Tag Day To Benefit "Hocker" Ross Friday

Students Can Show Loyalty By Contributing Freely

The Colby Student Council at its weekly meeting last evening voted to conduct a tag day on Friday of this week, all proceeds of which are to be sent to Elbridge "Hocker" Ross, the Colby graduate who is an outstanding member of the United States Olympic Hockey team. Gerald Ryan inaugurated a movement some time ago to raise money to be sent to Ross. All that is received from the tag day will be added to what Ryan has collected, and the total sum will be forwarded to Ross on Monday of next week.

The tag day will begin on Friday morning, with contribution boxes distributed about the campus. It is hoped that all students, professors and organizations at Colby will contribute freely to this fund in order that "Hocker" may enjoy his trip in Europe to the fullest extent. All Colby students should be more than glad to contribute something, be it large or small, in order to show "Hocker" that his college mates appreciate the athletic recognition he has brought to the college.

No price for the tags has been set, but a contribution of any amount will entitle the student to a tag. When you are approached on Friday, don't miss your opportunity to demonstrate your Colby spirit. Wear a tag on Friday!!!

Professor Haynes Reads Poetry Of South

Pleads For Appreciation Of Negro In Forum

Without so much as, "Pardon my Southern accent," Professor Lowell Q. Haynes deserted Plato and Kant on Sunday night to send a Forum audience into gales of laughter as he lapsed into the dialect of his native Southland. But the amusing readings were not without a philosophic cast of thought as Professor Haynes pleaded for an appreciation of the Negro.

The dialect poems took on greater reality as Professor Haynes, whose own grandfather was a slave-owner, explained the meaning of the Civil war from the Southern point of view. He took the opportunity for condemning war as he blamed the present plight of the South upon the "carpet-bagging" and the militaristic regime that followed the Civil war.

The poems showed different sides of the Negro character, varying from a pathetic devotion to his old "Massa" to a humorous trust in an unruly mule. "Missouri stands at the head in raising mules," said Professor Haynes. "It's the only place where it's safe to stand," he added, pausing for the pun to sink in.

The singing of Negro spirituals following the bi-monthly supper helped create the spirit for the dialect readings. On next Sunday Reverend James Hayes, new pastor of St. Mark's Episcopal church will be speaker at Forum. Mr. Hayes, who has recently come from Utah, will give his impressions of Mormonism, with which he has been able to become acquainted in that state.

ORACLE PICTURES

Several fraternities and other campus organizations have not as yet had their group pictures taken for use in the Oracle. The Board requests students to watch the bulletin boards for the schedule of appointments for these pictures.

New P. E. Instructor For Colby Women

Miss Flora Rogers Will Aid Miss Van Norman

Students of the women's division participating in athletics the second semester will have the privilege of working with Miss Flora Rogers, who will be co-worker of Miss Van Norman and instructor in physical education.

A graduate of the Bouverie Boston School and holding the degree of Bachelor of Science from Simmons college, Miss Rogers is excellently prepared for teaching physical education. Before coming to Colby, Miss Rogers has been instructor in athletics at Howard Seminary, West Bridgewater, Mass. Her home is in Watertown, Mass. Professing to have no favorite, but enthusiastic about sports in general, Miss Rogers is sure to receive a hearty welcome from the members of the women's division.

Quadrennial Delegates In Panel Discussion

It was with continued zeal and enthusiasm that six of the Quadrennial delegates reported the Indianapolis Convention at the Sunday evening service in the First Baptist church.

In animated panel discussion the delegates, with Willard Libby as their chairman, thought through the question of the aims and keynote of the Convention and, also, those points which to each were of differing importance. The array of dominant personalities, from Kagawa, and the Archbishop of York, to the many others, who were present as speakers at the Convention, seemed to be uppermost as the influencing factor; for, it was these great men who showed by their very lives that the doctrines that they presented so simply were entirely workable.

