BOARD OF TRUSTEES TENDER DINNER TO DOCTOR JOHNSON AT PORTLAND

President Stresses Need Of Three New Buildings

That the college will need three new buildings in addition to the proposed new gymnasium was stressed by President-elect Franklin W. Johnson, speaking at a formal dinner tendered him by the trustees of the college in the Sunrise room of the Eastland Hotel, Portland, last Friday night. Dr. Johnson declared that material expansion alone was not to be considered as paramount, but that a chapel, a library, and an administrative building were needed with the gymnasium to round out the four necessary correlative centers of the college. He estimated the cost of these buildings at between $800,000 and $1,000,000.

Sixteen of the faculty and undergraduate body were present at the dinner which was attended by about 200 Colby graduates, and graduates of other Maine colleges. President Clifton D. Gray of Bates and President Harold S. Boardman of the University of Maine represented the other Maine colleges.

Dr. Johnson said in part: "There are four correlating centers around which the work of a college is organized, for each of which adequate housing and equipment are necessary. No one of these is suitably provided for at present.

"First, the college must have an administrative center. At present the treasurer's office is in the old Recitation Hall. The offices of the president and the registrar are in Chemical Hall, as well as that of the dean, a new office to be created next year. A new building should be provided to house all these offices and thus provide for a more efficient administration.

"The library is the correlation center of the intellectual life of the college. The use of energy and ingenuity that are used to make inadequate equipment serve a very large purpose are highly commendable. But we cannot be satisfied with what we have. The thought of what irreparable loss a fire would cause makes me shudder. We could replace the building (Continued on page 4)

MASSACHUSETTS ALUMNI HOLD BOSTON BANQUET

Select Vice-Chairman For Campaign Teams--Large Attendance

The newly organized Massachusetts Alumni division of the General Committee of the $500,000 Development Fund, as guests of Mr. T. Raymond Pierce, '98, chairman of the divisional committee, met for dinner in a private room of the University Club, Boston, last Wednesday evening with a large and enthusiastic gathering of Massachusetts graduates in attendance. The committee elected as Vice Chairman in charge of campaign teams, Nell F. Leonard, '21, of the law firm of Pillsbury, Dana and Young, and as General Secretary, Professor Stanley G. Estes, '23, chairman of the department of social sciences at Northeastern University.

POWDER AND WIG TO GIVE PLAY THURSDAY

Production Will Rival The Past Offerings of Society

Tomorrow evening at eight o'clock the fourth annual spring production of Powder and Wig, "Seven Keys to Baldpate"—will be given in the City Opera House. With the women's dramatic club cooperating, everything forecasts a brilliant performance, equal to the best that has been done at Colby. The proceeds, above current expenses, will be added to the $500,000 Colby Development Fund. Professor Cecil A. Rollins of the English department is directing the play.

"Seven Keys to Baldpate" has been a hit in professional and amateur theatrics since it was first produced on Broadway sixteen years ago. The story was written by Earl Derr Biggers. George M. Cohan, whose name is known wherever the bright lights shine, made the adaptation to the stage. Everything that delights the heart of the play-goer is served in good measure in this "mysterious melodramatic farce," as Cohan has labelled it. Thrills, laughs, and romance follow in succession.

The play begins thus: A strange message comes to the caretaker (Elijah Quimby) of the summer resort, Baldpate Inn, directing him to open the hotel to make it comfortable for a certain Magee, who is going to "work" there. Quimby and his good, and let us say—good and scared—wife, climb up the mountain in the night through the snow and the bitter cold, start fires, and wait for the mysterious Magee. Soon he arrives—and begins work. Others arrive, and the excitement commences. One good bit follows another until—well, until the play ends.

"Seven Keys to Baldpate," says Professor Rollins, "is a play that belongs to the thriller variety, and in addition to that it is intelligent all the way through. Cohan pokes his finger disturbingly at some of our pet follies and fads, and he makes us like the process."

