

PRESIDENT JOHNSON
ON PUBLICATIONSPraises "Colby Alumnus"
And Special Articles
in Magazine

In his Monday morning address to the men's division at their regular assembly period President Franklin W. Johnson took for his subject the publications of the college. He spoke very favorably of the Colby Alumnus, the quarterly published for the graduates of the college. The president stated that when at Washington he examined the various alumni publications of other colleges and in his opinion the Colby Alumnus was not inferior to any of them.

President Johnson spoke of several articles in particular which are of interest to undergraduates as well as to alumni. These are a series of articles by recent graduates of the college on the subject "If I Were To Go Through College Again." All of them expressed themselves as being of the opinion that they would choose Colby and the accounts of what they would do are as varied as they are interesting. Some of them refer to the more or less pressing problems of the present time, in particular the chapel and the cut systems.

The speaker then went on to the main point of the morning and said that he was very much in favor of a

PRESS CLUB FORMED
BY JOURNALISM CLASS

A meeting of those students engaged in journalism was held Monday afternoon for the organization of what is to be known as the Colby Press Club. Professor Herbert Carlyle Libby opened the meeting by acquainting the members with his proposed "Articles of Acceptance," a constitution upon which the club is to be founded. These provisions met with the approval of all those present, and at the suggestion of Professor Libby it was moved that they be accepted. This motion was passed. A list of proposed members for conducting the business of the club was then presented by a committee previously selected by Professor Libby. This committee was composed of Richard George Kendall of Gardiner; Alona Stephanie Bean, of Somerville, Mass.; and John Francis Clarke, of Waterville.

The officers proposed by this committee were: President, William Albert Lyons, '31, of Needham, Mass.; vice president, Brittain Webster, '32, Lexington, Mass.; secretary, Hope Reed Pullen, '31, of North Amity; and treasurer, John Anthony DeMott, '32, of New York City. It was moved to accept the slate proposed by the committee which he had appointed. This motion was also passed.

The "Articles of Acceptance" provide that the following shall be eligible to membership in the club: Editor of the "ECHO," associate editor and woman's editor of the "ECHO," editor and woman's editor of the "Oracle," editor of the "Alumnus," editor of the "Colbiana," director of publicity at Colby college, and students reporting for daily and weekly newspapers.

Mr. Joseph Coburn Smith, the recently appointed director of publicity for Colby college, will lead the club in furnishing the newspapers with official news of the college.

There was a brief discussion as to where the club should meet. It was finally decided that the meetings should take place at nine o'clock on Wednesday of each week in the Journalism class conducted by Professor Libby.

There being no further business the club, acting on the suggestion of Professor Libby, voted to adjourn.

ASSEMBLY.

The program for the men's assembly as announced today by Professor Herbert L. Newman is as follows:

Friday, Feb. 21, Coburn Classical Institute Orchestra. Program under the direction of Professor Everett F. Strong.

Wednesday, Feb. 26, Student athletic program, George F. Grady, '30, will speak on "Basketball," and Thomas J. Kenney, '31, will speak on "Hockey."

PLANS FOR COMBINED CONCERT
OF MUSICAL CLUBS RELEASEDRevised "Alma Mater" Song To Be Feature
Of Recital--Solo Artists Will Also Appear

