, veteran center, they will present a dangerous aggregation. The forward berths will undoubtedly be held down by Trim and Davis. Both of these men are veterans and were listed among the leading scorers of the league last year. Tierney at center is one of the fastest men in the league and always dangerous when in scoring position. Longley and Deetjen, sophomore veterans of last year's team, form a strong defense which will give the potential high scorers of the league plenty of trouble. Many competent performers are giving the veterans a run for their positions and the team will present plenty of reserve material.

The Non-Fraternity team, which loomed up as a contender for the title in the final weeks of play last year, showed in their first game that they will miss Dietch, the rangy center of last season, but that the veterans Wisnoski and Slosok are ready to start in just where they left off. Glazier will not be available for the court game this year but in Silowitz and Snitko the Non-Frats have uncovered two capable performers and should make a strong bid for the title.

The strong Lancers Club team of last year will miss the veteran Tom Caulfield in their lineup and will have to develop a team around the flashy McKeen. Martin and Calhoun are other veterans who will appear on the floor for this first division club of last year while several members of the entering class are making bids for positions of the five.

Phi Delta Theta seems due to stage a comeback after having finished lower than second last year for the first time in five years. They will miss the flashy Fiedler and McCroary when they take the floor for the first time but should present a strong title contender. In Hansen and Grady they have two veteran forwards who came into their own as leading scorers in the league last year. Ferguson came to the fore as one of the leading backs in the league last season while in Arnold and Richardson they have two capable performers who have seen reserve service in the past.

Zeta Psi will be weakened by the loss of Simmons who featured in their games last year but will nevertheless present a veteran team headed by Arber, the Cowing brothers, McNaughton and Nelson. They have much potential material in the entering class and many of these men may see action during the coming season.

Kappa Delta Rho have the nucleus of a winning aggregation with Blakeslee and Stewart, members of last year's team, and Slocum, of the entering class, who looked good in the opening contest of the season. They should be battling for a place in the first division when the end of the season draws near. They have plenty of reserve material from the team of combination and with more practice should present a fast quintet.

Lambda Chi Alpha will have a hard time to replace the fast Hannifen, who was lost by graduation, but in Hines and Maxey they have two veteran performers about which to form the basis of their 1929 candidates for championship honors. With a wealth of reserve material from the team of last season and several capable freshmen this team should hit its stride this year and help to make the race a close one.

With the veterans' Donovan and Cooke in uniform Delta Kappa Epsilon seem due for one of its best seasons on the court. Three valuable men, Drummond, Fourcade and McKeen, have been lost from the team of last year but with Dexter, Allison, Jordan, and several other veterans they may be counted upon to put a fast aggregation on the floor.

This week will see some fast games in the college gymnasium. Zeta Psi will face Kappa Delta Rho on Thursday afternoon. On Friday both Delta Upsilon and Phi Delta Theta will make their initial appearances of the season with the former facing the Lancers Club and the latter Lambda Chi Alpha. Next Saturday evening Non-Fraternity will play Delta Kappa Epsilon in a game which will be of importance in determining the league standing.

The Lancers Club basketball team defeated the D. K. E. five Saturday night in the college gym in a close contest by a score of 31 to 28. The game was a fast and furious struggle from the opening to the closing whistle with Cooke leading the attack for the losers. Cooke's total of 14 points clearly shows his prominence in the game and it took the combined power of Noyes and Allen of the Lancers to offset his remarkable shooting. Noyes totaled 10 points and Allen 9.

First Gym Dance of Season Held Saturday

The first Gym Dance of 1929 was held Saturday evening following the Deke-Lancers basketball game. A large gathering enjoyed dancing from 8.30 until 10.30 with the music furnished by George Allison's Serenaders. It is the first time that a gym dance has been held following a basketball game.

The Student Council had charge of the dance with Carl T. Clough, '29, of Houlton; G. Cecil Goddard, '29, of Portland; and Franklin B. Dexter, '29, of Mattapoisett, Mass., comprising the committee.

Professor and Mrs. C. Harry Edwards, Dean Nettie M. Runnals and Miss Corinne B. Van Norman were the patrons and patronesses. Oscar M. Chute, '29, of Beverly, Mass., represented the Student Council.

CONDITIONS ANNOUNCED FOR SCHOLARSHIP AID

The Committee on Scholarship Aid repeats at this time instructions given students last November, so that all may understand the conditions under which scholarships will be credited on second semester bills.

In order to be eligible for scholarship aid, a student must

1. Have made application by answering accurately and completely every question on a blank provided for this purpose, and this application must have been presented at the office of the Treasurer of Colby College not later than December 15, 1928.

2. Be a regular student in good standing. Special students are not eligible for scholarship aid.

3. Have received at least a passing mark in five regular three-hour courses at the close of the first semester of the college year in which aid is granted.

4. Not be on probation, or have a record for unsatisfactory conduct.

5. Have maintained satisfactory attendance at all college exercises, including chapel.

If a student meets all of the above conditions, it does not follow that he will receive scholarship aid. The funds available for scholarships are sufficient to grant only small amounts to not more than half the students who have filed applications. Selection from those who meet the conditions will be made by the committee on the basis of proven need and college accomplishment.