The competition was the closest ever seen at Colby. Nearly forty-five tried for parts. The wealth of good material made it harder to choose the (Continued on page 4)

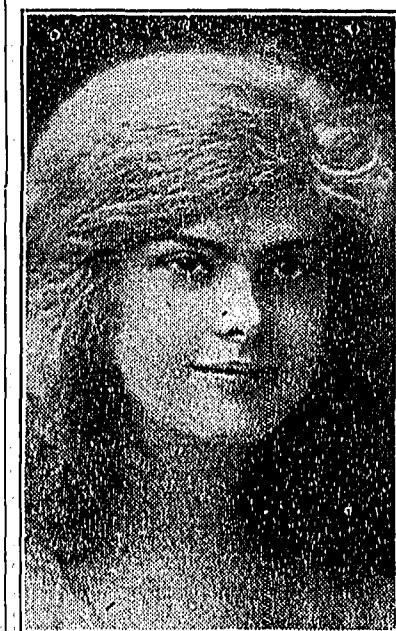

MAYOR DUBORD LAUDS RUTH WEBB CONCERT

Recital of Great Interest To All Local People

In a recent interview, Mayor F. Harold Dubord promised his support to the Ruth Webb piano concert which is being sponsored by the students of the college, and is to be presented at the Opera House, April 16. In commenting upon the concert, Mayor Dubord spoke of the lack of musical opportunities in the city, and that those which do exist are too often out of the grasp of the average individual. He expressed himself as highly gratified at the effort made by the students of Colby to bring such a musical opportunity to the city. Feeling the cultural value of such a concert to the student body of the college and to the city as a whole, Mayor Dubord readily gave his cooperation and support to the movement. In concluding the interview, he said: "I am very glad that you have asked my cooperation in this matter, and if, in any way, I may be of service I shall be very glad to render it."

John H. Webb, '30, of Brockton, Mass., said of the concert this morning:

"This spirit of cooperation and interest expressed by our mayor is but typical of the response made by all the representative people of the city. Such people as Principal Drew T. Harthorn of the Coburn Classical Institute, Arthur M. Roundy, teacher of piano, Charles Langlois, teacher of violin and piano, Frank Smith of the Hathaway Company, and many others prominent in the intellectual and social life of the city have expressed their willingness and desire to lend their cooperation to this movement. This interest is not confined to the city of Waterville alone, but in all of the out-lying districts the same response is made. Mrs. Robert Owen of Oak Grove Seminary has asked that the Seminary students be re-

I have always felt that the college owed to itself and to all those interested in the college, an opportunity to obtain those things of higher cultural value. I shall be most happy to offer you my support in this matter."

Ruth Webb, artist for the occasion, will arrive in this country April 10th or 12th. The delay was caused by a request from the American Academy at Rome to play before them, at the close of which a reception was held (Continued on page 4) morning. Professor Marriner has been librarian and professor of bibliography at Colby since 1923. He will assume the duties of his new office next fall.

Professor Marriner took his Bachelor of Arts degree from Colby in the class of 1913. He was born in Bridgton, Me., October 16, 1891, and graduated from Bridgton High School in 1909 as valedictorian of his class and entered Colby the following fall. He was especially popular as an undergraduate and participated in many extracurricular activities. In the course of his four years he received special honors as a speaker and in bron, Me., and during his last year there served as acting-principal. In 1921 he took a position with Ginn & Co., book publishers, as Maine representative, which position he left in 1923 to become a professor of bibliography and librarian at Colby. As librarian Professor Marriner has instituted many progressive changes during the past five years. The library staff has been increased from the librarian and four student assistants to a force of twelve student assistants, two salaried clerks, and an assistant librarian. The student use of the library has increased three hundred per cent during that time. Over forty thousand government documents have been classified and made available for use, a reserve book room has been created and a reserve book system inaugurated, in fact the Colby library system has been made to compare favorably with those of the other Maine colleges. The library appropriation has also increased sixty per cent since his becoming librarian.

TO PUBLISH BIBLICAL PLAY BY PROF. ROLLINS

One of Ten Plays Selected By Drama League of America

A collection of Biblical plays, which is to be published immediately by Longmans, Green and Company, contains a one-act play from the pen of Professor Cecil A. Rollins of the English department of the college. This play, "The Friend of Potiphar's Wife," is one of the ten selected for publication from those entered in the Biblical play division of the National Playwriting Contest conducted by the Drama League of America for 1928.

Professor Rollins has directed many of the plays in the college and the city for the last five years. He has been the faculty adviser for Powder and Wig, the college dramatic society, since its organization four years ago, and has given freely of his time in his advising and assisting in the club's productions. Much of the increased interest in dramatic work (Continued on page 4)

In the fall of 1927 when illness compelled the absence of the late President Roberts, Prof. Marriner took over the duties as advisor to freshmen and served as a member of the Executive Committee of the college in charge of the administration. At the commencement meeting of the trustees last June, Professor Marriner was chosen to succeed Dr. Julian D. Taylor as chairman of the Executive Committee. As a college administrator as well as a teacher and librarian he has demonstrated his worth, and his election as dean of men by the trustees comes as a well-deserved promotion.

