COLBY COLLEGE PRESENTED WITH DEED TO MAYFLOWER HILL

Mayor Dubord Presents Papers To Herbert E. Wadsworth--Committee Holds Banquet In The Evening

The most significant step taken by Colby college in recent decades was taken Friday afternoon when Mayor F. Harold Dubord, representing the citizens of Waterville as well as the citizens committee presented to Herbert E. Wadsworth, chairman of the board of trustees, deeds conveying 600 acres of land on the Mayflower hill site—the future home of Colby. This presentation was made possible by the generous efforts of the citizens of Waterville who raised over $100,000 to purchase the site in order that Colby may have a more desirable and more advantageous location for its new college.

The City Opera House, where the presentation took place, was well filled in witness of the deep bonds of affection between the city and the college. The Waterville high school band furnished music and newsreels were taken.

Dr. J. Frederick Hill, chairman of the executive committee of the Citizens' committee presided at the exercises. He has played an especially helpful and vigorous role in the successful campaign of the Waterville citizens.

Hon. Burleigh Martin of Augusta, the official representative of Governor William Tudor Gardiner made clear the loyalty of Waterville to Colby. The Colby choir, directed by John W. Thomas offered two fine selections before Dr. Hill introduced Mayor F. Harold Dubord whose excellent address will retain a position of high regard in the history of Colby college. The mayor spoke in part as follows: Mr. Chairman, Members of the Committee of One Hundred, Distinguished Guests, Citizens of Waterville:

Throughout the period in which I have served as Chief Executive of this city, it has been my pleasure and honor to take part in many and varied public assemblies. Most of these assemblies have been of importance and have occupied a prominent place in public interest, even though that interest may have been of a more or less temporary nature. However, it can truthfully be said, that this gathering of citizens today, is undoubtedly of greater import in the life of this community than any assembly of Waterville citizens within the memory of living inhabitants.

When I consider the historical aspect of this assembly, there comes to me a realization of the great honor which fate places in my hands, in the role which I am called upon to play. To detail the events which lead to these exercises would be to repeat what is now well known to everyone in Waterville, to everyone in the State and, yes, to everyone in the Nation who has the benefit of news reports, because what has taken place in Waterville has been such as to obtain and merit nationwide attention. Suffice it to say that less than a year ago, it was brought forcibly to our attention that there was danger of losing Colby College, our institution of higher learning, which we had come to believe was part and parcel of our existence. Necessity of expansion to serve the growing educational needs of Maine decreed that Colby must move.

Immediately, in anticipation of securing a valuable cultural asset, other communities became interested. Attractive offers of splendid sites in other localities were made. An especially appealing offer was made by a generous citizen of our neighboring city of Augusta. To the everlasting credit of the citizens of the Capital City with whom cordial relations have always existed, let it be recorded that there was no concerted move on their part to take from Waterville what we believed rightfully belonged to us.

A Citizens' Committee was immediately organized and a campaign instituted to retain the college. In all of our activities, we were actuated with a two fold motive. In the first place, we wanted Colby College because we knew it was best for Waterville, but in the second place, we believed it was best for Colby College to remain in the city whose life was so closely entwined with the life of the College, by the associations of more than a century.

That Waterville had other splendid sites to offer, we were convinced. Our problem was to make the governing board of the College agree with us in this conviction. Needless to say, we were successful and at this time, I wish to publicly express our appreciation to the President and Trustees of the College for their decision that any re-location would be made in Waterville.

One of the first acts of the Citizens' Committee was to pledge to the College a sum sufficient to purchase a suitable site in Waterville, that site to be selected by the Trustees.

The success of our campaign has been due to combined community effort. Credit is due to everyone who contributed. Without in any manner depreciating the efforts of a large number of other citizens, I wish to publicly commend a few outstanding workers in the cause.

