Many Receive Awards In Recognition Day Assembly

Prizes Total Nearly Seven Hundred Dollars In Second Observance

Friday morning, May 27, President Johnson opened Colby's second annual Recognition Assembly in the Alumnae Building. Previous to last year, the various miscellaneous awards have been presented to the students at the time they were earned. Last year, however, these presentations were all made in a joint assembly and as this seemed to add dignity to the giving of the college awards, the practice was continued this year.

Professor Strong of the Modern Language department made the following awards: a first prize and a second prize for excellence in German of $5 to members of both the men's and women's divisions. The men winning these prizes were Myron Berry, '40, and Ernest Marriner, '40. The women were, Merlyne Magnus, '39, and Margaret Johnson, '40. He then presented the Carl Shorts Memorial Foundation Book-Prize award for excellence in advanced German literature to Alfred Beerbaum, '38.

Professor Weber made the following awards: The Gallert Essay Prize to Ernestine Wilson, '39, and the Mary Lowe Carver poetry prize to Elizabeth Newell, '38. Both of these articles are published in the latest copy of the Mercury.

Water Colors In Final Art Exhibit

Working Methods Of Artists Revealed By Marks

The most important water color exhibition of the year makes its showing in the College Library from June first to thirteenth under the appropriate title of "The Aqua-Chromatic Exhibition," which is absolute uniformity which has been maintained throughout—hundreds of original water colors were submitted to the Exhibition by some of America's most famous painters, in which each artist has indicated in a series of squares provided on the front of each painting, the colors he used, by an actual brush mark.

Thus the "supposed mystery" of the working methods of some of our greatest contemporary artists is bared for public scrutiny. A serious research undertaking acclaimed by professional artists, this Exhibition is receiving the cooperation of some of America's leading Art Institutions.

Representatives of all schools are equally shown, conservative and mod-

Student Government Plans Are Completed

Student Body To Vote To- morrow On Joint Council And Fraternity Proposal

The entire student body will have an opportunity to show its attitude toward the matured plans for the new Interfraternity and Student Councils by a vote in the chapel, Thursday, June 2nd, during the chapel period. The recommended plan proposes two councils in place of the Student Council, each of which will have a portion of the power of the old Student Council.

These plans that were discussed at some length at the mass meeting, Wednesday evening, May 25th, will be carried into an active program by the president of next year's senior class, who will have complete charge

Cadillac And Katahdin See Sun At Same Time

Adverse Conditions Prevent Exact Calculations By Outing Club

Though nothing definite could be determined exactly as to what spot of land in the United States sees the sun first, the Outing Club reports that it found the sunrise at both Mt. Cadillac and Mt. Katahdin to be at almost exactly the same time with indications being that Cadillac gets the honor.

Observations were made by the Outing Club on Katahdin and the Camera Club on Mount Desert Island. In both places the groups worked under very adverse conditions with the difficulty of getting adequate checks on the watches adding to the uncertainty.

Time was checked both when the rim of the sun just came into view and again when the entire orb appeared. Sunrise was at about 4:50.

Saturday, May 28th, the Outing Club left for Mt. Katahdin. It spent the night at Chimney Pond and early the following morning climbed to the top where they made observations on the rising of the sun. Those who made observations were: Charles Russ Francis Prescott, and Willard Libby.

The Camera Club cooperated with the Outing Club while at at Cadillac Mountain and Machaon Stevens, Philip Charbonneau, and William Small made observations there.

For a long time there has been a fiery dispute over which place could claim the honor.

During the trip the group visited many of the points of interest on Katahdin.

Classes To Elect Officers Tomorrow

Class elections for next fall will take place tomorrow in the Chapel according to announcement yesterday by Roy Young, president of the Student Council.

Last Thursday afternoon, May 26, nominations were held for next year's

Model Enables Better Idea Of Future Colby

To Be Ready For Exhibition During Commencement

A much clearer vision of what the new Colby will look like and a new respect for the work of the many people who have helped to plan the new campus is the feeling one gets on examining the model of the Mayflower Hill campus now being set up in the farmhouse atop the hill.

Though the model will not be ready to exhibit until Commencement, the ECHO reporter was privileged to examine the work of the country's foremost model maker, L. Evans Parcell of Pittsburgh, yesterday. The size is seven feet by nine feet six inches and the model has been carefully reproduced in a scale of a thirty-second of an inch to the foot. To give an idea of the detail of the work, fine netting less than an inch wide is used to represent the fences about the tennis courts holes that you can just about fit a pencil into are the exits to the stadium from which thousands will pass in a very few minutes after a big football game; and green yarn marks hedges which will one day ex-

Again the Colby Commencement brings a nationally prominent figure to our campus to deliver the Commencement address. Monday morning, June 20, on the lower campus Hon. Josiah William Bailey will address the Colby seniors at their last meeting as undergraduates.

