Movie Premiere Saturday Night

"No, it is positively untrue that 'Frank Merriwell at Colby' is going to open at the Music Hall of Radio City," cried Maurice ("Old Moe") Krinsky, press agent of the Colby Camera Club as he strolled into the City Room of the COLBY ECHO Wednesday morning.

"I wish it to be understood," he continued, "that we consider that our moral obligations to the Colby student body far outweighs the pecuniary gain which we might get by accepting any offer from Roxy." After drawing a deep breath he went on, "No matter what tempting offers we may receive, the Camera Club photoplay will positively have its World Premiere in the Alumnae Building next Saturday evening.

"Did you ever see a dream walking?" he suddenly challenged. "Yes? Well, did you ever see a dream riding a white mule? Then you have a thrill coming to you in this show.

"And what a show! What a show!" the veteran press agent rolled his eyes heavenward. "Take Pete Mills, for instance, a screen actor combining the best qualities of Clark Gable, Wallace Beery and Harpo Marx. And Sybil Wolman—a brunette Garbo, a co-educated Velez, glamorous, glorious, gorgeous and gay.

Vesper Service

On Sunday afternoon, Feb. 25, the fourth in the series of monthly vespers being conducted by the Colby Christian Associations will be held at 3.30 o'clock in the Colby chapel.

This February vesper is in charge of Winthrop Clement, '34, and Agnes Carlyle, '36. They have arranged an excellent musical program in addition to the main speaker of the afternoon. The guest speaker is Marlin D. Farnum of the Andover-Newton Theological School. Mr. Farnum is a graduate of Colby College in the class of 1923.

All the students of both the men's and women's divisions are cordially invited to attend this vesper which promises to be one of the best of the entire series. The Student Forum of the Methodist Church which ordinarily meets at 6.30 P. M. on Sunday has been postponed in order not to conflict with the Colby vesper. Come and bring your friends.

Girls Attend Bates Sports

Last Friday, Feb. 16, six Colby women as representatives of the Colby Health League, left for Bates for a winter sports day to be enjoyed on Saturday together with women from Bates, the University of Maine and the University of New Hampshire. The women were Eleanor L. Whoolwright, '34, Ruth E. White, '34, Evelyn M. Kelley, '34, E. Marie Duerr, '35, Eleanor M. Tolan, '35, and Ruth A. Millett, '36. The time was spent in skating features, a skiing and snowshoeing jaunt to the Bates' women's lodge and a meeting for the general discussion of the problems and phases of physical education in the respective colleges.

Council Votes Expenses to Model League

Also Passes Move To Censure Frat Combines

The Student Council voted at the last meeting to donate the sum of $30 to pay the traveling expenses of two delegates from the International Relations Club to a model League of Nations assembly which is to be held at Harvard early in March. The matters of a "cut" system, graduate manager control of athletics, and fraternity combines were rediscussed after a bit of reflection on the steps taken in previous meetings. It was decided to wait for a report from the faculty's plan for "cuts," to formulate a detailed plan of the graduate manager idea, and to censure all existing fraternity unions.

Mr. Palmer of the History department was present at the gathering to explain the purpose of the model conference and advantages of being represented in the convention. When the council was fully informed about the enterprise, it felt that as a body working in the best interests of the mass of undergraduates, they should help sponsor the movement.

Several fraternities reported favorable reaction to a proposed change in the "cut" system, but no definite action was taken. It was deemed advisable to await the opinion and plan of the faculty. At present, current opinion favors the possibility of unlimited "cuts" for all students, excepting freshmen in their first semester. In case of low marks of the individuals the professor would have the right to demand their reporting at class.

President Huckle requested all the members of the council to cooperate in the drawing up of a detailed plan for a graduate manager system to be presented at the next convenient meeting. The action in regard to fraternity combines was summed up in the one motion to censure all such alliances. The decision as to whether the future system will be run on an honor basis or under a penalty ruling was left to be taken up in a later meeting.

Results of a survey at the University of Washington show that the average student carries more pocket money than the average professor. The professor's secretary, however, carries more than the two combined.

Drama League Offers Summer Scholarships

The Drama League Travel Bureau, a non-commercial organization, has at its disposal scholarships covering full tuition for the six weeks summer session at the Central School of Speech and Drama, affiliated with the University of London. These scholarships are primarily intended for students interested in literary and drama study, but are also given for the more important purpose of promoting international understanding. We are very eager that the donors of these scholarships shall not be disappointed in the response to the unusual opportunity offered American students.

Students of the theatre and teachers of drama and its allied arts are eligible to come before the committee on awards, and applications blanks may be obtained from the League's headquarters in the Hotel Barbizon-Plaza, New York. We welcome all letters of inquiry concerning the granting of scholarships.