First, all honor to Dr. Julian D. Taylor, who alone offered to purchase one site on which he had set his heart, and who was a source of inspiration to every worker—a glorious figure, indeed, in this community. Secondly, Dr. Herbert C. Libby, who by the force and ability of his written word conveyed so ably to the Alumni of Colby, Waterville's case; and who has worked unceasingly in every capacity since knowledge first came that Colby would move. Next, give credit to Herbert L. Emery, who first headed the fund raising campaign and who so ably planned; and who gave so unsparingly of his time and effort as to endanger his health; and lastly, let us not forget Dr. J. F. Hill whose interest in all matters of public concern is known to all, and who, for nearly a year, has lived Colby and Waterville during his waking hours and who, I am convinced, has had his sleep disturbed by similar thoughts. He has worked unsparingly, to the sacrifice of his personal pleasure and business. All honor to these citizens and to all those who rendered assistance. All honor to Waterville!

And now let me reach the real purpose of my part in these exercises. Let me address myself to the President of the Board of Trustees of Colby College, the Honorable Herbert E. Wadsworth.

Honorable Sir, a pleasant duty is mine today; a duty which will be of historic note and which marks an epoch in the life of Waterville and Colby College. For love of the College, for civic pride and interest, the citizens of Waterville have purchased a site for Colby College. To me falls the honor of presenting to you the deeds to that site. I do so now, in

LYFORD CONTEST TO BE HELD ON MAY 1ST

26 Schools Have Entered Contest

Up to Saturday night, April 18, a total of 26 schools, representing three states, Maine, Massachusetts, and New Hampshire, had sent in the names of entrants for the Lyford Interscholastic Prize Speaking Contest which is to be held under the auspices of Colby college on the afternoon and evening of May 1. The total number of entrants is 45. It is expected that by Tuesday, April 21, several more schools will have entered students.

The Lyford Contest has come to be one of the most important public speaking events in New England. No other similar contest attracts so many students over so wide an area, and no contest offers so large cash prizes. It was established in 1911 by Will Hartwell Lyford, Colby class of '79, a prominent railroad attorney of Illinois, who saw the great importance of young men knowing how to express their ideas in public. It is estimated that since 1911, more than 1250 students from Maine, Massachusetts, and New Hampshire have participated in the preliminary contests, and over 300 have competed in the final contests for the prizes. Cash prizes totaling $2000 have been distributed. It is hoped that Mr. Lyford may be present this year to preside over the contest.

The list of schools already entered comprise the following: Yarmouth High, Houlton High, Rockland High, Windham High, Huntington (Mass.) High, Lincoln Academy, Bridgton High, Lawrence (Fairfield) High, Coombs (Bowdoinham) High, Merrill (Smyrna Mills) High, Fort Fairfield High, Bangor High, Malden (Mass.) High, Waterville High, Winthrop High, Orono High, McGraw Normal (N. H.), Hebron Academy, Woodstock High, Good Will High, Ricker Classical Institute, Caribou High, Colburn Classical Institute, Madison High, Hingham (Mass.) High.

Paul Alden Speaks At Y. W.

Paul E. Alden, of the class of 1918, who is now the Candidate Secretary for the Northern Baptist Convention, was the speaker at the Y. W. C. A. meeting, Tuesday evening.

"Visions" was the name which Mr. Alden gave his talk, a talk in which he told of the visions which a modern thinker would see. There was the vision which contrasted the present conditions of need and suffering with the thoughtless extravagance of the wealthy; another vision brought to mind the dreary predictions of another war; while another showed the injustices of the intolerance which we sometimes show to those of other races. In all of these visions there was a divine Power present, seeking for aid in the solution of those problems. The hope for the ending of those wrongs, however, is to be found in the youth of today, who, realizing the danger which confronts them, will join hands in the effort to develop the ideals of true equality. Mr. Alden concluded his talk with quotations from appropriate verse.

COLBY MULES TRIM UNIVERSITY OF MAINE

Roundmen Play Errorless Baseball

Displaying a fine brand of heads-up baseball, the 1931 Colby Mules turned back the Maine bear by a 4 to 3 count. The holiday game was the State series opener for Colby and now that Bowdoin beat Bates, Colby and Bowdoin are starting off the season tied for the place in the sun.

It was Bishop Paddy Davan's timely circuit clout with one on in the fourth, the air tight fielding of Colby's infield, along with Ken Mansfield's steady work on the mound that won the game for the Roundmen.