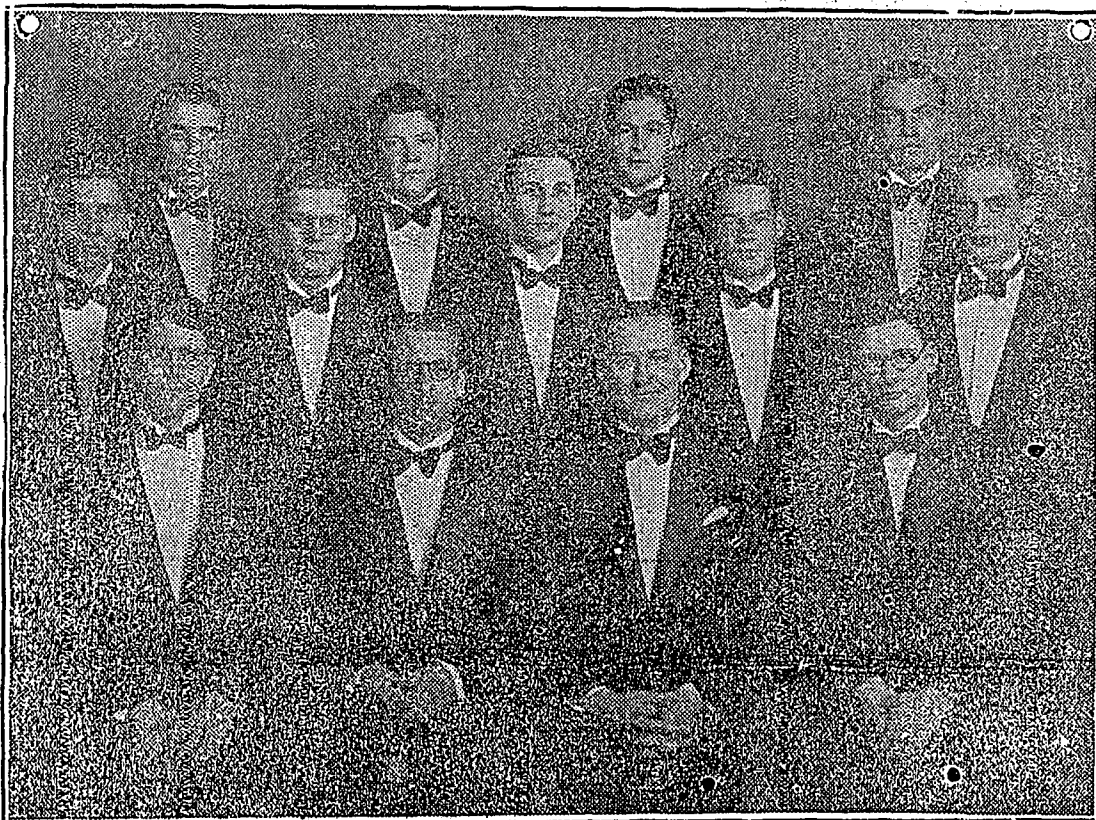

Clarence H. Arber, '30, general manager of the Colby College Musical clubs today released plans for the sale of tickets for the biggest musical endeavor that Colby has undertaken in recent years to be given on Thursday night, Feb. 27, at the City Opera House. According to this plan, a house-to-house canvass of the city is to be taken next week by many Colby students who live in Waterville for the purpose of selling tickets. Each student will be given a section of the city to cover and it is hoped that no one will be deprived of the opportunity of assisting this most worthy cause.

In the college proper, tickets will be sold to will depart from the usual "cut and dried" procedure of the formal concert in presenting some of the latest dance tunes, assisted by the male quartette and two novelty dancers who will make their first appearance as a team. The orchestra is carefully preparing humorous novelty numbers under the direction of the well-known musician, Stanton "Chink" Weed, '30, of Waterville, who is one of the most sought-after musicians in this state. The nature of these "surprises" will not be announced as they are original with the orchestra and are guaranteed to produce a laugh from each and every individual in the audience.

be handled by the various fraternity and non-fraternity groups, assisted by the Student Council who have promised their cooperation in putting over the concert. The women's division will be taken care of by the members of the Women's Glee club.

One of the most charming features of the concert will be the rendition of the revised Colby "Alma Mater" in four part music to be given in a novel manner by the men's and women's glee clubs and the male quartette. Mr. John Thomas of Waterville, who is the director of the concert has arranged the former "Alma Mater" so that it may be sung as a chorus number and it is expected that there will be a demand for the new song for public sale as it does not appear in any Colby Song Book. This is but one of the first attempts to revive the lax interest in Colby songs and to provide a song that can be sung whenever Colby people get together. The people who make up the musical clubs are ready to establish Colby's reputation as a musical college and it is for this purpose that they are working so hard to make next week's concert a success.

It was also announced today that two very prominent solo artists had been secured to appear on the program. One is Miss Ruth Park, '30, who has already established an enviable reputation for her accomplishments with the violin. Miss Park has appeared as a soloist on many previous concert programs and is a favorite artist with the music loving people of the college and city. She will play a group of three selections and those who have already heard her will not hesitate to say that she will be well received.

The other soloist will be Mr. Bernard Shaw, '30, of Waterville, who is known throughout the state as a cornetist of repute. Shaw has been connected with one of the well-known dance orchestra teams in the state for several years and in addition to a group of two cornet solos will appear with the "Midnight Sons of Colby," the dance orchestra. As Shaw is a "native son," the people of Waterville will doubtless welcome his efforts which should be one of the "hits" of the program.

The dance orchestra already referred to will depart from the usual "cut and dried" procedure of the formal concert in presenting some of the latest dance tunes, assisted by the male quartette and two novelty dancers who will make their first appearance as a team. The orchestra is carefully preparing humorous novelty numbers under the direction of the well-known musician, Stanton "Chink" Weed, '30, of Waterville, who is one of the most sought-after musicians in this state. JOHNSONS HOSTS TO

SONS OF COLBY CLUB

President and Mrs. Franklin W. Johnson held a social evening for the societies of the Sons and Daughters of Colby in their home on College avenue from seven-thirty until ten o'clock last evening. Members of the societies from the three upper classes and from the faculty were invited.

Miss A. Stephanie Bean, '31, introduced the program, which was furnished by several of the sons and daughters. The entertainment opened with a piano solo, "To Spring," by Grieg, rendered by Miss Ruth E. Ramsdell, '32. Miss Helen A. Chase, '30, continued the program with a humorous reading of the account of Columbus as given by a little Jewish boy in the East Side dialect. After the reading, Miss Marion A. Lewis, '32, rendered two vocal numbers for which Miss Eunice M. Foye, '31, played the piano accompaniment. The guests

Choosing Their Profession Early

Judge Charles P. Barnes, '92, was the speaker at the regular men's chapel exercises Friday morning and speaking in the series of vocational address took as his subject "Law as a Profession."

