

PROFESSOR KOOPMAN TO RETIRE FROM BROWN

Colby Graduate Has Been
Librarian at University
For Thirty-seven Years

Professor Harry L. Koopman, librarian of Brown University and a graduate of Colby College in the class of 1880, will retire from Brown University faculty at the close of the academic year in June, it was disclosed recently. Professor Koopman has been librarian at Brown for the last 37 years, but by June will have reached the age of 70, the official age limit of the institution.

Under Professor Koopman's administration the Brown library grew from 80,000 to 400,000 volumes. When he went to Brown in 1893 the University library was located in a small brick building in which the Economics department is now housed. The John Hay library was built in 1910 and has been since under Dr. Koopman's direction.

He was born in the old shipping town of Freeport, Me., July 1, 1860, and was educated in the public schools there. At the age of 16 he entered Colby College, graduating in 1880. In 1883 he received his A. M., in December, 1875, and in his freshman year at college began to contribute in both prose and verse to the college monthly, later becoming editor (Continued on page 4)

PROGRESS RAPID ON COLBY INDOOR FIELD

Satisfactory progress has been made in the erection of Colby's new Indoor Athletic Field in spite of the opposition offered by cold weather and snow. Contrary to the rumor setting the date of completion on February 30, only the walls and the roof framework can be finished before the disappearance of the frost. The present occupation of the 15 men now engaged is a slow and tedious one. A seventy-foot wooden structure has been raised, by means of which a steam donkey will hoist the steel net-work to form the roof. Steel caps have been placed on the four corners of the wall as a foundation for the girders. To simplify the work the steel girders are being riveted on the ground to be raised in three separate sections.

Many delays have been experienced in constructing this building. Several weeks were spent in driving steel piles and laying a deep foundation to prevent caving in of the banking behind the gymnasium. This was a dangerous undertaking as the rear wall of the gymnasium, over-hanging the excavation, was in imminent danger of collapsing. The completed walls were given a week in which to strengthen. It was planned to begin operations on the roof last week, but the breaking-down of the steam donkey necessitated the spending of a week's time in procuring a new one. After raising the steel network of the roof, the contractors must wait for warm weather before installing a floor, heating system, and glass.

Debating Team
Journeys To Boston

Colby's debating team meets the varsity debating team of Boston University Friday evening in Boston. The question will be the official Phi Kappa Delta question for the year: "Resolved, that the nations adopt a plan of complete disarmament, except for such forces as are needed for police protection." The affirmative side will be upheld by the Colby team which consists of Norman D. Palmer, '30, of Hinkley; Donald F. Poulin, '31, of Fairfield; and Harold F. Lemoine, '32, of Kennebunk.

Metzner Entertains

Mr. Harold C. Metzner entertained the Dramatic Club, Friday evening, February 7, at the Alumnae Building, with several humorous readings and accounts of amusing incidents in his experience of traveling with a Chautauque circuit.

DEAN'S LIST FOR SECOND SEMESTER
ANNOUNCED BY REGISTRAR AND DEAN

This Grouping To Do Away With Honor
Roll--Freshmen And Local Students
Show Well

The Dean's list for the men's division, issued today by Dean Ernest C. Marriner, contains the names of 19 seniors, 4 juniors, 5 sophomores, and 14 freshmen—a total of 42. This shows improved work on the part of Colby men over the previous semester, since last fall's list contained only 21 names. The names of freshmen, however, did not appear on the earlier list. The difference between the present list and last semester's is that the 12 seniors have been increased to 19, 3 juniors increased to 4, and 6 sophomores reduced to 5.

The fact that 14 freshmen have won this distinction is an excellent record for the first year class. Because freshman courses are largely required, and because of adjustments necessary between high school and college work, it is considered more difficult for a freshman to make the Dean's List than it is for upperclassmen.

A notable feature of the list is the large number of Waterville students who are included, six seniors, one sophomore, and four freshmen have their homes in this city.

The Registrar announces that the Dean's List this semester will take the place of the Honor Roll which is to be permanently done away with.