Things looked black in the first of the ninth when the first Maine man at the plate drove a ball over the left field fence for a trip around the sacks. Hinks was out at first and then McCabe singled. Mansfield was replaced by Roberts on the mound. As Ken came to the bench, he was given a big ovation for his fine day's work. Wells was passed and Kiszok, batting for Hallgren, singled. Roberts was in a big hole. One down and the sacks loaded. Here Fred Brice called for hit and run, but the man at the plate left the bat on his shoulder and McCabe was easily out as Chatterbox Charlie tagged him as he raced to the plate. Perkins struck out thus ending the game with it 4 to 3 for Colby.

Maine started off by taking a two run lead in the first. The snappy double play by Davan-Ferguson and Plumer saved the possibility of more Maine scores. Colby's one inning was the fourth. Bob McNamara doubled and Lovett walked. Deetjen beat out a bunt which Perkins fumbled. McNamara and Lovett scored when Lewis missed a throw from Smith on Hedderberg's grounder. Then came Bishop Paddy and his four ply drive over the fence in left field. The way Paddy tipped his hat to the fans as he trotted across the plate was choice.

The next four innings were scoreless. Colby collected two hits in the sixth, but the runners died on base. And then the last of the ninth which nearly cost the game for Colby.

The playing of Colby's infield was a feature of the game. Herb Plumer, the freshman first baseman, turned in a fine day's work for his first varsity game. Chatterbox Charlie was right there to keep the team on its feet and to keep the fans in an uproar. Three double plays and no errors isn't a bad day's work for the Colby nine

Miss Snowden Reads In Chapel

Women's chapel for Saturday, April 18th, consisted of readings from modern poetry by Gertrude L. Snowden of the class of 1931. Miss Snowden's first number was "Patterns" by Amy Lowell, first in the new school of poetry. This was followed by John Masferrer's well-known "Sea-Fever." The third, made famous since the World War, was a touching poem by Winifred M. Letts, entitled "Spices of Oxford." Next came "Flower in a Crannied Wall," a light nature poem. Miss Snowden followed this with Kipling's "Gunga Din," a longer and older poem, which she read impressively.

A sample of the newer style of poetry was her sixth offering,—"At a Window," by the much-discussed modernist poet, Carl Sandburg. Miss Snowden concluded her program with Weaver's "Headlines."

Y. W. Members Chapel Speakers

Last Thursday in women's chapel Gwendolyn G. Mardin, '32, introduced three speakers who gave brief talks on the loveliness, value, and experience obtained at Camp Maqua, the Y. W. C. A. summer camp at Poland Spring. Jean S. Wellington, '32, took her audience with her for one day at Camp Maqua, while Estelle P. Taylor, '32, told about the different sports one could participate in at Camp Maqua. Ruth Pincus, '31, discussed the religious life enriched by adventure, acquaintances, and discussions on present day topics.

It is said that Camp Maqua will be greater than ever this year, for a more intensive and extensive program has been arranged which will afford all those who attend the conference a pleasant and interesting time this summer. Colby's Y. W. C. A. hopes to have ton, if not more, representatives this year at Camp Maqua.

COLBY MUSICAL CLUBS HAVE SUCCESSFUL SEASON

Combinations of Two Divisions Into Colby College Choir Good Scheme

This season's record of the Colby musical clubs was a very brilliant one, the first under the new scheme of combination of the Men's and Women's Glee Clubs into a mixed unit, the Colby College Choir. Abandoning the usual and somewhat old-fashioned plan of action, the Choir presented a series of Sunday vesper services throughout this section of the state.

The clubs this year, as last, were under the leadership of Mr. John Thomas of Waterville, a very able and patient director. Mr. Thomas certainly deserves a great deal of credit for this year's work as the new system was, because of its novelty, quite a piece of work to accomplish in one season of three months. The turn-out of students this year was, however, excellent and this gave the director quite a bit of material with which to work. Soon after the season started it was found necessary to cut the clubs down to about half their original size as transportation could not be found for the large number of singers that were enrolled. Mr. Thomas made this cut with reluctance as he disliked the loss of so many able musicians but it was done and from that point on the Choir enjoyed a splendid season and series of trips.