At the outset of the address he urged every student to choose his profession as early in his college career as possible. "Today there are 50,000 young men in this country thinking of entering law as a profession," said Judge Barnes. He then gave his definition of a lawyer, "the adviser of men that make things go." He went on to speak of the wideness of the field of law but brought out the point quite strongly that a young lawyer must be very general in his practice and must learn all the var-

PHI BETA KAPPA NOMINATIONS
FOR FIRST SEMESTER ANNOUNCEDFour Men and Three Women on List of Outstanding Students

Announcement has been made to seven members of the class of 1930 of their nomination for election to membership in the Phi Beta Kappa society. These seniors are: Norman D. Palmer, Lewis H. Kleinholz, Albert C. Palmer, and Philip S. Bither, in the men's division; and Margaret P. Hale, Lucille N. Whitcomb, and Helen W. Brigham, in the women's division. All of these seven have maintained an average throughout seven semesters of above 90.00.

Norman Dunbar Palmer prepared for college at the Good Will School at Hinkley. He has been prominent throughout his four years at Colby for his high scholarship and for his forensic work. Besides making Honor Roll and Dean's List averages for the four years he has attended Colby and being selected as one of the two members of the men's division to try out the new honors privilege system for this semester, he has taken part in many extra-curricular activities. His chief interests have been centered about Y. M. C. A. work and debating. He is president of Colby's chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, honorary national forensic society, and has been the outstanding member of Colby's debating teams for the past two years. He is a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

Lewis Hermann Kleinholz received his high school education in Brooklyn, N. Y. He has taken his major work at Colby in the Chemistry department and has been prominent in the activities of Chi Epsilon Mu, honorary chemistry society, of which he is the president this year. He has maintained Honor Roll and Dean's List averages for every semester he has been at Colby. He is a member of the Gamma Phi Epsilon fraternity.

Albert Carlton Palmer, the brother of Norman D. Palmer, has kept pace with his brother in his preparatory work at Good Will and throughout his career at Colby. He has maintained his high scholastic rank with Honor Roll grades for the four years he has been in college as well as taken a wide interest in extra-curricular activities. He is a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

Philip Stewart Bither prepared for college at Linneus, where he was recognized as an exceptional student.

Dekes Hold Annual Initiation Banquet

The eighty-third annual initiation banquet of the Xi chapter of Delta Kappa Epsilon was held in the Elmwood Hotel last Monday evening with the initiates numbering 10 men from two classes. A fine menu was enjoyed and prominent alumni delivered addresses at the conclusion of the banquet. Lawrence D. Cole, '30, of Winslow, acted as toastmaster of the evening.

The initiates were: class of 1932, Arthur King Howard, Brookline, Mass.; Herbert Kenyon Bryan, Washington, D. C.; class of 1933, Nathaniel Butler, Chicago, Ill.; Carl F. Foster, Forest City; Howard Bruce Greene, Wakefield, Mass.; Richard Dana Hall, Waterville; Harry Thomas Jordan, Lansdowne, Pa.; Raymond Otto Knauff, Waterville; John Willard Locke, 2nd, Wakefield, Mass.; and Theodore Packard, Canton, Mass.

Strong's Host To
Le Cercle Francais

Le Cercle Francais had the most enjoyable meeting of its brief existence Tuesday evening, Feb. 18, at the home of Professor Everett C. Strong. Various matters of business were discussed, such as the advisability of presenting a French play. The program consisted of a reading, a farce, "Anglais Tel qu'on le Parle," given by Professor Strong, and a game which tested the memory and vocabulary knowledge of everyone. Refreshments of ice cream and cookies were served.

SMITH TO BE COLBY
PUBLICITY AGENT

Joseph Coburn Smith of New York City, a graduate of Colby in 1924, has been appointed alumni secretary and director of publicity at Colby, according to an announcement by President Franklin W. Johnson. He is the first incumbent of this important office at Colby. For several years the college has felt the need of a full-time alumni secretary, and the concentration of publicity work into the hands of a single college officer has become equally essential.

Smith is the son of Dr. George Otis Smith, Colby 1893, head of the U. S. Geological Survey. His mother is a member of the famous Coburn family of Skowhegan, which has had many representatives in Colby classes from 1850 to the present day.

After graduating from Colby in 1924, Smith spent two years in graduate study at Harvard University, where he received the M. A. degree in 1926. Since then he has made his home in New York City, where, until his appointment as Colby's first alumni secretary, he was production manager of the Airmasseur Laboratories. He is a member of the honorary society of Phi Beta Kappa and of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity. He began his new duties at Colby last Monday and makes his headquarters in Room 1, Roberts Hall.