In affairs other than those directly connected with the college Professor Marriner has been especially prominent. In 1925 he was president of the Waterville Kiwanis Club, in 1928 president of the Maine Library Association, and during the present year (Continued on page 4)

NEEDED, DESIRED, OBTAINED!

The election of Professor Marriner as dean of men by the Board of Trustees last Saturday marks the second great step along administrative lines taken by that body this year. It seems most remarkable that two men of the caliber of Dr. Franklin W. Johnson and Professor Ernest C. Marriner should be chosen to head Colby's administration next fall. The fortunate happenstance of the securing of Dr. Johnson has, and fortunately too, not blinded the trustees to the fact that detail of administration must be spared him.

Trustees, faculty, and students appreciate the fitness of these men for their respective positions. The promised cooperation of all connected with the college indicates the strides which Colby is on the verge of taking. The watchword will be when these developments begin to be realized: THEY SHALL NOT CEASE.

Colby a year ago appeared, in truth, a "Winged Victory." Far from that now, however. Dr. Wilkinson's acceptance of reappointment and Professor Marriner's election are events belying the fact that the college may be symbolized by a piece of mutilated statuary. Not a new head, merely, but a whole new and living physique properly symbolizes the institution.

The clamor for a dean of men was not a new one. It was set up in one quarter at least by the ECHO during the incumbency of President Roberts. The increasing burden that crushed the late executive warranted more than ever the creation of the office. Dr. Johnson's comment explains fully the basis for the creation of the office and the qualifications of the first Colby dean of men:

"The trustees have taken a very important step in providing for the office of dean of men. They have thus relieved the president of many pressing details and made possible the enlargement of the work of administration to include a more extensive study of the problems of student personnel. The selection of Professor Marriner for this new post seems quite natural. His acquaintance with the students and his proven qualifications for the work are apparent. His experience as chairman of the executive committee, which has so admirably directed the internal affairs of the college during the past year, has proven his capacity for administration."

It is most appropriate to add here that the Maine newspapers and the "Boston Transcript" do not lie when they characterize Professor Marriner as "tremendously popular with the student body."

GET THIS STRAIGHT.

To think of the Development Fund Committee as interested solely in the matter of a new gymnasium for the men's division is a misconception. It has a wider scope—one that includes the enlargement of the four centers which direct the pulse of college life. Outlining the plans for future development Dr. Johnson called attention especially to the need of (1) a central administration building (2) a new and adequate library (3) an up-to-date chapel, and (4) a new gymnasium. These are the forms that development will take. It does not propose to stop with a gym within the range of $500,000. These other units are to be developed similarly. Nor does the project call for a half million for better athletic teams. Complete health equipment is the aim. Students can see in the putting of the gymnasium first on the list of developments another indication of the sincerity of Dr. Johnson when he stated to the ECHO sometime ago: "Students have the greatest rights of all. It is for them that the college exists." The quality of Colby's intellectual training has not declined nor is there immediate fear of it. But an inadequate health program may easily reduce the benefits of the academic side of college life.

RUSSELL SPEAKER AT KAPPA PHI KAPPA

The regular bi-weekly meeting of Delta chapter of Kappa Phi Kappa, national educational society for men, was held at the Kappa Delta Rho house last evening.

Mr. Clyde Russell, principal of Winslow High school, a graduate of the college and a member of Kappa Phi Kappa, was the speaker of the evening, taking for his subject "The Administration at Winslow High School." Mr. Russell described the new school building at Winslow and gave an outline of the day's routine of the teacher, illustrating how various teaching problems were handled.

ANNUAL ELECTIONS OF WOMEN'S DIVISION

The results of the annual elections of the officers of the women's division, which took place on Thursday, March 31, have been announced as follows:

Student League: President, Margaret Hale, '30; vice president, Doris Spencer, '31; secretary, Jennie Dunn, '31; treasurer, Margaret Moores, '30. Health League: President, Helen Brigham, '30; vice president, Thelma Chase, '31; secretary-treasurer, Elizabeth Bottomly, '30.

Colbiana Board: Editor-in-Chief, Rena Mills, '30; assistant editor, Barbara Sherman, '31; 1st and 2nd assistant business managers, Frances Paige, '31, and Ella Gray, '32.

Musical Clubs: President, Helen Paul, '30; business manager, Stephanie Bean, '31.