The trips and appearances were in this order: first week, Fairfield; second week, Newport and Pittsfield; third week, Norridgewock, Skowhegan, and Madison; fourth week, College, Colby; fifth week, Gardiner and Augusta; sixth week, Waterville concert in Alumnae Building; seventh week, Damariscotta; and last week, Waterville Congregational Church. This schedule required much work on the part of the members but there was not a word of objection, "the show must go on," and on it went indeed. While this year's schedule was a most extensive one, the leadership of the Choir is planning one for next year that will take the Clubs farther afield.

Dr. Merrill Speaks In Men's Chapel

Last Wednesday's chapel talk was delivered by Dr. Merrill, speaker of the House of Representatives of the state of Maine. Dr. Merrill spoke on the different outlooks on life. He stated that there were two general mental attitudes. One was the cynical or egotistical outlook and the other optimistic.

As an illustration of the cynical attitude, one also of fear, he used one of Dr. Frank Crane's "Four Minute Essays." The title of the essay was "Just Around the Corner." It illustrated the sense of fear experienced by one who is always worrying about what is coming next. He stated that we all fear "corners."

"Fear," said Dr. Merrill, "causes man to stand or retreat. The timid man fails and loses what he has. No great man is annoyed by fear. Fear has no foundation." Dr. Merrill said that it is a mistake to fear what is to come because the proverbial "corner" often offers good things. "Blessings come unawares." As an illustration of this, he used the revelations which came to great scientists such as Pasteur, Newton and Rontgen. All these revelations came unawares.

Dr. Merrill finally advised us to approach "corners" without fear. "In no case was the end seen before the beginning. He who stands still never turns a 'corner.'"

Commencement Play To Take Place June 12

The Commencement play to take place this year on Friday and Saturday, June 12 and 13, will be a three act comedy, "The Romancers," by Edmond Rostand who is famed for his plays, "Cyrano De Bergerne," and "Chantecler." The setting is laid in the 18th century in France. This popular play of high literary quality will be directed by Professor Cecil A. Rollins who describes it as "A gentle satire on romance by a romanticist." The cast of characters includes six speaking and several minor parts, and requires a few musicians. A copy of this play is in the Reserved Book room for all those interested to try out. An announcement of the exact time and place of the trials will be in the next ECHO.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 22, 1931.

After a trial period extending over some weeks the list of freshman reporters has been compiled and the names of the twelve reporters as well as the six mailing clerks appear in the box of this issue. The system used in the selection of these men was somewhat different than that of former years. One reporter was chosen from each fraternity on the basis of interest in the work and ability to write. The aid of the English instructors was of immense value in making these choices. One unpledged man was also included in this list. Three men were chosen from the freshman class at large to make up the twelve. These three men were subjected to more strenuous competition and were picked for positions only after a careful estimate of their work done for the ECHO and their initiative. The mailing clerks were chosen in like manner, competition being the basis of the selection with not more than one man from any single fraternity being placed on the list.

In the midst of all our planning for the new college and our visualizing the new campus, let us not forget that for some short time at least we must live here on our old campus. For over a century Colby College has been situated in its present site and countless numbers of Colby graduates have loved the atmosphere of the present campus. We are moving to something far superior in all ways but while we are here we must not be unmindful of our present surroundings and should endeavor to make the present campus as attractive as possible. The Superintendent of Maintenance has drawn up an excellent set of rules regarding the campus and the students should follow these religiously so that our present campus, which must serve us for a very few short years, will hold for us affection and appreciation.

Colby Debaters Defeated By Maine

At Waterville, a Colby women's debating team was defeated by a close margin of two to one by debaters representing the University of Maine. The affirmative side of the proposition: "Resolved, That the Talking Movies are Detrimental to Stage Drama," was upheld by Myrilla Gullfoyle, '31, and Florence Ward, '31, of the University while Hildred P. Nelson, '32, and Gertrude L. Snowden, '31, argued on the negative side as Colby's representatives.

The Maine women argued that the talking movies are detrimental to the legitimate stage because the stage is failing financially besides losing actors and playwrights, and used the example of Broadway to prove their point. They maintained that the growing popularity of the talking movies was throwing many actors out of work while the celebrities of the stage are being drawn to the screen. Miss Nelson made three strong points in her position on the negative side; that the talking movies place business before art; that they are mechanical; and that they lack human appeal and the personal element.

