WEDNESDAY, DEC. 17, 1930.

Today the entire student body of Colby is preparing to leave for various sections of New England. In a few hours, each student will be traveling rapidly towards his own home with a vacation and a rest from college labors facing him for the next three weeks. For a certain large group, the class of 1934, this will be the first vacation from Colby. In three brief months certain lessons have been learned, a certain indefinite amount of assimilation has taken place and the freshman is going back to his large city or small town with something of the Colby man in him, unconscious though the student may be of this fact.

But the freshman must remember that his townspeople will be waiting in a rather expectant mood, waiting to see just what Colby has done for their "home town boy." They expect naturally to see changes whether for the better or the worse. To a large degree this is a problem to be solved by the individual. The lessons learned from three months here should be valuable ones and the Colby atmosphere should not be completely forgotten while at home. Remember that to each and every inhabitant of the home town, you are now a Colby man and Colby will be judged by your actions while at home. The college places a large amount of responsibility on each undergraduate when he is away from the campus. So when you are home for vacation remember at all times that Colby expects you to conduct yourselves as Colby men.

THE MOOCHER.

You know the type. You see them and talk with them every day. Some act just as ordinary as usual, while others are all sugar and sweetness as they await their chance to beg for lecture notes, reading notes, or already-written experiments.

The moocher is an artist in concocting excuses for failure of preparation. As a rule, he has had so much more work to do than anyone else that it really is not his fault that he must mooch his notes or experiments. He just has not had time to get them all.

You have seen the student who has been given at least two weeks for a certain amount of outside reading, yet the night before an examination he has not been inside of the library. In panic he runs to his more conscientious fraternity brother and pleads with tears in his eyes for a chance to see the other's notes. To climax the incident, the moocher goes to class the next day with Lady Luck, takes the quiz, and makes a better score than his aide.—The Daily Tax Hoel.

TWO COLBY WOMEN.

whole world to become stereotyped with the same language, picture shows, and so on? God save us from it! National differences exist and you cannot wipe them out. The negative will tell us that you can preserve variety and still have a federated world state. If these differences exist they will manifest themselves in a political outlook that will demand national government."

In considering the fact of nationhood Mr. MacCormick said: "In a federated world Chinese, Russians, Indians, and Africans would have equal rights with us. Do my opponents want to see America changed to the ideas of the savage from Africa or the bandit from China? All they really want is that nations give up a certain amount of sovereignty. This is based on the principles of nationalism. They will suggest that it is necessary to create a world federation with power to enforce the decrees of the World Court on all peoples. Enforced neutrality is illogical and impracticable. To have world peace you have got away from the idea of war. Nationalism is bound to be the world's greatest safeguard against war."

Continuing in a refutation of the argument of the negative side that the principles of nationalism caused the World War, Mr. MacCormick stated that disregarding the principles of nationalism had caused the war. He argued that if Austria had accepted the principle that every nation has the right to govern themselves, she would not have interfered with Serbia. From his point of view, acceptance of the principles is the only way war can be outlawed.

Another of Mr. MacCormick's points was in his contrast between America and Scotland, showing how the former had become the greatest nation in the world because of her nationalism whereas the latter was a subject people because of the imperialism of the British Commonwealth.

Mr. Wilson, as second speaker on the negative side, presented a striking appearance in his native Scottish costume. After spending some time amusing his audience with his wit and humor, he went on with refutation of many of his opponent's arguments. "Nationalism is nation consciousness," he said continuing, in part, as follows: "Nationalism recognizes the right of every nation to be self-governing. See the Jews and the Arabs. The affirmative side says that world peace is gained not by force of arms but by principles of nationalism. The negative side contends that peace would be nearer if nationalism did not pile up tariff. No nation will submit its dearest interests to world arbitration, its dearest interests that lead to war. France and Germany are very nationalistic but their whole history is an attempt to crush out each other's nation. Nationalism is instinctive but we are not arguing on that but on the ideal which should guide men and get rid of their prejudices and emotions.