One of the delegates remarked upon the awakening discovery she had made upon the never quite realized responsibilities of being a Christian. "Self-less love" is not the easiest thing in the world to achieve in this capitalistic generation. In direct relation to this last thought was the summarizing statement to the effect that "To put yourself in the second place is the whole significance of life."

The delegates who participated in this discussion were Ruth Yeaton, Alice Manley, Marjorie Gould, Edwin Shuman, Reginald Humphrey, and Willard Libby.

Professor Libby Is Elected President

Dr. Herbert C. Libby of the Colby faculty was elected president of a Smith-for-Governor club Monday evening. The club was organized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Moore on Gilman street with more than 60 in attendance, including Clyde H. Smith of Skowhogan, Republican candidate for governor, and his wife.

During the course of the evening several speeches were made in the interest of the candidacy of Mr. Smith and a hearty support from some of the leading Republican figures in the city was promised. Mr. Smith delivered an interesting talk on some of the aims and objectives of his platform, including that of old age pension, a teachers' retirement fund, and legislation to benefit the laboring man and woman.

Professor Libby is a former mayor of Waterville.

Plan Film Of Life At Colby In Color

Camera Club To Make The Movie In Near Future

A new motion picture of Colby life will be produced in the near future under the direction of Joseph C. Smith, Director of Publicity. It is proposed to make the film entirely in color which will greatly enhance its effectiveness. The continuity will deal with all phases of work and life at Colby and will be used in various high schools and preparatory schools to interest students in this college.

Sheldon R. Rudnick and Laura May Tolman of the Colby Camera club, both of whom have had experience in previous Colby cinema productions, will serve as chief technicians in the project. There will also be opportunity for a number of other students to take part and all those interested should consult Mr. Smith or the above named students. The work involved includes handling the camera, setting up the lighting apparatus, checking the script, cutting, editing, and assisting in the direction. Students will be given a chance to take turns at all of the jobs, so as to give a broad experience. Previous photographic experience is not necessary, but candidates for the production staff will be expected to prepare themselves on the elements of motion picture photography from the printed material available on the Camera Club shelf near the desk in the Old Library. It is hoped to commence shooting soon after this week.

Future Events In Public Speaking

HALLOWELL'S POSTPONED

The annual Hallowell Prize Speaking contest is to be held on Thursday evening, February 13, in the college chapel, and not on the evening of February 6 as previously announced. Twelve students of the men's division will compete for the prizes totaling $175. Next week's issue of the ECHO will contain the subjects of the addresses, names of the speakers, and the officials for the contest.

HAMLIN CONTESTANTS

As a result of the preliminary speaking for the Hamlin prizes which was held in the chapel Tuesday afternoon, the following students were selected to speak in the annual contest to be held on Tuesday evening, March 10: Men—John Chacamaty, Nathaniel Mann Guptill, Wilson Collins Piper, James Joseph Williams. Women—Mary Temple Crowley, Violet Merle Hamilton, Alysian Clara Hooper, Alma Rosette Moses, Rhoda Marilyn Wein, Ernestine Faith Wilson.

SUBJECTS ANNOUNCED

Two contest subjects have been announced by the department of public speaking, one for the annual Levine Extemporaneous Contest to be held on the evening of April 28, and one for the annual Goodwin Contest to be held on the evening of Tuesday, April 14. For the former the subject is "The International Relations of the United States," and for the latter, "Politics of Our Nation." The Goodwin contest is open to the men's division, and the Levine to both divisions.

Visit Of Sec'y. Perkins Will Be Outstanding Event Of Year

Co-Eds Enjoyed Mid-Year Music

Open House Programs Were Successful

If there were any midyear straws to break any innocent and unsuspecting camel's back, the brief musical program which once a week enlivened the atmosphere in Foss Hall must have completely dispelled them. Under the able planning of Myra Whitaker, Student Counsellor, Wednesday night of each week of the mid-year period was given to a thoroughly enjoyable musical half hour after dinner.