President of reading room association, Mina Higgins, '30. The installation of the Student League officers will take place in the gymnasium of the Alumnae Building on Friday evening at seven o'clock. At this meeting of the Student League the following recommendations of the executive board will be voted upon:

1. Rule 2a under Penalties to read: Students are in nights for failure to return to dormitory at time for which permission is granted.

2. Lights. Each freshman girl shall be in her room and have her lights extinguished at 10 P. M., and after except on Saturday when the time shall be 10:30 P. M.

Late permission for study may be obtained from the House Chairman. Eight permissions per semester are allowed. This means that any girl staying over night and wishing to sit up late in a room other than her own must obtain a late permission.

When freshmen return from an evening entertainment after a late permission they must extinguish their lights twenty minutes after entrance. Freshmen who room with upper classmen are expected to abide by the same regulations as freshmen in other houses.

Date Announced For Murray Prize Debate

The date for the annual Murray Prize Debate has been set for April 22, according to an announcement made by Dr. Herbert C. Libby, professor of public speaking and manager of the college debating teams. It is hoped that the debate this year will be presided over by George Edwin Murray, '70, of Lawrence, Mass., who is the donor of the prize. The subject that has been chosen for debate is as follows: "Resolved: That any further tendency towards centralization in our government is justifiable."

The Murray Prize Debate is a contest open to the students enrolled in the class of Public Speaking 5. Each year the sum of one hundred dollars is awarded to the six debaters chosen from that class for excellence of grade and classroom work. Seventy-five dollars is given to the winning team to be divided equally among the three speakers; and twenty-five dollars is given to the losing team, also to be equally divided.

INITIATION HELD BY EDUCATIONAL SOCIETY

Eleven members of the women's division were initiated into Delta Sigma Chi, honorary educational society, Tuesday evening, April 9.

The initiation took place in the Y. W. C. A. room of the new Alumnae Building. Refreshments of grape juice and wafers were served after the conclusion of the ceremonies.

The initiates were as follows: Muriel Farnum, '30, Pearl Grant, '29; Evelyn Grindall, '30; Margaret Hale, '30; Helen Hobbs, '30; Eleanor Lunn, '29; Pauline Morin, '30; Dorothy Morton, '29; Evelyn Rollins, '30; Ethel Rose, '30; and Miriam Thomas, '29.

Conquering the Cascades

SNOW falls every month in the year where the Great Northern crosses the Cascades. Steep, tortuous grades increase the difficulty of the railroading problem. Nature has stubbornly resisted man's effort to conquer the range.

In January, 1929, the new Cascade tunnel was opened. Man, with electricity as an ally, had conquered the Cascades.

The eight-mile bore was driven in three years—a record impossible without electric power. And electrification has been extended to the entire 75-mile route through the mountains.

The conquests of electricity on the land and on the sea, in the air, and underground, are making practicable the impossibilities of yesterday. As our vision encompasses wider horizons, electricity appears as a vital contribution to future industrial progress and human welfare.

COLBY BALL CLUB HAS VETERAN INFILDER

No Letter Men Available For Outfield-Schedule For Season

Faced with a schedule of sixteen games of which twelve are with the other colleges entered in the Maine State series race Coach Roundy is working his baseball squad in preparation for the coming season. With a veteran infield but confronted with the task of developing a new outfield the Colby mentor faces a difficult task to put a team on the field for the opening game of the season with the University of Maine on Seaverns Field, April 19.

The fate of the Colby ball tossers depends upon the weatherman to a great extent. The field is in fair condition at the present time as a result of the recent warm weather. Rain or cold weather between now and April 19 would be a serious matter for the pupils of Coach Roundy for they have no place to train in inclement weather as have the ball tossers of Bowdoin, Bates and the University of Maine.

From present indications the infield will be strong this year. At first base Captain Joe Niziolek is set for the best season of his long career on the Colby diamond. His play at the initial sack last year after having been brought in from the outfield was one of the features of the State series race. Doc Tierney, after roaming about the Colby infield for three years seems settled at second base, the position which he played at the close of the season last year. He has seen service on the varsity for three years and last year came out of a batting slump to hit well.