Dramatic Art Play To Be Given Mar. 8

A treat is in store for students and residents of Waterville when the Colby College Dramatic Art Class presents the play "Icebound," on March eighth. "Icebound," which received the Pulitzer Prize for 1923, was written by Owen Davis. This play should be of especial interest to college students and townspeople inasmuch as the scenes of the play are laid in the little town of Veazie, a few miles north of Bangor, Me. Owen Davis has also published such notable bits of drama as "Detour" and "Lazybones."

"Icebound" enjoyed a popular run in New York with Robert Ames as the star. Shortly after the close of its successful stay in New York it was released for amateur production and since then has met with extraordinary success wherever it has been presented. "Icebound" has repeatedly proved itself a true hit for high school and college presentations. "It is never cheap, always interesting, and behind its entertainment is a fine study of human nature."

The Dramatic Art Class unknown five years ago has in more recent years built a sound reputation for it. (Continued on page 4)

Freshman "Y" To Enact "Ba-Thane"

"Ba-Thane," considered to be one of the most powerful one-act religious dramas ever produced, was conceived and written by Edna Baldwin in 1931. At this time Miss Baldwin was working under the direction of Dr. Fred Eastman at Chicago Theological Seminary.

Tryouts for "Ba-Thane" were held last Monday at the Alumnae Building. The directors, the Misses Mary Small and Louise Williams, selected the following cast:

Gordon Worth, an American missionary — William Jakeman
Virginia Worth, his wife — Marjorie Gould
Joan Worth, their daughter — Janet Goodridge
Ma May, Ba-Thane's sister — Pauline Walker
Joe Fox, an American oil driller — Robert Hussey
Richard Ordway, an American newspaper reporter — Frederick Demers
Ba Thane, a young Burmese lad — Willard Libby

February 16, 1934.

Dear Hal:

This has been the first day since I arrived here a week ago that I have had an opportunity to poke about Capitol Hill with an eye to the peculiarities of the place and the idiosyncrasies of the performers in the hurly-burly of government.

The Senate decided to take a long week-end, so they were not in session. Playing hide and go seek with Habons Corpus and MacCracken made it a hard week for them, hence they took Friday and Saturday off with Sunday thrown in as usual. After making this discovery I decided to go over to the House and see what the entertainment might be in that quarter. As I approached the Supreme Court Chamber it became evident that the court was sitting and as there was plenty of time I thought that it might be well to see the highest court in the land at work before going to the House.

The case at hand was dry being one which had to do with the right of Congress to endow a collector of taxes certain assessor's powers, but the judges themselves were very impressive. All nine of them sat robed in black at the front of the chamber, Chief Justice Hughes in the center was easily the most dignified and austere. Something he was doing

Five Students Make Phi Beta

Invitations to accept election to the Phi Beta Kappa are today being extended to the following members of the class of 1934:

Margaret E. Salmond, Muriel F. Walker, Pauline E. Goodwin, Arthur W. Stetson, Jr., Francis B. Smith. Formal election will take place at the next meeting of the Colby chapter, on April 26th, in connection with the annual banquet.

Dean Announces Class Scholarships

The award of eight class scholarships by Colby College was announced today by Dean Ernest C. Marriner chairman of the committee on scholarships. One man and one woman in each class was selected on the basis of high scholarship combined with financial need. Each scholarship amounts to $100, amounting to the tuition for the second semester.

The winners were as follows: Muriel F. Walker, '34, Skowhegan; Frederick Schreiber, '34, Portland; Dorothy E. Washburn, '35, Westbrook; Milton Kleinholz, '35, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Helen Lucile Jones, '36, Watertown, Mass.; Harold W. Hickey, '36, Turner; Marjorie D. Gould, '37, Newton Center, Mass.; Stanley A. Paine, '37, Dexter.

Senior Girls Attend Alumnae Meeting

The Seniors of the women's division were invited by the Alumnae Association to attend a business meeting in order that they might become acquainted with the activities of the society. A short program followed and each group present offered a stunt. Mrs. Rollins entertained by giving some readings on behalf of the faculty wives. The Alumnae gave a brief but hilarious skit and the seniors presented an impromptu play called "The Gathering of the Nuts." Ruth Stubbs, '34, contributed a piano solo. The evening was completed by the serving of delicious refreshments.

If a person were to take all the courses offered at the U. of Washington it would take said person exactly 99 years before his education was complete.

with his hand caught my attention. He was rubbing or massaging his nose with one finger. No, it was more a gentle knocking of the finger against one side and then the other of the extreme tip of the nostril. I would call it twirling. The Chief Justice was actually twirling his nose. He must have forgotten himself momentarily I thought, and went about counting the bald heads.