The outdoor exercises mark a departure from previous years when the facilities of the City Opera House were utilized for the ceremonies. By this change of place the commencement is brought nearer home, is made a more completely Colby event.

Josiah William Bailey, United States Senator from North Carolina, is one of the most important figures in the upper house of our Congress today. Born in Warrenton, N. C., September 14, 1873, Senator Bailey received his AB from Wake Forest and his LLD. from Duke University. In 1908 he was admitted to the North Carolina Bar, and immediately hung out his shingle in Raleigh.

His first government position was as Collector of Internal Revenue from 1913-21. During this time he was also editor of a Baptist periodical in his home state.

Since 1931 he has held a seat in the Senate. His prominence dates from the election of President Roosevelt, against whom he has been very vociferously opposed. A strongly conservative anti-New Dealer, Bailey, tive Democrats and Republicans.

Ball Team Takes Doubleheader From Maine On Memorial Day

Erratic Season Ends In Glory As Cole Is Credited With Both Wins

Women Approach Goal In Union Drive

The drive for the Women's Union building passed the two-thirds mark according to Mrs. Ervena G. Smith, Alumnae Secretary, who announced that subscriptions from the Colby women to their $100,000 building project totalled $60,811.11.

Committees of Colby women are now engaged in making a personal canvass of alumnae in lower Kennebec county, with Augusta as headquarters, and the section surrounding Bath and Newcastle. Similar drives will be launched this coming week with a dinner in Skowhegan for alumnae in Somerset county and in Lewiston for the Androscoggin and Oxford county women.

Mrs. Smith stated that the subscriptions from these areas should bring the total to between $70,000 and $75,000 before Commencement. The remaining amount will be solicited next fall in the remaining regions which include several Maine areas, New Hampshire, Vermont, New York the other Central Atlantic states and Colby women living in more distant parts of the country.

NOTICE

A meeting of senior class men will be held in the chapel this coming Saturday during chapel period.

The Colby Mules wound up an erratic ball season by clicking against the University of Maine on Memorial Day and defeating them 5-4 and 7-1 in a doubleheader on the Orono Field. By virtue of its win over the Bears the Colby club spoiled Maine's chances of tying with Bowdoin for the state crown and virtually pulled them down into third place with the Mules.

Lefty Cole of this year's graduating class was given credit for both wins after pitching two innings in the first game and going the entire nine innings in the second. Vinnie Allen retained his place at the top of the Colby batting list as he collected two hits in each game, being the only man to get four hits during the day.

The first game was the most important from the Maine point of view and turned out to be a thriller. It was in this game that the Bears lost their chance to tie for the championship. The score saw-sawed from the beginning right up to the ninth when Colby gained the three runs which were to mean the ball game. Joe Chernauskas started and did a very good job right up to the sixth inning when he was relieved by Lefty Cole. Cole pitched the innings during which the Mules got out into the lead again and was given credit for the victory. Lop Hersey finished up the fray on the mound for Colby and clinched the victory when he struck out Day with the tying run on third base.

The second game was much slower and less interesting. The Mules col-

SPORTS OF THE ECHO

Alumni To Play Ball Game With Seniors

The Alumni-Senior baseball game is a new development in the commencement program. The teams will be made up from students of the graduating class and alumni representing the graduating classes of the past ten years.

Coach Eddie Roundy is organizing both the Senior and the Alumni team. He has written a personal letter to all members of his baseball teams of the last ten years inviting them to return for this commencement baseball game. He hopes to have many of them available for the event. Among those who have already signified that they will take part in the game are Val Duff, Ray and Al Farnham, Arthur Brown, the "Peabody Brothers," and others.

The seniors available for the game are Johnny Pullen, Joe Dobbins, Larry Haynes, Shorty McGee, Al Berry, Lefty Cole, and Normie Walker. All seniors interested in playing in this game should let the coach know and get a little practice at some time that is convenient for them.

This game is to take place Saturday afternoon, June 18th, following the alumni luncheon.

Delta U Wins Softball Title

The boys from the Delta Upsilon fraternity ran away with another, their third, interfraternity championship cup when they beat the Lambda Chi's last week by a score of 15-6 in softball. The members of the squad are O. Emery, F. Emery, Wade, Hopkins, Reynolds, Guptill, Vose, Layton, Littlefield, Antan, Hassan, and Captain Kane.