Miss Snowden's arguments were mostly in rebuttal. She maintained that not talking movies but the radio and the business depression are the causes of the decrease in stage drama; that the only element that the talking movies have driven out is the cheap element; and that the talking movies are artificial and therefore cannot compete with real actors and actresses in art and be detrimental.

The board of judges consisted of Rev. W. A. Kelly, Oakland, Rev. John R. MacGorman, Waterville, and Rev. Lester L. Lewis, Waterville.

At the University of Maine, Colby was represented by Muriel J. MacDougall, '31, and Tina C. Thompson, '32, who were defeated in upholding the affirmative side of the proposition.

This seems to be a week of debates, for Colby and Bates women debaters will meet for the first time in several years Thursday evening, April 23, to discuss the question: "Resolved, That the United States should recognize the Soviet Government of Russia." Colby speakers: Tina C. Thompson, '32, Muriel J. MacDougall, '31, and Gertrude L. Snowden, '31, will take the affirmative, and the negative team will consist of: Rebecca M. Carter, Lucile Jack, and Edith M. Lerrigo from Bates. There will be no decision.

COLBY FROSH TRIM WINSLOW HIGH 13-6

Farnham Pitches Fine Ball For The Young Mules

Yesterday afternoon the freshman baseball team opened its season by easily defeating the Winslow high team. Farnham had the game in his hands from the start. The Winslow batters whiffed the breezes almost at his will. Hank Davidson turned in a good performance at first base besides furnishing plenty of comedy stuff for the amusement of the fans.

Ernest Lary behind the plate for the freshman played a good brand of ball. All in all it looks like a good year for the frosh outfit. The summary:

CONY HIGH WINS MEET HELD IN COLBY FIELD HOUSE

In the first interscholastic track and field meet to be held in the new Colby field house, Cony high of Augusta piled up 40 points to win the meet by a wide margin over Brunswick, Skowhegan, Lawrence, Waterville and Morse high schools who finished in that order. The meet was held last Friday night under the supervision of Dr. C. Harry Edwards and Michael J. Ryan, coach of track and field at Colby. By winning the meet the Cony boys became the recipients of the loving cup given to the winning team by the H. R. Dunham Co.

The tracksters from Augusta had an especially well balanced team, capturing no less than six first places out of the ten events and placing in all

The Worthy Master entertained a guest in town over the week-end. Brother Clement passed an enjoyable holiday in Portland. Brother Graffman reports that they are having an early spring up in Unity.

Brothers Nickerson and McNeil have recently been elected to the Druids.

Brothers Stratton, Stewart, Cleverly, Keith, Langley, and Foley visited their respective homes in and around Boston over the week-end and holiday.

Joe Yuknis and Plug Davis packed up their fishing tackle early Saturday and set out for northern Maine where they enjoyed themselves over Sunday and Monday, returning to Waterville in the small hours of Tuesday morning.

KAPPA DELTA RHO.

At an informal initiation April 15, the following men were initiated into full brotherhood in Kappa Delta Rho. Prof. Euclid Helie, Waterville, Otis B. Read, Jr., Haverhill, Mass., William J. Casey, Jr., Haverhill, Mass., Abraham Van Voorhis Haight 3d, Waterbury, Conn., and Chester H. Clark, Jr., Waltham, Mass.

Robert McGregor, Van Voorhis Haight, William Casey and Otis Read were guests at Bradford Academy, Haverhill, Mass., during the last week-end.

George Putnam and Francis Martin spent the holiday at Danvers, Mass.

Francis Juggins, Everett Slocum, Phil Silveira, Joseph Perry and Douglas Wheeler were in Boston and New Bedford over the week-end.

The last K. D. R. Tea Dance of the year was held at the fraternity house Monday afternoon from 4.30 to 7.30, April 20. The dance was more or less of an open house with members from several other fraternities and outside guests in attendance. Refreshments of ice cream, cake, sandwiches, punch and tea were served by the committee consisting of T. A. James, '32, W. S. Curtis, '32, and P. A. Stinchfield, '32. The patronesses were Mrs. L. L. Cadwallader, Mrs. Euclid Helie and Mrs. T. B. Ashcraft.

