Former Governor Tells Of Conflict Between Jews And Arabs

"Palestine is the question of the hour," declared Sir Ronald Storrs, noted English diplomat and former Governor-General of Palestine in his address at the First Baptist church, Tuesday evening.

Sir Ronald Storrs, in the first part of his lecture, took the part of a Jew and, in the latter, the part of an Arab. While speaking as a Jew he mentioned the fact that the Jews believed and lived up to the writings of the Old Testament. Their highest ambition was to once again own Israel and to have a country to call their own. They believed that there was only one place for the Israelites and that was in Israel.

Sir Ronald said that the Jews started going back to Palestine at the beginning of the World War after the Balfour Declaration had been drawn up. They started building hospitals, tilling the soil, etc. The Jews were not naturally farmers but they had never had the chance to return and farm before. The soil was well developed. In Java, the orange and lemon groves were the best in the world. Sir Ronald stated, "The desert was made to rejoice and blossom like the rose." During the 20 years under English rule, the population has grown from 50,000 to 450,000 people.

Sir Ronald Storrs next presented himself as an Arab, giving the Arabic point of view. He believed the Arabs to be a naturally gifted race with a

Israel Bernstein Addresses Second Jewish Meeting

Portland Lawyer Traces History Of Semites

Sunday evening, Israel Bernstein of Portland spoke to a group of students, faculty members, and townspeople. Professor Wilkinson of the History department introduced Mr. Bernstein, explaining that this was the second in a series of Inter-faith meetings of Jews, Protestants, and Catholics. Rabbi Lewittes who was supposed to speak Sunday evening, was unable to be in Waterville at that time; and Mr. Bernstein, a well known lawyer in Portland, spoke in his place. A brief summary of Mr. Bernstein's talk follows:

Announce Cast Of Powder And Wig Play

Elizabeth Buckner To Have Lead In Production Of Capek's "R. U. R."

The cast of the first Powder and Wig production of the current year, Capek's "R. U. R.," has been released for publication; and as was expected, it is studded with Powder and Wig talent, supported by freshman "comers." Elizabeth Buckner, who is already well-known in the dramatic circles of Colby, has the lead; and plays the part of Helena Glory, a humanitarian idealist. She is well supported by Elizabeth Fitzgerald, who is still remembered for her work in "The Three Cornered Moon," Estelle Rogers, who recently played in "Romance Is a Racket;" and Barbara Mitchell, who last appeared as the diminutive coquette in "Manikin and Minikin." The names of some of the men, especially Woodrow Hall, Earle Higgins, and John Pendleton, all members of the Powder and Wig, recall a list of Productions which include "Dear Brutus," "Three Cornered Moon," "Everyman," "The Friend of Poti-

Eighteen Attend Conventions And Four Present Papers Before Societies

During the Christmas recess, eighteen members of the Colby faculty attended conventions of various learned societies held annually at this season.

Of these, four Colby professors took part in their respective convention programs, giving papers embodying their latest research. At the American Mathematical Society, at Richmond, Va., Dr. I. J. Shoenberg with Professor J. von Neuman of Princeton's Institute for Advanced Study presented a joint paper on "Tournier Intergrals and Metric Geometry." Dr. Sharon L. Finch spoke on "Numerals in Greek Manuscripts" before the American Philological Association at Providence. Professor Richard J. Lougee gave an illustrated paper before the Geological Society of America in New York on "Correlation of Late Glacial Hinge Lines in

Pan-Hel Dance Opens Formal Social Season

Last Saturday night, January 7, the winter social season was formally opened by the Panhellenic Dance. Bob Freeman and his orchestra, from Boston, swung the music to the enjoyment of the dancers, while the versatile drummer, going temporarily berserk, provided a pleasant diversion with his novelty numbers.

The decorations, carried out in the theme of blue and silver, were in tune with the greater feeling of friendliness, the embodiment of the Panhellenic spirit.

The patrons and patronesses were Dean Ninetta M. Runnals, Dean and Mrs. Ernest C. Murriner, Miss Lillian Evans, and Mr. Howard Roman.

The committee in charge of the dance was: Ruth Gould, chairman, Constance Pratt, Isabel Abbott, and Ellen Fitch.