This list is made up of those who have received an average of 85 or over in all work of the preceding semester. The plan was inaugurated last fall and freshmen appear for the first time on this list. The total of the present list is 55 as compared with 32 last fall. As 18 of this number are freshmen there is an increase of 5 in the number of upperclassmen. By classes the numbers may be compared as follows:

Seniors: First semester 12, second semester 18. Two of the senior names listed the first semester do not appear now and there are 8 new names.
Juniors: First semester 7, second semester 6. Three names have been removed and 2 new names appear.
Sophomores: First semester 13, second semester 13. Four names have been removed and four new names appear.

MUSICAL CLUBS READY FOR CONCERT

Will Be The Biggest And Best Ever Presented
At Colby

With the swift approach of February 27, the Colby College Combined Musical Clubs are hard at work preparing a program that will be the biggest and best that has ever been presented before a Colby and Waterville audience. It is noteworthy that the approaching concert will be the first of its kind in the history of the college in that both the men's and women's divisions will present a program together that is destined to be somewhat of a sensation.

The Men's Glee Club will present a group of four numbers under the direction of Mr. John Thomas, the well-known Waterville singer and director. As the Glee Club is made up of practically all veteran singers, its presentations are sure to thrill and delight its audience as it has in the past. This particular organization has been undergoing some strenuous rehearsals twice in each week and the progress it has made assures a high-grade performance on the night of the 27th.

The male quartette composed of S. Curtis Blakeslee, '30, of Troy, N. Y., first tenor, John H. Lee, '30, of Portland, second tenor, Lucius V. Lobdell, '31, of Hartland, Vt., baritone, and Clarence H. Arber, '30, of Dorchester, Mass., bass, has appeared in several places and has established a reputation that is bound to spread to music centers over the state. This group will present a group of selections, including several popular numbers with the dance orchestra.

The Colby dance orchestra, the "Midnight Sons of Colby," have already established their fame from performances of past years and under the direction of Stanton "Chink" Weed, '30, of Waterville, is preparing a collection of semi-classics and dance tunes that are sure to make any audience tap their feet. In addition to the dance numbers, Charles M. Giles, '30, of Damariscotta, and Norman C. Perkins, '32, of Kennebunk, are to appear with the orchestra in solo and duet clog dances. Giles will be remembered for his stellar dancing of two years ago and with his new partner will offer a few novelties in dance steps.

Another innovation will be the appearance of a women's quartette composed of Edvia V. Campbell, '30, of Caribou, second alto, Harriet Johnson, '30, of Fort Fairfield, first alto, Muriel L. Farnum, '30, of Wilton, second soprano, and Janet D. Locke, '31, of Berlin, N. H., first soprano. This will be their first public appearance. (Continued on page 4)

Junior Society Bids
Are Announced

The Druids, junior honorary society, will hold their initiation and annual banquet on Monday evening, February 24, instead of Thursday evening, February 13th, as was previously announced. The banquet will be held at the Messalonskee Inn and Ralph B. Hurlbut, '30, Danvers, Mass., who is president of the society, will serve as toastmaster. The complete list of bids that were extended to the members of this year's junior class are as follows:

Delta Kappa Epsilon (John takes Davidson, Omaha, Neb.; Edison Hathaway Cooper, Methuen, Mass.).
Phi Delta Theta: Howard Leroy Ferguson, Whitman, Mass.; Gordon Keith Fuller, Waterville.
Kappa Delta Rho: Willard Ebenezer Alexander, Saxton's River, Vt.; Robert Allen, Jr., New Bedford, Mass.

Alpha Tau Omega: Joseph Edward Yukins, Bridgewater, Mass.
Lambda Chi Alpha: Melvin Thomas Traworgy, Sary; Arthur Bernard Esty, Fryville, Mass.

Zeta Psi: Dana Maxwell Simmons, Oakland; Roderick Fred MacDougall, Dover-Foxcroft.
Delta Upsilon: Hugh Keavns Tufts, Westboro, Mass.; Clifton Rolfo Brown, Skowhegan.
Theta Kappa Nu: Maple Clark Ryder, Portland; Mark Stiles Kingsley, Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

There will be a meeting of Kappa Phi Kappa, educational society, at the Kappa Delta Rho House, tomorrow evening at 7.30 P. M. Matters of concern to all the members will be discussed.