The final standing of the fraternities is as follows:

	Won	Lost
D. U. ....	6	1
L. C. A. ....	5	2
A. T. O. ....	5	2
T. D. P. ....	5	2

SPORTOGRAPHS

By Dwight Sargent

The Colby baseball club lands in the cellar in the state series again, albeit a glorious cellar after that twin victory over Maine last Monday. For once the Bowdoin fans were cheering for Colby. Lefty Cole wound up his Colby pitching career in brilliant fashion by getting credit for pitching his team to its last two games and last two victories of the year. Vinnie Allen was the only man to hit twice in both games. Vinnie was carried off the field unable to walk after his second hit in the first game, but he recovered enough to smack out a couple more in the second game.

And so this leaves the baseball cellar flooded with Maine and Colby each sharing a barrel in the corner. Bates wants to thank its lucky stars that they cancelled that game with Bowdoin or there might be some more company down in the cold spot. Of course Bates would have had a chance to tie with Bowdoin for the championship but we're going to be narrow minded like the people who objected to the human life pictures in Life, or the people who still think that Theodore Roosevelt was an honest man.

The D. U.'s sort of made a majority sweep of the intramural sports calendar this season. Championships in softball, basketball, and volleyball all went to Delta Upsilon. The A. T. O.'s took the touch football championship and the K. D. R.'s came through with the crown in bowling. Now all are anxiously awaiting the time when "Mike" Loeb figures up the athletic points to see who won the "coveted" Sprague trophy.

It was gruesome, what the Deering track squad did to the Bates Frosh. It was the first time they had been defeated in five years. And then Deering comes up here and the Colby Frosh bind their high school ears back where they ought to be. Everything seems to point to the materialization of that prediction that Colby will be third instead of fourth in the State Meet next year.

It seems as though the men and women who are chosen to write the class odes and poems ought to be

Bowdoin Makes Clean Sweep In Golf Meet

The intercollegiate golfers met and Bowdoin conquered when the golfers from three Maine colleges met here last Monday and Tuesday. Fifteen stepped up to the first tee at the Waterville Country Club, and out of these, eight shot 82 or better to qualify for the quarter finals. Bowdoin qualified five men, Colby two and Maine one.

In the quarter finals James Bunting of Colby nearly turned in an upset by playing Hood, the defending champion from Bowdoin, all even to the last. Hood finally came out ahead 1 up.

The following men qualified for the quarter final round:

Hood (B) 76; Mullens (B) 77; Gerard (B) 81; Piorkowski (M) 81; Gregory, (C) Bunting, (C), and Woodruff (B) 82.

Another feature of this round was provided by Clark of Bowdoin when he defeated Gerard, a teammate, by sinking a forty foot putt.

The results of the quarter finals: Hood (B) beat Bunting (C) 1 up; Clark (B) beat Gerard (B) 1-up; Woodruff (B) beat Gregory (C) 6 and 5.

Mullens (B) beat Piorkowski (M) 4 and 3.

The semi-finals were held Tuesday morning. From here on it was all Bowdoin. There remained Hood, the defending champion Mullens, the pre-tournament favorite; Clark and Woodruff, both of whom had qualified in the eighties. Woodruff defeated Mullens in the first upset of the tournament.

The final round saw two Bowdoin men shooting par golf, all even to the end. Hood finally subduing his brother Bear, 4 and 3, for his second championship in as many years.

This tournament was run through the courtesy of the Waterville Country Club. Bill Millett, Colby's master of the links, was in charge. Mr. Ally, Country Club Pro, had the course in perfect condition for the tournament.

Colby competitors who played but failed to qualify were Mellen, Coolidge, Berry and Winslow.

chosen by competition rather than by election in order to get the best results. In this way it would be much easier to determine the best odest in the class. Have all the seniors submit contributions to some judges, perhaps in the English department, and the best writer wins. It would be the best idea for the class as a whole if the men who are to deliver the class oration and farewell addresses were selected in similar fashion.

Well it's the end of the year and books are going to mean more than hits in the next couple of weeks. It has been a great year as Colby has won both championships and booby prizes in order to keep the interest up. But it is always the present and the future which seems most important to us and so we'll forget the past and look ahead to the coming summer and another college year.

It is also probably the last that you will hear (officially of course) from the Sportographer. All that we have claimed for ourselves is that we have been able to understand pictures and write with a fair degree of simplicity and clearness, and we hope that the next man on the beat will be able to do the same.

Netmen Reach Quarter Finals In State Play

After the quarter finals were played in the Intercollegiate Tennis Championships, Bowdoin and Bates were left to fight it out between themselves to see who was supreme in both the singles and doubles titles. Colby and Maine were eliminated in both brackets during the second day of play.

The tournament, held at Bates this year, was minus an upset worthy of mention. The Mule representatives of Pinansky, Chase, Dwyer, led by co-captains Frost and Antan did not fare as well as expected.