Deputation Team
Leads In Fairfield

The tradition of "Colby Day in the Fairfield Churches" was carried out last Sunday by a mixed deputation team of six college students. According to the "Colby Day" custom that has grown up, the team held morning services in the Baptist and Methodist churches and conducted a union meeting of both denominations in the evening.

Muriel J. MacDougall, '31, and Richard Cummings, '32, spoke in the Baptist church at the morning service, which Miss Ruth A. Park, '30, assisted by playing a violin solo. "The Privileges of Living" was the topic of Miss MacDougall's talk which Mr. Cummings linked up with his address on "Character."

At the morning service in the Methodist Church Harrison F. Williams, '33, spoke on "The God-Planned Life." Ruth Pineo, '31, conducted the rest of the service in which Lucius V. Lobdell, '31, participated by singing two vocal solos.

"Four Keys to Success," was the topic of the evening meeting. Miss Pineo pictured "Sympathy" as a key to success; Mr. Williams, "Action;" Mr. Cummings, "Sacrifice;" and Miss MacDougall, "Love." Lucius Lobdell rendered a vocal selection.

The Colby Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. are the sponsors of these deputation trips which have become regarded as stimulating tradition by many towns about Waterville.

Colby Receives $5000
From Haskell Estate

At the regular assembly of the men's division last Monday morning, President Franklin W. Johnson made the important announcement that a bequest of $5000 from the estate of Colonel Edward H. Haskell of Boston, Mass., had been recently turned over to the college authorities. Colonel Haskell had previously made substantial gifts to Colby and made this provision in his will though he was influenced in no way through any affiliations with the college. At one time Colonel Haskell was the owner of the Boston Herald, which his father had owned before him.

A "BETTER YET" CAMPAIGN.

In his address before the Men's Assembly Monday morning, President Johnson suggested to the students an outline of what he termed a "Better Yet Campaign" for Colby. He had observed the plan in action at the University of Chicago and found that the benefits that could be derived from such a campaign were multiple.

The "Better Yet Campaign" would function under the guidance of a student and faculty committee which would have the specific charge of making and receiving constructive suggestions from all sources and presenting such changes as it sees fit to the college administration for approval. The committee would preferably be composed of six members, three representing the faculty, and three to be selected from the junior and senior classes of the college. The undergraduate members would reflect the student opinion and bring before the committee whatever problems were of vital interest from the undergraduate "slant." The faculty members of the committee would act more or less as a moderating influence to eliminate unpracticable suggestions and would serve as co-workers with the students in planning beneficial changes. Then, at the approval of the whole committee, the decisions would be presented to the college authorities for acceptance.

There is no question that such a campaign could do a great good in many phases at Colby. The major problems of this year, specifically, the problem of college unification, the chapel question, the governing of social affairs, the place of the class—all could be studied by the committee for possible solutions. There is no progress without change, and no valuable change can come without a carefully organized procedure of consideration and thought. In the event that a "Better Yet Campaign" is undertaken at Colby it will be necessary that a vital interest be taken by the students in order that the vital problem may arise and remedies of solutions for them may be discovered.

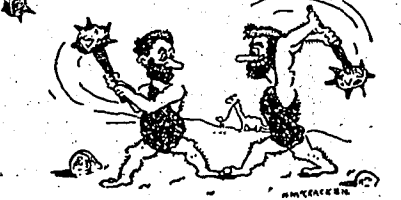

The ECHO is strongly in support of the plan. For several years the Gladiolator Column has aimed to stimulate the expression of student opinion, preferring of course constructive criticism to that of a prejudicial and disserviceable nature. As President Johnson suggested, the Column is a means towards a "crystallizing of the well-known bull sessions." It should be an interest and a challenge to every undergraduate to discover how his "pet ideas" react upon others. Grant is the power of suggestion and grant is the Gladiolator Column if it serves as the means of influence towards beneficial changes. Radical or conventional, let student opinion be expressed!

Old Scrapper:

There's dirt in Colby. It is not only on your supposed grave. It is all over. It rolls over in billowing clouds from the embracing Maine Central. It dingles the brick walls. It cloudies the ceilings. It drapes itself in powdery mantle over the worried Niobe, the sheeted Sophocles, and the unsheeted Venus. Yea, though it form the sides of the Valley of Shadow it does not submerge us. Still, hopefully, we look to our fate in the future. May soap, brush, and cleanser come to assist us. May the Little Fairy, Old Dutch, and the Gold Dust Twins come in with the new class in September.

MALICIOUS MALIGNITY ON COLLEGE CAMPUS.

Dear Editor:

As the notorious deeds of Jessie James were bandied about from mouth to mouth, so too are the actions of the college people discussed in circles of gossip. Proximity is a vice—not a virtue to be cultivated. The maxim which we held in such contempt in our early youth: "Little pitchers have big ears," is also applicable to big pitchers. Are we but petty puppets to engage in discussions with no more substance than the white of an egg?

