Outing Club House On New Campus is Now Ready for Use

Skis, Toboggans Bought

Report of Committee Reveals Large Possibilities

The farmhouse on Mayflower Hill is now ready for use by winter sport enthusiasts! During vacation those in charge of the project purchased 10 pairs of skis and poles and three toboggans for the benefit of those who lack the proper equipment. These are to be left permanently at the house. Also the kitchen was thoroughly equipped with a stove, and various necessary utensils. Several chairs were purchased for the fireplace living room. A cord of wood for the stove and fireplace was taken to the farmhouse yesterday to complete preparations for its use.

The next move is up to the students. There are no restrictions as to the use of the farmhouse. The key will be at Professor Loeb's office for the asking. Students are merely requested to put the house in order when they have finished with it. In the case of mixed parties chaperonage will be necessary.

It has been emphasized by those heading this new project on Mayflower Hill that students will take complete advantage of the opportunity afforded them. It is to be admitted that this is but a small beginning this year. A farmhouse vastly improved and a program a great deal more extensive may well be expected if the student body shows keen interest this year.

To illustrate the larger possibilities

John Moody Oldest Living Grad 89, Jan. 28

John Franklin Moody of the class of 1867, the oldest living Colby graduate will celebrate his eighty-ninth birthday on January 28. Born at Kingfield in 1846 Mr. Moody received his M. A. degree from Bowdoin College in 1871 and from Colby in 1874. He has been an educator throughout his life having been principal of Hebron, Yarmouth, and Bridgton Academies, and of Edward Little High School.

To Mr. Moody goes the credit of organizing and playing on the first Colby college baseball team. Mr. Moody resides at Hebron in the summer months. He is now at his winter home in Haines City, Florida.

Do Donnell, '34, Marries John Vickery of Belfast

A New Year's day event of special interest to Colby students was the wedding at Baltimore of Miss Doris A. Donnell, '34, to Mr. John A. Vickery, a U. of M. graduate. "Do," who won popularity at college through her many activities and her pleasing personality was last year's winner of the Condon medal for college citizenship, as well as president of the Student Government. Because of an unfortunate foot infection which confined the bride to her home, the wedding took place at Baltimore, rather than at Providence, as had been planned. Mr. and Mrs. Vickery will reside at Belfast.

FRESHMAN REPORTERS

Hereafter the system of the assignment sheet will be abolished. Assignments will be made Saturdays at chapel time in the college chapel. The team whose turn it is to work this coming week will meet at such time and place this Saturday.

Professor Benninghoff From Japan to be Here

Of extraordinary interest to the Colby students is the coming of Professor H. B. Benninghoff of Waseda University, Japan, an institution of more than 10,000 students. As an interpreter of Japan to America, few men are so well qualified. Serving as he does in the dual capacity of missionary and member of the faculty of Waseda, Dr. Benninghoff has had exceptional opportunities for entering into the lives of both students and teachers. The Japanese rank him as a professor of the Department of Political Science, where he is lecturer on American Institutions. Dr. Benninghoff will speak to the Colby students at a voluntary joint chapel on Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Every student is urged to take advantage of this opportunity to hear Dr. Benninghoff.

Twelve Speakers Are Chosen for Hallowells

The following students have been selected from the preliminary trials to take part in the annual Hallowell Prize Speaking Contest to be held on the evening of January 17:

Laurance Dow, '35, Belfast; Edward John Gurney, Jr., '35, Waterville; Clarence Adelbert Morrill, '35, Auburn; Carl Eugene Reed, '35, Amity; Harold Willard Hickey, '36, Turner; George Howard Holbrook, '36, Randolph, Mass.; Asa Hudson Roach, '36, Smyrna Mills; Ernest Joseph Roderick, '36, Waterville; Joel Allen, '37, Waterville; Frederick Goode Foster, '37, Monticello; John Robert Haskell, '37, Houlton; Philip Everrett Coleman, '38, Brewer.

President Franklin W. Johnson was the speaker at the men's assembly, Friday morning, January 4th. His address was taken from the text of the News Letter which he sends out to the Alumni every year. The letter informs the Alumni of the activities and the aspirations of the college.

The college finances, especially the gifts and bequests, were stressed. The estates of Colonel Charles P. Kling, $328,165; Fred M. Preble, $8,500; Waldo Pratt, $1,000; and Eleanora S. Woodman, $12,500, total a little more

Foreign Fellowship Open to Student Body

Through the international student exchanges of the Institute of International Education in New York City, opportunity to study abroad is offered to seniors and recent graduates of our American colleges. The exchange fellowships usually cover board, lodging, and tuition. A student should have money of his own sufficient to cover traveling, vacation, and incidental expenses. Opportunities are open to both men and women. These fellowships have been established as an international exchange in appreciation of those offered by American colleges to the nationals of the countries concerned.

Fellowships are offered for advanced study in Austria, Czechoslovakia, France, Germany, Hungary, Italy, Spain, and Switzerland.

Camera Club to Hold Meeting January 11

A meeting of the Colby Camera Club and any other interested students will be held next Friday, January 11, in the Brown Studio, 50 Main street (over the Penney store). Our hosts will be Carleton D. Brown, '33, and Ford A. Grant, '34, both of whom are past presidents of the Colby Camera Club and are now associated in a professional photographic business. Besides an instructive program which is being arranged, plans for the winter's work of the club will be discussed.