The doubles teams of Frost and Chase, and Pinansky and Dwyer were eliminated in the quarter finals by teams from Bates. Most of the singles men were eliminated in the first round.

Casterline of Bates repeated by copping the men's singles crown, while the Bowdoin team of Salter and Shuttuck grabbed the honors in the doubles. Incidentally, the singles finals were all Bates, Casterline defending his title against Reed; and the doubles nals were all Bowdoin, Shuttuck and Salter defeating Teammates Hyde and Purinton.

lected three runs in the first frame and two in the second and then snared a couple more in the seventh. Maine was playing with two or three second string men out in the field and never threatened, being able to push across only one run during the entire game:

New York Papers Praise Gertrude Tonkonogy's Play

"Three Cornered Moon" Expected To Meet With Same Success Here

Colby Cast To Add To Hilarity Of Plot

The Commencement play, "Three Cornered Moon," by Gertrude Tonkonogy was first presented in New York at the Cort Theatre. The part of the young heroine, Elizabeth, was taken by Ruth Gordon who played this winter in Ibsen's "Doll's House." Supporting her was an outstanding cast including: Celia Loftus, John Eldridge, Richard Whorf, Ben Lackland, Elisha Cook, Jr., Brian Donlevy, Eunice Stoddard, and Paula Bauer-smith. That the success of this delightful comedy was not only due to the acting of this fine cast however, is attested by reviews quoted from New York papers of that year: "Something to cheer about in the theatre world—a happy comedy—boasts the virtue of seeming not to have ever been written to fit any pattern." The New York "News;" "Miss Tonkonogy would earn the sympathetic attention of this department by the mere freshness of her approach to her theme—never falters in her amused comprehension." New York "Sun."

There are some plays that entertain us but which leave us with the feeling that they could not really happen—that they are concocted for our pleasure and have no basis in reality. but "Three Cornered Moon" makes us feel that it not only can happen but is happening every day in the year.

Who doesn't know the dear woman whose husband left a small fortune and a houseful of irresponsible children on her hands? With what tender care she tries to bring them up the way they should go! With what tolerance she overlooks their shortcomings—with what love she presides over her home!

We who look on sympathetically cannot help but be amused at the misdirected efforts and the blunders of the dear old soul while at the same time we hold her close to our hearts with loving regard.

Miss Gertrude Tonkonogy looked deeply into the life of such a family when she wrote "Three Cornered Moon" and the plaudits of the audiences have testified that she saw truly and wrote magnificently.

When we have added to the undeniable appeal of the hilarious yet heart-pulling plot, the unquestioned ability of one of the finest casts Colby has ever had, the Commencement play will seem to be, even at this early date, a thing destined for success.

Pi Gamma Mu Holds Initiation Banquet

Pi Gamma Mu, National Social Science Honor Society, held its thirteenth annual initiation banquet on Tuesday evening at the Wishing Well. The neophytes, Wilson Piper, '39; Louis Sacks, '39; Robert Borovoy, '39; Leon Broudy, '39; and Constance Knickerbocker, '39; were initiated by President Robert Anthony.

Following the initiation, Doctor Curtis Morrow introduced the speaker, Walter Breckenridge, Professor of Economics. In his speech, "The Illusions Men Live By," Professor Breckenridge emphasized the fact that freedom of speech, freedom of action, and freedom of the press, although considered accepted laws, are merely illusions.

The out-going president introduced those who will hold offices during the coming year: President, Elliot Drisko; vice president, Merlyne Magnus; secretary, Elizabeth Doran; treasurer, Wilson Piper; and social chairman, Constance Knickerbocker. In addition to the initiates, those attending the banquet were: Robert Anthony, Elliot Drisko, Elizabeth Doran, Merlyne Magnus, John Pullen, Marble Thayer, Sigrid Tompkins, Professor Walter Breckenridge, and Dr. Curtis Morrow.

New Concert Board Chosen For Next Fall

The Colby Concert Board for the ensuing year consists of Bernard Burbank, '39; Nathanael Guptill, '39; Ruth Pike, '39; Evelyn Short, '39; Patrick Martin, '39; Halsey Frederick, '40; Buell Merrill, '40; Spencer Winsor, '40; and Doris Rose, '40. The new members were elected at a meeting held Tuesday.

Concert Board members are chosen for their interest in music and its appreciation at Colby. The board works with a committee of Waterville citizens in sponsoring the annual series of musical programs of the Columbia Cooperative Concert Association.

of setting up these new bodies. The Interfraternity Council will consist of the presidents of the several houses and their faculty advisers. The Dean of Men will act as the permanent chairman of this group. The presidents may appoint a responsible substitute. However, since the president probably has the interest of the fraternity most at heart, it is strongly urged that he be the member of the council representing his fraternity. The fraternity advisers will act in an advisory capacity only, and will not have a vote on the measures.