Andy Klusick has been shifted from the outfield where he fielded sensationally last year to the short-stop berth where he seems quite at home. With this hole plugged by a veteran performer the Colby infield looks air tight as Deetjen and Davis, who are fighting it out for third base, both had experience with the team last year. Deetjen will be remembered as winning the April 19 game with Maine last year with a homer over the left field barrier while the fielding of Davis was a feature of the games of the middle of the season. The outfield presents a problem. There are six candidates all of whom have had considerable experience on the diamond but none in baseball of a collegiate grade. The outstanding candidates are Roberts, Hines, Lee, Lovett, Grady and Fletcher. Roberts, who was used in the second team infield last year and who hit consistently, looms as an outstanding candidate. Hines has been a member of the squad for two years and has shown well in the practice to date. Lee played with Kents Hill before coming to Colby and was a member of the varsity squad two years ago. Lovett played at Cushing Academy and Coburn Classical Institute and was a member of the squad last year. Grady has worked out with the Colby squad as a candidate for an infield berth in the past and played at Coburn before coming to Colby. Fletcher has been a candidate in the past and saw some service with the second team.

Coach Roundy is hard pressed for pitchers. The two outstanding men are Brown and Ferguson. Brown played at Lawrence High school and Hebron before coming to Colby. As a freshman he was used in a relief role. Last year he traveled the whole distance in several games and worked effectively on the mound. Ferguson, as a freshman last year defeated Rhode Island State early in the season, and was used in a relief role during the State series race.

Charlie Hedderic, last year's receiver, seems to have the inside track for the backstop berth and should he draw the assignment the receiving department will be in competent hands. His work behind the plate last year won the approbation of all of the fans. The other candidates for the receiver's job are McKoon, who has been with the squad four years and who has seen some service; Karkos, who played at M. C. I. before

FIFTY CANDIDATES ANSWER TRACK CALL

Fifty candidates answered the initial call of Coach Mike Ryan of the Colby track team and are taking light preliminary work on Seaverns Field at the present time in preparation for the coming intercollegiate competition.

The first competition of the season will be the Annual Interfraternity Outdoor Meet which will be held on Seaverns Field on April 27. This annual intramural classic is in competition for the Druid's Cup and always brings out some of the best competitors of the season. The events which will be run off are those of a regular championship meet.

The varsity track schedule for the 1929 season is as follows:

May 4—Boston College at Waterville.
May 11—Northeastern University at Waterville.
May 18—Maine Intercollegiate Track and Field Championships at Waterville.
May 24-25—New England at Cambridge, Mass.
May 31-June 1—I. C. A. A. A. Meet at Philadelphia.

English Department Publishes Leaflet

A new college publication entitled "The Colby Mercury," the first of a series of leaflets to be issued under the auspices of the English department of the college, appeared on the campus last week. The paper is of interest primarily to the students in Freshman English courses and is patterned after a similar publication used by the Freshman English staff at the University of Maine, which is composed of Freshman Themes written during the current year. The paper has been distributed to all first-year students and will be used in class discussion.

The first edition of "The Colby Mercury" contains three Freshman themes, "The Evolution of the Modern Colby Knight," by Ralph E. Anderson of Yarmouth; "The Fountain of Youth," by Ruth E. Ramsdell of Charleston; and "The Pursuit of Happiness," by Martha Johnston of Kennebunk. The leaflet also has an article entitled "The Fifth Annual Literary Pilgrimage for Students in American Literature," by Elizabeth R. Beckett, '30, of Calais, as well as an editorial department and a commentary on the English department moving picture experiment.

Rules For Carver Prize Announced

Attention is called to the following rules which will govern the awarding of the Mary Low Carver Prize of Fifty Dollars for Poetry, annually offered by an anonymous donor:

1. The contest is open to any member of the women's division of Colby College.
2. There are no restrictions regarding subject or verse form of poems submitted.
3. No poem should be shorter than 14 lines or longer than 300 lines.
4. There is no restriction regarding the number of poems that may be submitted by any one contestant.
5. Each poem must be submitted in triplicate (i.e. three copies) and must be typewritten.
6. The name of the author must not appear on any of the copies, but the identity of the author is to be indicated by a pen-name, the key to which must be submitted in a sealed envelope with the poem.
7. No poems will be accepted after April 15th.
8. Poems may be handed to any member of the English department.
9. The selection of the prize-winning poem will be made by a board of judges outside of the college, and the decision of this board will be final.

FRAT HOOP LEAGUE ENDS IN DEADLOCK

A. T. O. and D. U. Share First Place-Many Upsets During Season

The Interfraternity Basketball season of 1929 ended in a most spectacular and exciting manner. The undefeated Delta Upsilon team, which was slated to win the championship, was defeated by a fighting Alpha Tau Omega team that was evidently far underrated by the exponents of the game.