Socialist Party Leader To Address Groups Here

Norman Thomas, Former Presidential Candidate Will Speak Sunday And Monday

NORMAN THOMAS

Norman Thomas, head of the Socialist party, executive director of the League of Industrial Democracy, and three times Socialist candidate for president, will be in Waterville next Sunday and Monday, January 15 and 16. On Sunday morning at 9:30, he will address the Sunday morning Men's Class at the Opera House. His topic for this address will be, "Adventures of Freedom in America." Sunday evening, Mr. Thomas will speak at the Colby Student Forum. On Monday evening, he will give a public address on "Must We Accept War," at the First Baptist church. 200 tickets have been reserved for Colby students who wish to attend this address.

Norman Thomas is recognized as one of the most brilliant and inspired speakers on social questions in this country today. As the head of the Socialist party, he is a fearless leader to millions of adherents. To cultured liberals, Mr. Thomas is the clearest and most civilized spokesman for the cooperative commonwealth.

Mr. Thomas' fearless views on social questions have made him the target of much criticism. He was recently barred from speaking in Jersey City by Mayor Hague. When he did appear in that city his address was broken up by a bombardment of rotten eggs.

A native of Marion, Ohio, Mr. Thomas was graduated from Princeton.

Eustis Claims Trustess Not Profiteers

Treasurer Explains "College As A Business" In Men's Assembly

Professor Eustis, realizing the superficial knowledge and misunderstood facts concerning the administration of the college by some Colby students, gave an address last Friday in chapel entitled, "Colby College as a Business." Prompted by the remark of a senior to the effect that "due to the large enrollment this year, the trustees must be making a lot of money," Professor Eustis explained the workings of the college.

The annual income from student fees and tuition is $153,075. Out of this amount $30,000 is used expressly for financial assistance. This means a net return of about $123,000, just about the estimated income from endowments. Our endowment since 1929 has increased over $1,000,000 and our operating budget $100,000. The college employs on its regular payroll 105 to 112 persons.

The college is organized as a corporation similar to a regular business

Seventy Take Part In Hallowell Prelims

The preliminaries of the Hallowell Prize Speaking Contest were held Monday afternoon from 1 to 5:30 o'clock under the direction of Professor Herbert C. Libby. About seventy from the men's division took part, each being limited to a three minute speech. This was the first speaking contest of the college year. The ECHO hopes it will soon be able to announce the finalists, but it will take sometime to determine those to be eliminated. Professor Libby has stated that he expects to be able to hold the finals of this contest before the end of the month.

NOTICE

There will be a meeting of the Arts Club on Monday, January 16, at 4:00 in the Music room. Mr. Howard Roman will be the speaker.

Library Receives Valuable Addition To Hardy Collection

Carroll A Wilson Donates Manuscripts And Pictures

The new year was opened with great excitement in the library of Colby college, caused by the arrival of one of the most significant and inviting of recent additions to the Colby Hardy Collection. This new accession came as a benefaction from Carroll A. Wilson of New York city, who had already placed the library in Maine under obligation to him by gifts of books in the past.

Last week's gift consists of books, letters, notes, photographs, clippings, autographs, covering a period of nearly fifty years. The collection originally belonged to two New York ladies, who had formed the habit of reading Hardy aloud to their Manhattan friends back in the days when "The Return of the Native," "The Mayor of Casterbridge," and "Far from the Madding Crowd," were making Hardy one of the most popular of Victorian novelists. Eventually the two sisters went to England and made the acquaintance of Hardy and his first wife, just at the time when the novelist was achieving notoriety through the publication of "Tess of the D'Urbervilles." The Hardys and the two American ladies became very friendly; they lunched and dined together; they went on walks and rides; they exchanged hospitality and letters and anecdotes,—all in the freest and most genial manner.

Glee Club Plans Concert Here Feb. 21: Trip To Aroostook

The schedule of the Colby Glee Club outlines an active program for the current year. The club, having given its first concert at Athens, December 13, plans to entertain the student body and friends of Colby, February 21, with its annual concert. Several other concerts will also be given during the second semester. Previous to the Spring vacation, the club will travel the Aroostook loop for three days, March 21-23, giving concerts at Caribou and Houlton; while definite plans have been made for concerts in Augusta and Portland, the dates of which have not been announced.

