DR. GEORGE H. LORIMER NAMED AS VICE CHAIRMAN OF DEVELOPMENT FUND

Vice President of Curtis Publishing Company and Member of the Class of '98 Accepts Important Position

Dr. George Horace Lorimer, '98, editor-in-chief of the "Saturday Evening Post" and first vice president of the Curtis Publishing Company has accepted the vice-chairmanship of the Colby College $500,000 Development Fund Committee, according to information released today by the Hon.

editor-in-chief. It may be truly said that in that position he has made the magazine what it is today. Since his connection with the "Post," Dr. Lorimer has become the first vice president of the Curtis Publishing Company, its publisher.

Besides his business connection Dr.

DR. GEORGE H. LORIMER

Herbert E. Wadsworth, chairman of the Board of Trustees. Senator Wadsworth made this announcement upon his return from a trip to Philadelphia where he interviewed Dr. Lorimer in regard to the work of the committee. The securing of the services of Dr. Lorimer marks the enlistment of another of the loyal Colby Alumni body in the active work which the Development Fund Committee has undertaken. In an interview with an ECHO reporter today Charles S. Brown, director of the committee, expressed great satisfaction with the progress of the committee. "Dr. Lorimer," he stated, "has very graciously consented to act as vice-chairman of the general committee and we feel that our ranks have been strengthened tremendously by his acceptance."

Dr. Lorimer has expressed great interest in the project recently undertaken. The vice-chairman is a son of Dr. George C. Lorimer, long pastor of Tremont Temple, Boston. He studied during his college days at Colby and at Yale University, and received the degree of Litt. D., from Colby in 1912. In 1899 he became affiliated with the "Saturday Evening Post" and has since risen to the position of Lorimer has been the author of several books including "Letters From a Self-Made Merchant to His Son," "Old George Graham," "The False Gods," and "Jack Spurlock—Prodigal." He also has the distinction of being a Chevalier de la Légion d'Honneur and a Commander of the Order of the Crown of Italy. He has been an aide to the Governor of Kentucky and in 1923 received the rank of Colonel. His clubs include: The Huntingdon Valley Hunt; The Huntingdon Valley Country, and the Yale Club of Philadelphia. In New York he is affiliated with the Coffee House.

ARTICLE BY RYAN PUBLISHED IN JAPAN

Not all matter appearing in the American press finds places in the publications of other nations, but this has happened with an article on the Olympic Games written by Coach Michael J. Ryan, of Colby, and published last November in the Colby Alumnus.

Judge Harrington Putnam, LL. D., of New York, graduate of Colby in the class of '77, was impressed by the friendly attitude of Coach Ryan's article toward the athletes of Japan, and sent it to Seichi Kishi, LL. D., president of the Japan Athletic Association of Tokyo. Judge Putnam, under date of February 2, writes the Alumnus editor to say that he is enclosing a letter from Dr. Kishi "acknowledging the receipt of the Alumnus containing Mr. Ryan's excellent report on the Amsterdam Olympic sports." "Dr. Kishi," continues Judge Putnam's letter, "attended the games at Amsterdam as the official chairman of the Japan delegation."

Dr. Kishi's letter reads as follows: "I have duly received with much thanks the article about the IX Olympic Games written by Mr. Ryan in the 'Alumnus Colby' which you kindly sent to me. I had it translated into Japanese by one of my assistants and published in the official gazette of our Association which bears the name 'Athletics.' I find said article very interesting and very well written. I presume the friendly opinion of its writer about the Japanese team urged you to send it to me, because I am always confident of your being a great friend of Japan."

BAUMGART TO GIVE LECTURE ON ASTRONOMY

Famous Astronomer to Speak
At City Opera House
February 21

The fifth of a series of public lectures sponsored by the faculty committee on visiting lecturers will be delivered in the City Opera House on Thursday evening, Feb. 21, by E. M. Baumgardt, one of the leading astronomers and lecturers in the country. The subject of Dr. Baumgardt's lecture will be "An Evening With the Stars."

Commenting on the coming lecture today Dr. Libby said:

"That this lecture and lecturer are not of the ordinary sort may be best judged from the facts concerning Dr. Baumgardt in 'Who's Who in America.' He is past president of the Southern California Academy of Sciences, Fellow of the Royal Astronomical Society of England, thirty-third degree Mason, and a member of a number of New York and California social clubs. He is an extensive world traveler and explorer, and staff lecturer of a half-dozen leading scientific societies. Few men in the country have the record of Dr. Baumgardt for return engagements. He has lectured over eighty times for the American University Extension in Philadelphia, over fifty times for the League for Political Education in New York, and nearly a hundred times in the Brooklyn Institute."

