

GILKEY WILL GIVE
109TH BACCALAUREATENoted Student Preacher Will Address Graduating Class

Rev. Charles W. Gilkey of Chicago regarded as perhaps the foremost student preacher in the country today, will preach the Baccalaureate sermon at the 109th Commencement of Colby College on Sunday, June 15.

Dr. Gilkey was pastor of the Hyde Park Baptist Church of Chicago for eighteen years, resigning in 1928 to accept the newly created position of Dean of Religion in the University of Chicago. It is said that he is extremely popular with the students there and draws greater crowds than any other preacher at the University chapel. He also serves as Professor of Preaching in the Divinity School of the University of Chicago, the Dean of which is Dr. Shailer Mathews, a graduate of Colby in the class of 1884. Dr. Gilkey is in great demand by American colleges, and has served as university preacher at Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Stanford, and many others.

He is no stranger to the State of Maine, having spent a number of summers here as the guest of Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick at Kennebunkport. Dr. Gilkey also has often mentioned in public his pride in the fact that several of his forebears were seafaring men who lived on the Maine coast.

Graduating from Harvard in the class of 1903, Dr. Gilkey studied theology at Union Theological Seminary and later in Germany, Scotland and England. He is the author of numerous periodical articles and several books, among which are "Jesus and our Generation," "New Frontiers of Faith," and "Present-Day Dilemmas in Religion." The honorary degree of D. D. has been given him by Williams, Hillsdale and Yale. He is a member of the Delta Upsilon fraternity and the Phi Beta Kappa society.

Dance Regulations
For Coming Year

On Monday, March 17, 1930, at a meeting of the Committee of Eleven on Fraternity Social Affairs (the committee consisting of the eight fraternity advisors and the faculty committee on Social Affairs) the following vote was unanimously passed, and the regulations stated become from this date effective:

Beginning in 1930-31, the formal fraternity dances shall be held on four assigned evenings, two dances on each evening, the dates to be fixed by the faculty committee on social affairs and the several fraternities assigned to those dates by the Student Council. Each year permission to hold the formal dance out of town, at places approved by the Committee on Social Affairs, will be granted to not more than a total of four fraternities and to not more than one fraternity on each of the assigned evenings. The fraternities who do not hold their dance out of town in 1930-31 will be given preference in choosing whether they will hold an out-of-town dance in 1931-32.

This year, 1929-30, a fraternity wishing to hold its formal dance out of town may do so, provided the place of the dance is approved by the Committee on Social Affairs and the fraternity holds no so-called chaser dance on the following night.

There will be a meeting of Kappa Phi Kappa, Thursday evening, April 10, at the Kappa Delta Rho house at 7.30.

Education And Culture

Professor C. F. Tucker Brooke, of this semester. Norman D. Palmer was graduated from Good Will High at Hinckley. He was eligible for membership in the society at this time but was unable to attend the exercises because he was at the time in Wichita, Kansas, representing Colby at the Pi Kappa Delta conference with the debating team. He has been one of the most outstanding students in both extra-curricular and scholarship activity. He is this year's president of the debating society and is one of the honor students who was selected to do independent work this year.

The main address of the evening was given by Professor Brooke of (Continued on page 4)

Phi Deltas Hold
Annual Initiation

The Colby chapter of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity hold their annual banquet Wednesday evening, March 19, at the Elmwood Hotel. Seven men of the freshman class were welcomed into the fraternity and a program of speeches and music by the "Phi Delt" orchestra was enjoyed.

Dr. John G. Towne, '05, of Waterville, served as toastmaster of the occasion. In the post-prandials the speech of welcome to the neophytes was given by Norman Perkins, '32, of Kennebunk, while the response on behalf of the freshmen was given by James Edward Poulin, Jr., of Waterville. Following this a number of new members and alumni were called upon for impromptu speeches.