One of the most ambitious undertakings of the Glee Club in the past years has been its annual participation in the Glee Club Festival. This year, the New England Glee Club Association Festival, usually held in Boston or the environs, has been indefinitely postponed. However, it is easy to suppose that this club will be as active as usual with the program outlined above.

Fighting Colby Quintet Loses To Maine On Free Throw In Last Minute Of Play

Mules Take Early Lead; Rimosukas High Scorer

In the opening encounter of 1939 state series court warfare at Orono last Saturday night, the University of Maine quintet bested a fighting Colby crew with a foul in the last minute of play to gain a 32-31 advantage. Colby stepped out in front during the early stages of the first half, trailed by one basket at the intermission, and came back strong in the second session to make the ball game a toss-up until the final gun.

The game opened in a dull fashion, with neither team scoring in the first five minutes. Then Spina sent in a set shot that drew first blood for Colby. With Rimosukas bearing the brunt of the scoring, Colby managed to pile up an 11-3 lead. Then Maine came back with five field goals in a row to nab the lead. The half ended with the score at 16-14, after Tracy broke a tie for Maine.

At the outset of the second half, Colby again took the upper hand, Burrill and Peters sinking three fouls. With ten minutes left to play and the score at 25-24 for the pale blue, Maine took a time-out. The lead saw-sawed back and forth, and with only a minute to play, Wilson of Maine was awarded a free throw. This one point proved to be the margin of victory for Maine, despite the desperate Colby attack during the remaining seconds.

Poor shooting and many wild passes featured the game, but the closeness of the encounter kept the 2500 spectators on their feet during the second half. The fast, furious pace necessitated the calling of many fouls, and the ability of the Mules to throw in points from the free line was the factor that kept the game from being a Maine walk away.

Bourgoin was the outstanding performer for the Maine quintet, sinking five field goals to lead in the University scoring. For Colby, Rimosukas captured high scoring honors with ten points, while Bus Burrill, playing his usual rugged game, was second with eight, six of them scored on fouls. Vic Malins played a good game, and was particularly brilliant in snagging rebounds from the back boards.

Iceemen Lose First Contest To Brown

The White Mule pucksters of Colby lost their first hockey venture to Brown University at Providence before the Christmas holidays by a score of 4 to 0.

All of the scoring was done in the first period as Brown gave their all in one great offensive drive. The Colby team clearly showed the lack of teamwork as they went into the game without a single hockey practice due to the lack of ice.

Mule Hoopsters Lose Three In Massachusetts

Minus as much as one game's experience this winter, the Colby Basteers lost their first three games of the season while making a three day invasion of colleges in Massachusetts. On Thursday evening, Dec. 16, the Mules lost to Lowell Textile by a score of 22 to 25; on Friday evening, Dec. 16, they lost to Clark University by a score of 24 to 39; and on Saturday evening, Dec. 17 they lost to Massachusetts Institute of Technology by a score of 32 to 36.

The players making the trip to Massachusetts were as follows: Dick Hopkins, Bus Burrill, Vic Malins, Mike Spina, Al Rimosukas, Maynard Irish, Chick Hatch, Stan Gruber, Gil Peters, Al Reed, Bob Pullen, George Beach, and Manager Stanley.

Colby Beaten by 3 Points
A rally in the last minute and 40 seconds of play gave Lowell Textile a 25 to 22 win over the touring Colby basketball team. The Mules had a one point lead before George Gianaris tied the count with a foul which he followed with a two pointer.

The narrow playing surface bothered the Colby quintet to no end, but they managed to gain an early lead and hold it almost to the end. The loss of Vic Malins, who fouled out in the third period, dampened Colby's hopes for victory.

Mules Outclassed by Clark Five
The Colby basketball team went down to its second defeat in as many starts as Clark University went on a scoring spree in the last half to hang up 19 points and a 39 to 24 victory.

The Colby quintet looked good in the opening half as they made their shots count, and when the whistle blew ending the activity for the first 20 minutes of action, they were only behind one point, 19 to 20.