FERLAZZO CONCERT DELIGHTS LARGE AUDIENCE AT ALUMNAE HALL

Second Concert in Series is a "Pronounced Success"

Reviewed by Robert T. Beals, '31.

About 450 students, faculty and citizens of Waterville attended the recital given by Baldassare Ferlazzo, concert violinist, who rendered to the audience a delightful program that was termed "a pronounced success." The recital, which was given in the auditorium of the Alumnae Hall, was the second of the Colby Concert Series that are being presented by the student committee of the college this season.

Baldassare Ferlazzo was born in Boston. He is of Spanish and Italian descent. He commenced playing the violin at the age of six and at the age of eleven he entered the New England Conservatory of Music, studying under Mr. Harrison Keller. Mr. Ferlazzo has had appearances in all of the large cities of United States and Canada.

The first number rendered by Mr. Ferlazzo was "Intrada" by Antonio Desplanes. Desplanes was a composer of the seventeenth century and his "Intrada" is an example of the polished classical works of the period.

The second quarter of the program consisted of a rendition of Brahms' "Sonata in D Minor, Opus 108." Brahms was the last of a great line of German composers as well as a distinguished pianist. His "Sonata in D Minor" is made up of four movements. The first movement is an allegro with a slower middle theme. The second movement, an adagio, was very melodious, consisting principally of double notes. The beautiful ending of soft, sonorous chords was beautifully rendered by Mr. Ferlazzo, who caused them to resemble the perfectly blended voices of a group of singers. The third movement of the Sonata, un poco presto e con sentimento, was shorter than the preceding two. It begins in a melodious theme played at a rather fast tempo which approaches a climax to gradually resume its former character.

The concluding movement was a presto agitato, beginning in a swift agitated style which soon gave way to a slower, tuneful passage. The movement ends with a repetition of the first theme. This Sonata gave the artist ample opportunity to show his versatility and mastery of the violin; an opportunity which was made use of to the fullest by Mr. Ferlazzo.

The third quarter of this artist's number was made up of "Havanaise" by Saint-Saens. This number is written in a slow tango rhythm, beginning with a brilliant cadenza, very ably executed by Mr. Ferlazzo. The theme is in a flowing style, typically another theme which is repeated in the higher octaves, showing the artist's remarkable tone quality. Then follows a repetition of the first theme which ends in a brilliant display of bowing. The coda was particularly

Deputation Team Goes To Gardiner

A mixed deputation team of five Colby students journeyed to Gardiner last week-end, where they took charge of a social on Saturday evening, conducted Sunday morning services at three churches and held a union young people's meeting on Sunday evening. Mark H. Garabedian, '30; Fred R. Knox, '31; Harold F. Lemoine, '32; Miss Helen A. Chase, '30; and Miss Elizabeth R. Walker, '31, of Gardiner made up the team. Miss Walker entertained the members of the deputation at her home.

Miss Chase conducted a typical old-fashioned church social Saturday evening, in which more than 40 young people enthusiastically entered. Sunday morning Miss Chase took part in the morning service at which Fred Knox preached the sermon in the Baptist church. Harold Lemoine preached in the Methodist church and Miss Walker assisted the service by singing two solos. At the Universalist church Mark Garabedian took charge of the services.

Sunday evening Fred Knox lead a union meeting of all the young people's groups in the city. Lemoine, Garabedian and Miss Chase each gave a short talk to the 75 young people present.

This is the second mixed deputation that has gone out this year as a part of the program of the Colby Y. W. and Y. M. C. A.

melodious and the ending, consisting of a sustained high note, and as it faded gradually away, left a complete silence in the auditorium, a fitting tribute to the artist of the evening.

The last quarter of Mr. Ferlazzo's program was made up of four short selections, the first consisting of three variations on a theme of Corelli by Tartini, arranged by Kreisler. Kreisler (Continued on page 4)

SCHOLARSHIP WINNERS ANNOUNCED BY DEAN

All Students Honored Are Natives of State of Maine

According to an announcement made in men's chapel this morning by Dean Ernest C. Marriner the four $100 scholarships for the highest average in each class of the men's division will be awarded to Norman D. Palmer, '30, Hinkley; Jasper M. Foster, '31, Strong; George A. Macdonald, '32, Waterville; and Perry G. Wortman, '33, of Greenville. A fact of interest is that all of these men come from the state of Maine.