The list of newly initiated members is as follows: William Malcolm Wilson, '32, of Framingham, Mass.; David Steward Orr, '32, of Philadelphia, Pa.; William Miller Torrey, '32, of White Plains, N. Y.; John Franklin Hill, Jr., of Long Cove; John Peterson Shorlton, '32, of Waterville; Walter Larkin Dignam, '32, of Waterville; and James Edward Poulin, Jr., '32, of Waterville.

PROFESSOR WEBER
ON "THE SOWER"Shows How Story Can Be Applied in Life of College Student

Professor Carl J. Weber, Roberts Professor of English Literature, was the speaker Monday morning at the men's assembly and addressed the student body with his usual scholarly attack.

He first referred to an address made by President Johnson some time ago when he stated that today was the day of the small college and that the small college had many distinct advantages over the large college or university. While Professor Weber conceded that the small college was undoubtedly superior in many ways, that there was one outstanding way in which the small college was quite liable to be inferior to the university. In a university the student could hear the same subject discussed by two or more professors in a department while in a small college, a single professor usually took entire charge of a certain field of study and a student's thoughts were apt to be influenced a great deal in the single channel of the opinions of the professor who taught that subject. "There is an educational value in disagreement," declared the speaker.

For the purpose of demonstrating this idea Professor Weber related in detail several versions of the old Bible story concerning "the sower who went out to sow." He first told the original story in the version of the Bible that was translated in Shakespeare's day and then he read the version of the late American translators who brought the language to a modern arrangement. He then read a translation by Professor Goodspeed at the University of Chicago and the notes by him which set forth his version of the story.

The main part of the professor's talk was devoted to an anonymous version of the old Bible tale which applied rather directly to the life of a college student at this time of the year. This version was written in a literal rather than a figurative style. At this time of the year students who have made good resolutions at the beginning of the year or in January, are apt to forget their good intentions when the warm days of spring come with open roads and numerous ways of escaping the books.

Then there is the second class who resolve to do their work conscientiously and do so to a certain degree but are led from the right path and are distracted by the pursuits which are so many in the extra-curricular program of the college.

Lastly there is the student, or class of students, who remain steadfast throughout the year and are comparable to "the seeds which fall in good soil and bear forth good fruit." So it is with the student who keeps to the original purpose. The work which he does in spite will bear good fruit in future years and he will be repaid "a hundredfold" for his ambition and perseverance.

Wesleyan Appears
On Football Slate

The Colby football team will play Wesleyan instead of New Hampshire University at the opening game next fall, according to the 1930 football schedule given out by Professor C. Harry Edwards, director of athletics, last week. Springfield replaces Norwich for the second game, while Tufts is the only out of state college reported from last year's list. Three games will be played at home and four away. The schedule is as follows:

Sept. 27. Wesleyan University at Middletown.
Oct. 4. Springfield College at Waterville.
Oct. 14. Tufts College at Medford.
Oct. 18. Lowell Textile Institute at Waterville.
Oct. 25. Bowdoin College at Waterville.
Nov. 1. University of Maine at Orono.
Nov. 11. Bates at Lewiston. (Armistice Day game).

WOMEN'S CHAPEL.

Thursday, April 10. President Johnson will speak.
Saturday, April 12. Mrs. Mansor will lead the singing.
Tuesday, April 16. Mrs. Hass will be the speaker.

DEBATING TEAM IS ROYALLY WELCOMED
BY CHEERING STUDENT BODY ON RETURNSuccessful Team Completes Cross-Country
Trip And Has Great Success

Greeted by a cheering student body, the Colby debating team consisting of Harold F. Lemoine, '32, of Kennebunk; F. Donald Poulin, '31, of Fairfield; and Norman D. Palmer, '30, of Hinckley, arrived in Waterville last night at 9.10 after a twelve day trip, embracing over 4000 miles of travel. A tremendous welcome was given the debaters as the train pulled into the station with a large percentage of the student body on hand to meet their cross-country representatives who spread the name of Colby throughout the middle West in the best piece of advertising that the college has promoted in several years. The Student Council sponsored the rally, having the band present and providing the student body with red flares. John H. Lee, '30, of Portland, president of the Student Council was in charge of affairs and gave a short address of welcome, representing the sentiments of the entire student body.