"Dr. Baumgardt lectures on many subjects, but 'An Evening with the Stars' was selected by the committee in charge because of its popular interest, its educational value, and because it is a lecture that has given Dr. Baumgardt wide reputation. It will be illustrated with the latest achievements in celestial photography. This will be a journey to the frontiers of our universe, billions of miles away in the bosom of immeasurable space."

It is the intention of the committee to see to it that every seat in the Opera House is filled on the evening of February 21. Tickets will therefore be offered at a reasonable price so that expenses only may be met. Some 200 seats will be reserved for citizens who would care to cooperate with the College in the enjoyment of a lecture.

COLBY QUOTA EIGHT FOR "Y" MEETING

Will Attend Fourth Annual
N. E. College
Conference

The fourth annual mid-Winter Y. M. C. A. conference for colleges of Eastern New England, to which Colby's quota is a delegation of eight men, will again be held this year at the Mansion House at Poland Springs, on March 1-3. "The Dynamic of Christian Motivation" will be the subject of the conference as announced by J. H. Lane of Harvard, the publicity chairman of the conference. The leader will be Dr. Charles W. Gilkey of Chicago, formerly pastor of the Hyde Park Baptist Church and now engaged as the Dean of the Chapel at the University of Chicago.

The theme announced will be amplified by the following quotations from statements made by members of the committee "Is a dynamic force from without necessary as a motivation for the work done by Christian Associations? If so, what is its source? Is a sense of social solidarity sufficient? What is the relation between a sense of social solidarity and the Christian religion?" "Is there any need for a central driving force, purpose or end behind our lives or is it sufficient that each thing we do is an end in itself? If so, what is this force and how are we going to possess it?" "If they could feel the drawing force, would they not be better able to carry on their work buoyed up by the feeling of being a part of a greater whole and sustained by this knowledge, avoid the periods of depression?"

The size of the conference is limited to 200, and therefore tentative quotas for the various colleges have been worked out. The quota from the Colby Association is therefore limited to eight men.

The conference will begin with a supper Friday night and will last until Sunday afternoon. An informal schedule of discussion and forum hours will be arranged.

DR. JULIAN TAYLOR CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Oldest Active Professor in New England
Colleges

Dr. Julian D. Taylor, '68, professor of the Latin language and literature and dean of the faculty, celebrated his 83rd birthday Tuesday, Jan. 29, when he received the congratulations and good wishes of the student body, graduates of the college, and friends in Waterville. In behalf of the latter a committee made up of Dr. Herbert C. Libby, Prof. Ernest C. Marriner, and Dr. J. Frederick Hill presented Dr. Taylor with a bouquet of 83 roses.

DR. JULIAN TAYLOR

Dr. Taylor is now in his sixty-first year of teaching at Colby and is thus New England's oldest professor in point of service. His record is approached only by that of Professor Charles E. Fay, dean of Tufts Graduate School, and professor of modern languages at that institution. Dr. Taylor's record is all the more unusual since he has passed his entire career of service at Colby from which he graduated in 1868, when it was known as Waterville College.

Born in Winslow in 1846, Dr. Taylor took his degree of Bachelor of Arts upon his graduation with the class of '68. He was immediately elected a tutor in the college and served in that capacity for five years until he was appointed to the professorship of the Latin language and literature. When the chair was endowed in 1918 he became the Taylor Professor of the same subject. He received the further degrees of Master of Arts in 1871 and Doctor of Letters in 1900, from Colby. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the national honorary scholastic society.

In his eighty-fourth year, Dr. Taylor enjoys excellent health and seldom finds it necessary to give his classes a "cut." Besides the three courses he offers each semester he is active in many civic and business enterprises. He is a director as well as vice president of the Ticonic National Bank of Waterville and is regarded as an expert on investment securities. The Waterville Rotary Club claims him as one of its most prominent members.

D. U. FRATERNITY PLEDGES SUPPORT

The local chapter of the Delta Upsilon fraternity is the second of the Colby fraternity group to announce its support of the Colby College $500,000 Development Fund Committee. The announcement is in the form of a letter to the ECHO dated January 25th. The letter reads:

"Delta Upsilon is completely and sincerely behind the new Colby College $500,000 Development Fund. We are ready to support the committee in every way possible. With General Lord, Senator Wadsworth, and Mr. Brown working for us, we are confident of success."