Palmer has been an exceptional student for his four years at Colby. He is one of the honor students in the new experiment to be tried this semester. He has been active in extra-curricular activities, especially in debating, and is president of Pi Kappa Delta, Colby's chapter of the national forensic society. He is a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

Jasper M. Foster has also been an outstanding student in the three years he has been at Colby. He is a member of Kappa Phi Kappa, honorary educational fraternity, and of the Kappa Delta Rho fraternity.

George A. Macdonald is a student who has done fine work in his courses as well as being prominent in several extra-curricular activities. He is a member of the Zeta Psi fraternity. Perry G. Wortman has attained the honor of being the highest ranking student in the class of 1933. He is pledged to the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity.

New Discussion Group Formed

"What must a college man believe to live a rich life?" is the central idea of the topics which a group of Colby men is going to discuss throughout the second semester. This student discussion group, which has been meeting since November, meets every Thursday night from 5.30 to 7.15 in the piano room of the Railroad "Y" for supper and a discussion. Rev. Harold F. Metzner leads the regular discussion after supper, from 6 to 7.15.

The group is purely a student affair, originated to provide an opportunity for Colby men, who are interested in organized "bull sessions," to exchange, gain and discuss ideas with men of other fraternity or non-fraternity groups they would not otherwise meet. The present members of the group are: Norman D. Palmer, '30; Theodore Nelson, '30; George A. Andrews, '30; Wallace W. Meyer, '30; Dean R. Quinton, '30; Wendell H. Titcomb, '30; Fred R. Knox, '31; John A. Webb, '31; Harold F. Lemoine, '32; H. John Murchio, '32; Britain Webster, '32; Thomas D. Grant, '32; Richard Cummings, '32; and Bernard H. Porter, '32.

Some of the questions to be discussed under the general topic of beliefs for a full life are: "What must I believe about the purpose of college, about men, about freedom from morals, about vocation, about women, about sex, about religion and about God?" Discussion last meeting was devoted to whether or not a belief in God is necessary for a full life, and what kind of "God" is necessary, if any is. This discussion will be continued tomorrow night.

Any Colby man who wishes to join the group may do so by notifying Richard Cummings not later than Wednesday night so that supper accommodations can be made.

NOTICE.

A meeting of the International Relations club will be held at the home of Professor Thomas II. Griffiths, 4 Sheldon Place, Thursday evening, Feb. 13, at 8 o'clock.

ible and free from red-tape. The Amherst faculty is willing to assume a considerable burden of extra work in order to interest more students in honors work. The price of admission to these remarkable opportunities is within reach; a general average of 75% for the first two years and an average of 80% in three selected courses at the end of the senior year. The advantages include graduation with honors, specialization, individual guidance and conference work, a startling and progressive move in modern education. Perhaps the Amherst system could be improved upon. At any rate it sets a fine example.

Literary Column

A SONG OF LIFE.
The winds be fresh
Or the winds be foul;
Be you mad as a loon
Or as sage as an owl;
An angel of mercy;
A hellion on wheels—
The same old silence on every one steals;
Tiddledy winks, the barber.

Your heart on your sleeve
Or under your ribs;
A white sword of truth
Or a dagger of fibs.
Whether you're thought for
Or whether you think.
What use is the wine
When you aren't there to drink?
Tiddledy winks, the barber.

Night-fall and snow-fall
Coming the same;
Whether you are
Or are not to blame.
If you pray and to bed—
If you dance until dawn,
Your heart will be stilled
And your watch will tick on.
Tiddledy winks, the barber.

Thrush song and swan song;
A birth and a death.
The sob and the laugh
Are both hard on the breath.
Gold in your wallet
Gold in your hair,
Tomorrow it's over—
And what will you care?
Tiddledy winks, the barber,
Tiddledy winks, the barber.