The new Student Council is composed of nine men. The four class presidents will automatically be members, as well as four men elected from the student body at large, and one non-fraternity member, elected by non-fraternity men. The four men chosen by the general student body will be elected by proportional voting and will be selected from a list of eight nominees. These nominees will be chosen by the fraternities, each fraternity having a representative.

The non-fraternity member of the council will be nominated and elected by the non-fraternity men of the college. The election of the first non-fraternity member will be held in the fall of 1938.

This council will be presided over by the senior class president, while the secretary and vice president of the council will be elected from within the council.

Alf Landon Sends Thanks For Aroostook Potatoes

At last recognition of the Maine potatoes taken by the Colby debaters on their Kansas trip and presented to Alf M. Landon is a letter from Mr. Landon to Wilson Piper thanking the Colby group. The letter is as follows:

My dear Mr. Piper:

Thank you very much for the delicious Maine potatoes. I am terribly sorry I wasn't here to meet you in person.

Living in the Kaw Valley, I must protect my home base; and having been born and raised on Pennsylvania potatoes, I am in a dangerously embarrassing position.

But I will say that I always liked Maine potatoes.

With very best wishes, I am

Sincerely yours,

Alf M. Landon.

Recommendations In Retrospect . .

In retrospect we do not attempt to list any good points about the ECHO during the past year. Whatever good points there are we hope that they will be incorporated by the new staff. However, that is not the purpose of this editorial. The purpose of this editorial is to emphasize the need of improvement from year to year. Usually it takes about a year of experience to recognize the weak points, but it is too late for any attempt that will show a marked improvement. It is up to the incoming staff to benefit from this experience and not duplicate the same deficiency. This year the ECHO was given a critical rating by the Associated Collegiate Press Association; we hope the new staff will carry out some of the suggestions made.

For several years the ECHO has been printing a column that has been read by a large number of students. In fact, if anything at all was read, it was this column, the "dirt" column. Although the popularity of this column might merit its publication, its news value does not. Another reason why it should be done away with is the ill-will it creates. It is much better from the stand point of good journalism to devote this space to something that has news value. From the stand point of intelligent college students such "trash" should be regarded as an insult to a college education.

An improvement that has to come is that of the election of the new staff, whether it be next year or five years from now. In order to have a good paper there is need of a good staff, and in order to have a good staff, election must be on merit—not fraternity politics. Positions on the staff should be determined by the work done. The work of each man should be appraised by a disinterested person, and those having the highest scores should go up into the next bracket. Since it might be difficult to judge between the editor and the managing editor positions, it would be better to have a co-editorship—the editor for the first semester would be managing editor the next, and the managing editor for the first semester would be the editor the next. Some plan similar to this might be worked out so that we shall have men on the staff representing the college and not the fraternity.

These are the two important improvements that the out-going staff recommends. We have enjoyed the work and have tried to serve the college to the best of our ability. We hope that the new staff will learn from our experience and make the ECHO a distinct improvement over this year.

The Inquiring Reporter who asks this question of you and your classmates will most likely get the unanimous answer, "JOBS!"

Jobs ARE increasingly important . . . but the position-pursuit is made easier for the girl who supplements her college background with Fairfield School's executive-secretarial training exclusively for college graduates. More and more employers are specifying "college girls" for important positions. But a superior, graduate-type secretarial training—Fairfield training—is prerequisite for such desirable jobs. Fairfield students can select subjects which prepare for exciting positions in specialized fields—advertising, insurance, retailing, banking, and investments, etc. The School's active placement bureau has been unusually successful. Editor's Note: This column was written for use at an earlier date, but since it is still apropos, we present it as written for Air Mail Week.

Well, Americans! At last, if the papers are to be believed, Il Duce has hurled a war threat at America.

We know almost nothing about diplomacy, having been an ambassador for only a few moments once when the regular ambassador was busy with some things he has asked us not to mention. But we feel that Il Duce's present belligerent attitude toward America was brought on by Italy's mutual assistance pact with San Marino. Without an ally Italy would be almost powerless against America unless she planned to overcome us with garlic fumes, and we understand that poisonous gasses are outlawed by international agreement.

We don't feel yet that America has much to worry about from the Italian or any other continental source. What with Hitler's looking like Charlie Chaplin, Il Duce talking like W. C. Fields and the Balkans seemingly under the Gilbert & Sullivan influence (with music by Sigmund The Student Prince Romberg) the European situation is more like a comedy than anything else, especially from this distance.

Americans, awake! This is National Airmail Week! The government is spending money right and left to bring this happy time to our attention. Even the moving picture people are doing their bit with animated advertisements showing pilots getting in and out of planes as if they did it for a living.