A backward glance into the short but fascinating history of America's music was delightfully made possible by Mrs. Gilbert F. Loeb on the first Wednesday evening. Accompanied by Mrs. Henry Rollins of Waterville, the magic folk-songs, of Indian melodies, and of modern harmonies was transformed into reality as Mrs. Loeb played on her violin. Then, turning to the influence of other races upon American music, Myra Whitaker sang some of those unforgettable bits of melodic loveliness which find their origin in other lands.

On Wednesday, January 29, the exquisite realm of fantasy was explored when Myra Whitaker told the tender love story of the beauteous Juanita and the bold Hercules, both of Peoria College, '02, whose escapades and life history were greatly aided by the singing of such old American favorites as "Juanita," "I Wandered O'er the Hills Maggie," "I Love You Truly," and "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia."

The psychological value of these musical interludes was probably indisputable, but the utter enjoyment was felt by all the girls to be quite unmeasurable. Such opportunities to forget the burdens of the present were certainly not unwelcome.

Flunker's Frolic Proves Great Success

The Flunker's Frolic last Monday evening proved a huge success as many couples danced to the delightful music furnished by the Colby White Mule band. The White Mules entertained with many new numbers and novel arrangements. The affair proved to be a more than suitable tonic for that after mid-year-exam feeling.

Those in the receiving line were Professor and Mrs. John F. McCoy, Miss Edna Worzel, Mr. Alan S. Galbraith, Miss Helen Wade, and Herbert W. DeVeber.

FROSH ON TRIP

The freshman basketball aggregation embarked on its Aroostook trip Tuesday afternoon. Although weakened somewhat by the loss of Avery Smith, a competent guard and good basket-scorer, the Frosh still present a formidable team. They already have wins over Coburn Classical, Higgins, and M. C. I. tucked under their belt. Malins, Spina, Burrill, Antonakos, Andrews, Hopkins, Kincaus, Hooker, Salisbury, Buzzall, and Coach Roundy made the trip.

Reception To Precede The Evening Lecture; Gov. And Mrs. Brann May Attend

One of the outstanding events of the college year will be the visit to the campus and to Waterville of Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins who is to give an address in the auditorium of the Baptist church on Monday evening, February 10, at 8 o'clock. Secretary Perkins is to arrive on the early afternoon train and while in the city will be the guest of President and Mrs. Franklin W. Johnson.

In addition to the address which will be heard by an audience that will fill the auditorium, Secretary Perkins is to be given an informal reception from 4 to 4:45 in the afternoon in the Alumnae building with about 150 special guests including members of the college faculty and their wives and representatives of the numerous organizations of the college. From 4:45 to 5:30, other members of the student body and citizens of Waterville will be given an opportunity to meet this distinguished guest. It is expected that Governor and Mrs. Louis J. Brann will receive with President and Mrs. Johnson. It is hoped that the undergraduates of the college will avail themselves of the opportunity to meet personally the first woman in the United States ever to hold a cabinet position.

Plans To Move Colby Are Progressing

Edwin A. Lightner Is Named Special Assistant

Edwin Allan Lightner of New York City has been added to the administrative staff of Colby college as a special assistant to President Franklin W. Johnson in the resumption of the plans to move Colby college to its new campus site on Mayflower Hill two miles away.

This project was initiated in 1929 as a result of a survey of higher education in Maine directed by a committee appointed by the governor. The findings of these investigators stated that, because of Colby's present situation between river, railway and highway, no new buildings could be added as needed in future years and that an entirely new campus should be found if Colby was to maintain its high standards and continue to do its share in serving the needs of college education in Maine.

After two years of discussion, the Colby trustees decided to take this action and the preliminary steps towards raising the $3,000,000 needed to bring this about were begun in 1931. These plans were suspended for an indefinite period, however, because of the continued economic depression.

The Colby trustees at their last meeting voted to resume the undertaking and authorized the appointment of Mr. Lightner as special assistant in this project. Mr. Lightner is a graduate of Oberlin college and has been engaged in financial and business work in New York City.