DR. FRANKLIN JOHNSON ADDRESSES BOSTON COLBY ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

SECOND QUARTER ALUMNUS THIS WEEK

Unusual Feature Articles
By Prominent Graduates of Colby

The second quarter of the "Colby Alumnus," the official graduate magazine of the college, will come from the press this week, according to an announcement made by the editor, Prof. Herbert C. Libby, '02. It will contain over 100 pages and will be profusely illustrated. The "Alumnus" will be read by more than one-fourth of the entire graduate list of the college, going into every state of the Union and to a number of foreign countries where Colby graduates have gone.

This issue is of unusual interest because of the special articles written by prominent Colby men and women. Among these contributors are General Herbert M. Lord, LL. D., '84; John E. Cummings, D. D., '84; Edward F. Stevens, Litt. D., '89; Harland R. Rackliffe, B. S., '23; Coach Edward C. Roundy; Edwin C. Whittemore, D. D., '79; Ernest Cummings Marriner, B. A., '13; Frank W. Padelford, D. D., '94; Lois Hoxie Smith, '03. The Editor contributes articles dealing with the subject of "Salaries of College Professors," "General Lord's Visit to the Campus," "Among the Graduates," "Concerning Elijah Parish Lovejoy," "The Colby Development Fund," "In Memoriam," and "The Graduate List."

A number of pages are given over to editorial comment on important matters. The subjects of the editorials include "A Philosophy that Survives," "Commencement Just Ahead," "Lost Addresses," "The Inaugural," "Books for the Library," "A Development Fund," "Not all for Athletics," "Visiting Lecturers," "Dollars and Cents," "President-elect Johnson's Visit," "The Budget Director." The editor reports the death of ten graduates of the college since the last issue of the magazine.

INTER-FRAT BALL HELD AT ELKS HALL

Many Couples in Attendance
--Attempt to Make
Affair Annual

The Interfraternity Confetti Ball sponsored by the Colby College $500,000 Development Fund Committee was held last Saturday evening at the Elks Hall, following the close of the mid-year examination period. The affair was attended by one hundred couples and was voted one of the best social events of the present season.

Music for the occasion was furnished by Hood's Merry-makers and dancing was enjoyed from eight to eleven-thirty. The hall was decorated with the many colors of the various fraternities in the form of crepe paper streamers. Banners from the fraternity chapters were displayed on the walls in a manner that called attention to the interfraternity nature of the affair.

The dance was planned and executed by a committee from the Student Council under the chairmanship of G. Cecil Goddard, '29, of Portland, a member of the Council and Student Executive Chairman of the Development Fund Committee. It is hoped that the interfraternity ball will become an annual affair and will be held in the new gymnasium in the interest of which it was arranged this year.

The patrons and patronesses were: Professor and Mrs. Ernest C. Marriner, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Warren, and Miss Corinne B. Van Norman.

Tells Alumni Group That Colby Presents Several
Major Problems

Speaking before the Colby alumni of Greater Boston for the first time since his election to succeed the late Arthur J. Roberts as head of the college, President-elect Franklin W. Johnson, last Friday evening at the University Club, told the Boston Colby Alumni Association of his plans for the future of the college. Dr. Johnson emphasized the importance of the program recently outlined by the Colby College $500,000 Development Fund Committee.

Prefacing his remarks with a brief account of the week he spent here in Waterville looking over the college, the first of last month, he declared that a misunderstanding existed which he wished to correct. "Several have referred to my acceptance of the presidency of Colby as representing a sacrifice on my part. I wish to say that I am making no sacrifice. I am returning to Colby because I wish to. I consider leaving a professorship at Columbia University for the presidency of Colby College a promotion."

While explaining that between now and June, when he will be inaugurated, he is going to attempt to find out how good presidents administer their colleges and, more specifically, how Colby College has been administered, he paid high tribute to the executive committee which administered the college following the death of President Roberts, saying: "I have found the college so well administered that they do not really need a president. The only reason for my going to the college is that I may relieve these men from their administrative tasks in order that they may devote all their time to the more important duties of teaching."

Answering the question of what a college is for, President Johnson responded with: "The only reason for a college is that students may be taught." At the time that President Johnson was elected to become the new head of the college he made known that he would accept if the trustees of the college would accept certain conditions which he would lay down. Among these was that his chief function should be regarded as the improvement of the college as an educational institution.