"Remember," the government intones with a Harvard accent, "this is the twentieth anniversary of your National airmail!" Why the government insists on its being our National airmail, we don't know, unless there is going to be a shake-up in airmail circles soon and the government has singled us out to take the rap. But the government wants us to remember National Airmail week and, patriotic as we always are, we'll remember it.

But then what? What does the government want us to do then? It certainly hasn't gone out of its way to advise us in the matter, so probably it wants us to treat National Airmail Week in any way that strikes our fancy. (That is the government's error. The government doesn't realize some of the things that strike our fancy).

There seems to be only two ways in which we can celebrate this time. We could get busy and write thousands of airmail letters to show our appreciation of the service, but would the airmail people want us to? Wouldn't they complain about the mail sacks suddenly getting too heavy to carry, and wouldn't the extra weight make the planes use a lot more gas? This plan seems to solve nothing, especially in view of the fact that we have but little time to write thousands of letters.

On the other hand, we could send no airmail letters at all for one week, hoping to give the airmail people a needed rest and thus express our appreciation. They would probably take it in the wrong spirit, however, and think we were ignoring them and didn't like them. All week they would sit around the hangars in bitter little groups playing penny-ante for matches. The government itself might get discouraged and discontinue airmail service altogether and go back to the stage-coach days, which wouldn't be a bad idea in itself.

Perhaps we'd just better forget about National Airmail week. If the government wants us to do anything about it, let it come and see us. The government can be no busier with its outside reading than we are.

It also comes to our attention that this is also National Ice Cream week. The news comes as something of an

Prof. McCoy Sends Letter To President

Saw Exciting Events In Germany During "Anschluss"

A letter from Professor J. Franklin McCoy written to President Johnson from Zurich, Switzerland, has many interesting sidelights on the events in Europe. Professor McCoy is on leave of absence in Europe. Parts of the letter are as follows:

Zurich, Switzerland,
May 13, 1938.

Dear President Johnson:

To day is an anniversary day for us—we have been in Europe just three months! And what a lot of things we have seen and done during those three months.

After about a week in Belgium we crossed into Germany, where our Rhine trip was splendid with real spring weather the first week in March then a trip along the Main and through numerous walled towns of Southern Germany.

The very day the German troops marched into Austria, we were innocently travelling on the marvelous Autobahn (some sixty miles or more) in the direction of Austria—we were in Berchtesgaden, just a few miles from the border, where the excitement was, of course, very great—a torch-parade in the town to celebrate the "Anschluss" was quite an experience for us. Upon Herr Hitler's return to Munich after his "conquest" of Austria, we were present at the thrilling demonstration given him. The day previous a group of Austrian troops had come to Munich, affording another occasion for a big holiday celebration. Two days later we crossed Austria via Innsbruck into Italy. It was a fine opportunity for us to observe the Austrian villages and cities decked out with the new flags, and the people, apparently very happy with the change, yet going about their business-as-though-nothing had happened just five days before. So you see, we were quite "in the thick of it."

Our month in Italy was a glorious one, and it afforded us a grand chance to see all of the Italian people—in the small villages and towns especially in the South and in Sicily as well as in the big cities usually visited by tourists. The contrast between the North and South is almost unbelievable. It would seem that Mussolini's influence has not yet penetrated beyond Naples. The car has made it possible for us to see much more and much better than we could have any other way, even though it is quite a feat to cover 15 miles in an hour in such places as Naples and its environs where one must compete with carts of every size and description drawn by men, women, children, donkeys, or horses; herds of goats, bicyclists, and pedestrians who always walk in the middle of the street.

It surely seemed pretty good to reach here (Zurich) where we are settled down for three months. We have a nice little apartment up along the Zurichberg (high part of town) about ten minutes walk from the University. The Alpine glow at sunset is at times a glorious sight.

The half dozen courses which I am attending are very fine. They represent among others: German Romanticism, Novel of the 20th Century, Lyric of the 19th Century, German Literature, around 1900, and German Poetry of Today. We have in view numerous week-end excursions to the Tell country and other interesting parts of Switzerland, including Geneva where we hope to learn something about the League of Nations. After the semester is over, we plan on two months of touring, mostly in Germany, with a glimpse of Holland and Belgium on our way home.

Very sincerely,
John Franklin McCoy.

anti climax and we plan to do nothing about it. We couldn't really put our hearts in a celebration of National Ice Cream week, as our interest in ice cream is not even cursory.

Brush Asks Forum
"What Is God?"

The Rev. John W. Brush spoke to the Fellowship Forum Sunday night on the subject, "What is God?" This topic was freely discussed by the whole group as the speaker asked leading questions and opened the entire matter for discussion.