W. C. R.

Y. W. Enjoys Special Musical Program

A musical program was the special feature enjoyed by those present at the weekly meeting of the Y. W. C. A. last evening. The participants were: Miss Ethel Lee, Supervisor of Music in the Waterville schools; Miss Winifred White, a sophomore at Waterville High School; and Miss Ruth Park, Colby, '30.

Miss Lee sang two numbers. The first was "Cargoes," by Macfie, and the other, "Trees," by Kilmer. Two piano solos of a semi-classic nature were played by Miss White. Miss Park played the violin solos, "At Dawning," and "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise," two very well-known pieces. All of the numbers were greatly appreciated by the audience.

Discussion Group Holds Weekly Meet

Fifteen men were present at the student discussion group held last Thursday night in the Railroad Y. M. C. A. from 5.30 until 7.15. The subject, "What must I believe about God to live a full life?" aroused much thought that was strongly discussed.

Professor Newman prefaced the discussion with a brief explanation of "Humanism." The clash of opinion was centered about the relative truth and value in "Theism" and "Humanism." One faction contended that they believed in no such power as a personal God, and that the purpose and driving power behind individual existence is the furtherance of the happiness of society. Opposed to this view were those who believed that there is some sort of creating power that is interested in us personally, and that the driving power of their course of life is not the good of society alone, but a realization that they are fulfilling the wishes and plan of the creating power in which they believe.

Since the group was not organized to unify opinions, which is impossible, but for the purpose of learning all the student opinions on a subject and thinking through to as true a conclusion as possible, the discussion was summed up by a vote of the group on two questions. On the first question, "Do you believe in any form of God that has a personal interest in each human being?" 11 voted "yes," and four "no." To the second question, "Would your life be fuller (more inspiration and more driving power) if you could believe in a personal God?" 11 voted affirmatively and four negatively.

Since difficulties began to arise in understanding each other's views, and the argument began to diverge from the question under consideration, it was decided to drop the subject for the present. The topic decided on for discussion next week is, "What must

I believe about the church to live a full life?"

WOMEN'S SCHOLARSHIPS ANNOUNCED BY DEAN

Dean Ninetta M. Runnals announced in women's chapel Thursday, Feb. 13, the names of the Colby women who are to be awarded the four class scholarship prizes. Not only high rank but also financial need and good citizenship were considered in awarding these prizes. The choices were made from a list of those who had made formal application for scholarship aid.

The winners of the prizes are Lucille N. Whitcomb, '30, Farmington; Pauline S. Gay, '31, Hopkinton, Mass.; Hildred P. Nelson, '32, Fairfield; and Pauline E. Goodwin, '33, Phillips. All four are honor students with their names enrolled in the dean's list.

Miss Whitcomb is one of the four Colby seniors chosen this year to do independent study in all except required courses during the second semester of 1930. As a freshman, she won the second scholarship prize. She is prominent in college dramatics and journalistic work, having been women's editor of the ECHO last year. Miss Whitcomb is a member of the Sigma Kappa sorority.

Miss Gay has been prominent in all women's athletics, being this year a member of the class and varsity hockey teams and of the fencing class conducted by Professor George B. Viles. She is secretary of the Colby Y. W. C. A. and president of the Alpha Sigma Delta sorority.

Miss Nelson has been outstanding at Colby in public speaking and journalism, having won first prize in the Hamlin prize speaking contest as a freshman, and serving this year as a reporter for the Colby ECHO. Last year she won the first scholarship prize for freshman women. Miss Nelson is a member of the Chi Gamma Theta honorary society and of Chi Omega sorority.

The freshman scholarship winner, Miss Goodwin, is a member of the Woman's Health League and of the Colby Y. W. C. A. Miss Goodwin is pledged to the Delta Delta Delta sorority.

The sophomore girls gave their annual dance on Friday, Feb. 14, in the Alumnae Building. The patrons and patronesses were: Dean Ninetta M. Runnals, Professor Florence E. Dunn, Professor and Mrs. Cecil A. Rollins, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Downs. The dance, called the Holland Hop, was cleverly carried out in Dutch ideas. Names pertaining to Holland were given to each dance. The gym was decorated in Dutch colors, blue and white. In the center of the hall was suspended a huge net filled with many colored balloons which were dropped in the midst of the dancers. Refreshments consisting of cake, ice cream, and punch were served at intermission. Music was furnished by Gus Folsom and His Modernists.

Those on the committee were: Marjorie Van Horn, Phyllis Hamlin, Jean Wellington, Amelia Bliss, Eleanor Rogers, and Viola Rowe.

COLBY AND BATES PLAY TO OVERTIME TIE

Wilson and Lovett Shine for Mules in Long Game

After 55 minutes of hectic hockey Colby and Bates had scored five goals apiece in the most exciting state series game staged at the South End rink this winter. It was a case of clever, fast skating, Bates forwards against a stubborn Mule defense with neither side having the edge on the other. At times things looked pretty hopeless for the tired Colby six but they always managed to keep the Garnet men from piling up a lead.