The debaters were cheered constantly as a snake line led around the campus. Finally the crowd went into the chapel where impromptu speeches were made by the members of the team. Lemoine was especially cheered because of his outstanding accomplishments of being elected secretary-treasurer of the Great Lake Province of Pi Kappa Delta, honorary forensic society, under whose auspices the convention was held. Another honor conferred on Lemoine was his being elected associate-editor of the special conference publication.

Between the three men, the story of the trip was garnered in detail. Starting from Waterville on March 28 the three men travelled directly to Wichita, Kansas, where they participated in the National Debating Tournament, held under the auspices of Pi Kappa Delta. Norman D. Palmer represented Colby in the oratorical contest and Harold F. Lemoine entered the extempore speaking contest. In this contest Lemoine drew his subject only 60 minutes before the contest opened, and thus had a very limited amount of time in which to prepare his speech on the subject of College Athletics. Mr. Lemoine placed well in this contest and Mr. Palmer well up in his contest.

The delegates from other colleges were met at the convention and some time was given over to fraternizing with the debaters from other colleges and universities from various sections of the country. The men reported last night that they had formed many friendships with men from other institutions who were interested in forensic activities. 572 delegates, representing 125 colleges and 28 states were in attendance. Colby's representatives traveled much farther than any other team in the Eastern states. Some of the time was spent at the Broadway Hotel where the delegates were entertained during their stay in Wichita. Through special arrangement with the manager of the hotel, all of the delegates were housed under one roof.

The first debate was with Georgetown College of Ohio which was won by the Colby team speaking on the affirmative side of the question "Resolved, That the Nations should adopt a plan of Complete Disarmament, excepting those forces that are needed for police purposes." This question was the question used in all of the debates although the Colby team was forced to debate on both sides of the issue at various times. Ollivet and Dubuque colleges were also eliminated by the Colby team in the National tournament. The teams representing Monmouth and Augustana colleges were successful in defeating the Colby team. These teams, however, both reached the semi-final round, showing that the teams defeating Colby were by no means second-rate.

The convention closed with a big banquet on the evening of April 4. On the following night the Colby team met the strong team from the University of St. Louis, a college of about 4000 students with a teaching staff of 550. The debate was held at one of the colleges of the University about 18 miles from the campus of St. Louis University. The Colby team lost this debate by a two to one decision of the judges although a vote of the gathering showed an almost even decision. The team was entertained on the following day by Dr. Rhoemer, president of St. Louis University, and his wife and had the privilege of eating their Saturday dinner with them at their home.

One of the features of the trip was a visit made to the Elijah Parish Lovejoy monument Saturday morning at Alton, Ill.

In commenting upon this visit Palmer said that the Colby team was a proud spectator of the great monument which is one of the most spectacular of its kind. Elijah Parish Lovejoy is perhaps one of the most distinguished graduates of Colby and is known all over the world as the "martyr of the press." He is to journalism what Lincoln is to slavery. The team left Sunday for New York where they arrived Monday afternoon. There they were scheduled to debate the City College of New York, whose enrollment numbers about 17,000 students. This debate (Continued on page 4)

"ALUMNUS" TO APPEAR
EARLY THIS MONTH

Dr. Herbert C. Libby announces that the third quarter of the Colby Alumnus is expected from the press early this month.