Rounding from left to right, the first baldie is Justice Butler, but he is not entirely bald and should be given credit for that tuft of hair which waves with each gust from the ventralator. There are no more on the left wing, but Justice Van Devanter who flanks the Chief Justice on the left, easily qualifies as does Justice McReynolds on the right flank. Of the nine, these three and Chief Justice Hughes are the only ones to present barren craniums. If we stretch a point and let Justice Butler's tuft get him by, then we may say that only three out of nine lose it.

This proverbial indication of mental activity which, notwithstanding the Caesar of G. B. S., the Romans revered, does not seem to hold true in the highest tribunal of America, putting this consideration aside I began to count the glasses which straddled their noses. All to the left of

Mule Pucksters Come From Behind to Down Bates, 4-2

Dr. Sherwood Eddy Addresses Students

by Stan Plotkin

The stubborn Colby hockey Mules stuck bravely to their traces and hauled home from Lewiston, on February 13, victory and a state hockey championship. Bates' hard and heavy defensive thumb, pressed by goalie Carl Heldman, stifled Colby's scoring sparks for two and a half periods. Carl's acrobatic goalie performance saved scores time and again. Meanwhile, the scions of the garnet and black were piling up a 2 to 0 lead. Repeated determined Colby scoring forays were as many times nullified by very beautiful stick work.

In the first period, the Bobcat and the Mule ran neck and neck in non-scoring honors, neither team succeeding in penetrating the other's goal. The next stanza saw the boys from Lewiston surge slightly ahead. A mere minute after the inception of this period, Chick Toomey strung up the first Bates counter of the game, unassisted. Romeo Lemieux, the brilliant freshman puckster, retallated a few moments later with a stinging shot that whizzed by Heldman; but, to the disgust of the Colby players, this perfectly clean goal was ruled out by the goal judge. All protestations, no matter how vigorous, were to no avail.

Dr. Eddy discussed the German-Austrian situation in detail. In the proposed alliance between the two the speaker saw the danger of approaching war. In the Japanese-Russian situation there is also another danger zone, Dr. Eddy declared. However, he pointed out the fact that the possibility that Japan will fight appeared improbable because of the nearly bankrupt condition of the Japanese.

The speaker said that in the event of a Russo-Japanese war, the Japanese would probably be more successful in the early part of such a war because of their better preparedness. However, Dr. Eddy believes that the Russians would finally be victorious because of their superior man power.

At his morning address before the students in the Alumnae Building, Dr. Eddy spoke on Russia. "There are two great experiments in the world today," he said. "They are the U. S. A. and the U. S. S. R." Having returned only recently from his tenth visit to Russia, Dr. Eddy was extremely well qualified to speak on the Russian experiment.

In summarizing the trend of both experiments in government, Dr. Eddy said that the U. S. A. is an experiment in liberty without justice while the U. S. S. R. is an experiment in justice without liberty. He believes that neither is good enough. We must have both justice and liberty if we are to experience a new day.

Marie Lenchova Sends Alumnae Contribution

A contribution to the Colby Alumnae Fund from far-off Czechoslovakia was received today by Miss Alice M. Purinton, Alumnae Secretary.

The gift was from Marie Lenchova, a Czechoslovakian girl who attended Colby year before last as an exchange student. Last year she completed her work for a degree in the University of Prague and at present is believed to be holding a teaching position. While at Colby, she became very popular with the other students and this gift is evidence of the affection which she holds for her American college.

This contribution was transmitted by International Money Order and amounted to nine dollars in our currency. The Alumnae Fund is therefore benefited by the fact that the dollar has gone off the gold standard, because under the normal rate of exchange, the gift would have amounted to approximately $5.40.

Colby women take notice: The co-eds at the University of Mississippi have struck upon a novel method of keeping themselves from being distracted by too many social engagements. They have agreed to shave their heads.

Colby Wakes Up

Toomey further blackened Colby's prospect of championship honors when he tucked Secor's pass into the corner of the Colby cage. With five minutes of the game remaining, and the Bobcat in the lead by the count of 2 to 0, the Blue and Gray woke up.

We agree with President Franklin W. Johnson in saying that the present Student Council is undoubtedly the most active, progressive, and stimulating governing body to represent the men's division in years. The significant actions taken at the meeting Monday evening further denoted the beneficial influence of this group.

In the short hour that the meeting was in session, four definite moves were made. To start things off it was voted to finance the expenses of the two Colby delegates to the Model League of Nations at Harvard University and Radcliffe College. The International Relations Club was unable to pay these expenses, and hence the Student Council agreed to undertake the financial responsibility for sending the delegates because of the importance of the Model League of Nations and because of the favorable publicity for Colby.

In the second place the Council voted to select charms which will be given to the state championship hockey team. A third move was a motion in which the Council definitely censured all existing fraternity combines and expressed itself as being opposed to this method of procedure in all college activities. This is the first step that the members feel will lead to complete abolition of fraternity politics on the campus of Colby College.