It would be hard to pick an outstanding player for either side. Every man was busy every minute of the fifty-five and the teamwork of both teams was excellent with Bates having the edge due to the revamped Colby lineup. "Moose" Draper, big defense man, was out of the game with a bad eye but the Colby fans have no kick coming on his substitute. Malcolm Wilson, freshman star, who filled in at center when Colby beat Bowdoin last week, took Draper's place last night and was just about the best Blue and Gray clad player on the ice. Although he is a forward he played a whale of a game at defense and time and again took the puck through two or three Bates men. Art Howard played the other defense position and worked well although greatly handicapped by lack of weight.

Captain Johnny Cogan and McCluskey were the best men in the Bates attack with Ben White playing the best defense game. The husky Garnet man also drove in two goals in the frantic second period.

By tying Bates Colby has an outside chance at the state series crown if Bowdoin comes through with a victory over Bates. The summary:

Colby (5) (5) Bates
Kenney, rw lw, Secor
Delaware, c c, Cogan
Lovett, lw rw, McCluskey
Wilson, rd ld, White
Howard, ld rd, Garcelon
Dyer, g g, Manning
Spares, Colby: Pomerleau, Hilton.
Bates: Johnson, Anderson, Murphy, Helman, Kennison.

Scores, first period, Wilson, unassisted; second period, McCluskey, pass from White, White from scrimmage; Lovett, unassisted; Cogan, unassisted; Kenney, pass from Delaware; Lovett, unassisted; White, unassisted. First overtime, Cogan, unassisted; second overtime, Wilson, unassisted. Referee, Pat French of Maine. Time, three 15 minute periods, two five minute periods.

Feature Match In Bowling This Week

A spurt by the Delta Upsilon during the past week has brought them within two points of the league leaders, the Lambda Chi. These teams roll each other Thursday afternoon and one of the best matches of the season is expected. The Lambda Chis must get an even division of points in order to maintain their present position. Glazier of the Non-Frats broke the single string record last week when he hit 139.

Standing.	Won	Lost
Lambda Chi	34	6
Delta Upsilon	32	8
A. T. O.	24	12

Colby Independents To Play In Portland

There will be another exciting interfraternity basketball game Saturday evening in the Girls Alumnae Building when the Phi Delt meet the A. T. O's. The teams are pretty evenly matched and the game should be well worth watching. This is the second game of the league to be played in the girls' gym; the D. U. and Zetes having played there last week. After the game there will be general dancing until eleven, with music by Hutchinson's Orchestra.

Thursday afternoon the Colby Independent team, composed of the pick of the interfraternity teams and under the direction of Coach Roundy, will invade Portland where they will meet the Portland Boy's Club, Thursday evening. For the past two years a similar team, picked from the best men in the league, has played games throughout the state and made a very creditable showing, defeating the Maine varsity both years.

There will be a return game with the P. A. C. March 1, in the Alumnae Building. The Colby team is fast shaping into a smooth working machine and will give the Portland club a great deal to think about.

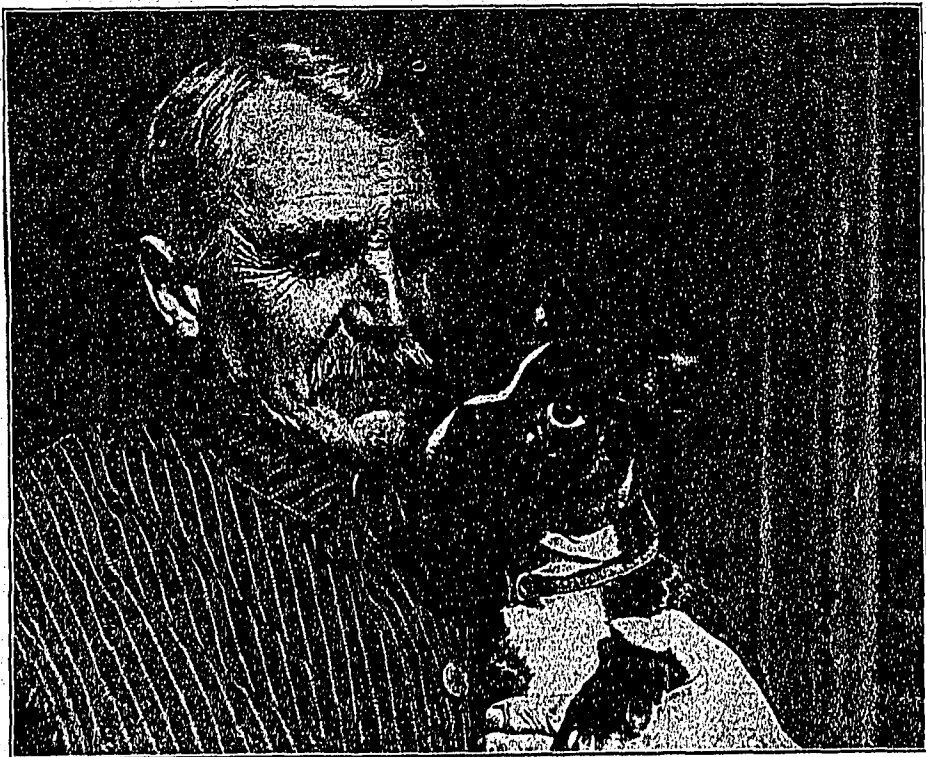

Hurlburt Elected Relay Captain

Thursday afternoon at a meeting of the Relay Team, Ralph B. Hurlburt, '30, of Danvers, Mass., was elected captain of relay. Hurlburt has been an outstanding track man for the past two years besides being active in other college activities. He is a member of Kappa Delta Rho fraternity, and Kappa Phi Kappa educational fraternity.