$1000 Appropriated By Alumni Council For Student Loans

Is Available 2nd Semester

No Loan to Exceed $100; Terms of Payment Easy

A new source of revenue will be available to the Junior and Senior students, beginning with the second semester, in the form of a fund of a thousand dollars which has been established by the Alumni Council. The aid will be made solely in the form of loans.

Among other conditions attached to the obtaining of aid from this fund are the following outstanding: the maximum loan to any one individual will not exceed one hundred dollars, the money is to be paid directly to the treasurer for credit on the semester bill, and interest on the note shall amount to six per cent.

There are three methods of payment open to the students who may apply for aid. The Council has been extremely liberal and easy in the terms which they have laid down. Plan three allows four years to elapse before demanding complete payment.

It is the aim of the Council to make the funds for the loan rotating and each year to increase the fund available until a very considerable amount shall have been accumulated.

Below are given the complete regulations concerning the loans:

Applications for Alumni Council loans should be made to the Alumni Secretary not later than February 10. I. The bases of these loans shall be character and financial need of the applicant.

II. The maximum loan to any individual shall be one hundred dollars ($100), and the total amount of the loans in 1935 shall not exceed one thousand dollars ($1,000).

III. Loans shall be granted by a

Kling Will Provides For Twenty Scholarships

Beginning with the college year of 1935-36 the college will award twenty scholarships of one hundred dollars each to male students in accordance with provisions in the will of the late Charles Potter Kling; namely, that the income of his specific bequest should be used to provide scholarships for needy students of American Colonial or Revolutionary ancestry.

The scholarships are available to students already enrolled in the college and to prospective Freshmen who have fully met the requirements for admission. Application must be made not later than May first, and awards will be made on July first.

Applicants must show that they are in need of financial assistance and must present proof of Colonial or Revolutionary ancestry.

Applications must be presented and awards will be made annually. The receipt of one of these scholarships for one year does not guarantee its continuance in subsequent years. Since the number of applicants will greatly exceed the number of scholarships, the committee will grant awards to students of proven accomplishment in college or to entering Freshmen of highest promise.

For further information or for application blanks inquiries should be addressed to The Committee on Scholarships.

SPORTS OF THE ECHO

Puck Chasers In Impressive 11-2 Win Over Bates

Colby Completely Superior in Every Department

Featuring a veteran forward line backed by a comparatively inexperienced defense trio, the Colby pucksters impressively launched themselves in the state series hockey race by defeating Bates, the leading contender, 11-2. Ross, Lemieux, and Paganucci, playing their second season together as the first forward line, presented a brilliant show of passing which completely overwhelmed the Garnet defense and, consequently, caused the goalie considerable worry. On the other hand Russell, Sheehan, and Sparkes, with Thompson, Colby's new string-tender, had little trouble in repulsing the Bates scoring threats. Mendall did good individual work for the losers, but his and his teammates' passing game proved to be far inferior to that of their foemen.

Heldman, Bates goalie, felt the pressure of the strong and sustained attack sent in his direction by a total of eleven wearers of the gray and blue, who pushed the disc down the frozen surface. Ross and Paganucci were exceptionally capable in this department of the game as they went down the sides of the rink, with the cage as the focal point of their advance. Lemieux figured in this play as center man slightly in the rear of the wings. Several times during the fray, the defense men threaded the opposition to add impetus to the already concentrated attack. Sheehan tallied three points in this fashion, two of them unassisted. Lemieux made four of his scores after dribbling the puck from his center position.

The superiority of the Colby team probably was best shown by the fact that in the absence of both defense men in the third period it was able to score. From their showing in this season opener, the Mules can be judged as a fast ice outfit which, despite the lack of experience on the part of the defense, will go places in hockey this year. At the present time Coach Millett is satisfied with the work of Thompson, new Colby goalie, who has come up fast from a defense position to guard the cage like a veteran.

Frosh Basketeers To Meet Coburn

The young Mule hoopsters will engage in their second contest of the year in the gym Saturday afternoon against the Coburn Classical team with the opening whistle at 2.30. The boys were not downhearted by their defeat at the hands of Winslow last Saturday and will be out to break into the win column with a bang this week.

Rex Tarbell played a great game at center against the high school lads from over the river and is improving every day. The forwards, Larry Haynes, Johnny Pullen, and Al Berrie will be drilled all the week in the art of breaking under the basket and shooting accurately. Coach Roundy was not satisfied with the way his team missed the rim Saturday evening and does not want it to happen against Coburn.

The guard positions may be shaken up this week and it is probable that Dick Dow, Eddie Seay and Gene Williams will be given a chance to show their wares. These boys were not in the best of condition for the Winslow game, but have been coming along great and should be able to give a good account of themselves.

A. T. O. Leads in Fraternity Athletics

Professor Gilbert F. Loeb has announced the point standing among the fraternities in the contest for the Alden C. Sprague Memorial Trophy and at the end of the first half of the year's program Alpha Tau Omega is leading Zeta Psi by a sizeable point margin.