In the beginning, Mr. Brush said that most people seem very vague about God but due to the creative mind of man, humans are generally forced to picture the Deity in an anthropomorphic form. There are some, however, who regard Him as a Power and thus would agree with Matthew Arnold who spoke of Him as a "Power not ourselves which makes of righteousness." This theory finds its basis in the old Testament.

This utter dependence of the human race proves to be the basis of our religious feelings, as we all have to admit the presence of some cosmic power or urge behind creation—to be sure the concept of the natural law has to be fitted into this concept. The Hebrew prophets themselves saw a power in history, one of moral determination. In history the presence of an omnipotent power is very clear to see, even though history may have been rewritten to fit the historians' philosophies and interpretations.

Our creative minds also compel us to synthesize intellectual facts and mystic experiences into a fusion of reactions totaling our environment and leading to religion. At best we all have to admit that our conception of God is merely tentative and imperfectly understood. In concluding, Rev. Mr. Brush said that the best way to understand God is through creative good will, love and righteousness.

Applications Increase
For Entrance Next Fall

This year, there has been an unusual and phenomenal increase in applications for next year's entering class at Colby. In fact, more applications have been received to date than in any same period in the history of the college. The majority of them come from outside of the state, while the number received coming from Maine is about the same as previously. Among the many students applying, there is expected next year, an exchange student from France and a young student from China.

There has been a slight increase in the number of students applying to Colby every year for the past four years, but in 1938 the number is extremely extraordinary. Below are the figures for the number of completed applications up to May 31.

Year	Men	Students
1934	80
1935	70
1936	91
1937	112
1938	181

In the women's division over a hundred applications to date, by far the largest number in history.

This year there were more applications received up to May 31 than there were up to the middle of August of last year. And July and August are the months in which a great number of the students apply. Based on the records of previous years, 50% of those applying will withdraw or be refused admission. Therefore there will be two applications for every student entering.

The number of men admitted is very flexible because there is no dormitory restriction. However, the college is determined not to have over 600 students. Thus the number of freshmen men will be kept down. It is hoped and expected that there will be 125 straight freshmen men, that is 125 plus quite a few transfers from normal schools and junior colleges.

For the first time, Colby will have to refuse admission to a few, fully qualified men because there will not be room for them.

Eight Co-eds To Be Ginger Rogers' Personal Guests For Film Opening

Hill stop The story in your recent issue was most interesting stop Best wishes and good luck to all

Ginger Rogers

This telegram will be posted on the bulletin board.

Making notable use of a setting rarely used in films, much of the action in "Vivacious Lady," Ginger Rogers and James Stewart picture, takes place in a quiet little college town a short distance from New York City, but a million miles from Broadway.

The traditional dignity and academic atmosphere of the campus is brought out in many sequences laid in the class-rooms and laboratories of the college, and in the president's office, and these contrast uniquely with the gay, night-club setting, where the story begins and ends.

Ginger Rogers and James Stewart are co-starred in this romantic comedy, which traces the marital problems of a young botany professor and the night-club entertainer. When they return to the groom's home in the staid college community, and endeavor to keep their marriage secret by living apart, hilarious complications develop, with the husband's former fiancée, and his playboy cousin (who has designs on the pretty singer) doing their share to further entangle matters.

Eight of Colby's most vivacious co-eds attending the fraternity dances last Friday evening have been chosen together with their escorts, to be the personal guests of Miss Ginger Rogers at the local opening of "Vivacious Lady." The lucky ladies selected were: Barbara Partridge, Sally Aldrich, Polly Pratt, Ruth Pike, Sheila Jellison, Jean Bridges, Louise Holt and Florence Stobie.

Recently the manager of the State Theatre and the Business Manager of the ECHO mailed a copy of the Colby ECHO to Ginger Rogers in Hollywood. A suggestion was also forwarded which included the selection of some of Colby's vivacious co-eds to attend the showing of "Vivacious Lady" as the guests of Miss Rogers at the State Theatre. Miss Rogers' interest in the plan and in Colby was shown in the telegram that the ECHO received from her last week. It read as follows:

Colby College ECHO,
Waterville, Maine.

Kindly make arrangements to invite the two most vivacious ladies and their escorts at each of the Fraternity Dances on Friday, May twenty-seven as previously planned stop Please invite them as my personal guests to see Vivacious Lady opening at your local State Theatre, Saturday, June four stop May I convey through the ECHO my sincere congratulations on Colby's new project at Mayflower

The Business Staff of the Colby ECHO in this last issue of the 1937-38 college year, wish to thank the many readers of the ECHO for their support of so many of the policies of the ECHO and also for their support and patronage of our advertisers, whose financial aid helps make this college weekly possible.