This victory of the A. T. O.'s was one of several upsets that took place during the indoor season. The first of these was the defeat of the fast Non-Fraternity team by the Zeta Psi quintet. The latter team had, until then, shown no championship qualities and their victory came as a complete surprise to all the followers of the game. The Non-Frats were one of the strongest and highest scoring teams in the league and this unexpected defeat put them out of the running for first place.

The second surprise came on March 16 when the A. T. O.'s went down to defeat at the hands of the Non-Frats. The game was expected to be difficult for the A. T. O.'s inasmuch as their star forward, Langley, had left school, but they were not expected to lose.

In the closing game of the league series the Delta Upsilon team was favored to win with little or no effort but the full A. T. O. team was on the floor once more and a stiff battle was fought during the entire game. At the half the two teams were tied with 11 points each, but during the last quarter the A. T. O.'s forged ahead and had, at one time, a lead of 11 points. Mansfield of the D. U.'s gave the spectators a thrill when he rapidly scored 7 points toward the end of the game. At the finish the game became very rough with both teams battling frantically for the ball. When the final whistle blew the score read: D. U. 28, A. T. O. 32, thus making the two teams tied for first place.

Large Entry List For Annual Lyford Contest

"One of the largest Lyford Contests ever held," is the way Professor Herbert C. Libby, of the department of Public Speaking, describes the 20th Annual Lyford Interscholastic Prize Speaking Contest scheduled to be held at Colby on May 3. Already 31 schools have asked for application blanks, seven more than made application in 1928. Schools have been given until April 25 to make final application, and it is expected that a half dozen more schools will have entered speakers by that time.

As usual, the contestants will arrive in the city in time to take part in the preliminary speaking in the afternoon. A banquet will be tendered the visitors at 6 o'clock, and at 8 o'clock in the evening the final speaking will take place. The entertainment of the delegates will be in the hands of the Maine Alpha Chapter of the national forensic society of Pi Kappa Delta.

The schools to send representatives include Coburn Classical Institute, Farmington High, Canton High, Maine Central Institute, Madison High, Hollis High, Strong High, Malden (Mass.) High, Ricker Classical Institute, Norwood (Mass.) High, Bar Harbor High, Windham High, Worcester Classical (Mass.) High, Bangor High, Searsmont High, Bridgton High, Lawrence High, Winthrop High, Wilton Academy, Houlton High, Phillips High, Lancaster (N. H.) High, Waterville High, Kents Hill Seminary, Cony High, Biddeford High, New Gloucester High, Kingfield High, Monmouth Academy, Good Will High, Presque Isle High.

N. E. STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSN. TO MEET AT COLBY

The Annual Conference of the Women's Student Government Association of Coeducational Colleges of New England will be held at Colby, April 18, 19, and 20. The sessions will be held in the Y. W. C. A. room of the Alumnae Building, and will be presided over by Miss Elsie H. Lewis, '29, president of the association. Miss Helen Chase, '30, will officiate as secretary. An attractive program is being arranged which will include a speaker, a tea for seniors in the preparatory schools of the vicinity who plan to enter Colby next year, and various forms of recreation.

DR. JOHNSON SPEAKS AT ELMWOOD BANQUET

Gives Advantages of The Small College in Education

President-elect Franklin W. Johnson was the principal speaker at an informal dinner given by Dr. J. Frederick Hill, '82, to a group of Waterville citizens at the Elmwood Hotel last Thursday evening. The dinner was given by Dr. Hill in the interest of the Development Fund activities.

Hon. Herbert E. Wadsworth, the first speaker introduced, outlined briefly the plans of the project and explained to the gathering the work already done. He gave a brief history of the work leading up to the organization of the project. He credited Frank H. Edmunds, '85, for starting the movement during his trusteeship. President Roberts was in hearty accord with the idea and during his administration raised between forty and fifty thousand dollars. At the death of President Roberts Dr. Libby took over the work and the fund grew still larger. Now with Charles S. Brown directing the project and with the well-planned organization of powerful national committees in the interest of the development of Colby there is great chance for success in raising even more than the proposed half million.

Dr. Johnson was introduced by the toastmaster as the next speaker. He said in brief that in spite of the poorly equipped college buildings Colby has had remarkable success and has done a great deal of good work. A well equipped college is to be desired and will result from this movement. Harvard is to spend millions for what we already have, namely, the advantages of the small college. There was a time when the small college was threatened with being swallowed up but today increasing amounts are being directed towards education.