The Sprague Trophy will be presented to the fraternity having scored the greatest number of points according to the new point scoring system, so get your men out and try to get the cup in June.

Standing:

Alpha Tau Omega	445
Zeta Psi	280
Delta Kappa Epsilon	235
Delta Upsilon	215
Lambda Chi Alpha	205
Phi Delta Theta	165
Kappa Delta Rho	90
Tau Delta Phi	65

Frat Court Practice Dates Announced

Following is the practice schedule for the fraternity basketball teams in their preparation for the league championship competition which will begin after mid-years:

Jan. 9—Non-Frat, 7-8.30

Jan. 10—Delta Kappa Epsilon, 7-8.30.

(Notice: Obtain your basketballs from the equipment room before 6 o'clock or you will not be able to get them. All practice sessions will be in the evening with the league starting shortly after mid-years.)

Frosh Court Team In One Point Loss

The first official Colby Frosh hoop aggregation lost a close decision of 24 to 23 to the Black Raiders of Winslow last Saturday night in the Winslow gymnasium.

A foul shot by Poirier of Winslow in the final minute of play brought victory to the Raiders after Eddie Roundy's men had evened the count in the third period.

Heinie Kammandel, brilliant Frosh guard opened the scoring in the first quarter, but this slim lead was soon overcome.

Winslow's smooth working forward line of Arsenaull, Poirier, and Guazdosky began to click and produced a 6 to 2 lead at the end of the first quarter and an 17 to 8 lead at half-time.

Despite a severe cold, Rex Tarbell led the visitors attack which produced a 10 to 10 tie at the close of the third quarter. The fourth quarter saw the Raiders break the deadlock momentarily, and take the lead, through the sharpshooting of Poulin. Again Rex Tarbell utilized his six feet four inches to knot the count once more. Neither team, although serious threats were made, could break through the opposing defense and it was only the result of Poirier's foul shot which turned back the tired invaders from Colby in the last minute of play.

Tarbell and Kammandel were outstanding for the Frosh, while Poulin and Poirier starred for the home team.

THE MULE KICKS
By Jerry Ryan

Colby's 11-2 win over Bates last Saturday afternoon affirmed reports that the Mules are going to have a powerful hockey club this winter, but certainly Bates did not present a real test. Had it not been for the fine individual work of Carl Heldman in the Bates draperies, the score would have been much more sizeable. 61 stops in a Maine collegiate hockey game is an afternoon's work for any goalie and Heldman looked the part of a real net guardian.

At Bowdoin in Brunswick Saturday the Blue and Gray skaters will face a much harder test. The Polar Bears have a fine club; that is if holding New Hampshire's 2-1 means anything. Coach Lin Wells has the greenest Bowdoin club in history, but according to reports he has molded together a scrappy sextet. Dick Steer, the Bowdoin goalie will be a hard man to pass and the boys will have to keep working all afternoon. In addition to this, the Polar Bear defense is not as weak as Bates and it will not be so easy to score goals. Thomas and Rutherford are two Bowdoin forwards who will be worth watching.

The fact that Colby didn't accept the responsibility of sponsoring the Eastern Interscholastic Basketball Tournament seems to have aroused the ire of the Principals' Association officials. Maine's leading high school sages could not understand Colby's reasons for not wishing to sponsor such a risky proposition, but they managed to put their views to the front in the daily papers. There are many financial angles to the tournament which were not disclosed by the Colby officials, but which were the main reason that the acceptance of the tourney proposition did not seem expedient. In addition to this, it would entail a great deal of time and trouble and Colby would gain little or nothing by it in the end.

About the time that the tournament comes along, Colby is always in the full swing of her early spring program. It is about that time of the late winter when the baseball men begin limbering up their arms and the trackmen are also working out daily in the field house. If the tournament were held all college activities, both athletically and socially, would come to a standstill for a couple of days and nothing would be gained from the wasted time.

Campus flashes—Professor Loeb will inaugurate a new custom Saturday afternoon after the Frosh-Coburn game in the form of a tea dance. This move is to be commended as there is not much doing in the line of excitement on Saturdays and such recreation in the future would be appreciated by the student body. . . while on social subjects it would be well to make known that Bill Deans is planning the biggest Sophomore dance in history. Bill hopes to make the date sometime in March and promises a good orchestra and plenty of entertainment.

OFF THE BACKBOARD
Rex Tarbell has the makings of a great center and with a little more competitive experience he should go places. Larry Haynes shapes up as the fastest man on the yearling team. He breaks fast and is a crack shot. Gene Williams made a fine showing in the practice game with Foahd Saliem's Syrian A. C. team in the gym Monday afternoon and will probably see more service during the remainder of the week. The work of Bud McGown, Eddie Seay, and Dick Dow was also consistent.

IV. Loans shall be granted only to seniors and juniors and paid directly to the Treasurer of Colby College for credit on the semester bill, as stipulated in the application for this loan.

V. Upon approval of the application for the loan, the loan shall be negotiated through the medium of a note bearing six per cent (6%) interest, signed jointly and severally by the student and his parent or guardian.