The final action taken by the Council Monday evening was a suggestion for the formulation of a plan similar to that presented by the Athletic Council last week. This plan, which will express, as completely as possible, the undergraduate sentiment in regard to the reorganization of the physical education and athletic departments is to be presented to the Board of Trustees at its April meeting.

The Student Council not only has accomplished a great deal in benefiting undergraduate relations, but it has been extremely active in conducting its social affairs. The increase in the number of gym dances held this year speaks for itself as being representative of the activity of the Council in this regard. The proceeds resulting from these dances have continually been put to uses which are of immense value to the college as a whole. There is a gym dance tonight. Attend it!

Baseball Candidates in Regular Practice

Although regular practice for squad "A" has not begun yet, Coach Roundy has been working the "B" squad consistently for the last few days in the hopes of rounding some of the less experienced players into possible varsity material. The freshmen have turned out for practice fairly well, although many more will possibly make their appearance in the fold in a few days.

Not many Sophs and Juniors have reported as yet for practice on squad "B" and Coach Roundy has expressed the desire that more of them try out. There is to be a Junior Varsity team in all probability and there will be a good opportunity for some unseasoned players to show their wares.

It is rather difficult at present to forecast which of the freshmen candidates will move into a varsity position. Some of them look exceptionally good. There is also room for more freshman candidates.

Practice for squad "B" will continue as usual every afternoon followed by lectures on Monday and Wednesday. Squad "A" will begin practice shortly. The championship team remains intact from last year with the exception of two or three positions, but these can be filled by players fully as capable as the vacators, so the Colby Mule nine is almost certain to retain that kick which sent it through with a State Championship last spring.

Colby Privileged to Hear Sanroma-Goding in Debut as Two-Piano Artists

by Win Clement

Greeted by a burst of enthusiastic applause as they stepped onto the stage in Alumnae Hall, Jesus Maria Sanroma and Howard Goding last night brought to Maine music lovers a thrilling and amazing program as they made their debut in two-piano concert work. The two artists, both well-known here for their excellent performances as soloists of former Colby Concert Series programs, faced each other across the two pianos arranged on a simply draped stage and began a program which embraced a host of moods and movements.

The polished result of months of hard work and practice ran a scintillating gamut, from utter loveliness to sheer bravura. Throughout the entire program complete and unbroken unison, with perfection of sympathy and timing, gave to the concert color, warmth and assurance.

The opening number of the evening was the "Sicilienne" from the Third Flute Sonata of Bach—a very happy choice. The arrangement is that of Guy Maier, a member of the erstwhile two-piano team of Maier and Patterson. The "Sicilienne," although typically Bach in construction, was done with such warmth and color, without any of the usual stiffness and wooden quality, that only beautifully resonant harmony excellently presented held charmed even those who least admire Bach. The second number of this first group was the "Sonata in D major," from Mozart, that prolific genius of the late 18th century who has given us several two-piano sonatas. Both Sanroma and Goding are known as excellent interpreters of this composer and their combined powers made successful what seemed a somewhat dull and listless composition.

The second offering was Saint-Saens' "Variations, Opus 35 (On a theme of Beethoven)," a true illustration of the composer's genius of versatility in arrangement and improvisation. The work opens with an extremely simple tonation of the theme, in the low bass, which is picked up and elaborated into an intricate and rapidly-moving series of some twelve or fifteen variations. The ingenuity and virtuosity of the artists was brought out fully in this number, the colorful and understanding rendition of which made it the greatest success of the evening.

But there was no anti-climax. To the end the audience stayed on the heights thus reached. "Suite, Opus 15," of Arensky, was offered in three movements as the third group. The sheer loveliness and plaintive melody of the "Romance," the lilting swing of the "Valse," and the brilliant speed and marked rhythm of the "Polonaise" all gave an unusual popular appeal. The perfect coordination of the artists throughout, and the added power and grandeur of the combined pianos in the "Polonaise" called forth tremendous applause.

The closing group brought a strangely pleasant combination of contrasts. The first number, Debussy's "L'Après-midi d'un faune," was a thorough delight. Purely Debussy, with the almost fantastic rhythm and weird, broken melody so characteristic of the familiar French composer, this work is really a symphonic tone poem which demands the full abilities of the largest and best symphony orchestra for truthful rendition. Sanroma and Goding were nothing short of amazing in their performance of its moods and colors.

"Doux Danses Andalouses," by Infante, the first "Ritmo" and the second "El Vito," completed the program. Colby audiences have always marveled at Sanroma's solo presentations of Spanish and Latin-American dances, but last night one gasped with delight as the two artists sped through fire and rhythm of these dances from southern Spain. At what seemed to the auditor, a mad pace, yet in perfect unity, the two men brought out, to the full, the enticing, whirling glamour of the gypsy dance music.