Tarkington Books Given To Library

The College Library has just received an unusually fine set of Booth Tarkington's Collected Works in 21 volumes. The set is a gift of Gabriel Wells, the well known dealer in rare books of New York City. It is No. 35 of an edition limited to 1075 sets, and autographed by the author. This, known as the Seawood Edition, is recognized as the best edition of Tarkington's writings. It is printed in large type, illustrated, and has a specially designed binding. The library is fortunate to have been the recipient of such a desirable gift.

COLBY'S LITTLE MASCOT AND "CHEF."

Lovable "Peggy" Passes From Campus

No more will a challenging bark greet the in-coming freshman, causing him to glance fearfully toward a small, bristling ball of fur. You can now touch "Chef's" property without receiving a warning growl, for "Peggy," the best little pal "Chef" ever had, died last Tuesday morning. She has been buried on a knoll behind Hedman Hall to remain forever on the campus she once patrolled.

It was ten years ago when "Chef" first carried a six-weeks old thoroughbred Boston Bull Terrier to his office in Hedman Hall. A one-man dog, yet willing to play with all who pretended to respect her authoritative bark, "Peggy" grew to be a familiar figure to Colby students, trotting along the campus, independent, proudly curious, with the sole desire of going where "Chef" went. There was never a morning during those ten years that "Peggy" did not follow her idol summer and winter from home to the campus. Her actions were his actions. She seemed to read his every thought, to understand his every word.

Peggy was modern. A chance to ride in an automobile would change her from a sedate old maid to a cooing flapper. Perched upon the front seat of Chef's car she rooted for Colby at every football and baseball game, pausing only long enough to warn the crowd away from her automobile.

It was in 1920 that Peggy made her debut as an athlete. Sitting as usual with Chef in the shade of Coburn Hall she seized the only opportunity offered to help Colby beat Bates. When Penbody, Colby's star infielder, hit a two-base hit into center field, Peggy sprang into action. Growling and showing her teeth she prevented the centerfielder from picking up the ball until Penbody had left third base, when, at a command from Chef, she surrendered the ball. The crowd cheered her, the officials drove her off the field, and, from then on, the townspeople called her "Home-run Peggy." This is only one of the many exploits which endeared her in the memory of students, alumni, and townspeople.

Her grave is to be crowned with a conient disk, inserted in which will be a small stone. A fence will inclose the monument and its surrounding plot. When Alumni visit Colby, a path winding to the river will lead them to pay their respects to "Peggy."

Debating Team Loses Decision At Boston

Colby's debating team lost to Boston University last Friday evening in a debate which was by no means one-sided. A board of three judges had been selected by Boston University but at the hour of the debate only one was present; so by consent that one judge, Miss Sylvia V. Masterson, Council of Debate at Lowell High School, was appointed solo judge. She was required to support her decision by an explanation from the platform.

The subject debated was the official Pl Kappa Delta question for 1920-1930: Resolved, that the nations should adopt a plan of complete disarmament, excepting such forces as are needed for police purposes. The Colby team upheld the affirmative side of the question. The team consisted of Norman D. Palmer, '30, of Hildesley; Donald F. Poulin, '31, of Fairfield; and Harold F. Lemoine, '32, of Kennebunk. The Boston University team was composed of two men from their Law School and one from the College of Arts.

The Colby team was splendidly entertained by the B. U. debating squad. Upon arriving in Boston it was driven to points of interest in Boston, Cambridge, and Brookline. That evening the Colby men dined at one of Boston's popular cabarets; and during the stay in Boston they were quartered at a fraternity house in Brookline.

Though the Colby team lost, it did not do so without presenting strong and logical arguments. The teams differed in their respective interpretation of "police powers," and it was upon this point that the two teams spent much of their time. The Boston University team has a wonderful record, having lost but two debates in the past five years.

PHI BETA KAPPA.

He is the second member of the men's division who has been chosen for the special honors work experiment this semester and has attained this honor and recognition through his brilliant work for his four years at Colby. He has maintained Dean's List and Honor Roll average throughout his work here, and has taken his major work in the French department. He is a member of Kappa Phi Kappa, honorary educational fraternity, Phi Sigma Iota, the new Romance Language society, and a member of the Delta Upsilon fraternity.