VI. Interest on notes paid in full within twelve (12) months from the date of issue shall be waived.

VII. Notes not paid within one (1) year may be renewed only if interest is paid on or before the due date and one of the following plans adopted for the repayment of the principal sum. (Plan 3 is available and applies only to borrowers attending graduate or professional schools.)

1. Monthly installments of ten per cent (10%) of the principal sum and accrued interest every month for ten (10) months, beginning with the date of renewal.

2. Payment of twenty-five per cent (25%) of the principal sum on the date of renewal and twenty-five (25%) of the principal and accrued interest every three (3) months for nine (9) months.

3. Beginning with the date of renewal, repayment to be made in the following manner: ten per cent (10%) of the principal and accrued interest thereon during the first year, twenty per cent (20%) of the principal and accrued interest thereon during the second year, thirty per cent (30%) of the principal and accrued interest thereon during the third year, and forty per cent (40%) of the principal and accrued interest thereon during the fourth year.

VIII. These loans shall be made with the definite purpose of starting a permanent rotating loan fund. Neglect to meet this obligation promptly will deny some other deserving student financial aid. The record of a borrower's performance in meeting this obligation will be filed as part of his character record at the Personnel Bureau. If the borrower fails to meet this financial obligation to the Alumni Council or fails to give good and sufficient reason for the violation of the terms of his note, he must expect legal proceedings to be started for the collection of the note.

Mayflower Hill farmhouse as an Outing Club Headquarters herewith presents its report:

As the committee studied the proposition out there on the location, and later on among ourselves, it grew upon us that the possibilities of the plan were greater than we had originally realized. Hence, although realizing that we are exceeding the duties laid down to us, we feel that there is no harm in outlining the larger aspects of the plan, as well as reporting upon the scheme as first conceived.

What we foresee is the establishment of "The Mayflower Hill Clubhouse," an off-campus social and recreational center. This would consist chiefly of a large room extending the whole width of the house. The picture includes a big fireplace at one end and furniture in maple and chintz of appropriate early American design, warm harmonious decorations of simple style, hooked rugs, and the like. In appearance it should be as perfect an example of taste and charm as the Social Room of the Alumnae Building. Other equipment would include a supply of games, books, reading lamps, and the like. Besides this main room there would be a kitchen equipped for preparing simple "feeds," or, if the need seemed to arise, for more elaborate meals. There would also be cloakrooms and toilets for both men and women.

The use of such a place is apt to develop in unexpected ways, but it can be easily foreseen that it could become a valuable adjunct to our social life.

At present, there is no place on the campus for any organization of both men and women to hold a meeting, except in a classroom, or by asking the Women's Division for use of one of the rooms in the Alumnae Building. There is no place at any time of the week where a man student can entertain a girl friend. There is no place where groups of men can be hosts to women at social gatherings, with the exception of fraternity house dances. There is no place anywhere near the equivalent of the Alumnae Building where men's organizations can hold meetings or suppers. There is no possible place in the Library for a "browsing room" such as has worked so successfully in many colleges. Finally, we are all aware of the paramount need of a headquarters for snow sports.

The proposed clubhouse would fulfil many of these wants. The project involves many new problems, the answers to which your committee does not pretend to know, but no insurmountable obstacle seems to arise.

Physically, the house would lend itself to such treatment. The college carpenter has stated that the partitions can be removed without damage to the structure of the house. A mason has stated that it is easily possible to enlarge the fireplace and install a damper. The present toilet is only partially installed and, from the plumbing standpoint, there would be no difficulty in making a different installation in one of the back rooms. There is a hot air furnace apparently in workable condition, which would serve to heat the big room and the cloak rooms. The water situation needs some further study.

The question of finances is the key problem. Your committee feels, however, that with this broader program, broader support can be expected from the college, from the students, and from the alumni. The women graduates succeeded in achieving the erection of the Alumnae Building and this project, a mere fraction of that task, might enlist the enthusiastic backing of the alumni. We strongly suggest that the cooperation of the alumni organizations be solicited. However, this whole project seems to call for study by a more inclusive and more authoritative committee.

than $350,000, all of which has come into the college since last July. During Christmas alone $2,000 has come into Colby as gifts from the Alumni, $1,000 of which is to be available next semester to Juniors and Seniors in the form of loans. Twenty scholarships of $100 apiece from the Kling estate will be given to students having ancestors in the Revolutionary and Colonial periods in American history.

The Health Service at Colby will be improved next year. Outstanding in the plans is the Tuberculosis Test to be administered to every student. $50,000 of the Woodman Estate is to be utilized in the Health Service Program.

President Johnson also mentioned that the college-owned buildings were going to be improved.

Another activity of increasing importance is the Vocational Placement Service through which Colby Alumni are aided in finding satisfactory employment. Professor Warren is heading this service.

Since the News Letter sent out in 1933, Colby College has attained athletic fame. Colby teams have captured the Maine Championships in Hockey, Golf, Baseball, and Tennis Doubles, and runner-up in the State Series Football Championship. Cliff Veysey, '36, has placed Colby in the headlines by virtue of his prowess on the track last year.

The Winter Sports program at Mayflower Hill has been encouraged a good deal and is expected to hold a prominent position in Colby College in years to come.

Colby College has stood up very well indeed financially and otherwise, during the school year 1933-34, and is expected to surpass its previous records this year.