"Nationalism asks for things it cannot have as in the case of France, Germany, Greece, Bulgaria, Rumania, and Hungary. When Rumania was given nationalism, she turned around and oppressed other nations. The years between 1814 and 1914 were crowned by imperialism and were years of most pronounced nationalism. Britain starts a tariff war because her nationalistic interests are being crushed out. What we want is a world point of view with a live international interest instead of dead nationalists. We want system ultimately by tending to the good of all. What we must have is not a decrease of dependence but rather a declaration of interdependence."

Mr. MacCormick followed with a five minute rebuttal. He contended that if France and Germany had lived up to the principles of nationalism, they would never have overstepped the boundaries of another nation and there would have been no war. He denied the statement that Russia was nationalistic. Another point was that it was all right for everyone to talk about being brothers but as long as Chinese laborers accept ten cents a day, will America consent to have her wage level driven down to that of a Chinaman's? In conclusion, Mr. MacCormick said: "Let us think that our country ought to be the best in the world guided by a world spirit. The principle of nationalism can and will be a great force which will make for world unity and which never can and never ought to be world uniformity."

After the debate Dr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Tibby gave a reception at their home in honor of the Scotch visitors. Those present were Dean Ninetta M. Runnals, Dr. William J. Wilkinson, Dean and Mrs. Ernest C. Morrison, Professor M. P. Bridges, Rev. Harold C. Motzner, the members of the debating squad and of the dramatic interpretation class at Colby. Mr. MacCormick and Mr. Wilson spoke informally on the type of debating carried on in their respective universities.

Cummings Leads Discussion On India

"The best discussion we have ever had!" was Professor Wilkinson's comment on the meeting of the International Relations Club held last Tuesday night in the parlor of the Alumnae Building. Richard Cummings, '32, who was born in Burma and whose father is now completing 43 years of work there, gave a talk on the subject, "The Present Crisis in India."

A lively discussion followed the address. Mr. Cummings' talk was sufficiently pro-British to stir up lively anti-British sentiments in the group. The sincerity of native education under the British regime was questioned. The economic advantages of the Empire were discussed. Developments at the London Round Table Conference, became the center of a discussion as to whether the Indians were as much of a unified nation as they wished the British to believe.

"It is very fine to say 'why not let the educated Indians govern,'" said Mr. Cummings, "but when you begin to transpose those ideal conditions of government into political bodies, when you begin to determine how many Hindus, how many Moslems, how many Buddhists shall sit in the legislatures; how you are to discipline a Moslem chief of police to shoot rioting Moslems in communal warfare—then you encounter practical difficulties that cannot be overcome by a statement on paper."

There is to be another meeting on India in February, at which time an Indian will lead the discussion. All those that are interested in International affairs are invited to attend the meetings of the club.

At a meeting of the executive board of the club last Saturday during women's chapel hour, it was decided to petition the Student Council for official recognition as a student organization.

Y. W. and Y. M. Hold Joint Meeting

At a joint meeting of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. cabinets held on Tuesday evening, December 9, many topics of general interest to the whole student body as well as to these two organizations were discussed.

The idea of a foreign project received considerable attention. Whether or not it would be advisable for the men to join the Y. W. project or enter upon one of their own was the main problem. The women will continue in their interest in Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Farnum at Himeji which they are willing to have the Y. M. C. A. join. The men, however, are considering, as their interest, Mr. Vern Dyer who is in Burma and a scholarship for some young man to attend Judson College.

A movie project was discussed as a financial aid to both groups and the following committee appointed to make investigation: Ruth Pineo, '31, Gwendolyn G. Marden, '32, George F. Sprague, '31, and Willard E. Alexander, '31.

Temporary arrangements were made for a committee to supervise the reception and entertainment of Sherwood Eddy and Curtley Mather who will come to address the student body later in the college year. Those on the committee are Dean Ninetta M. Runnals, Professor Herbert L. Newman, Jasper M. Foster, '31, Winifred E. Hammett, '32, and Estelle P. Taylor, '34.

A week-end conference of three possible groups was discussed. The group may consist of men, women, and faculty representatives, or of both Y. M. and Y. W. cabinets, or of a proportionate group of students and faculty which would be arranged by the representatives who are going to the student faculty conference at Detroit, President Franklin W. Johnson, Eleanor H. Rogers, '32, Ruth Pineo, '31, and Richard Cummings, '32.

A list of the meetings which the Y. W. C. A. will sponsor were read and an invitation extended to the men's division to attend any of those they wished.