The Mules looked almost as bad in the second half as they did good in the first. Colby had plenty of shots in the second half, but just couldn't click as they had earlier. While Colby could dump but 5 points through the netted curtains in the last stanza, Clark was equally as good as they had previously showed, by pushing in 19 points.

Colby Loses to M. I. T.

M. I. T., one of the strongest basketball teams in New England, conquerer of Harvard and Northeastern, carved another notch in their victory belt by defeating Colby 36 to 32 in one of the best games of the season. Colby, showing marked improvement from their first two touring tilts with Lowell Textile and Clark University, respectively, fought nip and tuck throughout the game and it wasn't until the last few minutes of play that the Technicians came through with their win. At half time the Mules were deadlocked at 16-all, but the last period spurt was too much for the Colby players to overcome.

Coach Eddie Roundy, trying desperately to find a quintet with some scoring power, changed his lineup somewhat, placing Bus Burrill in the pivot spot and Mike Spina into a forward berth. The result was very satisfactory. Burrill contributed 12 points to the cause of Colby and Spina came through with 5.

Colby hockey stock fell with a thump when little Ray Fortin was reported off duty because of a leg injury received in the game with Northeastern. Fortin was no mild sensation in that game; and what a hand that Northeastern crowd gave him! Coach Bill Millett told me it was the biggest hand he had ever heard a crowd give any hockey player, amateur or professional, and the coach has seen a few hockey games. The crowd would probably have cheered louder if it had been known that the spunky Colby star played most of the game after he had chipped a knee-bone in a mix-up that occurred in the first few minutes of play. Tough break.

Good Intentions

Among my New Year's Resolutions:

1. To remember, when writing on this page, that there are a few good men on other college teams and all Colby losses don't have to be alibied.

2. To forget the word "rejuvenated" in respect to second half comebacks of Colby teams.

3. Not to hail every hardworking fellow who scores over ten points in a ball game as "the greatest Colby player since Joe Umph."

4. To forget the word "foxy" in connection with Fred Brice, University of Maine football coach.

Hockey Team Wins League Battle From Northeastern

Colby won her first New England Intercollegiate league hockey contest last Friday night by topping a stubborn Northeastern sextet at the Arena 8 to 5.

Paced by the diminutive and brilliant Fortin the Mules kept the crowd of 2500 standing in their seats as they went on to win a free scoring, hard checking game.

Fortin and Bolduc Shine

The contest was very interesting and hard fought as the Huskies kept the Mules pretty well at bay until a pair of costly penalties by Gerry Griffin proved to be their undoing. Only one substitution went in for Colby during the waning minutes of play, yet in spite of this fact Fortin and Bolduc were invincible as they tallied four and three times respectively.

Colby, using a fast break, scored in the first play when Bob Wheelock set up Tony Bolduc for a shot which dented the netting for the initial tally. Here the Mules were temporarily slowed down as the Huskies employed a hard body checking game accompanied by rough tactics.

The second period was one of torrid action. With Griffin in the penalty box, Fortin passed to Bolduc who scored on a nice shot between Heffron's legs. Then with Bolduc in the "coop" Fortin scored unassisted. DeVeber then set up Fortin again who tallied. Griffin was again penalized for roughness and the Mules tallied twice more to forge ahead.

A goal in the early minutes of the final canto and at mid-time on unassisted dashes by Fortin practically salted the game. DeVeber added to the Colby total by scoring unassisted through Beaton.

The Colby hockey team minus the services of Ray Fortin went down to crushing defeat before the vaunted power of Boston College 7 to 0 at the Arena last Saturday night.

Macintosh Superb

The Mule sextet with the Hiram Pearson Macintosh 4th playing a stellar game in the nets kept the Eagles down to two tallies in first two periods. The relentless B. C. attack, however, finally took its toll on the tired pucksters of Colby to score five times in the final session.

Without the peerless Fortin the Mules lacked the fire which downed the Northeastern Huskies the previous evening.

The Eagles scored once in the first period as a result of Lowry's pass to Daugherty. The second period which was full of excitement saw Hi Macintosh stop practically everything that came his way.