New Colby Orchestra Holds First Rehearsal

The Colby College symphony composed of 55 members including seven professional musicians of Waterville, to make the instrumentalism complete, began its rehearsals at the Alumnae Building on Sunday, January 6 at 2.15 P. M.

The orchestra rendered such difficult numbers as the overture to Gluck's "Orpheus in the Underworld" and Grieg's "Peer Gynt Suite," and selections of a less difficult nature such as: Rudolf's Friml's opera, "Firefly" and the waltz, "Spring, Beautiful Spring" by Paul Lincke.

Rehearsals will be held on Wednesday at 8.15 P. M. and on Sunday at 2.15 P. M. The orchestra will probably be ready for public appearance in March at which time they will give a concert including orchestral numbers, string ensemble numbers, and vocal and instrumental solos.

The names of orchestra members and their respective positions follow:

ALUMNI COUNCIL STUDENT LOANS

THE announcement of the new fund for student loans which the Alumni Council is making available for the second semester should be received with a great deal of satisfaction by the student body. There is little doubt but that every penny of the 1000 dollars available will be utilized by students in need of financial aid.

The Alumni Council, in this forward step, is filling a need which is all too apparent. Although the college has aided students considerably through granting of scholarships and providing work there has never been any service connected with the college officially through which students could borrow money. It is the aim of the Council by adding a little yearly to this fund of $1000 eventually to establish a considerable fund.

The terms of the loans are especially gratifying. The Council has realized the financial stress of the times. That even after graduation it is not always possible to obtain work or employment which has much in the way of remuneration. With this in mind it has made the repayment of the loans especially easy. If paid within a year, the interest will be waived entirely. Then, too, in the easiest plan of payment, a period of four years is allowed. Terms could hardly be easier than these.

WHY NOT A SKATING RINK?

IT is a crying shame that Colby lacks a skating rink for hockey and recreational facilities. In late years we have sponsored a hockey team which has been outstanding in small college circles in New England. We have been state champions more often than not. Last year the coveted honor was ours and if that smashing victory of last Saturday means anything it would appear as though the bunting was to be ours again this season.

Yet in order to practice, the team has to journey to the other end of the town and devote an inadequate amount of time on a poorly constructed and undersized rink. Accustomed to a pint-sized playing surface the team is under a handicap when it ventures into foreign territory. Furthermore it is an insult to visiting teams to entertain them on the South-end rink.

If only to do justice to a sport which Colby athletes have repeatedly excelled in we should have a rink of our own. But there is yet another aspect to the question. There are absolutely no facilities for college students who enjoy skating. Last year there was a small ice surface at Foss Hall but even that has been abolished this winter. A college of the size of Colby ought certainly to furnish an opportunity for skating, outstanding of the winter sports.

We heard last year about the great things that were to be done in the "New Deal" in athletics. Is it true there was a complete reorganization and a much better set-up inaugurated, but with the sole exception of golf, there has been no new opportunities in the way of sports offered. This is no fault of the head of the Athletic Department, it is certain that he would like to see a college rink.

Of course the thing that prevents our having a rink is lack of money. It would seem that this is a rather poor excuse. Each year two hundred dollars is paid to the South End rink for its use. This constitutes about a fourth of the cost of a good rink. The outlay saved here yearly by having a rink would warrant the initial cost. Next comes the argument of upkeep. There is little doubt but that a good number of students would be more than glad to pay a small sum for the use of the rink until such time as the department could handle the upkeep of the rink.

There is no excuse for the lack of a skating rink at Colby. Goodness knows that our athletic facilities are poor enough. Most good secondary schools are far ahead of Colby in the way of athletic equipment. But certainly the college should be able to provide for a skating rink. The football field is an admirable location for such a skating surface. It is not too late yet to erect a rink.

BASKETBALL DANCES

THE Athletic Department is trying its hand at something entirely new next Saturday when a tea dance will be held following the Freshman basketball game. The idea appears to be a rather good one in that it provides an all-college dance during the winter season when gym dances are giving way to the sorority and class affairs. Opportunity for watching a good sport contest and enjoying a dance afterward will be provided free for those who have athletic books and for the small charge of twenty-five cents for those who do not. Certainly a bargain price.

The only difficulty which clouds an otherwise clear horizon is whether or not there will be co-eds in sufficient abundance to go around. It is to be hoped that holding the affair in the men's gym will not frighten the fairer sex. The use of the Alumnae Building was sought but because the Sigma dance occurs on that same date it was found that the game would interfere with the decorations.

There would seem to be fine opportunities throughout the winter season for passing a dull Saturday afternoon in some such interesting manner. It might be very possible to run off some of the games in the Interfraternity League with a tea dance arrangement. Student interest in the new affair this Saturday will no doubt largely determine the success or failure of the scheme.

The Colby Scene

The announcement of the visit to Colby by T. Z. Koo brought to the mind of the writer the circumstances, far removed from this college, under which he first heard this brilliant young Chinese scholar some ten years ago.

The scene was in England at Swain in Derbyshire. The occasion was the annual summer conference of the Student Christian Movement. Meetings were held in a large circus tent and the writer well remembers the impression of personal charm and spiritual power made upon him by this representative of the Orient. In the evening, there was a "sing-song" (what we could call a "college song") and Mr. Koo obliged with selections on a flute which quite brought down the house.