THE APPLE TREE.
The old twisted apple tree is an old woman,
Who, peering at the gray, dead embers of the past,
Recalls her laughter-bloom,
That shook itself free from the wind's embrace.

Don "L."

TWO GOLDEN CANDLES.
When the moon was new and my heart was high,
You appointed a trysting place,
where I
Must wait and tremble till you came by;
And you gave me a pair of candles.
"These golden candles will give you light."
But I never lit them. I couldn't quite,
I couldn't have burned them gold or white.
Your hands brought the golden candles.

When the moon grew full, our love kept pace,
And you were first to the trysting place,
And the light in your eyes and the light on your face,
Would have shamed a thousand candles.

Then the moon grew old, you came—but late—
You cried and you sighed and you called it fate,
You left me with something more dread than fate.
Self-love—and two golden candles.

But now you are nothing more than a name—
The moon is as mellow as when you came
And a flame that is only a candle flame
Flickers from golden candles.

TWO VALENTINES.
My Love,
Has a mouth that could only compete
With a rose for the warmth of its hue;
Has a mouth as fragrant and sweet
As a rose still wet with dew;
Has a mouth—but I tremble and cover!
Has a tongue like a bee in a flower!

A Blasting Confession.
Your heart is a stone, do you say, my Dear?
A stone to the touch and sight?
Your heart is a stone? Then say, my Dear,

That mine is the dynamite!

Ye Gladiator Column

Letters in the Gladiator Column are expressions of opinion by individual contributors to that column and the editor assumes no responsibility for any statements, allusions, or assertions made in them. The column is a free-for-all and student contributions are solicited.

IN RESURRECTIAM.
The reports of my death have been greatly exaggerated. What was so hopefully diagnosed as cessation of life was merely a state of suspended animation. The burial announcement was quite premature.

There has been some criticism about my wielding a bloody club "over the heads of innocent victims." I might inform my critics that the club has been neither very gory nor the victims very innocent. But there are times when rude contact with a knotty bludgeon is the most effective means for quickening celebration in the minds of the "innocent victims."

The abolition of a pen-name is a serious matter. The student feels that the professor holds the whip-hand, and the only insurance he has against the caprices of an irate teacher, at whom he may have directed some justly deserved shaft, is a non-de-plume. Furthermore, the names of the writers are not unknown to Ye Gladiator, and it is quite likely that if the good of the college demanded, the writer would make himself known. It is unfair to attribute the use of a non-de-plume to a lack of courage. Discretion ordains such a course.

With part of my obituary I am forced to agree—"Without student opinion, there can be no natural healthy growth for Colby. The student should have opinions, and he should express them as forcefully as he can." Unfortunately Colby students no longer have opinions. It would be nice if they did. They are content to drift along, however, in the old "laissez-faire" way to which President Johnson referred last week. Instead of opinions registered on paper, students prefer to blow off steam in torrid "bull sessions" while comfortably ensconced on lounges in frat house parlors. It requires effort to write. A scant half dozen letters were received during the height of the recent compulsory chapel furor. The mass of students passively object to compulsory chapel, not because they feel any principle at stake, not because they have any deep-seated convictions on the subject, but because they dislike doing anything that requires extra effort.

No, Mr. Gladiator-killer, this column cannot be headed "Student Opinion." That would be a misnomer. As an inducement to trade, however, we might label it "The Arena" or "The Bull-Ring." Then each group in college could designate its champion bull-thrower to do combat. The foreador who threw the mightiest male bovine would be adjudged the winner.

Freshmen Orientation Has Fine Program
An unusually fine program has been scheduled for the semester's meetings of the class in Freshman Orientation. The course outlined, while it is required of every member of the men's division of the first-year class, is open to any man on the campus who is interested in attending.

An announcement made by Dean Murriner the first of last week contained tentative plans. The complete program is similar to last year's. The faculty members will speak for the most part, on subjects on which they spoke last year.