"Y" Discussion Group Holds Meeting

Last Thursday evening the Y. M. C. A. discussion group held its weekly meeting at the Chinese restaurant. The subject discussed was that of the "double and single standard." No definite conclusion was reached by the group but, nevertheless, some real thinking was done with the result that such questions as: Are we civilized? Does the present speed with which we live our lives tend towards a single standard? What is back of the standard be it double or single?

There was a diversification of opinion upon these questions as may be expected. The time for ending the discussion came too early with the result that the discussion will be continued along these same lines at the next meeting which will be held on Thursday, January 8.

Faculty Approve Baseball Schedule

After some discussion the faculty approved of the baseball schedule for 1931, as arranged by the athletic department. Although the season is four months away, we are beginning to hear the proverbial sessions at the various houses take up the topic of baseball. With few losses by graduation, the team should shape up as a contender for the title now held by the Bricemen from the wilds of northern Maine. The usual stories of world beater freshmen are making the rounds. When Roundy has given them the annual once over, the above mentioned stories will prove to be 99.44-100% hokey, that is, unless this class is better than the hundred or so others that have gone before it. However, there is room for any prep school hero who can make the club, and Eddie Roundy for one will be glad to see him up there. The schedule:

April 20, Maine at Waterville.
April 25, Bowdoin at Waterville.
April 27, New Hampshire at Durham.
April 28, Harvard Seconds at Cambridge.
April 29, Northeastern at Boston.
May 2, Maine at Orono.
May 6, Bates at Waterville.
May 9, Bowdoin at Brunswick.
May 11, Bates at Waterville.
May 15, Bowdoin at Waterville.
May 19, Bates at Lewiston.
May 23, Maine at Waterville.
May 26, Bates at Waterville.
May 28, Bowdoin at Waterville.
May 30, Maine at Orono.

Track Men Train In Field House

Coach Ryan is training his track men daily in the new field house. After the Christmas vacation, the winter campaign will take a more definite form. For the first time Colby is giving her track men a real indoor track upon which to train. In the past, the platform of the railroad station has served as a stamping ground for Colby's winter performers. This year's schedule of meets is as follows:

Jan. 31, Prout Memorial Games, Boston.

Feb. 21, N. E. A. A. U. Weight Championships, Boston.

Feb. 28, N. A. A. U., New York.

March 7, National Inter-Collegiate, New York.

About 15 Out For Frosh Hockey

There are about fifteen or twenty candidates out for the freshman hockey team. Coach Millett expects a good season and is able to see several prospects for varsity competition. Bill Huckle at defense is showing up well. Joe Brogdon seems to have the makings of a first class center and Robitaille looks good at wing. There are no outstanding contenders for the goalie's stick. The schedule will be announced soon after Christmas.

Seven Men Given "Exams"

During Friday afternoon and evening, a committee comprised of Coach Roundy, Coach Millett and C. Harry Edwards (chairman) representing the Central Board of Basketball officials gave examinations to five men seeking membership to the board. They were H. T. Ferguson of Colby, W. C. Terry of Colby, T. E. James of Colby, Paul Davis of Colby, Albert H. Barlow of Oakland, Hartford Talbot of Camden, and Samuel McCall of Augusta. These examinations were given in two parts, one being over the theory, and the other over the practice of officiating.

JOINT "Y" CABINETS.

years has been on the cabinet. She has often represented the college on deputation teams. This year she holds the responsible position of House Chairman at the Mowor House, through which she has excellent opportunity to understand student problems first hand, and to preserve the maximum of student administration good will.

Eleanor H. Rogers, '32, was elected vice president of the Student League last spring. She is also ex-officio chairman of the social committee of the League, and through this position has had considerable experience in solving student social problems. She has taken active part in sorority work, and is now serving on the Colby Concert board.

The work of the conference is to be carried on in two kinds of meetings. At the general sessions, the delegates will be led in an analysis of the basic principles of the problems. Then sectional meetings will follow, in which detailed plans and unique conditions on individual campuses will be discussed.