Among the Maine colleges there has arisen a new spirit of "each for all and all for each." The enthusiasm shown by the Colby committee in New York, Chicago, and Boston is indicative of the success of the project. It would seem that this $500,000 that Mr. Brown is working for now is but interest, the principal coming later.

Dr. Hill introduced Charles S. Brown, director of the drive, who described the progress of the work. He told of the visits he had made to various men all over the country and of the great interest which he found in the development of the college and particularly of the interest which men who are not Colby men have expressed. He gave as his opinion that the plans are going through even better than originally hoped for, and asked for the cooperation of the men of Waterville for the great good that would come to the college and to the city.

The last speaker was Mayor F. Harold Dubord, '14, of Waterville, who spoke briefly of the interest of the citizens in the development of Colby and pledged his support to the project.

ports in the college productions. "A Pair of Sixes," the Powder and Wig play, and "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife," the Women's Ivy Day play, were given under his direction last year.

Professor Rollins graduated from Colby in 1917 and took his M. A. from Harvard in 1923. He is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Scholastic Society. While at Harvard, Professor Rollins was a member of the famous 47 Workshop, an experimental theater which produced plays written by graduate students at Harvard and Radcliffe.

MARRINER NAMED.

he is book reviewer of biography for the Portland Evening News. As a lecturer he has appeared before numerous audiences speaking on the topics, "Life-Rafts of Reading," "Better Than Their Fathers," "Lives that Remind Us," and "The Naughty Nineteen-Twenties."

His courses at Colby have included bibliography, a study of the use of history of reading materials, and a course in Teachers' English. Last Fall he instituted a course in Freshman Orientation designed to familiarize the student with scope and aim of college life.

Professor Marriner is tremendously popular with the student body and he will be welcomed as dean of men.

Commenting upon the selection of Professor Marriner as dean of men Dr. Franklin W. Johnson, president-elect of Colby said this morning: "The trustees have taken a very important step in providing for the office of dean of men. They have thus relieved the president of many pressing details and made possible the enlargement of the work of administration to include a more extensive study of the problems of students personnel. The selection of Professor Marriner for this new post seems quite natural. His acquaintance with the students and his qualifications for the work are apparent. His experience as chairman of the executive committee which has directed the internal affairs of the college so admirably during the past year, has proven his capacity for administration."

MAYOR DUBORD LAUDS.

In her honor. This Italian tour has been one of her most successful European trips. She has had appearances in all the great musical centers, in addition to her orchestral work with Alfredo Casella, one of the great contemporary composers. In her work in Italy, Miss Webb has come in contact with some of the leading American "moderns." She will bring home with her many of their works in manuscript. Among the most important of them is a sonata for piano and violin, by Sessions. This composer has attracted the attention of the leading music critics, and Koussevitzky, conductor of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, has played many of his works. Miss Webb will probably use this in her first concert of chamber music in Chicago during the first week in May.

Edgar B. McKay, '30, chairman of the ticket committee reports a splendid advance sale of tickets. The committee has placed tickets on sale in the stores of the city, and a wide distribution of them has been made throughout the student body. Posters have been placed in prominent places in the college, city and surrounding towns.

This concert is a result of an effort of a small group of students to do something for Colby musically. The concert will be given at the City Opera House, April 10th. Tickets are priced fifty cents to the students of Colby and students of the Auburn School of Music. All seats are reserved; students wishing to secure favorable seats may take tickets to the Chanto Music Company after Monday at 8:30 A. M., and exchange for reserved seat checks.

of the committee were convinced that the sum set for the Development Fund would be greatly over-subscribed.

The other members of the Massachusetts Alumni Committee on the Development project, all of whom have expressed a willingness to do anything they can to make the campaign a success, are: Linwood L. Workman, '02, Master in the State Normal School at Framingham; Dr. Winfred N. Donovan, '92, professor of Old Testament at Newton Theological Institution; Robie G. Frye, '82, deputy collector of customs at the port of Boston; Walter E. Farr, '87, Earl F. Tyler, '20, the Hon. J. Colby Bassett, '95, and the Hon. Hugh D. McLellan, '95, Boston lawyers; the Hon. Leon C. Guptill, '09, and the Hon. William C. Crawford, '88, member of the board of trustees; Dr. Jeremiah E. Burke, '90, superintendent of schools in the city of Boston; Eling, but we could not restore the valuable material which it houses.