The following is the list of subjects:

"The high lights of education come with truant reading. I like to toy with the idea of the mind as a roast that is cooked slowly and methodically in the oven of school. With the bestowing of a degree, the roast is presumably done. It has cooked long enough. It is ready to be served. "But it hasn't been spiced! It's edible, yes, but it isn't tempting. It needs the salt and pepper and cloves, and paprika that comes with wide reading. Facts aren't enough. One wants to adorn his mind with opinion and satire, and whimsy and tragedy and beauty."
"Reading doesn't replace living. Of course not. But it makes life vastly richer."—L. M. R. in "The Daily Maroon," Chicago (119).

RESOLUTIONS.
Whereas, it was pleased God in his infinite wisdom to remove from our midst the mother of our beloved brother, Oscar Stanley Nickerson, '31,

COLBY BEATS BOWDOIN IN INITIAL PERIOD

Rough Game Marks Third Victory of Mules Over Polar Bears

For the third time this season the Colby ice team beat the Bowdoin six 2 to 1 in a rugged game played at the South end rink on Tuesday night. The two Colby points were scored in the first two minutes of play in the first period, but from then on the Mules were unable to put one by Dennison, the Bowdoin goalie.

The game was perhaps the hardest fought of any in the state series to date. It was in the second period that the Black and White had a slight edge and accounted for their only goal of the game. This score came about midway in the period on a beautiful shot from half the length of the rink by Thayer, Bowdoin defense man.

The game started off in a surprising fashion. It was hardly a minute old when Red Lovett stole the puck from Stone and skated down the ice like a flash. He swerved past Thayer and hooked a bullet shot past the goalie to the corner of the net, a shot that was almost impossible to stop.

This margin gave the Colby crew plenty of snap and they went right after another score. Less than a minute after the first goal Wilson got off a nice pass to Lovett who drove a wicked shot at the net. The shot was partially blocked but Red managed to push it across to Kenney who was waiting uncovered. Tom wasted no time banging the rubber into the unprotected side of the goal and the Blue and Gray was two up. In spite of several close calls no further scoring was done in this period.

Colby had to be content with a defensive game in the second period. Bilodeau continually worked his way through to pop at Dyer who did well to save some of the shots. Art Howard, playing his first game as defense, was brilliant during this period for he stopped a threatening Bowdoin score several times. Thayer of Bowdoin shot one of the prettiest goals of the season midway in the period when he took the puck on a short pass from Stone, set himself quickly, then snapped a long fast shot from over half the length of the ice which went right between Dyer's pads.

The final period was a fast one with both teams trying their best to score. Dyer was called upon several times to save hard shots and he came through every time. In the last few minutes of play the entire Colby team played back in their own territory and kept the visitors from tying the score.

D.U.'s Retain Lead By Beating Zetes

Overcoming the greatest resistance they have thus far encountered in the interfraternity basketball league the D. U.'s took the Zetes into camp to the tune of 49 to 30 at the Alumnae Hill last Saturday evening. The game was closely contested throughout although many well-intended passes went for naught, owing to the slippery condition of the floor.

The D. U.'s got off to a lead of 8 to 5 in the first quarter which the Zetes tried in vain to overtake the rest of the game. At the end of the half the D. U.'s were ahead, 22 to 15, and during the last half they continued to draw away from the Zetes with the final score 49 to 30. Both teams entered the contest undefeated and realizing that the outcome would have a decided bearing on the ultimate winner of the interfraternity basketball league.

mate winner of the interfraternity basketball league.

"Cracker" Thornton and Wisnoski were the offensive stars for the winners, while Simmons and Arber were the high scorers for the losers. The D. U.'s won because of their superior short-passing game and more accurate shooting. The Zetes presented a stubborn defense in Cowing and McNaughton, but they finally bowed to the persistent attack of the winners.