In the last period, however, the steady pressure of the B. C. attack told the story as the boys from Boston went on to cage five more tallies. Colby (0) (7) Boston College

Brush Portrays Poet In Women's Assembly

Rev. John W. Brush spoke in women's assembly, Monday, on Robert Burns, portraying Burns as singer of the heart, and Scotland. "Just as Italy is the land of Mussolini," said Mr. Brush, "Scotland is the land of Robert Burns."

This month Scottish people all over the world will celebrate Burns' birthday by holding "Burns' Night." One of the interesting rites of "Burns' Night," as explained by Mr. Brush, is the bringing in of the haggis, the stomach of a sheep, which is filled with something similar to turkey stuffing. After the haggis has been placed on the banquet table, the toastmaster reads Burns' "Address to the Haggis."

Mr. Brush read several colorful selections from Burns' poetry, and concluded his talk with a "jingle written to tell what Burns means to me." This, as well as the entire speech, was enthusiastically received by the assembly.

organization with a few important dissimilarities. The governing body is a board of trustees; the college is a non-stock owning corporation; and it does not operate for profit. Including the president and treasurer, the number of trustees can not exceed 31 or be less than 21, each serving a term of 3 years. The alumni elect 2 each year, the alumnae 1.

Prof. Eustis in analyzing the business of the college said a few words on its history. The records show that in 1817, the trustees voted that a professor of theology and a professor of languages be appointed at salaries of $600 and $500 yearly. Only one was appointed and he received only $490 at the end of the year. In 1824, in a letter by President Champlin we learn of the expenses of attending college. Board, $50.57; tuition and room, $22; wood, $2; use of classical books, $6; a total of $84.32.

The college receives from time to time, gifts, which are given only with certain reservations. For instance, there are special funds for a student intending to be a missionary in a particular girls' school in China. Another fund, whose restrictions prove rather embarrassing, states that "no student shall receive said benefit whose personal character is corrupt, or morals impure, or who uses alcoholic beverages or tobacco in any form, or who persistently neglects to observe studious habits, or to conform with the college rules and regulations."

Professor Eustis made, in his brief talk, no reference to Mayflower Hill but stated that over one-half million dollars has been spent to date, and the next year's expenditures will exceed over one million dollars.

Antisemitism means hostility to the Jews. The causes are many and complex. The orthodox Jews regard persecution as punishment for their sins which will continue until the coming of the Messiah. The Zionists believe that the root cannot be removed until the Jews have a political state of their own. Certain liberal Jews believe that the remedy for anti-semitism is an education. A fourth approach is that of the Socialists, who believe that the capitalists try to divert the working class from their own troubles by holding up the Jews as a target to shoot at. Another cause of anti-semitism is the jealousy that springs from inferiority. Many Jews are more clever and industrious than some men of other races, which is annoying and irritating to the inferior group, which seeks appeasement through persecution of the Jews. The unassimilability of the Jew has brought about anti-semitism. Finally, Christianity is general, and the Catholic church in particular, is the source of much anti-semitism. Christians in the middle ages instigated persecution of the Jews,

Fire In Deke House Opens Year And Necessitates New Quarters

An interior view of the Delta Kappa Epsilon House after the fire of New Year's day.

At about three o'clock Sunday morning, January 1st, just three hours into the new year. Michael Spina and Walter Reed, walking along College avenue toward the campus noticed a blaze in the D. K. E. house. They awoke Chef Wallace Fields, his wife, and child asleep in the house; and then turned in the first alarm of the new year, which was recorded at 3:21 A. M. at the fire station.

The firemen did a marvelous job in checking the flames when they did, for the fire had started in the wall back of the fireplace, and had spread through the walls of the whole front part of the house. The firemen put salvage covers over some of the books and furniture, and went out of their way to save things, both from the fire and water. In spite of the fact that the blaze was what is known to firemen as a "stubborn blaze"—that is, they would check it in one corner and it would break out in another—they finally succeeded in bringing it under control in two hours. The insurance company attributed the cause of the fire to a defective brick in the back of the chimney, through which a spark had dropped, igniting the material between the walls.

Damage to the house was estimated at between five and six thousand dollars, while damage to furniture and personal property will probably bring the total up to ten thousand dollars. Everything in the two second floor front rooms was completely destroyed, (except a paddle that wasn't even scorched) together with everything in the "tram" on the third floor; but the greatest loss to several of the boys was the destruction of notebooks containing all their laboratory or class notes for the semester. All the fraternity relics and paintings were saved and the house and furniture was covered by insurance.