The name of Robert Wilson Stewart, '31, of Hudson, Mass., will be inscribed on the cup, the gift of Brother Francis Juggins, Sr., which is awarded each year to the senior in the house who "by precept and example best typifies the ideals of Kappa Delta Rho."

HEDMAN HALL.

We understand that several of the dormitory's leading lights held an impromptu meeting on Sunday, in place of the customary poker game, to elect a campus queen. The boys were unanimous in their choice. Of course, the election being unofficial, no names can be mentioned, but perhaps other lovelorn laddies, whose tender emotions have been stirred by this vision of blond loveliness automobiling by in her merry Olds, may guess our choice.

One of our confirmed bachelors is becoming less confirmed each day. Dick Kimball has become a "Foss Hall Charlie," much to our surprise. Too bad, Dick. We thought you knew better.

However, dear old "Monk" Russell was not to be found at the Armory last week, which evens the balance. The "slob slide" at the K. of C. the night before must have been too much for him.

Johnny Holden may be found studying French almost any evening in the vicinity of the hockey rink.

Bourge Malcolm Hagopian Gallanion, proprietor of the "Club Hagopa," has "busted" out in a new sport suit and black and white sport shoes. The shoes are the last word—the very last.

Sid Smith, following his musical bent, sings a ditty entitled "Oh, to Have a Chi Omega," all day long.

Daigle, our big bronze athlete from the "Bronnix," finds that after having hired out to Roberts' Hall last week, he still hasn't the wherewithal to start his Dodge sport phaeton.

The Hedmanites can no longer differentiate between the whistle over the fire house and Millett's bray, now that his jaw harness is gone. Gosh, Bill, won't you have a relapse, or must we break it again?

ROBERTS HALL.

Leslie Rhoda and Willard Curtis Flynt were visited by friends of their families over the holiday.

Roberts Hall was very ably represented on the varsity in its victory over Maine on Monday by Herb Plummer. Herb held down first base throughout the game, making several fine plays himself and figuring in Colby's three double plays.

Aaron Marshall Parker spent the week-end in fishing the brooks near his home in Danforth.

Arthur Stetson passed the short vacation at the home of Norman Taylor (a youth from Hedman) in Skowhegan.

William Logan paid his respects to the Waterville police court recently to the tune of twelve-fifty. It seems that Bill and Ophelia didn't like the looks of a local crossing tender and his stop sign, and proceeded to beat the Flying Yankee to the crossing.

COLBY COLLEGE PRESENTED.

The presence of this large gathering, and in behalf of the citizens of Waterville. Accept them, Sir, with the knowledge that Waterville loves Colby College; that we honor its glorious past; we live its wonderful present; and we salute its glorious future.

Applause resounded throughout the auditorium as Mr. Wadsworth accepted the parcel from Mayor Dubord. In thanking the citizens of Waterville through their mayor, Mr. Wadsworth said:

"It is a great honor as well as a great pleasure that comes to me this afternoon, through the position I hold to accept this magnificent and generous gift from the people of Waterville. It shows to us of Colby college that you are extremely friendly and that you want us to stay here and grow into an institution of which you may be proud. In behalf of Colby college and its friends, we thank you, Mr. Mayor, and through you, the people of Waterville.

"Education, like religion, is in some manner associated in the minds of many of us with buildings. It seems that the time is at hand when we must leave our old abode with all its scenes and memories so dear to us, and go on to more fitting quarters.

"As you know, the necessity for this step has been becoming apparent for a number of years. From time to time we have wondered just where we could provide suitable space. Some thought we should move to the south end of the city, and others to the north, and others believed the west was the best place. The west made the greatest appeal, and the trustees in their wisdom voted Mayflower Hill should be the place, and now we are all united on this location and you generous citizens of Waterville have settled the question beyond recall. We will use this large tract for the benefit of the young men and women who come to us during the coming generation, and we will also use it for the benefit of the city of Waterville. Colby and Waterville are more firmly united today than ever before. With confidence in each other we will go forward together."

Chairman Hill then introduced Franklin Winslow Johnson, President of Colby college, who delivered a splendid and appropriate address. He traced the early history of the college and brought out strikingly the hardships and privations endured by those early people who established Colby here some 113 years ago. "The second of these dramatic events is taking place today. After an lapse of 113 years the citizens of Waterville are re-enacting the scene of this earlier day. The setting is perhaps less colorful, but it is appropriate to the changed conditions of the present day. The actors are both the same, but are the worthy successors of the men and women who played their parts in 1818. The moving spirits of these two occasions is identical."