GLEE CLUB

There will be a rehearsal of the combined musical clubs tomorrow night, February 6, at 7:00 p. m., in the music room in Coburn Hall. All members of the men's and women's glee clubs are requested to be present.

Music Appreciation . . .

RECENTLY a campus professor challenged the degree of interest on the part of students towards really classical music. Is this a characteristic of a jazz-mad generation, or of an underprivileged generation, underprivileged in the sense of musical education? Fifty years ago, or even less, musical appreciation was a requirement of every cultural education. Today, the trend seems to be to shove such desirable, but unnecessary studies to the side, in preference to the more immediate, vacation-fitting curriculum. The philosophies and arts as well seem to have suffered the same neglect. Yet, wherein lies the fault?

The difficulty with which any campus musical activity is organized is but another example of the apparent indifference on the part of students. But why should students be interested in something about which they are ignorant? Symphonies admittedly increase in interest when they are understood.

If, however, as leisure time advocates prophecy, we are going to need a cultural balance more than ever before, it might justify a reconsideration of our curricula which automatically exclude such impractical but thoroughly ideal introductions into the vast field of music. If life is to be lived only once it might just as well be lived to the full. The challenge is clarion.

It's Time To Think . . .

TO seniors at semester time there becomes increasingly imminent the problem of after college work. To some it is a matter of vital importance, to others merely idle interest. Yet, with the prevalence of demanding businesses which require adequate preparation, the value of a liberal arts education is bound to be questioned. Does it really fit a man or a woman to meet the needs of an economically high-tensioned world, or will it hinder and perhaps prolong his acclimating himself to this world of competition? How much truth is there to the criticism of a college community as lopsided? "A college community is one of society's abnormalities, made up largely of adolescents with a group of sedentary instructors. For nine months they live in relative isolation from people living normal lives."

If there is any truth in these words, we underclassmen might well follow the seniors, and pause for a moment to think.

Y.W.C.A. NOTES

On Sunday evening in the Alumnae building Dr. and Mrs. Sharon L. Finch were host and hostess at the last open house scheduled by the Y. W. C. A. for the first semester. Lasting from seven to nine-thirty on almost every Sunday evening of the semester, open house has provided an opportunity for better acquaintance among students and faculty as well as among members of both divisions. The programs have included ping-pong and volley-ball for the athletic as well as the less strenuous diversions of the radio and an assortment of parlor games. Some evenings have challenged the collegiate culinary skill with the full equipment of the Alumnae kitchen. Open house will continue to be a feature of the Y. W. program.

STUDENT'S 23RD PSALM

The College professor is my shepherd,
And I am in dire want.
He preventeth me from lying down

In the bed that I renteth.
He leadeth me to make
A fool of myself before my classmates.

Yea, tho I burneth my light
Until the landlady howleth,
I fear much evil,
For the prof. is against me,
His theories and his rantings
Frighteneth my wits from me.
He assigneth me extra work
As a punishment.

In the presence of mine enemies,
He anointeth my quiz paper with red ink,

And my zeros smite a whole column.
Surely theories, exams, and themes
will follow me

All the days of my college career
And I will dwell in the bug-house forever.

Ye Gladiator Column

Dear Gladiator:

This caveman's column needs somebody to swing a battle-axe once in a while. Here's taking a whack at the editorial column of a recent "Echo." This was a discussion of the two dollar fine, under the present cut system for absence before and after holidays. In objecting to this fine, the writer has the agreement of most of the students and at least some of the faculty. But I'd guess anyone who read "J. P.'s" arguments would be likely to agree with the fine.

"First," he wrote, "Why should an absence be penalized before a holiday and not at any other time?" I expect the profs could rise and answer this in a body. It is hard enough to lecture to empty heads, but empty seats are even more discouraging. Even before this year, double cuts were in effect before and after holidays. Almost anyone will admit that you have to do something to get people to enjoy this college education.