This was the worst fire in any building connected with the college since Coburn Hall was completely destroyed in 1926. It was the worst fraternity house fire since the tragic fire in the Lambda Chi house in North College, December, 1922, when four men were killed. Previous to that there were fires in North College in 1904 and 1914.

The DKE house was built around 1880, by Daniel R. Wing, editor and publisher of the Waterville Mail at that time. Delta Kappa Epsilon bought the house in 1898, planning to make a chapter house of it, but the fraternity did not move in until 1904, renting the house to a Mrs. Butterfield in the interim. It was a new experiment at Colby to have a fraternity living together in one house, and several members of the faculty were dubious as to its merits at the time. But within a few years other fraternities followed this example and took residences.

The house itself is too badly damaged to warrant repairs at present, in view of the fact that the college will move to Mayflower Hill within the next few years. However, the boys will eat in the old house until they move into their new temporary quarters. The committee has been negotiating with the Home Owners' Loan Corporation for the Daggett house on Pleasant street, and will probably have a lease on this until moving to Mayflower Hill.

The college and other fraternities have been very helpful in making no charge for quarters until mid-years. The bookstore has cooperated by allowing the purchase of new books for replacements at wholesale prices. The cooperation of the whole college and student body has been gratefully received by the Dekes.

The temporary addresses of the members of D. K. E. until they move into their new quarters about the middle of February are: Paul Burnham, L. C. A.; A. Thomas Clark, D. U.; Edward Cleveland, A. T. O.; John Coolidge, L. C. A.; Joseph Croteau, Taylor House; Clarence Dore, 9 Pleasantdale avenue; Franklin Downie, D. U.; Franklyn Foster, L. C. A.; John Foster, Hedman Hall; Barnard Jordan, 66 Burleigh street; H. P. Macintosh, Hedman Hall; Charles Maguire, Infirmary; Arnold Myshraill, L. C. A.; Warren Pearl, D. U.; Arthur Thompson, Roberts; Richard White, Infirmary; George Young, 66 Burleigh street.

which established the roots of anti-semitism.

The Jews, Mr. Bernstein said, gave the foundations of monotheistic religion to the world. The Greeks gave art, the Romans gave politics. Anti-semitism "did not rear its ugly head until Christianity started." As soon as the Christians were free from oppression, they themselves turned to oppressing the Jews. This was about 400 A. D. The Jews became social outcasts. Until this time the Jews had had full citizenship rights in most all states of the day, even after Palestine was broken up and the Jewish people scattered. Christianity was savage and merciless; only if the Jew adopted Christianity would oppression stop. But the Jew was stubborn. As a means of self defense, the Jew became clever in matters of finance and trading. He used his wits as a means of keeping alive.

Luther was at first friendly to the Jews until he found that they would accept his form of Christianity no more than that of the Roman Catholics; then Lutherans turned to persecuting the Jews worse than the Catholics had done. Then followed the expulsion of the Jews in turn from England, France, Austria, Spain (with the Spanish Inquisition), in the latter part of the middle ages. It wasn't until the 19th century that the Jews were finally emancipated in Central Europe. France was first, then Germany, and finally in 1870 the Hardy part of which was bought by Mr. Wilson and turned over to the Colby library where there was already an extensive Hardy collection.

The autographed letters from the Hardys, the snapshot records of their travels, on foot, by horse, and by bicycle, are exceeded in interest only by the detailed marginal comments, recording Hardy's remarks about his famous novels. These annotations, along with the letters, have been turned over to Professor Carl J. Weber, Colby's Hardy scholar, for careful examination and study; and plans have been discussed by him and the college librarian, Mr. N. Orwin Rush, for making this important new material available to Hardy students elsewhere. The librarian has given this new addition to his Hardy collection a specially enthusiastic welcome, in view of plans under contemplation for the recognition of the centennial of Hardy's birth in 1940.

author progressed, their record of his remarks, his confessions, his explanations, his comments, multiplied. Hardy autographed for his American friends, one by one, the books of his which they bought and read; and into these books they wrote their gleanings of his fireside or roadside talk.