This issue will contain among other interesting articles the following special articles: "If I were To Go Through Colby Again," by Marian E. I. Hague, '13, Elizabeth J. Dyer, '22, Louise L. Steele, '23, Harriet M. Pearce, '22, Mattie Windall Allen, '13, Ida J. Smith, Agnes J. Brouder, '26, Merle Davis Hamilton, '22, Elizabeth McCausland, '19, Miriam Hardy, '22, Ella L. Vinal, '28, Hilda M. Fife, '26; "Some Early Books in the Colby Library," by Robert Bingham Downs, M. S., librarian; "The Cross-Country Debating Trip," by Norman Dunbar Palmer, '30; "Disarmament—Pro and Con," by Norman D. Palmer, '30, F. Donald Poulin, '31, Harold F. Lemoine, '32, Rupert L. Loring, '31, Arthur T. Wasserman, '33, and George F. Sprague, '31; "Some Roberts Letters," by Herbert Carlyle Libby, Litt. D., ex-'02; "Concerning the Author of 'America,'" by the editor; "The Next Commencement," by Dean Ernest Cummings Marriner, '13; "Moving the College," by the Editor; "Memories of the College," by Thomas Benton Briggs, '74; "College Salaries," by the Editor; "Colby in 1874," by the Editor; "Hampton's Fourth Principal," by Isaac Fisher; "With Mr. Taft on His Maine Speaking Tour," by the Editor; "Among the Graduates," by the Editor; "Meeting of Graduating Organizations," by the Secretaries.

Editorials will appear under the following captions: "Success Value of the Alumnus," "Commencement," "Graduate Gatherings," "If—Again," "Publicity Director," "The Study of Latin," "Memorials," "Required Courses," "Moving Day," "More Study," "Salaries," "True to Ideals," "Large Trees," and "Demands."

A meeting of the Y. M. C. A. cabinet will be held tomorrow evening at 7.00 P. M. in the Y room at which time a slate of officers will be selected for presentation to the student body for ballot. It is important for this reason that all members of the cabinet are present.

WICHITA AND BACK.

Red flares and snake dances again! Undoubtedly the biggest event at Colby of the past three or four weeks! The debating team is back. They returned neither on the exultant wings of victory nor in the gloomy despair of defeat. Out of seven contests, they won three, lost three, and tied one. The competition was strenuous and the record is creditable.

When Lee, captain of football and president of the Senior Class, announced in chapel Monday the reception to be given the returning debaters, he made the statement that this debating team had probably accomplished a bigger advertising feat for the college than had football or any other sport.

It is remarkable that Colby, considering her size, was able to send her representatives as great a distance as any college represented at the Pi Kappa Delta Tournament. The seven debates incurred on the trip have given the team and the college publicity of a nation-wide character. And, as Charles S. Brown, the director of the Colby Development Fund, will agree, that is the kind of publicity that Colby needs.

MISS HALE SPEAKS ON "MENTAL HYGIENE"

Emphasizes Importance of New World Demands On Education

That mental hygiene is one of the important new professions open to college men and women, was the statement of Miss Florence H. Hale, of Augusta, in charge of the rural work for the Maine Department of Education, and editor of "The Grade Teacher," before the members of Delta Sigma Chi and Kappa Phi Kappa, honorary education societies at Colby College in the auditorium of the Alumnae Building, Tuesday evening, March 17.

Speaking upon the subject, "Education for a New World," Miss Hale emphasized the importance and richness of the new world demands upon education. For one thing, there will be greater opportunities in business and the professions for women, but also a swinging back of the pendulum towards greater respect for home-making as a profession. Health education is also coming into prominence. More attention is being given to the cultural subjects, music, art and fine literature, and this is being tremendously aided by the radio, which brings the artist of the world to the remotest schoolhouse.

"A consulting psychologist in every school system, similar to the school nurse and doctor, is one of the needs of modern education," she said, "This profession of mental hygiene would include the diagnosis of behavior problems for the purpose of getting at the underlying causes, and curative treatments instead of the old crude methods of expulsion or punishment. Here is a new profession opening up to college men and women who are especially fitted, the chance to study the misfit pupil and his relation to society."