Margaret Pauline Hale of Caribou has done exceptional work during her four years at Colby. She is one of the Honor students in the new experiment to be tried this semester. She has been active in extra-curricular activities, and is now president of Student Government in the women's division. She is a member of Phi Mu sorority.

Lucille Norine Whitcomb of Farmington, has been outstanding in dramatics. She has taken prominent parts in Colby day plays, has served on the ECHO board, and is one of the Honor students in the new educational experiment. She is a member of Sigma Kappa sorority.

Helen Woodford Brigham of Concord, Mass., is well known for the part she has taken in college athletics. She is now president of the Athletic Association of the women's division. She is a member of Pi Gamma Mu and Sigma Kappa sorority.

Formal election to the society will take place at the time of the annual initiation banquet, which this year will be held on Friday, April 4th, at the Elmwood Hotel.

The principal speaker on this occasion will be the internationally known Shakespearean and Elizabethan scholar, Professor Tucker Brooke, of Yale University. The Colby chapter of Phi Beta Kappa has had a distinguished series of public orators, to which list the adding of the name of Tucker Brooke will guarantee an interesting and profitable address.

Professor Brooke was absent from Yale last year, during research work at the Huntington Library in California. It is probably that he will speak in Waterville about this interesting modern opportunity for literary research.

Further announcement regarding the Phi Beta Kappa initiation and banquet may be expected early in April.

ious aspects of his profession before he begins to specialize. In later years it is nearly always necessary for him to specialize if he is to be a success. He gave as a rather humorous illustration of the specializing lawyer the case of a lawyer who made his specialty the taking care of old ladies cases.

Some of the outstanding differences in law yesterday and today were also demonstrated by the speaker. The matter of contracts is much different now from the practice of two generations ago. Everything today is careful and intricate, with a large amount of attention paid to details. The radius of practice has also changed so that the successful lawyer today must be versatile. Since so much depends on knowledge of facts in the winning of a case, the lawyer must be a learned man. He must have a wide knowledge in all the various fields of learning and be able to apply his book learning to the actual practice in winning a case. He must also have confidence in himself and in his ability to make himself believed and understood by others.

Another important necessity is knowing men. Since the lawyer is chiefly concerned with men, he must study all types of men in all places and all conditions. Further than that, he must be an earnest student of human nature and must know exactly what a certain type of man would do in a certain situation. As a means to the understanding of men, Judge Barnes strongly urged the constant study of history. By a study of history and biography the lawyer will be helped to recognize the distinct types of personality.

Another valuable factor in the lawyer is his boyhood experiences. No matter how common or ordinary they may be, the remembrances of his early experiences will come in handy in later years in certain types of cases.

"Be friendly," said the speaker. "Make wide associations and many contracts." He also emphasized the value of tolerance. "Learn to listen to others," he remarked dryly, "for you will some day have to listen for hours at a time." In listening to others every word must be weighed. Just what another's word is worth must be taken into consideration by the lawyer. For the better understanding of this aspect of the profession the speaker said that all of the general courses offered in college would help with a broadening influence and the young man who is thinking of studying law can count no course as wasted time or useless to him in his vocation. The study of psychology is of especial value to the prospective lawyer.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON.

campaign of the type which might be called "a better Colby campaign."

"We have done much with little," he stated. "Let's do as much as we can with what we have." He went on to suggest some of the methods by which this could be brought about. He suggested the formation of a group consisting of three juniors and seniors working with three faculty members on the solution of problems which would be sent in by the students from time to time.

Discussion through the Gladiator column of the ECHO was urged by President Johnson as well as the "crystallizing of the well-known bull sessions," which are quite common wherever a group of students assemble. He spoke of the "Better Yet" campaign which he had seen in use at the University of Chicago and recommended some similar plan for use at Colby.

The President suggested such items as the expense of social affairs at Colby, intra-mural athletics, the place of the class, the enormous problem of college unity, and several other vital topics which might serve as foci for student thought.

Colby Seniors Attend School Conference

Robert P. Brown, '30, of Fairfield, and Theodore Nelson, '30, of Newport, R. I., were Colby's representatives at the Preparatory School Conference of the State of Maine held in the M. C. A. building at the University of Maine on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday of last week. The conference was sponsored by the New England Y. M. C. A. and by the student leaders from Maine, Colby, Bowdoin and Bates.

The purpose of the conference was two-fold: to present to boys who are to remain in school another year methods by which they can improve their programs of religious work, and to prepare those who are to enter college this fall for an easier, more understanding transition from school to college than they otherwise would have. The student leaders from the Maine colleges acted as "undergraduate hosts."

Prominent among the speakers on the program were Professor Howard LeSourd, of Boston University; Professor Wilfred H. Crook, of Bowdoin College; Mr. Buol Trowbridge of Phillips Andover Academy, an Oxford graduate and an authority on problems of an international interest; Rev. Harold C. Motzner, of Waterville; and Mr. Arthur A. Heald, of the Maine State Committee of the Y. M. C. A.