Later the American ladies settled in the English Lake District; but the correspondence with the Hardys continued. The first Mrs. Hardy, and after her death, Miss Florence Dugdale who became the second Mrs. Hardy, continued to correspond with the New Yorkers. The result of all this was a Hardy collection of unusual richness and import. The recent death of the Americans resulted in the disposal of their London library,

Ken Smith Says Self Is A Must For Youth Of Today

"Growing up is largely the matter of getting control of oneself," said Ken Smith, State Director of the Y. M. C. A., January 8, at Forum. Mr. Smith used as his subject an unusual interpretation of the thirteenth chapter of First Corinthians, pointing out that until one had put away such childish things as fear, greed, revenge, deceitfulness, and boasting, one really had not gotten control of oneself and therefore was not grown up.

One illustration of childishness, which he used, was the reckless action of many people when in control of an automobile, their disregard for other drivers and pedestrians. Quite frequently one will be physically grown-up but not be able to get along with other people, nor to take care of oneself; that person has not gotten control of himself.

Nations, too, are still childish. They have such things as racial and religious prejudice. They struggle to have the most ghastly armaments for wars, and to make the others miserable.

Dr. Lougee Heads Maine Geologists

Dr. Richard J. Lougee, professor of the geology department was elected to the presidency of the Maine Mineralogical and Geological Society in their annual election in December. Dr. Lougee, who has been an active member of the organization in the two years and a half that he has been here, commented, "It was certainly a surprise to me."

The Maine Mineralogical Society which was founded in 1927 has a membership of over one hundred active members in this state. Dr. Lougee is the only Maine professor to be elected to this position.

held at New York in Columbia University. Professor Carl J. Weber served as secretary to the Victorian Section of this conference. Others present were Professors Cecil A. Rollins and C. Lennart Carlson of the English department; and Professors John J. McCoy, Everett F. Strong and Gordon W. Smith of the modern language department.

The meetings of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, in Richmond, Va., were attended by Professors Webster Chester and Edward J. Colgan. Two members of the chemistry department, Lester F. Weeks and Wendell A. Ray, were present at the American Chemical Society meetings at Providence. Addison Pond of the department of business administration went to Detroit where the American Economic Association and other organizations in similar fields held their conventions.

Other delegates from the Colby faculty were: Professor Thomas B. Ashcraft to the American Mathematical Society and Mathematical Association of America at Richmond and Williamsburg, Va.; Professor Thomas M. Griffiths to the American Historical Association at Chicago; Professor Hans C. Thory to the American Philological Association and Archaeological Institute of America at Providence; Professor Nathaniel E. Wheeler to the American Physical Society and American Association of Physics Teachers at Washington, D. C.

"Nothing Is Known". . . .

Few of us realize what a constant, planned process the expending of our mental horizons really is. When anyone mentions research, we invariably picture an eccentric old professor, carrying on experiments in a remote laboratory; producing "foul stinks and hellish odors" and an occasional important discovery.

During the Christmas vacation many of our instructors attended annual conventions of learned societies. Four of our professors spoke at these, obeying the unwritten law of all investigators by giving the results of their work to the world free. Others of the faculty spent their vacation collecting and correlating new facts in their line of specialization.

In view of the great advances made yearly in various subjects, one is inclined to agree with Lincoln Steffens, who said "Nothing is known, the best books have not yet been written, the most beautiful music has not been composed and the most startling discoveries are waiting to be made."

F. S.

Now Informed. . . .

Last fall there was comment in this column of the lack of information on the part of students on the management of their college. Last Friday in chapel Professor Eustis cited the same instance of misinformation and presented the student body with much interesting and pertinent information about the business of the college. The whole series of chapel talks now current on the way the college operates is a worthwhile move in providing the correct information.

The ECHO also urged acceptance of the student council petition for a reading period, and highly commends the favorable action of the faculty.

One thing remains. There was a companion petition presented with the one mentioned which asked for reform in the foreign language requirements. The student body is at least entitled to a report on this from the administration. The question was argued considerably last year, and the petition constituted a formal presentation of the entire student body. In fairness the situation calls for an administration answer with reasons for their position. Or perhaps we are not trying to handle this in a democratic way?