THE FOREIGN STUDENT MISS WIGGINS' SUBJECT

Leads Y. W. And International Club on Differences In Students

The visit of Miss Anne Wiggin, secretary of the International Committee for Foreign Students of the Y. W. C. A., was an event for the Y. W. C. A., for the International Club, and for the student body. She gave an idea of the similarities between students of all countries, of the great needs of foreign students, and of the wonderful work being done to relieve them.

At women's chapel Tuesday morning, April 8, Miss Wiggin briefly traced the development of the World Student Christian Federation from 1920, when many of the universities in foreign countries were being closed for lack of funds, and students were dying of starvation. Student relief was given and the students were helped to be self-supporting. Besides saving the lives of 100,000 students the organization, composed of students all over the world, caused a change in point of view, and, most important of all, broke down barriers between nations.

Tuesday evening at the Y. W. C. A. meeting Miss Wiggins' subject was "Foreign Students in America." She told of the first Friendly Relations Committee, organized to protect foreign students, and later changed to the International Student Committee, and related some of her experiences with foreign students, one of whom was a niece of Dr. Tagore, the great poet of India. The speaker described the sentiments of certain Mexican and German students concerning America, and how their feeling of bitterness toward the country had gradually been changed by the kindness of the Y. W. C. A. Miss Wiggin said that if the students of all the countries could only come to understand each other the "soul of the world would have a chance to breathe."

"The Students in Foreign Countries as American Students Find Them," was the topic of Miss Wiggin's talk at the open meeting of the International Club directly after the Y. W. C. A. meeting. At this time she mentioned the speech of a Hungarian girl who, like most other Europeans, after the war lost faith in America because of her refusal to join the League of Nations. There were many Hungarian refugees, however, who finally received help from an American student committee. Though this material aid was great, the fact that the students of an enemy nation were helping was greater. Miss Wiggin told of the student conferences and student pilgrimages and the understanding which they are bringing about. She emphasized again the breaking down of barriers between nations and said that "though the need for economic relief will pass, the need for understanding will always exist." Hence there will always be a need for student international conferences.

Student's League Officers Announced

At the recent election of the Student's League the following officers were elected:

President of the Student's League, Agnes Ginn, '31.
Vice President of the Student's League, Eleanor Rogers, '32.
Secretary of the Student's League, Marjorie Van Horn, '32.
Treasurer of the Student's League, Althea Wheeler, '31.
President of the Health League, Pauline Gay, '31.
Vice President of the Health League, Phyllis Hamlin, '32.
Secretary-Treasurer of the Health League, Maxine Foster, '31.
Editor of the Colbiana, Mary Allen, '31.

Assistant Editor of the Colbiana, Hildred Nelson, '32.
Second Assistant Business Manager of the Colbiana, Barbara Johnson, '33.

Editor of the Echo, Marjorie Dearborn, '31.
Head of the Musical Club, Stephanie Bean, '31.
Business Manager of the Musical Club, Viola Rowe, '32.
Chairman of Reading Room Association, Ada Cram, '31.

Miss Ginn, the new president is one of the outstanding Colby women. She is a member of the executive board, president of Tri Delta sorority and takes an active part in Y. W. C. A. work. The women of Colby have the utmost confidence in Miss Ginn's ability, and are looking forward to a successful year under her leadership.

Miss Rogers is a member of the Y. W. C. A. and of Sigma Kappa sorority. She is prominent in social affairs about college and has done much toward the promotion and success of the Colby concert series.

Miss Van Horn has marked athletic abilities and only recently represented Colby at the winter carnival at Bates college. She is president of the sophomore class, vice president of the Y. W. C. A., and a member of Tri Delta sorority.

Miss Wheeler is on the Panhellenic council, is a member of the Y. W. C. A. and the Phi Mu sorority.

Miss Gay has been prominent in athletics since her arrival at Colby. She was one of those recently chosen for the fencing team. She is a member of Alpha Sigma Delta sorority.