The college has several important problems of curriculum. Some of these, President Johnson reported, the faculty are now taking up. Considering the material equipment of the college, as he found it on his recent visit, Dr. Johnson urged the erection of a new building on the campus to house the offices of the treasurer, president, registrar, dean and manager of buildings and grounds. The college has never had a dean, but one will be created next year.

The present Colby Library can never be made adequate to the institution's needs, Dr. Johnson warned, but, happily, there is a possibility that a new library may be supplied. Another imperative need is a new building to provide adequately for chapel and general student gatherings, as well as for various other social activities which are essential to a healthy college life.

Turning to the college's campaign for funds with which to erect a new gymnasium, President Johnson reviewed the effort begun by President Roberts to raise $100,000 for this purpose, a campaign which was checked temporarily by his death. The drive has now been resumed on a much larger scale and with every prospect of success. The plan involves an equipment to cost $300,000, perhaps $350,000. But these buildings, as Dr. Johnson pointed out, would entail a financial liability for maintenance. To prevent this, it is proposed to raise a full half million dollars.

Answering the objections of those who cry that this program aims only at the development of athletic teams and that no such sum of money should be devoted to that purpose, Dr. Johnson declared that if this were the end sought he would be in full sympathy with anyone who opposes the plan on that ground. "But the purpose is far broader than this. It looks to the development of broad health program, with suitable physical activities for all the men of the college, whose aim will be the dissemination of health information and the development of a full half million dollars."

THE "TIGER" OF COLBY.

The man who has served Colby for nearly sixty-one years and who has followed her through considerably more than half of her one hundred eight years of service celebrated last week his eighty-third birthday. Dr. Julian D. Taylor, loved and revered by students and alumni of Colby and respected by the citizens of Waterville, is still the active head of the Latin department. It may be said of Dr. Taylor's connection with the college that "the more he drinketh of (Colby) the more it intoxicateth" as Bacon said of age and the world. Dr. Taylor does not merely as Long-fellow:

"Oft in thought go up and down
The pleasant streets of that dear old town."

But he has been a familiar figure on the streets of Waterville as well as on the campus since he began his undergraduate days sixty-five years ago. Rather he is in tune with Browning and watches the evolution and growth of the college on the Kennebec with these words on his lips:

"Grow old along with me!
The best is yet to be."

And in the expression of his faith in life and in the life of Colby Dr. Taylor gives his wholehearted support to every laudable project which the college undertakes. Exemplary of this is his sanction of the proposal of the Colby College $500,000 Development Fund Committee. He has a rich store of treasured traditions of days gone by, but he has also an optimistic and positive outlook for the Colby of future years.

And so the ECHO, for the students and for the Association, extends its congratulations to Dr. Taylor who apparently believes with Claudius Claudianus:

"About the spacious world let others roam,
The voyage, life, is longest made at home."

DONUM.

Now is a good time for you of 1929 who expect to graduate to begin to stir your thoughts on the matter of a class gift. '28 had its gift at decided a year ago this time. But so far this year not a rumor or a suggestion has come to the front. If the present senior class is waiting for a hint from the ECHO—here goes!

There are two things that interest the two divisions of the college individually. And it would be appropriate that each division should make its gift in its own interest.

In the women's division the new so-called Alumnae Building will come into use, it is understood, without adequate furnishings. Why not, then, let the senior women make their class gift in the way of more or less permanent fixtures for the gym? A fitting gift from the women of '29, would be placed in the building while it is now and if it is a gift of some permanence it will become a part of the building itself. Sometimes after thoughts—when they come too long after—become rambling annexations that are obviously incongruous.

Now for the men!

In the gradual evolution of the realization of the needs of the division the Colby College $500,000 Development Fund Committee has been formed. Its increasing momentum is already carrying some of the greatest men in the country with it. By the time the men of '29 are reaching for their diplomas the corner stone of the new gymnasium will be laid. The $500,000 will be accounted for so that the new building will be a matter of a few months of construction. There are eighty-five men in the class. A reasonable assessment would provide sufficient funds for the purchase of a lasting memorial to 1929. The nature of the memorial—one of permanence in this instance too—can best be suggested by the personnel of the athletic director. "Doc" Edwards must have many wants.

If the proposal is acted upon soon the architects will, no doubt, include the design of the gift in the plans that being prepared for release in the near future.

Whatever the gift, whether real estate or a stuffed white mule, let's decide. And whether the respective divisions of the college unite or divide, the time for some action is at hand.

COINCIDENCE.