Called back again and again by an unabating storm of applause, the planists gave three encores: Chopin's "Minute Waltz," "Gavotte" by Saint-Saens and a repetition of the waltz movement from the Arensky suite.

The hall was well-filled by what may have been the largest audience in the history of Colby Concerts, despite the severity of the evening. After the concert both Mr. Goding and Mr. Sanroma very cordially greeted many enthusiastic admirers backstage. Still smiling quietly, unassuming and affable, the artists were warm, friendly gentlemen, chatting until train time with students and visitors.

The concert board is pleased to express gratitude to Mrs. Harrison A. Smith and to Coburn Classical Institute for the loan of the pianos used. The concert was arranged under the management of A. H. Handley, Boston. Mr. Sanroma is under the management of Aaron Richmond, Boston.

The final concert of the 1934 series will be presented March 20, when the Philharmonic String Quartette will appear.

Frosh Tracksters Win Tri Meet

The Colby freshman track team defeated Coburn Classical Institute and Lawrence High of Fairfield in an exciting meet held in the field house, Saturday afternoon. The yearlings tallied 41½ points to 27½ for Coburn and 3 for the high school boys. The performances of the meet were good. Ed Goodrich of the first year men equalled the indoor record of 4-5 seconds in winning the final of the 40 yard dash from a fast field. Stan Washuk, blond frosh ace from Augusta, set up a new freshman record of 35 3-5 seconds in winning the 300 yard dash. Harry Carter of Coburn stepped the fastest 600 ever run in a freshman meet, breasting the tape in the excellent time of 1:19 1-5 seconds.

A series of varsity trials were held to decide the men to represent the Blue and Gray in the University Club Games next Wednesday night. Cliff Veysey set up a new field house mark in the mile, winning easily from Buddy Hilton and Herb DeVeber in the time of 4:37 2-5. Johnny Dolan turned in the fastest 40 yard dash ever run in the indoor oval, hitting the worsted in 4 3-5 seconds. This performance also equalled the Colby record.

The Summary (Freshman Meet): 40 yard dash: won by Goodrich, '37; 2nd, Washuk, '37; 3rd, Smith (C). Time, 4 4-5 seconds. (Equals field house record.)

300 yard dash: won by Washuk, '37; 2nd Carter, (C); 3rd, Goodrich, '37. Time, 35 3-5 sec. (New freshman record.)

600 yard run: won by Carter, (C); 2nd, Young, '37; 3rd, Stowell, '37. Time, 1:19 1-5 sec. (New freshman mark.)

Dr. Johnson to Speak at Religious Conference

President Franklin W. Johnson of this college will play an important part in the New England Religious Education Association Conference to be held in the State House at Concord, N. H., this coming Saturday. President Johnson, along with other eminent New England educators, is to be one of the principal speakers on the program arranged by Governor Winant.

The purpose of the conference is to bring together the leaders of representative character building agencies in New England and its theme is based on the subject, "Religious Education and Character Building." Dr. Johnson, as president of the New England division of the association, will open the morning session of the conference. His address will be an exposition on the aims and purpose of the association. Other addresses will be made by prominent New England educators throughout the day's program.

Freshmen Hold Successful Banquet

The members of both divisions of the freshman class revived an old custom by having a "get-together" banquet which, as the name implies, was held for the purpose of establishing better relations between the men and women of the class of '37. This informal gathering was held in the dining room of the Methodist church where the dinner was served by ladies of the parish. Dr. Newton C. Fetter of Boston delivered the principal address of the evening, having chosen for his subject "Getting Fresh With The World." President Johnson, Helen Jevons, Robert Hussey, Rev. Mr. Metzner, and Mr. John Thomas also participated, the last named leading the group in singing popular songs. Edmund Barnard and Bernard Stallard rendered vocal solos to the accompaniment of Richard Follett at the piano. Lendal Mahoney, president of '37, presided as toastmaster.

A committee consisting of Kathryn Cobb, Barbara Hutcheon, Eleanor Ross, William Deans, John Macdonald, and Homer Langlois, together with Dean Runnals and Professor Newman, developed and executed the plans.

Senior Girls Enjoy Successful Dance

To the tune of Cecil Hutchinson's Orchestra the seniors of the women's division of Colby danced last Saturday evening at the Alumnae Building. Ella Gray, chairman of the committee under whom were Madelyn Higgins, Mildred E. Koogh, and Anne P. Duoba, made excellent use of the appropriateness of Valentine decorations. Miss Ninetta M. Runnals, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Colgan and Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Strong favored the dance with their patronage. All in all the seniors started the season of class dances with a huge success.