Miss Hamlin was freshman health leader and took part in the Glee Club concert of this year. She is a member of Chi Omega sorority.

Miss Foster is also prominent in athletics, and has played on the varsity teams. She is a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

Miss Allen has been on the Colbiana board since her sophomore year. She has a true literary flair and will maintain the traditions of the Colbiana. She is a member of Chi Omega sorority.

Miss Nelson received the woman's freshman scholarship prize. She is a member of the Echo board, and the Chi Omega sorority.

Miss Johnson is the only freshman to be elected to any of the Student League offices for this year. She is a member of Chi Omega sorority.

A. T. O. ANNEXES BASKETBALL TITLE

Strong Play of Hersey Turns Tables—Slosek and Klusick Star For Losers

Thursday evening, March 20, on the Alumnae Building court the A. T. O. basketball team eked out a victory over the D. U. hoopers which gave them the interfraternity league championship.

It was a hard-fought contest and proved extremely interesting as a battle of wits, although lacking any spectacular individual play. The game from the sounding of the starting whistle was strictly defensive and half time came with the A. T. O.'s out in front by a score of 13 to 9. The second half opened with a flurry of point-scoring, and as the quarter ended the D. U. team had closed the gap in the score. The third quarter showed the A. T. O. outfit up to advantage. The scoring of three successive baskets broke the spirit of the D. U. team. Their eagerness resulted in Andy Klusick's being sent out on fouls. This loss was the final blow and the game ended with the A. T. O. team on the long end of a 33 to 27 score.

The play of "Cracker" Thornton was a disappointment. Coupled with the loss of the clever Johnny Wisnoski, who was out with injuries, Thornton's "off-form" was instrumental in bringing defeat to D. U.

Although it was felt that the A. T. O. team would be handicapped by the loss of their stellar center, "Snub" Pollard, it was the lot of the freshman star, Stan Hersey, to lead his fellow-charges on to victory and the championship.

DRUID CUP MEET DATE ANNOUNCED BY COACH

The annual Interfraternity Championship Track and Field Meet for the Druids Cup will be contested on Seaverns Field, Saturday afternoon, May 3, at 2 o'clock sharp. The students of the college should turn out in full force as a token of appreciation for the fine spirit that has been shown by the members of the track squad. These men have trained faithfully all winter, undergoing the worst type of conditions. They have been hampered by lack of proper indoor training facilities and the most disagreeable of outdoor conditions. When compared with the conditions in the other Maine colleges we cannot expect a great deal from them, but we can lend them our sincere support by turning out for this first outdoor meet.

The following events will be contested: 100 yard dash; 220 yard dash; 440 yard run; 880 yard run; one mile run; two mile run; 120 yard high hurdles; 220 yard low hurdles; putting 16 pound shot; throwing 16 pound hammer; throwing the discus; throwing the javelin; running broad jump; running high jump and pole vault.

This meet will serve as a final try-out to select the team which will represent the college in the dual meet with Middlebury at Middlebury, Vermont on May 9th.

Every fraternity should be represented by a full team. Training workouts will be held daily from now until the day of the meet regardless of weather conditions. No one will be allowed to compete who has not been in regular training under the supervision of the track coach from April 10th to the date of the meet.

Entries will close on Wednesday, April 30th. The captain of each fraternity team will hand the entries of his fraternity to the coach not later than this date.

Twenty-One Seniors Attend Conference

Twenty-one members of the senior class attended the annual Recruiting Conference program held Friday and Saturday at the University Club in Boston. The program was under the auspices of the Department of Education and Vocation of the University Club at whose head is Mr. Stanley C. Lary. Interesting and instructive lectures on various phases of business from men well up in the fields which they represented were presented. The students were thus given a cross-section of the fields of many of the large industrial concerns of the country and to them was outlined the opportunities of getting ahead in the various businesses represented. After the lectures a series of personal conferences were held where the representatives of the concerns met with those college seniors who were interested in following up investigation as to the opportunities.