Student Council In Regular Meeting

At the regular weekly meeting of the Student Council held in the Y room at Hedman Hall, Monday evening, the following business was transacted.

A report was given on the basketball game and dance held in the gym Saturday evening, Jan. 12, which was a success financially and other wise.

Goddard made a favorable report following investigation of the Jewish fraternity, Gamma Phi Epsilon.

Motion made to have each fraternity vote on the proposed recognition of Gamma Phi Epsilon. Vote to be in the hands of the Secretary-Treasurer, of the Student Council, George Grady, not later than Friday, Jan. 18, 1929.

There followed a lengthy discussion on the Freshman toques. The fact that so many toques are still unsold casts a reflection on the Student Council. The matter was tabled until next week.

A motion was made that the Secretary write Senator Wadsworth a letter of thanks for the banquet tendered the Student Council last Saturday evening, Jan. 12. A motion was also made that the Secretary write Senator Wadsworth and General Lord, pledging the support of the Student Council to the $500,000 Gym Development Fund.

A report was made of the vote taken by the various fraternities as to whether they should have basketball or hockey. The result follows: A. T. O.—Basketball unanimously. Lancers—Basketball unanimously. L. C. A.—22 to 5 favor of basketball.

D. K. E.—Basketball unanimously. Zetas—Basketball unanimously. P. D. T.—Basketball unanimously. K. D. R.—Not heard from. D. U.—One man for hockey.

A motion was made that the committee in charge of basketball take charge of the intra-mural sports. This committee is composed of Grady, Goddard, and Clough.

The following practice schedule was arranged for the various fraternities:

A. T. O.—Monday evening, 7 to 8.
L. C. A.—Tuesday evening, 7 to 8.
D. U.—Tuesday evening, 8 to 9.
P. D. T.—Monday evening, 7 to 8.
Non-Frat—Wednesday evening, 7 to 8.
Zetas—Wednesday evening, 8 to 9.
K. D. R.—Thursday evening, 8 to 9.
Lancers—Friday evening, 8 to 9.
D. K. E.—Thursday evening, 7 to 8.

Meeting of Combined Relations Clubs

The combined International Relations Club and International Relations Division of the University Women's Club met at the home of Mrs. George F. Parmenter on Sheldon Place last evening. Reports on the recent book by Charles Evans Hughes were given by members of the University Women's Club followed by a general discussion of Inter-American Relations.

Dean Nettie M. Runnals defined the Monroe Doctrine in terms of its original interpretation and in the light of present day usage. In the course of her report she showed that in the document, as set forth by President Monroe, interposition of European nations and further colonization by them of American soil would not be tolerated by the United States. These two clauses have come to mean, in the light of present day interpretation, extension of territory and intervention of Non-American powers and not exclusively European.

Miss Corinne B. Van Norman reported on the closing chapters of Mr. Hughes' book which advises against the formation of an American league of nations on the ground that the old Hague organization is entirely adequate. The purpose of such a league would be to bring about conferences and promulgate legislative and judicial measures when necessary among the American states. These functions are well provided for in the Hague organization.

Florence Young, '29, of Brockton, Mass., reported on the findings of recent investigators into the matter of friendship displayed toward the United States by the South American republics. She pointed out that a distinct feeling of animosity is entertained by the South American peoples and that an altogether hostile attitude is shown in many quarters.

Refreshments of coffee and sandwiches were served by the hostess.

WOMEN'S GLEE CLUB.

The chorus, English peasants in colorful costumes, consisted of the following girls: Lillian Morse, Grace Stone, Ruth Bartlett, Barbara Weston, Alice Paul, '29; Helen Chase, '30; Marjorie Dearborn, Gertrude Sykes, Pearl Langlois, Phyllis Fisher, Muriel MacDougall, '31; Winifred Hammett, Tina Thompson, Ruth Ramsdell, '32.

The first part of the program consisted of four numbers by the members of the Girls' Glee Club: Medley of the South, The Two Clocks London-derry Air, In an Inglenook. These selections, which were well received by the audience, were directed by Martha Allen, president and director of the Glee Club.

The second part of the program was introduced and concluded by selections from the Girls' Orchestra. Owing to the illness of a member of the trio, a vocal solo, Sally, was substituted for their selection. A song sketch in costume, "Who'll Buy My Lavender?" was presented by Alberta Brown, '29; and the fourth number on this part of the program was a piano solo Rakasky March, Liszt, by Mary Wasgatt, '30, leader of Girls' orchestra.

In addition to the officers already mentioned, credit for the success of the concert should be given to Helen Paul, '30, vice president, manager and pianist of the Glee Club; Grace Sylvestor, stage manager; Doris Groesbeck, costume manager; Lora Neal, electrician. The members of the Glee Club are moreover grateful for the interest shown by Professor and Mrs. Cecil Rollins, Dr. Florence E. Dunn, Dean Nettie Runnals, Miss Corinne B. Van Norman, and Professor C. Harry Edwards in the production of the operetta.

His executive position as general chairman of the committee will lead to the project the national character that it is already assuming. It is expected that he will announce his executive committee within the next few days.