It is far better to become a waster and do a job of it than to try to accomplish something and slip into wastefulness."

SPORT MILLE

Colby closed the hockey season by winning a well deserved state championship. The games throughout the season were marked by the spectacular playing of the Colby forward line with "Hocker" Ross usually the outstanding man on the ice. "Hocker's" playing can be placed on par with any of the former greats in Maine college hockey circles. Captain Bill Hucker was probably the most valuable individual on the defence. He also filled the center position when needed. Lou Rancourt and Al Paganucci were also invaluable cogs in the Colby line-up.

It is probable that the team next winter will be every bit as strong as this year's club as Rom Lemieux, Jack Sheehan, Jim Guiney, Paul Landry, and Art Hannigan are coming up to fill the gaps that Captain Hucker, Joe Brogden, and Tom Hickey will leave open when they receive the sheepskin. Hocker Ross, Al Paganucci, Lou Rancourt, Monk Russell, Al Robinson, and Freddy Vigue are the hold-overs from this season's sextet.

If I were to ask for a team to represent the Maine colleges on the ice, I would consider the following as capable of holding its own with any ice aggregation:

lw, Billings, Bowdoin
c, Secor, Bates
rw, Ross, Colby
ld, McKenney, Bowdoin
rd, Hucker, Colby
g, Keville, Bowdoin

The track squad left Tuesday afternoon en route to Boston, where they will compete in the University Club Games this evening. The men making the trip are: Captain Bevin, George Hunt, John Hunt, Ed Buyniski, Joe Bishop, Bill Paine, Buddy Hilton, Bob Estes, Tom Fuller, Tom Van Slyke, Johnny Dolan, Sol Fuller, Cliff Veysey, Herbie DeVeber, Hal Hickey, Bill Pritham, and Manager Lee Fencer.

The Mules chief scoring hope is Cliff Veysey, who is one of the favorites in the mile run. Buddy Hilton is also liable to score in this event. Johnny Dolan looks good enough to place in the 40 yard dash after his record breaking burst of speed down the 40 yard stretch in the Field House last Saturday afternoon, in which he broke the indoor record by breasting the worsted in 4 3-5 seconds.

Records were assaulted right and left on the indoor oval during the Freshman-Coburn-Fairfield Meet. Dolan broke the 40 yard record, as has been mentioned above. Cliff Veysey set a new indoor mark in the mile, travelling the distance in 4:37 2-5. Stan Washuk eclipsed the Frosh standard in the 300 by tearing around the curves in 35 3-5. Ed Goodrich tied the Frosh and field house dash mark of 4 4-5, which was later broken by Dolan. Dick Carter of Coburn ran one of the prettiest 600 yard races ever seen on the indoor track, turning in a brilliant performance of 1:19 1-5.

Freshmen to Present Play

The freshmen of the Y. W. C. A. are rehearsing for a play, "Six Cups of Chocolate," to be presented March 13. The arrangements are entirely in the hands of the freshmen girls, assisted by Ann Trimble, '35. The cast is as follows:
Adeline von Ljndan...Janet Goodrich
Marion Lee...Helen Jevons
Dorothy Green...Muriel Scribner
Hester Beeson...Marjorie Gould
Boatrix von Korlard...Mary E. Ewon
Joanette Durrnd...Betty Wilkinson

International Relations

On Saturday, Feb. 24, the International Relations Club will have a luncheon at the Alumnae Building. The affair, scheduled for 12.30 P. M., promises to be of unusual interest. Mr. Palmer will preside at the ensuing discussion, and will introduce Professor Griffiths, who, speaking on a theme apropos to Washington's birthday, has chosen for his subject, "Washington and 1934." Professor Wilkinson will open up the problem of present day world difficulties.

The committee in charge, consisting of Eleanor Bridges, '34, Mary Buss, '34, and David Hilton, '35, is planning additional items of interest, and urges those who wish to attend but have not yet signified their intentions of so doing, to sign either the paper on the history room bulletin board, or the one at the foot of the library stairs.

Boardman Society

The Boardman Society cordially invites all interested students to meet in an informal discussion group to be held in the Alumnae Building on Saturday afternoon, Feb. 24, at 2 P. M. The guest speaker will be Marlin D. Farnum, '23, for several years a missionary in Japan.

This meeting will be the first in a series of discussion groups to be held during the month of March, the general subject of which will be the new approach to world christianity.

HOCKEY CHAMPS

Their former ineffective style was replaced by vigorous back-biting play, stimulated perhaps by the thought of how near victory really was. The game now roughened up considerably. All is fair in love and war, and since this was war, bruising checks and bone-crushing dumps were in order. Rancourt started it off. He saved Colby from drawing a blank as their end of the score by neatly poking the pellet into the Garnet net from scrimmage. Cowed by stern glances from the visiting Millettmen, the judge was forced to call this goal fair, and the count stood 2 to 1. Then, with two Bates men serving time in the penalty box, opportunist Al Paganucci, with a shot that soared out of a torrid scrimmage, tied up the score.