"The chapel is the correlating center of the social life of a college. Fraternities, class organizations and to some extent, the departmental organization of instruction are decisive in their tendency. It is in the common meetings of the students and the faculty that a college becomes an entity and finds its soul. In the old days the chapel was large enough to accommodate us all, men and women together. When I met the men of the college the other day, there were many who had to stand around the walls. An imperative need is a new building to provide adequately for chapel and general student gatherings as well as for various other social activities that are essential to a healthy college life.

"The fourth center provides for the physical activities of the college. The old gymnasium once met the needs. I need not tell you that it has long since ceased to do so. The present plan involves an equipment to cost $300,000, perhaps $350,000. But these buildings, if we stopped there, would entail a financial liability for maintenance. To prevent this it is proposed to raise a half million dollars.

"The objection that may be raised is that this provision for physical education will be quite out of proportion to that made for other activities quite as important, perhaps more important. This is true, but instead of being a valid objection, it seems to me to make the full success of the undertaking all the more desirable. We Colby men need to have our imaginations stirred. We ought not to think of what the college will be in ten years or fifteen years; we should think in terms of centuries. If this college is worth maintaining now, and those who are in charge now and in the years to come fulfill their tasks with wisdom and devotion, Colby College ought to be going strong 500 years from now, meeting the changed conditions which will exist then as we are trying to meet them now. This new unit in our equipment will give us a pattern to which we must measure up. We must expect to make the other needed units to which I have referred consistent, not with the old buildings which they will replace but with the physical education buildings which we are so soon to erect.

"This is not the occasion for an extended eulogy of President Roberts. Nothing that I might say would add to the love that all of us have for him and to the recognition of his services to the college. The only regret I have in coming to this position is that it was made possible only by the death of my friend Arthur Roberts. The warmth of the reception that Colby people are giving me everywhere is not so much an expression of your feeling toward me as of your love for the college which he inspired.

"He bound us all to him with enduring bonds, but more than that he bound us to the college which he loved and for which he laid down his life. His enduring influence is also seen in the fact that the students were never more loyal than they are today; the faculty were never more harmonious and devoted to their work; the trustees were never more interested in furthering constructive plans for the development of the college. The college has not been marking time in the interim following the death of the president; it has been going forward.

"The seeds sown by Arthur Roberts are germinating and will bear fruit for many years. In very truth, I shall reap the fruits of his labors. For years to come I shall be given credit, by the unthinking, that belong to him. I hope that I may, for my part, sow some seed that will bear fruit after I am gone."

The toastmaster of the occasion, Fred F. Lawrence, of Portland, a graduate in the class of 1900 and a member of the Board of Trustees, introduced the other speakers of the evening which included Walter S. Wyman, of Augusta; Prof. Ernest C. Marriner; and Henry J. Carlson, of the architectural firm of Carlson and Coolidge, Boston.

At the head table as guests of honor with Dr. Johnson, were Lieut. Commander A. Lincoln King, representing Gov. William T. Gardner; Chief Justice Scott Wilson of the Supreme Court; President Gray, President Boardman; Chairman Lester F. Wallace of the Portland City Council; Warren C. Philbrook, president of the Colby Alumni Association; Hiram W. Ricker, chairman of the Maine committee of the Development Fund project; Rev. Frank W. Padelford of Newton, Mass.; Thomas J. Grace of Brooklyn, N. Y., president of the New York Alumni Association; George Otis Spencer of Augusta; and Clarence C. Stetson of Bangor, chairman of the Maine Development Commission.

Among the trustees present were: Frank W. Alden of New York, William C. Crawford of Boston, Albert F. Drummond of Waterville, and Edwin C. Whittemore of Waterville.

Others present included C. E. Owen, George E. Murray, Dr. J. Frederick Hill, Oliver L. Hall, Roy L. Wardwell, Frank B. Nichols, D. W. Hoegg, Jr., Walter L. Gray, L. E. Thayer, Ralph N. east of fifteen, but furnished strong actors for all the roles. Rehearsals have been held for six weeks. Already the people begin to stand out in individual characterizations; the cast are making their effects more surely; the ensemble playing, always especially difficult for amateurs, is developing to surprising excellence. After the final polishing the actors should be ready for a first-class performance.

The demand of "Seven Keys to Baldpate" upon stage equipment, lights, furnishings, and properties are considerable, and a production force consisting of Ralph M. Snyder, '31, property man, Denno R. Quinton, '30, costume man, I. E. McLaughlin, '31, electrician, and Otis Wheeler, '32, stage man, are busy in meeting these demands.