The case in most people's minds is not against attendance but against the means now applied to guarantee this attendance. Under the old system one had at least the privilege of earning a right to be absent. Many students with only a few cuts saved those until the time when they wished to go home. Other students with high scholarship earned unlimited cuts, with the privilege of being absent when they desired.

But at the present time the criterion involved is not scholarship, but money. The person who can afford to pay two dollars is the one whose time is his own. His standing in the course does not matter. A person with a very legitimate reason for being absent may be prevented from doing so for lack of money.

This fall a number of students wished to attend a Shakespearean play in Boston one Saturday afternoon. Naturally had to leave on Saturday morning. Because the following Monday was a holiday the students cutting Saturday morning classes were penalized by their liberal arts college for the sin of enjoying Shakespeare. What a piece of work is man! How infinite in faculty!

Can't the faculty think of a brighter scheme? Or couldn't the "ECHO" offer constructive arguments? This is no blue print. Rome wasn't built with a battle-axe.

In the Interest of Peace

Colby comical? Read the Sunday Times, p. 2, Sect. 4: "Comic Relief" . . . Bainbridge (Trustee) Colby made a speech—yes, at the Women's Patriotic Conference on National Defense!—Mr. Colby slammed the administration . . . Annoyed, the U. S. Marine band refused to play at any more sessions . . . Peeved congressmen declined to make their scheduled speeches . . . Washington snickered . . . "Suppression of free speech," averred Republican leader Snell . . . We're surprised at Mr. Colby . . . Who could knock a navy-building regime like this one at a Patriotic Conclave of National Defenders?

Plugging along: News reports of Geneva cite the League as biding its time . . . Not apathy but passive resistance is the keynote . . . Diplomats are figuring how to steer a course between the Laval-Hoare plan of rewarding the aggressor . . . and a drastic step that would make peace impossible . . . Oil sanctions will not be clamped down unless Italy seems gaining . . . At present Italians are trying to build roads and keep from worrying about the rainy season . . . With foreign ministers Eden in England and Flandin in France, the cause of the League seems safe for the present. . .

Colby Tracksters To Go To B.A.A.

A 7-man team will represent Colby at the B. A. A. games in Boston, Saturday. There are no field entrants. The relay team is made up of Sol Fuller, Bob Turbyne of Winslow, Stan Washuk, and Paul Merrick of Augusta. That is the order of their finish in time trials. Turbyne and Fuller were separated by 1-5th of a second.

Johnny Dolan, hurdler, Herby DeVeber, two miler, and Cecil Daggett, speedy little dash man make up the remainder of the team.

Cliff Veysey, star long distance runner, will not compete until spring when he intends to make a bid for the Olympic team as a 10,000 meter runner. He and Coach Cy Perkins have definitely agreed that this distance would find him at his peak, although he is national champion in the 3000 meters, a much shorter distance.

Weight men, and field men are not invited to compete at the B. A. A. games.

Blue and Gray On Hockey Trip

The White Mule hockey outfit set out for Massachusetts Tuesday afternoon. They were to play Bowdoin en route yesterday afternoon, but the snow storm prevented the fracas.

It was to be a four game trip but the weather man has already put his hand in to prevent one of them.

According to Coach Millett, Romeo Lemieux, Al Paganucci, Art Hannigan, Jimmie Sheehan, Norm Walker, and Tut Thompson will compose the starting team. Jim Guiney, Con Cadorette, Warren Davenport, Steve Young, Bob Sparkes, and Jerry Ryan will be available as spares.

The Mules have played but one game before mid-years. There has been little chance for practice and the weather has prevented scheduled games.

The Blue and Gray met Williams this afternoon. Thursday they play Dartmouth, and Friday, New Hampshire. Saturday afternoon the Jayvees play Hebron as the feature of the snow carnival there.

Frosh Hoopsters Lose To Stearns High School

The Colby freshman basketball team dropped their first game of the season last night in Millinocket to a strong Stearns high school quintet by a score of 26-19. Both teams played even ball the first half, the score at the end of the first period being 3-3, and at the end of the second, 11-11.