What seems to be an augury of more than favorable significance is the fact that the telephone number of the office of the Colby College $500,000 Development Fund Committee is 1820. As a date in the history of the state and college 1820 was a year of great importance.

1820 marks the settlement of the great Missouri Compromise which involved the entrance of Maine into the sisterhood of the United States. The question of slavery was then a problem in the national government, and it was only through the statesmanship of Henry Clay, the "Great Peace-maker," that Maine was admitted as a "free" state. In that year Maine's colorful history merged with that of the union and it could no longer be said humorously that "Massachusetts is a part of Maine."

The same year marks also a memorable event in the history of Colby. Waterville College was founded in that year when a small party of people landed on the banks of the Kennebec and proceeded to establish the institution which has grown into the Colby of today.

Who knows but what the number of that modern and indispensable instrument, the telephone, which curiously coincides with such an important date, signifies as great a future as the same numerals did nearly a decade more than one hundred years ago!

Literary Column

A PLEA.

It is perhaps the greatest fault of our day and generation that we have lost the precious art of wasting time. We hurry, hurry, hurry from dawn until nightfall; we begrudge the hours we spend in sleep; we would recall the hours we played away as children; tomorrow's hours we budget as a frugal housewife budgets her groceries, her meals, her firewood. "This much time I shall spend on my meals, so much for study. If I can save five minutes here, I can meet Bill at three, then half an hour—yes, half an hour at the barber's. I can slip in fifteen minutes of reading before dinner, and leave just enough to write to Ruth." So it is that we make ourselves the slaves of our appointments, the prisoners of punctuality.

Yet the powerful force which impels us to plunder each moment of all its opportunities, of all its possibilities, is not inherent, but acquired. Through all our lives we have been the victims of an extensive and pernicious Anti-Leisure Propaganda, and by a malicious perversity of fate "carpe diem" (spoken as the frank invitation to idling) has become the watchword of that propaganda.

The dilemma of Horace—and no one could more delightfully waste time than Horace—would be great could he see by what erroneous interpretation, to what perverted uses, we have put his advice. Horace—who hated to be hurried through the throng to a sick client on the Capitoline, who hated the mad striving to store up gold, whose aversion was the babbler over exerting himself to gain the favor of the mighty; Horace whose pleasure it was to wander through the clove and the markets, to watch the fakers and to enquire the price of cabbage; to amble along country roads, his fat knees pressing into the sides of his donkey; or, in the autumn, to broach a jug of Falernian wine with a friend when the season and the wine and their own time of life were mellow. The counsel of that Horace was not "seize the day," but "Take your time."

Our misunderstanding of his words has cost us dear, for by it we have lost all dignity. To grab, even though what we grab is time, is not dignified. We have lost all gracefulness, the finer shades of courtesy and human kinship. We are too hurried to observe. We have lost all appreciation of the subtleties, the more delicate nuances of life. We can gulp down raw gin, but the proper drinking of rare wine in a beautiful Old World goblet—that is an art that we are too impatient to learn. We are like gulls; we dip our wings in the sea, slant on the wind and are away again—we do not dive into the gold-green depths for sunken treasure.

If we could have these things—dignity and grace and a more exquisite enjoyment, let us abandon haste, for they are the product of leisure. Let us only in the most truly Horatian sense say "carpe diem."

Ye Gladitor Column

Letters in the Gladitor Column are expressions of opinion by individual contributors to that column and the editor assumes no responsibility for any statements, allusions, or assertions made in them. The column is a free-for-all and student contributions are solicited.

Dear Gladitor:

On the former site of the home of Registrar Malcolm B. Mower in College Place there rises an undying monument to the faith and perseverance of the women, students and alumnae, of Colby College. The new Women's Gymnasium is the result of their efforts to give the women's division the necessary physical training equipment.

Alone, unaided, they bravely started on what they were often told was a hopeless task—the raising of funds to build their gym. But they refused to quit. They gave their dances, their entertainments—good ones too—and the dollars came slowly in.

Professor Florence Dunn, a many-times silent but always true friend of the College, saw and appreciated their efforts; and when the crisis came she helped them.

Now the women have a gymnasium! Last Colby Night the men gave vent to their intention of having a new gymnasium in loud cheers. They did not need the example of the women, for they had determined to have a gym of their own but they were waiting—probably for favorable auspices, or for the new moon. If not for their own needs, then to the end that the women may not be ahead of them, the men are working for their gym. It will cost hundreds of thousands of dollars; in some particulars it will contest for the "biggest and best;" we will be proud of it—but over its noble portals we should carve "Inspired by the Women of Colby."