The Colby delegates were among the 400 seniors from the various New England colleges who were well entertained at the University Club during the two days. Among the delegates present from Colby were the following:

Harry C. Ashmore of Ellsworth, Wendall A. Tufts of Westboro, Mass., Karl R. Hines of Berkshire, Mass., Alton R. Turner of Methuen, Mass., John H. Lee of Portland, Frank R. Cableigh of Newton Highlands, Mass., Donald A. Allison of West Medway, Mass., Henry E. Draper of Canton, Mass., Harold B. Grant of Waterville, Charles M. Giles of Damariscotta, Ernest J. Theberge of Lawrence, Mass., Bernard F. Shaw of Waterville, Ralph H. Goddard of Portland, Robert L. Harlow of Dover-Foxcroft, Ralph B. Hurlburt of Danvers, Mass., Gilbert H. Henry of Newbury, Mass., Theodore W. Nelson of Newport, R. I., Harland L. Keay of Winter Harbor, Richard McConnell of Newport, R. I., Edgar B. McKay of Waterville, and Wendell H. Thornton of Rockland.

Mr. Eaton Host To Chi Epsilon Mu

A meeting of Chi Epsilon Mu, the chemistry honorary society was held on the Friday before Spring recess at the home of Mr. E. Perley Eaton, instructor in chemistry. Mr. Eaton read a paper "On Lavoisier and Priestly. Their Methods and Philosophies."

After the reading of the paper, Dr. Parminter and Mr. Eaton led an informal discussion on these two pioneer chemists, comparing their different methods of scientific approach and research.

Mrs. Eaton very kindly furnished refreshments. An unexpected, but delightful feature of the evening's program was the introduction of Eaton, Junior, to the members of the society.

There will be a meeting of the society in Chemical hall this Friday afternoon at 4:30 at which another program interesting to all the members is scheduled.

Student Government Officers Installed

The installation of the incoming Student Government officers was held Monday night in the Alumnae Building. President Margaret Hale, '30, opening the meeting. A motion was made that the name of the director of the musical clubs be added to the list of officers in the Handbook. The records of the year 1929-30 were read by Jennie Dunn, '31, retiring secretary, and this was followed by the reading of the treasurer's report by Margaret Mooers, '30, retiring treasurer.

The retiring president, Margaret Hale, then gave a short summary of the accomplishments of the board of 1929-30, mentioning among other things the Student Government Conference held here last spring, the stay of Miss Florence Jackson, the change in the Reading Room Association, and the Handbook revision. She then made a plea to the student body for cooperation during the coming year that the board might rise above the petty duties which they often have to perform to be able to attend to the more important matters.

After her talk the following officers were installed:

Vice president, Eleanor Rogers, '32, secretary, Margery Van Horn, '32; treasurer, Althea Wheeler, '31; president, Agnes Ginn, '31. The meeting was then turned over to the new president who presented a bouquet of roses to the retiring president in behalf of the student body. In the short speech which she gave, she stressed cooperation. "Cooperation is the keynote of the Student Government Association. We are your representatives and in turn we ask that you cooperate with us," she said in closing.

STUDENT COUNCIL REPORT

At the weekly Student Council meeting held in the "Y" room of Hildman Hall on Tuesday evening, the following business was transacted:

A new plan for freshman-sophomore relations, submitted by the freshman committee was tabled until next week.

There will be a Student Council dance Saturday night, April 19th, all varsity men to be admitted free. Music will be by a ten piece band composed of college men.

A report was given by the delegates who attended the convention of the Green Key Society, which was held at Dartmouth College, March 14, 15 and 16.

PROFESSOR BROOKE.