S. C. M. Picnic Comes Saturday

The recreational opportunity of the next week-end is presented Saturday afternoon by the Student Christian Movement when it invites all Colby students and faculty members to a picnic at the camp of Professor and Mrs. Herbert L. Newman on Salmon Lake.

Transportation is being handled by a committee consisting of Spensor Winsor, Marjorie Chase, and Ernest Cummings (Marriner, Jr.). Boating, fishing, swimmin', baseball, horseshoes, volleyball, and picnic lunches will be the major items on the attractive schedule. Bring your own eats and have a good time.

This picnic is an annual feature of the S. C. M. program and each year has proved to be a very pleasurable affair. Posters on the campus will supply details of the plans and all persons who plan to go should leave their names with members of the committee in charge or with Professor Newman.

WATER COLORS

ern, abstract and non-objective, comprise these present-day fine art showings.

All Styles Of Art

The appropriateness of the special title "Aqua-Chromatic" is due to the use of a series of colors that were carefully selected according to the "chromatic scale" thus limiting the artist's choice of his individual palette. This group consists of fewer but absolutely permanent and intermixable colors.

Maine Participants

Among the famous artists participating are Alta F. Buckman with "Maine Coast;" Roger L. Deering with "After the Rain;" Roberta Wright with "From Central Park;" Ethel M. Nickerson with "Holy Quietness;" and Rachel V. Murphy with "Delano Park;" These artists are from Portland. From Brunswick Betsey Winchell's "Kennebunk Beach" and "Peonies are Shown." William Dow's "Parker's Pier;" Francis O. Libby's "Andes Dawn;" and Eleanor C. Eames' "Fish House Point," illustrate the work of South Portland's artists.

This is the last and undoubtedly the most significant of the exhibits sponsored by the Colby Federation of Arts this year. All those who believe that the work of the Federation makes a worthwhile addition to the cultural opportunities of the Colby campus are invited to join and should see Dr. Alice Pattee, Dr. S. L. Finch, or Barbara Towle for further information. It is important that as many members as possible pay their dues now since there can be no doubt that early booking of exhibits will make possible even better ones next year.

MODEL ENABLES

tend along some of the roads and walks.

The model is set up on Celtex and made in three sections which the carpenters have been putting together. Even the elevation of the land is on the scale of the rest of the model. Around the buildings stand finger-high firs, pines, spruces, and stately elms of tomorrow. The roads and drives which are under construction today are a mere inch in width. On them one notices long slim cars which look like very small toys. Over the hill lies the artificial lake with diving boards of slivers around its edges.

The various buildings are made from solid blocks of wood with tiny windows narrower than a shirt button carved in and almost microscopic white lines painted on them to give the effect of panes of glass. They are painted so that they show off about as they will in the future as one looks through the trees at the campus. A fine ribbon of gray shows where the campus walks will be. Back of the men's and women's dormitories are the tennis courts and, if you are curious about those facilities on Mayflower Hill you can count eight courts behind the women's dorms and twenty for the men.

As one stands off and looks at the model the whole thing gives almost an airplane view. Yet when you look closer, you see that every little detail is perfect in its coloring, shape, size and every minute detail.

The farmhouse in which the model will be housed is being entirely renovated, a new porch built around two sides and the building painted inside and out. The model itself will be enclosed in a case of plate glass to protect it from prying fingers which might very quickly tear down the daintier structures. For this reason people are asked not to request to see the model until work has been finished in preparing it for exhibit.

This is not the only model however as over in Shannon Hall the Physics department is making its own model of the new physics building on a much larger scale.

SENATOR BAILEY

At the present time President together with Senator Byrd, has been the leader of that old-line group who call themselves Jeffersonian Democrats. His has been the strongest opposition that the President has faced since he entered office, stronger even than the Republican contingent.

Solidly opposed to Roosevelt and all his schemes, the Bailey-Byrd combine has the solid South behind them. They have been very outspoken in their criticism of such New Deal measures as "packing" the Supreme Court, the Wages-Hours Bill, the identical support of the sit-down strike, and the reorganization plan.

Senator Bailey himself is a vigorous speaker. He writes his speeches, and on the senate rostrum delivers them without notes. More than once his name has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the 1940 presidency, backed by conservative Roosevelt and his New Dealers are wondering whether to forsake these Bailey-Byrd Democrats and join the new Progressives. For, as Governor Philip LaFollette has said, the Jeffersonians have President Roosevelt's hands tied. They force a compromise at every turn.

So, which ever way the political wheel spins in the next two years, Josiah Bailey is sure to be riding one of the spokes, in the midst of whatever is going on. He is sure to be a central figure in the outcome of the present split in the Democratic party.