Sincerely,
Polonius.

Dear Gladitor:

Your correspondents lately have amused me tremendously with their "rumors" about Dr. Wilkinson. Many of them have been without foundation and contrary to fact. The student sentiment is quite clearly favorable to Dr. Wilkinson's return, but since it is supposedly a cardinal sin for a newspaper to print untruths it might be well to give them a grain of truth. If your column is not ordinarily made up of such, however, I would suggest that you overlook the following.

It is straight goods that Dr. Wilkinson did not leave because of low salary and failure on the part of the administration to meet his requirements. He was consulted and confirmed the statement that he had other reasons. I would suggest that interested persons who doubt this inquire directly from Dr. Wilkinson.

Furthermore, our erstwhile history department head is not dissatisfied in his present position. He has advantages there which he well appreciates. He also had other advantages at Colby which he appreciated. There is every reason to believe that he may feel a bit inclined to regret that he is not still heading our history department since it is natural for any person with a moderately long connection with a place to regret to leave it. There is even the possibility that he could be induced to return to the college by virtue of the same, but he may still not be essentially unhappy at Vermont. Mention of this subject in the light that other correspondents have shown it would be almost saying

Changing Horses

At the portals of our large cities—New York, Baltimore, Detroit, and soon Cleveland—a semaphore halts a luxurious flyer drawn by a puffing steam engine. A simple switching maneuver, and electricity takes charge. A giant electric locomotive, quickly under way, glides silently into the home stretch with its long string of Pullmans.

Like a thoroughbred it makes the run—tirelessly. Passengers alight in a clean terminal—clean because there is no smoke or soot.

Another milestone in transportation—another event in the life of the iron horse!

Civilization is progressing, with electricity in the van. How far this advance will take us, is a problem for our future leaders. It is for them to develop and utilize new applications of electricity—the force that is pointing the way over uncharted courses, not only in railroading, but in every phase of progress.

The G-E monogram is found on large electric locomotives and on MAZDA lamps, electric vacuum cleaners, and a multitude of other appliances which serve us all. It is the mark of an organization that is dedicated to the cause of electrical progress.

BLUE AND GRAY RUNNERS DEFEAT AMHERST AND MASS. AGGIES EASILY

The Blue and Gray one mile baton passers raced to a win over Massachusetts Aggies and Amherst College at the B. A. A. Games in the Boston Arena last Saturday evening. Brown, running first for Colby, went out and accumulated a ten yard lead. Although Neale of Amherst cut this lead down running against Potter, the latter turned over a good lead to Rivkin who increased it and Sprague running anchor for Colby finished a good nine yards ahead of Amherst with Mass. Aggies a half lap in the rear.

In the high jump Mayo Seekins finished in a tie for first place with three other contestants at 6 feet. In the jump-off Seekins finished second, being beaten out by Charlie Major, former Coburn star. He won over Jim Stoddard of the B. A. A.

With the victories of the B. A. A. Games fresh in their minds and with a world of experience gained at this meet and at the Knights of Columbus Games the week before, the Colby tracksters are preparing for the Milrose Games in New York on Saturday night. It will be a much stronger Colby relay team that will enter the meet at Madison Square Garden than the one which competed in the Boston Garden two weeks ago. If Colby could have as her opponent the strong Boston University team which won over them that night the race would be a good one and Colby would be better prepared to give a good battle.

At the first race of the season three of the baton passers were battling under great handicaps. Brown was running for the first time after his illness which had sapped his strength to a great extent. Potter was running on the boards for the first time and Sprague was competing for the first time in over a year having been forced out of the game due to illness. Brown has now regained his health, Potter has had an opportunity to get the needed experience and Sprague has proven that the long layoff has not hampered his development.

At the Milrose Games the Colby team will be entered in a fast field against Amherst, Union and Williams. Colby has one victory over Amherst but in Williams and Union they will be up against high class competition. The team was not forced at the B. A. A. Games however and should be able to make better time in faster competition. Tentative plans had been made by Coach Ryan to enter his men in the Manhattan Games at New York, Monday night, in a one mile open relay against such teams as Boston College and Yale, but these negotiations have fallen through. On the following Thursday they will compete in the Games of Meadowbrook Athletic Club at Philadelphia. They will have as opponents over the one mile course Temple, Villa Nova and St. Josephs. They are also entered in the open college mile relay in which are such teams as Syracuse, Georgetown, and Holy Cross.