Revised Basketball Schedule Released

The interfraternity basketball league is being run off this year probably the best that it has ever been. Much interest has been shown thus far, and with the best games yet to come all indications point to a very successful season. Much credit for this success is due Coach Roundy who has generously given his services in coaching the different teams, and as a result all the teams are playing a smoother brand of ball. Owing to several interferences the schedule has had to be revised somewhat. The schedule for the remaining games follows:

CUSTOM OF TEXTBOOK SELLING IS DECRIED

Will Perhaps Need Those in Late Life for Reference

Do college students sell their textbooks? This is a timely question concerning an unfortunate custom which seizes many undergraduates in January and June. Thomas Arkle Clark, Dean of Men of the University of Illinois, gives two reasons for these seasonal outbreaks, first, the student's indifference or lack of interest in his work, and second, his need to get out of a financial difficulty. Dean Clark's further statements that "a college student is always broke" and "anything that will immediately add to his bank account seems to him justifiable" will not be challenged. But immediate cash is not always forthcoming from the sale of textbooks, and the sums obtained are negligible in comparison with the value of the books. The rush to dispose of textbooks at less than their real value is swelled by the thought that now, examinations being over, those old books will never be needed again! Perhaps they'll not be needed for classroom work; but how often graduates moan that they wish they had kept their textbooks, to brush up on a language, to find a certain formula, to locate that line of poetry! The reasons for missing books hastily disposed of are many, but the regret is recurrent that the books are gone, with all the precious notes that added value to them, at least in sentiment. Again, where will you ever get accepted authorities so economically? The truth is that once you have sold a textbook, you will never replace it, you will even tramp to a library for the required information. Which is not quite as clever as keeping the books in the first place, and gradually acquiring a personal reference library that may save time and money for you in the future.

It is a recognized fact that textbooks on technical or professional subjects constitute the basis of a professional library. In many cases these professional books are very expensive, and to resell them at the popular low rates would not augur well for a technical career. In general, textbooks formats are becoming more attractive yearly, and do not detract in the least from the charm of well filled bookcases.

Who would have a library composed only of novels? A choice as limited as that would indicate an uninteresting owner; even a calculus textbook on your bookshelves would catch the eye and hint of a many-sided character!

These are points in passing, for consensus of opinion suggests that you keep your textbooks for sentimental reasons. President John Grier Hibben, of Princeton University, suggests "Every undergraduate leaving college should take his textbooks with him as a reminder and record of a past chapter in his life and as a nucleus of a library." Perhaps it isn't fashionable to be sentimental. Yet books have become a recognized budget item; and now in many colleges is heard the cry of "Keep Your Textbooks."

There is no library or reference book as handy as the worn and scribbled textbook, which has been your companion, on and off campus. Can you think of anything which would be as graphic a commentary on your college life as the notes and names you have jotted on the margins and covers of these books? To what other books have you granted such intimacy of thought? Provost Josiah H. Pennington, of the University of Pennsylvania, follows this thought with his remark, "I know of no book that can be more properly valued as an 'association book' than the textbook which represents many hours of work and brings to mind some teacher of the past."

"Y" Conference To Be At Mansion House

The Mansion House at Poland Springs, on February 28 to March 2, will be the scene of the fifth annual joint mid-winter conference for the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A.'s of the colleges of Eastern New England. The quota of the Colby delegation will be eight, and already enough interest has been taken in the coming conference to warrant a full party.

The theme of the conference will be "The Balancing of Thought, Feeling and Action," and will grow out of careful preparatory discussion of the committees. In some colleges the religious program is pretty largely made up of activities of an immediately practical nature, in others the effort is made to discover wider meanings in life. The question of the relationship between mystical experience and practical service therefore becomes a matter of central significance. Many of the same considerations are relevant here that are evident in the current discussions of humanism versus theism.

The leadership will include some one from the ranks of professional social workers, a representative of the Quaker heritage of creative mysticism and one who will present a sound intellectual basis in the midst of modern uncertainty. Dr. Henry Hodgkins of China, Henry Van Dusen and Max Nelson of New York are possibilities. A special bulletin of information will be sent to the Colby groups shortly.

Parmenters Hosts To Chemical Society

A meeting of Chi Epsilon Mu, the chemistry honorary society was held at the home of Dr. George F. Parmenter last Friday evening. Alanson R. Curtis, '31, read a paper on "Obtaining the Higher Alcohols Through the Cracking of Petroleum." Professor Lester F. Weeks then spoke on the advantages of an education in chemistry—stating the eight benefits that were to be derived from a chemistry training—ranging from the teaching of chemistry in the little country high school to the field of theoretical research as carried on by Steinmetz and Langmuir.