President Johnson went on to trace graphically and interestingly the colorful history of the college as it evolved from its inconspicuous, yet consequential start.

"The citizen's committee, through the hands of the mayor, has delivered to Mr. Wadsworth, chairman of the board of trustees, deeds conveying approximately 600 acres of land to the college. Chairman Wadsworth has in turn placed these valuable documents in my hands. Representing the corporation, legally designated as the President and Trustees of Colby college, it is my happy privilege to express the thanks of the corporation to all who have by contribution of money or service made possible this substantial gift.

"To the chairman and members of the executive committee, to the committee of one hundred, to the members of the various teams of solicitors, and to each one who has contributed in any way to the success of this undertaking, I extend the sincere thanks of Colby college."

"The citizens of Waterville have set an inspiring example for those who have undertaken this stupendous project for the development of Colby college. The poet expressed a profound truth when he said of the victorious crew, 'They can, because they think they can.' By sheer determination you have accomplished the impossible, and by so doing have not only expressed your faith in our ability to carry out the larger project, but have made it absolutely necessary that we succeed."

From this point the speaker enumerated briefly the history of the struggle for a new site and the advisability of moving as quickly as possible. He mentioned the increased attention given to liberal arts colleges and the newly stressed importance of their educational functioning. The president also mentioned the care taken in the choice of men to carry out the tremendous task of establishing the new Colby. The careful survey of the resources of Colby which is now going on was also explained by President Johnson. He stated that the remaining steps in the program of moving the college were quite difficult. The head of the college went on to tell of the optimistic and determined spirit that is marking the attitude of all Colby people in the undertaking of this huge task. "The word failure has been expunged from our dictionary," stated President Johnson. In concluding he said:

"The noble effort of the citizens of Waterville with its successful issue which we celebrate today has given substantial evidence that those who know the college best are convinced of its worth. The new Colby in return will, in the centuries to come, bring enlargement of life to the community in which it has found its congenial home."

Donald F. Snow of Bangor, representative to Congress from the Fourth District spoke briefly, saying that he had always had a soft place in his heart for Colby, even though a Bowdoin man. In his opinion it would have been inadvisable for Colby to move out of Waterville. Mr. Snow lauded Dr. Hill for his splendid leadership during the campaign and claimed that Colby was the type of college to which the nation was most indebted.

Following the activities of the afternoon a banquet was held in the Elmwood Hotel, Friday night. Charles E. Gurney spoke for the trustees at the banquet. Dr. Julian D. Taylor, most beloved of Colby faculty members replied to Mr. Gurney's speech. Dr. Taylor received a tremendous ovation when he arose to speak. He told of the work done by the executive committee and of the general response felt on the part of the alumni, citizens of the city and friends of the college.

W. R. Pattangall, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Maine praised the Waterville citizens and the Colby alumni for their efforts and predicted a great future for the college. Dr. Hill spoke briefly also and paid tribute to the efforts of his executive committee in carrying out the campaign program. Herbert L. Emery and Dr. Herbert C. Libby were mentioned particularly. Telegrams were read which had been sent by Hon. Henry Hilton and Frank L. Padelford as well as from other prominent men unable to attend. Dr. Augustus Thomas, president of the International Education Federation was the next speaker and congratulated Colby in being so sagacious as to remain in Waterville. He also congratulated the city and said that it would never regret its work for Colby and would be repaid in the pride of ownership and the rich cultural advantages that would come to the city.

The final speaker of the evening was Randall J. Condon, former superintendent of schools in Cincinnati, until he retired to spend his last days in the Maine town in which he was born. Mr. Condon spoke for the graduates and told of his deep appreciation and of that of other graduates for what had been done by Waterville.

He told of the great anxiety of the graduates over the situation and of how deeply they regretted that there was under consideration a move from Waterville, for they felt that Waterville was the home of Colby and that it should remain here.

The meeting was closed by President Johnson with a brief word of thanks to all those present and the day that will forever maintain a prime place in the history of Colby college was brought to a close.