Tonight the Frosh meet Houlton. The summary:

THE MULE KICKS

By Jerry Ryan

Colby athletics reach a new high this week as White Mule hockey, basketball and track squads uphold the honor of the Blue and Gray on fields both north and south.

Coach William "Bill" Millett leads a veteran varsity hockey squad on its annual Massachusetts trip which will find the Mules opposing Bowdoin, Williams, Dartmouth and New Hampshire on successive days. While potentially one of the greatest of Colby ice teams, the present sextet is virtually untried. In the season's only game to date, the state-champions downed the Lewiston Cyclones, Maine A. A. U. title holders, by a single goal and the end of the week will definitely decide the status of the present crop of Mule pucksters.

— C —

A glance at the opposition indicates that the chances of a successful trip are bright. Bowdoin, lacking a balanced team, should merely provide a good work-out. Williams, stronger than usual, has bowed to Dartmouth and Harvard by only the smallest of margins and should rate as an even choice in opposing the Millettmen. Dartmouth should find itself in for a big evening when the Mules arrive in town, despite the fact that the Big Green downed Yale last week 5-4 to avenge an earlier defeat. New Hampshire, too, should furnish the Colby sextet with plenty of competition and the decision, either way, is due to be close. Reserve strength casts my vote in favor of our Mules, for the Wildcat substitutes are reputedly very weak.

— C —

Aroostook county, land of the Potato Kingdom, claims the young Mule hoopsters during the current week. Undeafated, with only Presque Isle to fear, the Frosh go north on a trip, the completion of which should find their record still unblemished. Despite the loss of Avery Smith, star captain and guard, "Vic" Malins, "Buss" Burrill and company should sweep the north.

— C —

The annual B. A. A. athletic games to be held this week-end in the Boston Garden will claim the attention of track followers throughout New England. Colby will be represented in the dashes by diminutive Cecil Daggett, Frosh dash star of a year ago, and while lacking a bit in experience, Daggett is bound to be heard from in the Boston event. "Johnny" Dolan will carry the colors of this college in the high hurdles in facing the outstanding indoor talent of this sector. The relay team chosen to represent Colby on Saturday evening consists of "Stan" Washuk, the blonde flash of Augusta; Fuller, a veteran Mule track ace; "Bob" Turbyne and Paul Merrick. Each of these lads has speed and power and should place among the leaders in relay competition. "Herb" DeVeber will face a field of crack two mile runners, and despite the fact that teammate "Cliff" Veysey will not be in the field, DeVeber can be counted upon to make a capable showing.

OPEN HOUSE WORDAGE

Tonight's the night, at seven bells,
Be sure you won't be late
Or you'll miss out on lots of fun;
Remember! It's a date.
We'll have a game of volley-ball;
At anagrams we'll play.
I challenge you to dominoes;
Oh prithee, don't say nay.

As soon as forum doors are closed
We'll gather in a group
And arm in arm this merry throng
To "open house" will troop.
Will someone get the checker board?
What say we have a game?
But ping pong is the game for me,
For checkers are too tame.

Then we'll gather in the kitchen
Now mind you, do not budge;
Be careful of the popcorn balls,
And do not burn the fudge.
And after the clock gong tinkles
To tell us it's half past nine
We'll don our coats and rubbers
And all troop out in line.

With shoutings and with laughter,
Devil-may-care are we;
And we'll gather to sing a song
Beneath the Boardman tree.
After the fun, the group goes home;

It is a jolly sight.
And so the word is passed around,
"See you next Sunday night."

When those three girls entered the back door of Foss Hall after the Flunker's Frolic of last Monday eve it was very, very late for any co-ord to be coming home . . . at least from a collitch dance . . . and we'll bet the black marks flew . . . Barbara Day intermissioned with band-leader Bernie Stallard at last mon. nite's affair . . . and plus other recent meetings . . . leads us to conjecture that the couple is sharing each other's secrets . . . Stoney thought the job a little too big for Stallard . . . so stepped above onto the platform to wield the baton for a number or two . . . incidentally the White Mulers have improved with rapid strides . . . the "ladies' choice" dance went over with unexpected success . . . which is the way it should be . . . sleighing at intermission was tremendously enjoyed by a few . . . which is the way it should be . . . the lights were dimmed very properly at times . . . which is the way, it should be . . . in fact most things were as they should have been . . . hence the evening was the more enjoyable . . .