Rancourt Scores

Lemieux drew the Blue and Gray out of the red when he sunk Colby's third goal, early in the overtime. At this time the desperate Bates sextet fought fiercely to regain their lately lost lead. The entire team piled down the ice in one last concentrated attempt to eke out at least a tie. Rancourt foiled the opposition by neatly cornering the puck, and, with Bates up at the Colby end of the rink, dashing up the ice to sink what eventually turned out to be the game's final tally.

Credit is certainly due to playmaker Hocker Ross and the fighting Colby team for the spirit they showed in turning threatening defeat into splendid victory, with only moments to play in the last period.

By this victory, Captain Hucker and his men captured the state hockey championship. Only one series game was lost, and that to Bowdoin.

WASHINGTON LETTER

the Chief Justice were spectacted, he himself wore a pair, and one by one it became apparent that all to the right had them. Nine out of nine as far as glasses are concerned. Justice Cardozo comes nearest to having the flowing locks of the old English judges. He has perfectly white hair, but as I look at him he goes through the same nose manipulation which the Chief Justice performed a minute or two ago. I looked to the far end of the bench and Justice Roberts was following suit in precisely the same manner. Now Butler was doing it, Stone picked it up when Cardozo left off and Sutherland fell in line. And then I looked at them as a group focusing my eyes so that that nine of the greatest jurists in the world were taken in by one profound stare. Six of the nine including the Chief Justice himself were twirling their noses!

The time for the counsel giving the last rebuttal was nearly up. Mr. Hughes, who came so near being elected President in 1916 that the news came through to him that he had been elected and who had been so overjoyed that he rushed about the house in search of his wife delivering the news to her also kissing her with youthful exuberance only to discover a short time after that Wilson had been reelected, stopped twirling and leaned forward very graciously informing the counsel that his time was up.

The next case was called and as the arguments were opened I noticed that the Justices were sitting back at ease resting as it were from the preceding case. There wasn't a frown or a twirl from the entire bench. In fact frowning is not a characteristic of these learned men, for their foreheads are smooth and unfurrowed by frowns which many associate with deep thought. All of which led me to the conclusion that twirling must be either conscious or unconscious stimuli to the brain. When this preceding case was about to close, twirling was almost universal and I dare say that they all twirled some weeks ago at the close of the Minnesota Mortgage Moratorium case which constituted the first real test of the New Deal from a constitutional standpoint.

Some day I am going back and check up on this peculiar twirl, which from my observations east of the Mississippi, is strictly peculiar to the august Supreme Court. The House of Representatives was very dull today. The members were sprawled around carrying on fifty conversations while one brave fellow held the floor talking for the record. Perhaps under the strain of important business these peculiarities comparable to the twirling of the great tribunal nearby, but today the House was a hodgepodge of confusion.

Yours,

Echo Commentator.

P. S. There may be something in the point that the roots of the nose are located at the center of the brain.

SENIOR DANCE: I'm going to write this dance up myself, so if you expect a fashion review, you'll be disappointed. Names make news, and the following 54 names make the senior dance news: Ann Duoba sent Joe Orlovski a Valentine besides inviting him to this dance. Helen Kelley & Die Johnson in a fast solo dance. Eleanor Bridges in the line with Joe Bishop. Do Donnell, with roses in her hair, looked like a Greek goddess. Mickey Keogh and Spud Peabody coupled off well. Beach and Stevens in the usual role as the life of the party. When a Zete whispered into a Fossilite's ear, "I would like to dance this way forever," the wise college girl cracked, "Don't you ever want to improve?" Kay Wakefield & Norm Brown. Ella Gray did a work of art on the decorations: cupids, valentines, and the Mule kicking hearts in two. Betty Dyson, who has an adagio yearning, and Burt. Fran Perkins said to Bob MacGregor, "Did anyone ever tell you how wonderful you are?" Bob: "Don't believe they ever did." Fran: "Then where did you get the idea?" Harriet Weibel & Geo. Gilpatrick. Annie Tuck & Harold Brown—how come? Sybil Wolman and Nat Alpers (with a red carnation) made a dramatic entrance. Stiegler and Buss together again. has a bit of phitting taken place? Eddy Goodrich & Abbie Hooper (welcome to the column). Peg Salmond with charm galore. Peg Raymond looking like a Valentine. (inside stuff: will Peg follow Peg on the throne?) Zetes & Fideles hold the record for prom trotting—tied with 14 each. Ervin and McLeod didn't get there 'till intermission because they went to Oakland for a tux and ran out of gas. That's a laff: going to Oakland for a tux! BZ White & Dick Noyes. Ruth Handley & prom mgr. Dana Jaquith. Peg Henderson devoting most of her time to Joe Brogden. Adelaide Jordan & frosh Wright. Scrubby Sawyer thinks Marjie Gould has lots of poise. Wally Peacock & Ruth Richardson spent a large part of the evening in the lobby. Noyes Ervin & cons. Virginia Getchell. Ruth Stubbs & Don Smith (Ruth gets about six letters a week from Pete, but I'm lucky to get one—which is printed on the front page—we want more, Pete). Louise Williams with the poet. Babs Bridges & Chet Shaw once again. Myron Johnson & Betty Woodsum—woodsum of you guys come up sumtime? all right, I'm sorry. It was the first time confetti has been used in the gym for years, and there dooey up uoyu quueqioxe quag sum and streamers all came down—prom committee take note. The good-night waltz was particularly enchanting. Cupid was busy. All in all a dance well worth the amount of space I've just given it.