Dr. Parmenter furnished refreshments and cigars. The surprise of the evening was the presentation to Professor Weeks of a fountain pen set by Lewis H. Kleinholz, '30, acting through the members of the society. The little gift was given in appreciation of Professor Weeks' years of capable teaching and as a token of the high esteem in which he is held by the students.

FERLAZZO CONCERT.

ler is too well known to need any comment and his arrangements of classic compositions are always of the best. This selection was perhaps the favorite of the audience, judging from the applause which it received. The second number of this group was a composition entitled "Jota" by Manuel de Falla, a beautiful song-like composition, the ending of which played on muted strings was particularly effective. The third selection, "The Dance Espagnole" from "La Vida Breve," by de Falla; was another of Kreisler's artistic arrangements. This number, a typical gay, Spanish dance was exceptionally well rendered by the artist, and its brilliant ending showed his fiery Latin temperament.

The concluding selection was "Caprice, No. 20" by Paganini. Paganini is to the world of the violin what Chopin is to the piano world, and to master his difficult compositions is to be an artist indeed. The first movement consists mainly of double notes. It begins with a melody played on the B string, accompanied by a sustained note on the A string. This sustained note predominates the first movement. The second movement, gay and sprightly, is more typical of Capriccio.

At the conclusion of his program, Mr. Ferlazzo was repeatedly called back to the stage and very graciously responded with two encores. The first, "Birds of Prophot," by Schumann, depicted excellently the sitting about and dipping of a bird on the wing. The second movement of this composition was very melodious and songlike with its double notes and muted strings. Mr. Ferlazzo's second encore was the famous "Fair Rose-Mary," by Kreisler. This is one of Kreisler's best-known compositions and the response of the audience to the number showed that it certainly deserved its popularity. It is of a nature to appeal to any class of music lovers and its completion brought Mr. Ferlazzo back for several more curtain calls.

A review of this concert would not be complete without mentioning the fine work of Miss Madeline Meredith, Mr. Ferlazzo's accompanist. Her able support in the various climaxes lent much to the success of the concert.

of the publication. His graduation oration took the unusual form of a poem.

After a brief experience at teaching he entered the Astor Library in October, 1881, assigned in charge of periodicals and continuations. At the beginning of 1883 he went to Cornell as a cataloguer and in the same year he published his first book, an ode to Farragut, entitled "The Great Admiral."

In the spring of 1884 he went to Columbia University to be a cataloguer and in the fall of 1885 he became cataloguer at the Rutgers College Library. In February, 1886, he left Rutgers to catalogue the special library of George P. Marsh at the University of Vermont, the result of his labors being published in 1892 in a and in 1908 his Litt. D. from Harvard.

He wrote his first published poem royal octavo volume. In the meantime he also spent several years cataloguing the books of the library of the University of Vermont.

In 1887 he put forth his next two volumes of verse, "Orestes and Other Poems," and "Women's Will, and Other Poems." In 1889 he married Helen Louise Mayser of Ulm, Germany, and their two children were born at Burlington, Vt.

Since 1893 when he became librarian of Brown University he has written and published several books of library administration. His lecture, "The Eternal Pilgrim," given on the 300th anniversary of the birth of John Bunyan in 1928, was also published. He also edited a volume entitled "Lincoln Letters," 1927. He is a noted student of Lincolniana.

He was associate editor of the Brown Alumni Monthly from 1905 to 1917 and has been John Hay Professor of Bibliography since 1908. He was President of the Massachusetts Library Club in 1900-1901 and headed the Rhode Island Library Association in 1904-1907. ance and from the reports that have been heard about their excellent work in rehearsals, it is safe to say that their offerings will be well received by music lovers.

The above are but samples of the high-grade presentations that will be given by Colby's musical representatives on February 27. It is a concert that should receive the support of each and every Colby student and faculty member as well as the hundreds of music lovers in Waterville and vicinity. Tickets will be ready for distribution in about a week and from the interest already shown in the concert, those who would like the best seats possible should make early purchases. The prices will be 75 cents for orchestra seats and front row balcony and the other seats, 50 cents.