For the last six months, seven commissions have been conducting a nation-wide investigation of the present problems in American college life, and gathering data on the methods of solving them. The first commission is confined to an investigation of the student problems created by the administrative policy of the college. One of the questions on the inquiry reads, "What are some of the outstanding examples of cooperation between students and administration? Does it involve discipline, curriculum, budget?" The data on all these questions has been analyzed by the committees and will be available for reference in the discussions.

The field of the second commission is "The Education System." Data on the following aspects of the system has been gathered.

1. On the general and special characteristics of the college students and their needs—what they do, think and desire?

2. On the classroom techniques, methods of examination, of grading and of awarding degrees.

3. On experiments being made by colleges and universities with different types of curricular organizations.

4. On the transition in attitudes and loyalties as students proceed through college.

"Social and Organized Life of the Campus"—the extra curricular activities—is the field of commission three. Fraternity problems, class problems; recreational and athletic problems; and cooperations of men and women in organized college life has been analyzed.

Commission four has studied "Morals in a Day of Reality." "How are we to determine the best moral attitude? What is the criterion for evolving moral standards? What contrasting attitudes do we find in student or faculty as they attempt to deal with this problem?" These are some of the questions.

"Social Attitudes and Responsibilities," is the sixth field. It has analyzed data on such questions as, "What methods prove most effective in bringing about social changes within the college?"

Commission five has studied "Student Counseling." It deals with the systems of junior advisers to freshman and faculty advisers to all students.

"The Place of Religion in Higher Education," is the last field. It's data range about such questions as: "What changes in religious thinking and attitudes have taken place upon the campus in the last four years? What news plans have developed recently in the organization of either curricular or extra-curricular religious programs of the college to fit these changes?"

With such a wealth of information available, the return of the Colby delegation launch a series of new plans for a better Colby campus.

Waterville Club Trims Colby Outfit

Monday night at the South End rink, Bill Millett's 1930-31 edition of Colby puck chasers was taken over by the Waterville Hockey Club by a score of three to two.

The game for the first ten minutes was a continual scrap in front of the Colby goal, until Doc Rancourt passed to Al Paganucci who shot a pretty one into the net for the Waterville club. Just a minute later, Noel took the puck near mid-ice and lifted it into the net for the best shot of the evening.

Colby came back in the second period to more than hold its own against the seasoned South Enders. In front of a terrific onslaught, Zeke Cleverly, the bandy legged frosh; broke through the Elmites' defense and sunk the first Colby goal in the Waterville net. But Brooks had just scored for the Waterville aggregation and the score stood 3 to 1. The game was about over when Kid Lovett smashed his way through the Waterville defense and drove the rubber home for the final goal.

ARTICLE V.*Duties of Officers.

Section 1. The editor-in-chief shall have general oversight of managing and publishing the Colby Echo. He shall be responsible for the editorial attitude and policy of the paper, for the performance of duties assigned to the board and for any other duties provided in other sections of this constitution.

Sec. 2. The managing editor shall aid the editor-in-chief in the oversight of the mechanical details of the paper and shall perform the duties of the editor-in-chief in case of the latter's temporary absence or disability.

Sec. 3. The business manager shall have charge of and be responsible for the business management of the Colby Echo. He shall himself keep itemized accounts of all money received and disbursed for the association, and shall submit his accounts to the auditor once each month.

Sec. 4. The women's editor shall be responsible for all news originating in the women's division of the college and shall have complete jurisdiction over the women members of the staff.

Sec. 5. The duties of the associate editors shall be to aid the editor-in-chief in such ways as he may direct, and to exercise such supervision over the details of the publication as the editor-in-chief may desire. It should be clearly understood that the duties of the associate editors are primarily administrative.

Sec. 6. The duties of the assistant editors shall be to provide such material as the editor-in-chief or the associate editors may direct, and to receive all work submitted by the staff of reporters.

Sec. 7. The reporters shall each be responsible to one of the assistant editors and shall prepare such material as he may direct.

Sec. 12. Whenever the officers of the association shall convene for the purpose of holding an election or the transaction of other business, the editor-in-chief shall assume the duties ordinarily ascribed to the president of an organization, the managing editor shall act as vice-president and the business manager shall act as secretary and keep a permanent record of the minutes of each meeting.

ARTICLE VI.*Elections.