In the two meets Mayo Seekins will be entered in the high jump. The versatile track captain has completely recovered from his recent attack of the gripe and is showing up better than ever before. From present indications he looks like a good bet to place in the N. I. C. 4-A Meet at New York next month. Giles and Hayde have been showing up well in the sprints and one of these men will be picked to enter the dashes at the Milrose and Meadowbrook Games.

FOUR TEAMS TIED IN BASKETBALL LEAGUE

Deke—Non-Frat.

A fast moving Non-Fraternity basketball team swamped Delta Kappa Epsilon with an avalanche of baskets in a game played in the college gym on Saturday afternoon. The final score was 46 to 21. Wisnoski and Snitko, forwards on the Non-Frat team, scored 20 and 13 points respectively and succeeded in playing rings around the Deke quintet. Cooke was high point man for the losers, scoring 13 points.

Delta Upsilon defeated the Lancers Club basketball team 68 to 28 in a fast game played in the college gymnasium a week ago last night. The D. U.'s had no difficulty in overcoming their opponents though McKean of the Lancers furnished them some trouble. Taylor, a new man in the D. U. lineup, carried off honors as high scorer with 24 points, while Clough and Thornton added their share to the total.

Zeta—L. C. A.

Zeta Psi won from Lambda Chi Alpha 20 to 18 in a close contest played last Friday afternoon. At no time during the game were the two teams separated by more than a ten point lead and during the third quarter when the tally stood at 22 to 15 in favor of the Zetas the game seemed to be almost anybody's. The Zetas, however, increased their lead, through Nelson's fine shooting, and won over a hard fighting Lambda Chi quintet. Nelson of the Zetas was the outstanding player with a total of 10 points

D. U.—K. D. R.

A smoothly working D. U. basketball team submerged the K. D. R.'s 42 to 17 in a one-sided game played a week ago Saturday afternoon. From the beginning there was little doubt of the outcome in the minds of the spectators. The feature of the game was the excellent work of Clough, Taylor, and Klusick whose performance marked them as the outstanding players on the floor. Slocum was high point man on the Kappa Delta team with 10 points while Clough of the D. U.'s tallied 13 points.

teams were tied in total number of points and at the end of the third quarter the Phi Deltas led by only one point. In the last period the Phi Deltas shot two baskets and one foul, and because of their fine guard work allowed the Lancers only one basket.

HOCKEY MEN ON FOREIGN INVASION

To Play Three Hard Games

---Schedule of the Trip

The Blue and Gray hockey squad accompanied by Assistant Coach Bill Millett left Waterville this morning on their first invasion of foreign fields. They will play Williams College at Williamstown, Thursday, and will return to Durham, N. H., to play the University of New Hampshire on Saturday. On Monday the pucksters will meet Bowdoin at Brunswick in a State Series game.

The Colby team has not been on the ice since January 21, when they lost to Bowdoin on the Waterville rink. Contests with Bowdoin and Bates just before the mid-year examinations were cancelled because of the illness of Scott, Irvine, Delaware and Pollard of the Colby team. The men worked out as best they could during the period of examinations and started off the week with two long practices on Monday in preparation for the strenuous campaign in the next few weeks.

Although Colby will be at a disadvantage in having been laid off for so long a time the Williams team that they will meet has also been inactive because of examinations. The Blue and Gray team will face a tough assignment at Williams. The pupils of Art Fox have established a good record on the ice this winter and after their long layoff are anxious to start the intensive season which faces them with a win. The two teams have not matched shots with each other in the past and there is no basis for comparison between the two.

At New Hampshire another "Battle of the Century" will be on the program. Last year the two teams fought for three periods on the college rink in a game that was rough from start to finish. New Hampshire was returned the winner and Colby is out for revenge this year. New Hampshire is represented by a team which gives much promise of going places in college hockey and will be equally anxious to add another game to their win column.

The State series clash at Brunswick next week will find Colby out to get back in the race for the flag and with their full strength on the ice the battle with the pace setting Polar Bears will be a corker.

CAST NAMED FOR THE POWDER AND WIG PLAY

Professor Cecil A. Rollins of the English department, who is coaching the play "The Seven Keys to Baldpate" to be given by Powder and Wig dramatic society of the college, announced yesterday the names of the male members of the cast. Tryouts for the play were held some time ago, and both Professor Rollins and Charles A. Cowing, president of the society, expressed satisfaction with the interest shown by the students.