PLOTTINGS: Why did Stiegler, Mosher, and Richardson spend the week-end of the Chi O dance in Boston? After the senior dance, fourteen Zetes making the rounds of the night clubs, Clover Club, Tween Rivers, and Green Lantern. and Ray (Kiss me, Ray) Simmons at the Clover made the girl Noyes Ervin run away from. Polly Green & Joel Allen are plenty on fire. It was Van Slyke and Margaret, not Marie. You've seen those No Smoking per order President and Trustees signs all over the campus—well, when the Trustees hold their meeting in Chem Hall, the first thing they do is to send down to lab for casseroles to use as ash trays. Sanroma's stock of jokes is rare, to say the least. Goding moves his lips to keep in time with the music. Sybil Wolman is going to the Theodore Irvine School of the Drama in New York next year. Bill Close and Florence have phitted. Jim Guiney is still wondering about that case of ginger ale at Tween Rivers. Binyon afraid to show anyone that enormous Valentine he received. Lost: one egg, finder please return to Ercole Addy. The only time I hear any news about Eleanor MacCarey is when I go home. Hal Metzner went to the men's infirmary looking for Myra Whittaker—was his face crimson. he didn't know there were two college hospitals. (Theres' an idea!) the red tape he had to go thru' to get to the proper place in Foss Hall made him breathe a sigh of relief when he finally reached the open air. Stan Plotkin goes moony when he gazes at Eleanor Ross. (I'll tell my uncle!) Who sent that ball and chain Valentine to Muriel Baille. Bob Colomy's hair gets all curly up on rainy days—zehr ducky. Will the $100 ECHO scholarship go to a prominent football player? When Johnny Alden's friend comes up from Augusta, celebrations are in order. GYM DANCE TONIGHT Prof. McCoy will officially censor the musical comedy "Moon Madness" and you can chalk down in your diary now, April 19, if only to hear Kay Herrick sing Win Clement's wail song "Liar of Love" . . . it gets you. How would you like to be in the front line of the famous chorus of men dressed as girls that will be in the show? Watch for the call next week. Paul Stiegler may go to West Point. One of the not-so-lucky freshmen, after midyears, wired home as follows: "Examinations splendid, professors enthusiastic; they wish me to repeat in September."

Visibly affected, the Camera Club press agent turned away. Then he stopped and brightened. "O yes, and say something about the News Reel." "The News Reel?" he was asked. He looked about, drew nearer, dropped his voice to a hoarse whisper: "The News Reel plus The Plotter! We turned down Walter Winchell flat and have procured the popular ECHO columnist to accompany the news shots with a running fire of his inimitable chatter. Scenes including Colby's championship golfers, last spring's May Festival, Commencement, NRA parade, football practice, Northeastern game, hockey, and the Phi Delta kiddy party. And the best moment of all is the 'allez-ooop' act put on by Stone & Coyne exclusively for the news reel."

Still wagging his head, Krinsky ambled towards the door while there drifted back echoes of stupendous . . . colossal . . . epic, and other modest adjectives. Hand on the knob, he turned and shouted: "And dancing until 11.30."

Once more, peace reigned in the City Room, broken only by the clatter of typewriters, the shrill cries of the copy-boys and the throb of the great press beneath.

Each year Turkey and Greece ship us thousands of bales of fine tobaccos—

But why send 4,000 miles for tobacco?

... because spicy, aromatic Turkish is the best seasoning there is for a cigarette.

It adds something to flavor and aroma that no other tobacco can give. Chesterfield uses Turkish tobacco—from Samsoun, Smyrna, Cavalla and Xanthi.

Then it blends and cross-blends them with various kinds of choice home-grown tobaccos in the right balance to give you a cigarette that's milder, a cigarette that tastes better.