That contact with British university students was a stimulating experience. Superficially quite different from the American student type, they were much the same underneath. The slang was unfamiliar, but the rough-houses were the same.

I was assigned to a sleeping tent with about thirty fellows from Cambridge University. Each of us had a bag of straw which they called something that sounded like "pally-ass" and a blanket or two. The principal meals were held in another big tent, and the men had a habit of drumming on the board tables with their knife handles and raising a terrific din upon the slightest provocation.

The words "principal meals" were used intentionally, for this was the "eatingest" conference that I ever attended. We ate six times a day. Besides the regulation breakfast, dinner and supper, we indulged in coffee and crackers in the middle of the forenoon, the inevitable British afternoon tea, and cocoa the last thing at night. The delightful thing about these between-meal snacks was the opportunity which they afforded for informal fellowship and for easily widening one's circle of acquaintance.

Even with this full schedule (or "shedule" as they pronounced it) of meals and meetings, there was some time for recreation and there were some footballs and cricket paraphernalia around. Instead of amusing themselves by punting or passing the footballs to each other as American boys would have done, they would tear up and down the field in groups of three or four, making lateral passes back and forth to each other as they ran, this being one of the chief plays in Rugby football.

The usual uniform consisted of shorts and blazers. The latter were decorated with the college crest and were made of brilliantly striped material, the different kinds of stripes denoting membership on some varsity team and meant as much to them as our letters do to us.

It was fun comparing notes on college life in the two countries. For one thing, I was amazed to find that England is full of small colleges and technical schools, and to think of higher education in that country in terms of Oxford and Cambridge is as erroneous as to think of Harvard and Yale as the only American universities.

The serious side of the conference was much like our own student conferences at Northfield and elsewhere. The peace question was uppermost at the time and I could not help feeling that it was a deeper problem with them than with us. To Colby students, it is more or less of an academic question to discuss what one should conscientiously do if one's country were invaded by a foreign power. But to the English, with the memories of Zeppelin attacks still fresh, the question was very real. Or, to take another topic, "passive resistance" might intrigue American students as idealistic theory; to those young Englishmen, accepting this principle and consequently upholding Ghandi's practice of it, might mean the final ruination of the badly depressed cotton industry which was throwing their own home towns into horrible poverty.

To a student coming from the prosperous America of 1924 to the depressed English of that year, it was apparent that the British student was up against bigger and more real problems and was thinking them through in a deeper and more mature manner. Since then, America has had reality thrust upon it, and it is probable that the thinking student of Colby today is more like his British cousin in seriousness of purpose.

Colby has the distinction of being the only small college to place a man on the 1924 All-Eastern football team. Ben Soule, '25, has been selected as left end. Of him the Christian Science Monitor says, "Soule, had he been on a big college team, would have received even more recognition than has been the case. He was a brilliant player, both offensively and defensively. He had a very keen eye for the ball and seldom missed an opportunity to capture a loose one."

The interfraternity basketball season opened Tuesday afternoon. Two games were played before a large crowd, the first between Delta Upsilon and Alpha Tau Omega. The latter team was always in the lead and easily won by a score of 26 to 10. The second game between the Alphas and the Lambda Chi Alphas was a thriller, flashy playing by Hannifen in the last few minutes of play deciding the final score of 27 to 20 in favor of L. C. A.

This bit of verse was gleaned from Walter Winchell's popular syndicated column "On Broadway."

New Deal or Old Deal he's out for the story,

He'll take the news beats—and you take the glory.

The entire world is his laboratory—

He is a newspaperman!

He "takes it"—he loves it—he dishes it out,

He covers a drama—a fire—or bout.

He goes right back in after they've tossed him out—

He is a newspaperman!

He'll drink down your lager—but "Please make it rye?"

And answer his queries—when he asks you "why?"

His poor wife's a widow—her life is a sigh—

She married a newspaperman!

He shuffles the cards, and he bets on the races,

He knows all the alleys and out-of-way places,

And sometimes it isn't just news he chases—

For he is a newspaperman!

Evelyn Stapleton Writes of Many Differences in French Education

No Cuts; Campused Permanently; Lights Out 10:15

Evelyn Stapleton, '33, Colby Foreign Exchange Student to France, who has accepted a position as "assistante d'Anglais" at an Ecole Normale in Bourg, sends many interesting letters telling of her life in France. For the past year she has been at Sevres, and has greatly enjoyed it, although she says, "It's like being in classes with only the most formidable kind of Phi Betes. If a professor talks an hour overtime, no one notices or minds. If he talks undertime, they accuse him of being lazy. 'Cuts' just don't exist."

She has made many friends, all of whom have been most kind. Professor and Mme. Cestre, of the Sorbonne have taken great interest in her. "Professor Cestre is a tall, distinguished man with a super-model moustache and goatee (and I assure you that there are many imposing models in France); and in punctuating what he says with merely a certain clearing of the throat or a particular arch of the brows, he produces the same effect that professors at home can get only by banging their fists down on a table."

