April 2017

Table of Contents
26 Colby is leading a historic remake of Waterville’s downtown. By Gerry Boyle ’78

38 A team of California alumni wants crickets on the menu. By Susan Abram

24 Oak Fellow Khalid Albaih marvels at Colby’s freedoms

44 Henry Ackerman ’17 follows a path driven by curiosity

46 In Helena, Ark., Joseph Whitfield ’15 teaches by example

48 Celeste Murtha ’17 advocates for babies’ health

50 Charles Ferguson and Gary Green are making books

52 Robyn Glaser ’89 deals for the New England Patriots

54 Historian Alan Taylor ’77 revisits the American Revolution

56 Lyn Mikel Brown believes in the power of girls

58 Frank Fekete can cure science phobia

61 Collaboration in the field
Retired judge John Leopold credits Colby for enhancing his social and intellectual skills in extraordinary ways. With that in mind, he and his wife, Terry Ann, have named Colby as a significant beneficiary in their estate planning.

“I’ve had a phenomenally successful career in the law,” he says. “And I owe a lot of it to Colby. There’s no doubt in my mind.”

You, too, can make a significant difference at Colby.

For sample language you can use in your will, contact Colby’s Office of Gift Planning at 1-800-809-0103 or visit giftplanning.colby.edu
Exclusively Online

The work of Projects for Peace grant winner Benard Kibet ’18 is portrayed in Maji, a film by Milton Guillén ’15

Oak Fellow Khalid Albaih on the Center for the Arts and Humanities theme Revolutions