About thirty-five tried for parts, and the chief difficulty has been in choosing from the available material. Choice was made according to voice, type and temperament, also fitness in relation to others in the cast. Although the names of the women who are to take part in the production are not known to date, it is expected that they will be announced within a few days. Work on the play will commence immediately. Professor Rollins instructs members of the cast to get their play books from Charles Cowing as soon as possible; read the play, learning about each part but not learning the parts yet. Rehearsal dates will be posted on the bulletin board, and attendance at all rehearsals will be absolutely required.

Those who have seen the previous productions of Powder and Wig, know the fine quality of the plays and musical comedies presented by that society. "The Seven Keys to Baldpate," which is to be this year's offering of the college dramatic society, is of the same excellent character as those produced in former years. It is a George M. Cohan production and has had long runs on the professional stage. It is a mystery thriller with a dash of romance, and is well sprinkled with laughs and shivers. The public will probably find this Powder and Wig play one of the best ever offered by the society.

The male cast is as follows: Magee, Richard Hodsdon, '29, South Thomaston; Quimby, David P. Kronquist, '29, Rumford, R. I.; Bland, Ralph Anderson, '32, Yarmouth; Peters, Albert Murray, '32, Melrose, Mass.; Cargan, Charles Cowing, '29, West Springfield, Mass.; Lou Max, Brittain Webster, '32, Lexington, Mass.; Hayden, Lincoln Webber, '31, Fairfield; Kennedy, James Woods, '29, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Owner of Baldpate Inn, Donald Kellogg, '32, Augusta; policeman, Lucius Lobdell, '31, Hartland, Vt.; and Thompson Grant, '32, Bangor.

French Club Organized By College Students.

Thirty members of both divisions of the college met under the direction of Professor Everett F. Strong of the French department, in the French room of Chemical Hall, Tuesday evening for the purpose of organizing a French Club. The purposes of the club are the furthering of the speaking of French, the gaining of ease in accent and expression, and the acquiring of a greater knowledge of French literature. It was agreed by the members of the club that French shall be the only language spoken at the meetings, that as soon as the club room is reached the use of any other language is taboo.

The officers of the organization as chosen at the first meeting are: President, Harriet Kimball, '29, East Boothbay; vice president, Clarence Arber, '30, Dorchester, Mass.; secretary, Pauline Morin, '30, Ashland; treasurer, Helen Simmons, '32, Oakland.

It was voted to hold the second meeting of the club next Tuesday evening at the Kappa Delta Rho fraternity house on Elm street.

ANNUAL MID-YEAR MUSICAL PROGRAM OF COLBY WOMEN

It has been the custom of the women's division to have sometime during the week of mid-year examinations a short musical program. This year it was given by Mrs. H. W. Brown of Bontelle avenue. She is a very fine pianist, and played for her program the following selections: Asphodel, by Cyril Scott; Prelude op. 28, No. 15, by Chopin; May Night by Sökin Palmgren; Valse by Miska Levitzki; Nocturne by Grieg; Lullaby by Schmitt; Träumerei by Richard Strauss.

SOPHOMORE DANCE.

The following committees have been announced for the Sophomore Girls' Dance which will be held on March 2, probably in the new gymnasium: General chairman, Alice Linseott; refreshment committee, Thelma Bamford, chairman, Althea Wheeler, and Marian White; decoration and program committee, Stephanie Bean, chairman, Marjorie Dearborn, and Louise Mulligan; orchestra, Anna Macomber and Barbara Gurney.

POSTPONE OPENING OF THE COLBY ALUMNAE BUILDING

The Colby Alumnae Association has postponed the formal opening of the Alumnae Building until the recovery of Dean Nettie M. Runnals who has been ill for over two weeks. Although the formal opening has been postponed, the Junior Girls' Dance on Saturday evening will be held in the gymnasium of the new building, and gymnasium classes will begin there as soon as the floor is cleared.

ment of ideals and habits of wholesome and effective physical activity which will function throughout life. Better college teams may be the result, but these will not be the main purpose, but rather a by-product of a comprehensive plan of physical education.

Concluding a brief eulogy of his predecessor, Dr. Johnson remarked that "the students were never more loyal than they are today, the faculty were never more harmonious and devoted to their work, the trustees were never more interested in furthering constructive plans for the development of the college."

Other speakers were Professor George F. Parmenter, chairman of the department of chemistry; Edward C. Roundy, athletic coach at Colby; Herbert E. Wadsworth, chairman of the trustees, and Judge Benedict F. Maher of Augusta.
