Food for Thought

Baturay Aydemir '17, a student in Professor Russell Johnson's molecular biology class, ponders a recently published paper describing a new method for measuring the synthesis of proteins from individual mRNA molecules through use of fluorescent labels. The new development provides an important new tool for studying how protein synthesis is regulated. Aydemir enters Harvard Medical School this fall.

Championship Run

Charlie Gomprecht '20 leaps past Trinity defenders en route to the Mules' NESCAC championship win May 7. Fifth-ranked Colby exploded for a six-goal run to come from behind and defeat the perennial powerhouse Bantams 13-9. Said co-captain Emilie Klein '17, "The whole game I never felt worried." Klein was named NESCAC Defensive Player of the Year. She and co-captain Lexie Perticone '17 were named Intercollegiate Women's Lacrosse Coaches Association All-Americans.

WHAT A YEAR

THANKS TO YOU.

Really. It is so impressive—all the ways you stepped forward, spread the word, made a donation; thanks to you the Colby Fund raised a record-breaking $7.55 million in cash this year. Your support ensures a transformative Colby education for the most qualified and deserving students.

Collective giving makes all the difference.