Evelyn has traveled about France and visited many famous places "I went out to the Chateau d'If—a stone prison-fortress on a rocky island off the coast of Marseille. Ever since I read 'Monte Cristo' I have longed to see that prison. And I shall never forget how it looked when I was returning by boat—as it was silhouetted on its rocky cliff, against the fiery sunset that made the waves, which broke against the rocks, look like flames leaping around the base."

"Once a month the American University Union gives a dance. I have been to two. At both dances I met Guy Raviart, and we talked about Colby and mutual friends. He says he prefers Colby Gym Dances to any of the dances in Paris."

"Breakfast consists of a bowlful of French coffee and a miniature loaf of French bread—with butter. Its the one time we are served butter during the day. The coffee is drunk in one, or all, of three ways: 1, sipped with a big soup-spoon, like soup; 2, gradually soaked into the bread by the process of 'dunking'; 3, drunk by grasping the bowl with both hands and bringing it up to the mouth."

"Foss Hall regulations seem like an example of extreme liberalism now! The rules here are, really, quite impossible when one thinks that the girls are from 19-23 years old! We are not allowed to step outside the premises (Thursday P. M. and Sundays excepted) except between 12.30 and 2.00 P. M., when everyone rushes out for a mid-day walk. It's like a permanent 'Campus' penalty."

"The only thing to which I cannot adjust myself is the lights going out at 10.15. They just go out—and there I am left, sitting in the dark, with my mind just beginning to function! The only thing which consoles me is the view of the Eiffel Tower which I have from my bedroom window.

"I regret, in a way, not being near Paris and my friends there. But it will be fun to know another part of France, and I like the idea of 'new worlds to conquer.' After all, 'Paris alone isn't France.'"

Dr. Koo Talks on China In Outstanding Lecture

Dr. Koo gave what is considered to be the most illuminating address delivered on the topic of China that has ever been given in this vicinity. Speaking on "China in the Remaking," Dr. Koo early impressed his audience with his perfect command of the English language and its idioms. Dr. Koo first gave a picture of the political phase of change as now manifested in China. Not so many years ago every Chinese young man was taught to leave government severely alone, but a radical change is now taking place in that nearly every family now teaches its children that governmental service is commendable and worthwhile. So that now, instead of the comparatively few newcomers under the old system of training, new men are constantly seeking government service and a chance to put their ideas and ideals into practice.

Turning to the actual governmental structure, Dr. Koo then gave a lucid explanation of the evolution of the dynastic form of government down to the Chinese republic of today. For over two thousand years China was governed by dynastic reign. The Han, Ming, T'ang, Chou, and numbers of other families each held sway over the destinies of China up till the year of 1912 when a republic was established. At the beginning it was nothing more than a republic in name only for a period of fifteen years of civil war followed in which first one side and then the other was victorious. It was a clash between the old and new groups. The dynasties had left their officials when a republic was formed and they were fighting to regain their old power while on the other hand this new group of Chinese were fighting for new ideals of liberty. The first stable form of government came into being in Nanking in 1928. At first only three southern provinces were in support of this new form of government but by 1934 the situation was entirely reversed with only three outlying provinces of China now being in accord with the republican form of government.

Dr. Koo then turned to the new China in education. Formerly education was reserved for only the very wealthy; now everyone has a chance, 14,000,000 are being educated by state law, and although this is a small percentage of the population of China, strides are being taken in the right direction and the optimum in education is not a remote possibility such as it was a few years ago.

At the close of this, the finest lecture yet held here this year, Dr. Koo played some of the songs of his native China on a bamboo flute peculiar to his country.

ECHO Correspondent Interviews Dr. Koo

Interview by R. William
In this interview no factual evidence not brought to light in his addresses was to be gleaned. The outstanding factor to make itself apparent through personal contact with the man was the intensity of his intellectual training. Every utterance of Dr. Koo bore the stamp of his thorough mental training. Coupled with his academic achievements is a vast store of practical experience. In 1919 Dr. Koo was called to the aid of Dr. Sun Yat Sen, father of the Chinese Revolution, when that man was in the throes of writing a book called "The International Development of China." In this capacity Dr. Koo was in a position to acquaint himself intimately with the fine character of one of the greatest leaders in China's long history. Dr. Koo when asked what conditions in China made it possible for these militaristic advances of the Japanese, explained the interesting phenomena of the split that occurred between Sun's followers after Sun Yat Sen's death. Shortly before Dr. Sun died, he swung away from his old philosophy which he had been preaching for many years and embarked upon a new philosophy which, interestingly enough came from the pen of an American author. Hardly had he made this change when he died, leaving his followers with a confused notion of his doctrine. Thus he precipitated a split among his followers, one faction clinging to his old philosophy and the other just as fervently proclaiming his new doctrine. This difference of opinion sowed the seeds of civil war in China and the consequent disunion paved the way to Japan's trespassing. Strength in China through the aid of other world powers is the only solution to Sino-Japanese situation.

Dr. Koo is a product of the new school in China and his work in this country will do much to promote understanding among the western powers. The force of Dr. Koo's intellect is a striking contrast to his almost delicate physique. In his polite purring voice he bid your correspondent good evening and left him with a conviction that here was a true sample of the character that will yet regain for China her high place among the great civilized nations of the world.