BRIEFS, ETC. . .

Among the duos that are becoming constanter and more constant . . . Sigrid Thompkins and Barney Holt . . . Buggsey Bonner is spending so much time of late on Main Street that it's difficult to find him elsewhere . . . And now to get in a few comments on wearing apparel before my more than competent style-judging contemporary breathes forth once again in his four-times-a-year-column . . . the flaming red sweater with the black lines as worn by Dot Cunningham is a tonic for the eyes . . . Alice Whitehouse's chocolate colored ski suit with the green-lined headpiece is commendable . . . then the dim green parka with the white-fur lined headpiece that Shirley Brown has just recently exhibited will draw attention . . . the black fur gloves that Ed Anderson swings by his sides should be warm . . . or there's a lot of fur being wasted . . . Al Parsons flashes a pair that appear similar . . .

the fur coat that Izzy Rothblatt shoulders about appears like the goods . . . but we didn't say what kind of goods . . .

INFO THAT'S RELIABLE . . .

Tony DeMarinis thinks Barbara Frazee among the o. k.iest . . . the latter has conceived of a question-arousing appellation . . . calls him "Toes" . . . the reason for which we do not know . . . Russ Blanchard still hasn't amassed the necessary courage to call cute Margy Towle via the telephone . . . Frank Kincus Sunday afternoons most frequently at Althea Webber's domicile . . . merely in a social manner, however, the place being usually occupied by several callers at that time . . . mebbe Kincus has his eye on one . . . Vincent Kanard Allen and Robert Carleton Thomas spent last weekend in Portland . . . Carleton was "shown the town" by Kanard . . . Dolan and Ryan are primarily responsible for the introduction of sleigh riding into Colby circles. As they did a bang-up job of it last Sunday at high noon . . . When Betty Doran was in the infirmary last week, she received at least one phone call from Bill Bovie . . .

QUICK JOTTINGS RELAYED . . .

It hasn't been noised about much as yet . . . but Leon Palmer has a dark secret . . . It wasn't so long ago when Omer Canders received that letter postmarked from Monson, Me. . . with the penmanship on the back of the envelope reading: "From me to you" . . . Rowena Mosher has a Zete pin . . . his name is Brann . . . a Waterville resident who used to attend Colby . . . Ruth Michalek introduced her to the gent . . . probably reciprocity . . . for Rowena introduced Ruth to her present heart-throb . . . Frank Baker is now wearing the moniker J. Wellington Wimpy . . . one of the Jones boys . . . Phyllis . . . now shines his shoes daily as a rule . . . Rothblatt prayed with religious fervor during the recent exam period . . . Plus Hebrew script, shawl, and the general necessary accoutrement characteristic of the race . . . Clarence Staples practically every nites it with one co-ord . . . Franny Burns ditto with Art Roderick . . . Franny Loughman Foster's happy blond, ditto with Tom vanSlyke . . . Pete Antonakos has fallen heavily for a townie . . . but refuses to date her more than once a week . . . which is after a dance in town . . . And now thinking that a halt should be called . . . we'll see you next week . . .

Here's one cigarette that writes its own advertising..

It's like this—

You see I'm reading a Chesterfield advertisement and I'm smoking a Chesterfield cigarette, and all of you are smoking Chesterfields.

Now listen—Chesterfields are mild (not strong, not harsh). That's true isn't it?

Then you read "and yet they satisfy, please your taste, give you what you want in a cigarette." That says it, doesn't it?

Wait a minute—

It says now that Chesterfields have plenty of aroma and flavor. One of you go out of the room and come back. That will tell you how pleasing the aroma is.