Yale who took for his subject "Libraries and Scholars," and spoke in particular on the Henry E. Huntington Library and Art Galleries in California. Professor Brooke spent several months there last year and had an opportunity to study the large and valuable institution very carefully. Mr. Huntington is a wealthy collector and owns the large private institution which occupies two great houses, one for books, and the other for pictures. The library contains many valuable books and many original manuscripts of famous authors. Among this collection is the Stowe collection of manuscripts as well as many others, some of which date back to the time of the Norman Conquest.

One of the tasks of the Huntington Library is to bring out authoritative editions of the manuscripts that have been gathered.

A part of Professor Brooke's address which seems to sum up his speech in general is quoted:

"When one meets a great library face to face, lives there for awhile to look up the history and associations of the books which are there, one comes to get a realization of the place that libraries, as a whole, have filled in the education and culture of our people, and of the tasks that have been performed, and the accidents that have occurred, in order to carry on the continuance of our literary cultivation. There are in the Huntington Library, or in any of the great collections in the possession of persons of great wealth, books whose existence is owing to certain individuals whose names and careers will, come up to meet you whenever you deal with English scholars. They are the people who saved our literary civilization for us after the English Reformation. If you think of the libraries and the learning in England before the Reformation—before 1500, let us say—anyone who knows that period knows that literary civilization was a matter of monasteries. These monasteries were scattered everywhere around the island. They have only one thing in common; that they are all practically extinct; they are all ruined; nothing remains except a few relics of the old cen-

Professor Brooke went on to describe the various monasteries in particular and showed how the idea of the library sprang from the fostering environment of the monasteries, whose chief function was to preserve literature and art. He then showed the early development of the library and of the museum. These institutions were the works of generations, the work of individuals in one generation after another.

The speaker went on to name some of the men who had been prominent in the work of collecting and preserving manuscripts and original editions of books. He mentioned Edward Capell as perhaps the most distinguished collector of Shakespearean material. Among the others listed were the names of Isaac Reed, George Stevens, and Edmund Malone.

In closing his address the speaker made an appeal to the newly initiated Phi Beta Kappa men and women. He said that it was possible for every one to do valuable service in collecting material which would be priceless in ages to come. He said that the Phi Beta Kappa graduates should be aware of their opportunities and when their chances came to add material to their collections they should seize them. He gave an illustration of a man in New Jersey who had no money to start his work collecting books. He sold his life insurance policy and got his start and now he has one of the finest collections of German literature in this country.

WELCOME DEBATING TEAM.

was judged by two judges who could not come to an agreement and for this reason the debate was declared a no-decision debate.

Immediately at the close of the debate the team left for Waterville having secured reservations on the 12.45 train out of New York. And as Don Poulin, the final speaker at the reception last evening, remarked, when there was very little left him to say since the other speakers had covered the entire story of the trip, "We had a very enjoyable trip from New York to Waterville and the Pullman porters gave us the best of service."

Y. W. Elects Roster For Coming Year

In the election of Y. W. C. A. officers for the coming year, the following women were chosen: President, Muriel MacDougall, '31; vice-president, Marjorie Van Horn, '32; treasurer, Hope Pullen, '31; secretary, Margaret Choate, '33. The choice of Miss MacDougall for president was especially fortunate as she is one of the outstanding women of the junior class, having been president of her class her freshman year, and prominent in all campus activities, particularly athletics. Miss Van Horn is a class representative in Student Government and is now president of her class. Miss Pullen has been closely connected with the financial side of Y. W. for the past year, so she is particularly suited to fill her position. The office of secretary will be ably filled by Miss Choate who is one of the most promising members of the freshman class, and a graduate of Oak Grove Seminary.

The chairman of the various committees have also been appointed as follows: Program, Ruth Pineo, '31; social, Estelle Taylor, '32; music, Gwendolyn Marden, '32; publicity, Norma Fuller, '33; entertainment, Eunice Poye, '31; service, Tina Thompson, '32; employment, Barbara Henth, '31; world fellowship, Barbara Hamlin, '31.

ACTIONS SPEAK LOUDER than words; what you want to know about a cigarette is how it tastes.