The Schemer Speaks
Sees All, Hears All, Tells All

It's gude to be merry and wise,
It's gude to be honest and true.
And afore you're off wi' the old love
It's best to be on wi' the new.
—Old Scotch Song.

SCHEMER'S MAGIC CRYSTAL . . .
Be it ever so embarrassing and embarrassing, I really hopes you never get caught in one like this . . . the allusion, folkses, is to the fact that Al Vose got stuck to the tune of foah bucks New Year's eve at the Sans Souci . . . a very rendezvous hang out, but the way . . . Al thought there was no cover charge for the evening of mirth, but couldn't leave the joint 'til he had forked over the dough to cover himself, his gal, and the other couple . . . tis sad . . . Clarence Morrill spent much time browsing about here and there in Lewiston during the recess with a bewcheus babe on his arm . . . such are the actions of a collitch boy . . . Hal Hickey was confined, he sez, and on accounta that didn't see more . . . and I promised I wouldn't tell . . . woe is me . . . Joe Stevens now involved in a huge romance with Jo Perry . . . The Bill Meppen of Minnesota and Alice Manley romance has a unique history . . . 'twas born at a conference meeting and ripened in a geology lab . . . strains of Minnesota again, this time of the University . . . Mo Cohen's beautiful is a co-ord there and Mo has been resting very uneasily of late for he's receiving plenty of competish from Pug Lund . . . betcha noone in the Tau Delt house dares to sing the ditty entitled: "You've Got To Be a Football Hero," etc., etc. . . . Clancy, Pete Evers, and George Grace of the "Moon Madness" stooges held an impromptu reunion in a pansy patch in deah ole New York.

It's rumored about that to get a date with Edith Fait involves quite a bit of red tape to be sure . . . Jim Stinnford is the consulted and if he says okay then you're in, fellah . . . Herb DeVeber and Peg Jordan have been wining and dining together quite a bit of late . . . Stale dandelions to the Boston Globe for that crack about Tut Thompson's being tied to the goal in last Saturday's hockey game . . . and guess what . . . that's the paper that the Thompson family way back in Wollaston peruses daily . . . Dick Ball gozonta the spot this week by dint of his Sunday nite meanders with Genevieve Spear . . . We'll wager Stoney didn't exactly break into a hop, skip, and jump when that "Guess Who" write-up appeared verbatim in the Walpole poiper . . . Joe Brogden gave Peg Henderson a pretty, itty ring as a present from Santa . . . a correspondent relays the one about the baby talk exchanged over the wires between the two Haskells, Floyd and Julie . . . have often heard a man's ways change when Cupid is enchanting . . . Frank Mellen has cotched a prize photo, being an honest-to-goodness picture of Priscilla Cram which graces his study desk . . . words on it run, "With all my love," then the moniker attached . . .

OUT OF NOWHERE . . .

Do Donnell, remembered from last year, has taken the fatal step . . . Hocker Ross is out to make us quit ribbing him about the high school dame so guess whutt . . . it's a widow now . . . from the sublime to the ridiculous, huh . . . on the other finger, Paul Landry is happy again that Merlene Giles is back in town . . . Paul Palmer and Betty Wilkinson often coo on those steps atwixt Mower and Dutton which have served as a tete-a-tetery for many a good night before that ten o'clock gong . . . Charlie Dolan's cousin and his girl friend from St. Elizabeth's in New Jersey were up t'other day . . . two girls . . . invited out of the library because they couldn't restrain the tittering . . . Geo Toothaker in the roll of host Sun nite to Milly Morrow at Park's . . . Wade Davis and Duncan Bragg at D. E.-Pi Phi dance in Portland Xmas night . . . Now that we're back home again, another promise must be kept . . . Val Duff says (quote): "Betty Mulkern is the best deke in Colby" . . . Turner probably has more appellation than any other Colbyite . . . Dick Peterson and Helen Lewis have many confidential chats in front of the reserved book alcove . . . they never sit down together . . . in way of reminiscence wonder if Helen got that Frosh cap yet . . . O'Donnell claims he's going to a K. of C. affair, but we have reliable information that it's the Segum Kap dance. Marty, such deception, tsk, tsk.

ABOUT TOUT . . .

Another sapient crack about library duos is that Bill Deans and Dot Trainor always sit in the same two seats . . . The "We Three Klub" gaining prominence . . . One can orb the Gamma Phi Kappa pin that Dot Washburn received from Northeastern any day . . . a flock of Colbyites at the Green Lantern New Years' eve . . . Have ya ever heard about Louis Rancourt's gigantic bashfulness . . . he saunter's past June LaFleur's house many a time but to date hasn't been able to get up enough nerve to go in . . . Sir Walter Raleigh Wright was at the depot at 4 A. M. to meet Muriel Bailie when she drew in on the bus . . . Prof. Colgan, who has furnished this colyum with more than one quip, has come thru again . . . seems as tho Ginnie Swallow wasn't behaving as the rest of the stus in class the other day, so Prof. pipes that it takes more than one swallow to start the new year off right, and that he wasn't thinking of liquor, either . . . All of which seems to culminate the current chatter known as dirt, so . . . best regards . . .