Section 1. The annual election of officers for the ensuing year shall be held during the week of May 20. Announcement of the meeting must have been published in the last number of the Echo and by a notice on the bulletin board at least three days previously. A quorum must be present consisting of three-quarters of the men officers in good and regular standing and either faculty adviser.

Sec. 2. The editor-in-chief and the managing editor shall be elected by a written vote of the officers of the association from a slate of nominations composed of the men associate editors (who shall be considered as automatically nominated) plus any other nominations from the floor. The man receiving the greatest number of votes shall be deemed to have been elected editor-in-chief and the man receiving the second greatest number of votes shall be deemed to have been elected managing editor.

If a majority is not obtained on the first ballot, only the two names receiving the greatest number of votes shall be voted upon in the second ballot. In case of tie, the presiding officer shall ask for another ballot, and if the tie remains unbroken, he shall cast the deciding vote.

Sec. 3. The business manager shall be elected from a slate of nominations consisting of the advertising manager, the circulation manager and any other nominations from the floor.

Sec. 4. All officers who are members of the women's division of the college shall be elected separately under the auspices of the Student League of the women's division.

Sec. 5. The four men associate editors shall be elected from a slate of nominations consisting of the six men assistant editors and any other nominations from the floor. The four names receiving the greatest number of votes shall be deemed to have been elected.

Sec. 6. The six men assistant editors shall be elected from a slate of nominations consisting of the twelve reporters plus any other nominations from the floor. The six names receiving the greatest number of votes shall be deemed to have been elected.

Sec. 7. The staff of reporters shall be appointed as follows: A call for candidates shall be published in the first issue of the Echo in the month of November and the editor-in-chief shall make a list of applicants for the position. Soon after the middle of the first semester, there shall be a conference of the editor-in-chief and the faculty adviser, together with those members of the English department who conduct classes in freshman English in the men's division. These conferences shall draw up a list of twelve men of the freshman class under the following conditions:

a. The list shall include at least one man from every fraternity group and at least one unpledged man.

b. The list shall include those who have signified their desire to try out for the position insofar as this is possible without conflicting with provision "a."

c. Rank in freshman English shall be one of the considerations in drawing up this list.

Those candidates shall be responsible to assistant editors for assignments and shall be considered to be on trial for the rest of the semester. During this time, any man who is negligent in his duties or does inferior work in the judgment of the editor-in-chief and faculty adviser shall be supplanted by another freshman, keeping in mind provision "a" stated above. All those on the list at the beginning of the second semester shall be enrolled as regular reporters on the staff.

Sec. 8. The advertising manager and circulation manager shall be elected from a slate of nominations consisting of the three assistant business managers plus any nominations from the floor. The two men receiving the greatest number of votes shall be deemed to be eligible for the positions, but the decision as to which man shall have which position shall be settled mutually between the two men and the newly elected business manager.

Sec. 9. The three assistant business managers shall be elected from a slate of nominations consisting of the six mailing clerks plus any nominations from the floor. The three men receiving the greatest number of votes shall be deemed to have been elected.

Sec. 10. The staff of mailing clerks shall be appointed as follows: A call for candidates shall be posted on the bulletin board on the first day of college and published in the first issue of the Echo. All applicants shall be given an equal chance to do the work under the direction of the circulation manager for four weeks. At the end of this time, the business manager and faculty adviser shall appoint a list of six men from the list of applicants. If more than six men have applied, the list shall be chosen so as to include representatives from as many fraternities as possible. If less than six men have applied, those fraternities who have no representative among the applicants shall be requested to choose candidates.

Sec. 11. The duties of the assistant business managers shall be to aid the editor-in-chief in such ways as he may direct, and to exercise such supervision over the details of publication as the editor-in-chief may desire.

Sec. 12. The duties of the assistant editors shall be to provide such material as the editor-in-chief or the associate editors may direct, and to receive and (where necessary) to correct all work submitted by the staff of reporters.

Sec. 13. The assistant business managers shall aid the business manager in the conduct of the business affairs of the paper, and shall be responsible to him for the weekly distribution of the paper by mailing clerks or otherwise.

Sec. 14. The business manager shall have charge of and be responsible for the business management of the Colby Echo. He shall himself keep systematized accounts of all money received and disbursed for the association, and shall submit his accounts to the Auditor once each semester, two weeks before the end of the semester.