A Rare Animal. . . .

We are glad to see such a rush to our support after the attack on the ECHO by "Disillusioned, '41" before the holiday. There is one point in that letter which needs comment—humor.

Humor is not included among those things that every person can write—certainly not the kind of humor which is not an assault to the college student's attention. Hence we cannot say to a reporter, "Go out and bring in a humorous story." If we did, the result would more than likely be on the level suitable for White Mule copy and quite unsuitable for the ECHO, as the writer admits.

Now as to our policy on humor. The ECHO is not only willing but glad to print humorous material suited to its columns from any source in college. In fact an effort has been made to obtain some contributions from students of acknowledged ability. But so far they have not been in a position to enrich those columns. There are others who have the ability. But until they come forward, finding them is like hunting for the proverbial needle in a haystack. And if there are any left of insufficient mentality not to realize that the so-called "dirt" columns are not humorous—we pity them. A personality column can be humorous. But when it is, it ceases to be a "dirt" column, for it is read for something else besides finding out what one's friends are doing. We are ready and always have been to print a humorous personality column if, as and when the columnist appears. But the columnist is a rare animal.

THE GLADIATOR COLUMN

RE-SOPHOMORIC JOBS

In answer to letter printed in the ECHO of December 14, and signed, "Disillusioned, '41." Printed just as it came to the editor.

Dear Gladiator:

Was? much disturbed! over the recent letter of my friend. He says that the December 7 issue of the ECHO was "an insult to the Colby students." Gosh! Imagine being so low that the Colby ECHO can get you down! Imagine just an ECHO! My friend was "stunned by such a lack of incompetency." Wow! Quick, Henry, the Flit! And furthermore our friend labels it a "sophomoric job" and signs his letter as a member of the class of '41. Why blame all the world's faults on the poor sophomores?

And I bet that that queer fellow who writes "To-day's History" didn't like it much to learn that he is wasting his time. Ain't it awful? Something must be did. And our friend, for he really is our friend, isn't it? Gets a big bouquet for discovering that the ECHO is not the White Mule. And thank God for that! He really is nice fellows. Gee Whiz, Yes! White Mule is respectable magazines. Two bits goes to alleged friend for crediting the thing with humor. (Maybe that means dampness. Wow!)

Conclusion is that why take up valuable space for college weekly. Weakly said, my friend. How true when he said that there must be humorous incidents among Colby's 700 students. Yes, Vive, Our Pal! Hopes he learns to speakum English. Indiscriminate Brother Editor is nice fellows and recommends Disillusioned '41 to White Mule. He has possibilities as well as impossibilities. And please stop thinking that Frankie Brimsek is the new President of Czechoslovakia. Hopes to hear: from? you! again, sometime!!!

Amazed and Amused, '39.

Dear Disillusioned '41:

I can sympathize with you; for after reading your letter to the Gladiator, I, too, am disillusioned. When you described the ECHO as a "sophomoric job," I felt sure that you must be a member of the faculty, a disgruntled alumnus, or at least a senior. Imagine my surprise and terrible disillusion to find that you are only a mere sophomore. I can understand that all-gone, let-down feeling that you experienced when you read the ECHO; for I experienced the same reaction when I read your note to the Gladiator.

My disillusionment wouldn't have been so great when I found you to be of the class of '41, if you had a few, nay, just one constructive criticism to offer. However, it seems that you have learned little else in your one year at Colby, but the expression of ill-founded criticisms. Have you any idea what news value is? Don't you think that there are many in the college who will at least search for their names in one of the front page write-ups? By merely glancing through the headlines of the front page of any collegiate weekly, a student should be informed as to what has happened and what will happen relative to the publication date of the paper. Your criticism of the column, "To-day's History," is without merit. True, all the information written there is gleaned from newspapers and periodicals; in fact, Spencer Winsor, the author of the column, occasionally quotes his source. The object of the column, as I see it, (and I read it each week), is to save the student a little time. Here is a concise, digested report of current events, free from unessentials, a valuable short cut to knowledge.

After reading your note, I felt sure that a cure is necessary for you; but I don't feel that I know you well enough to prescribe anything. Allow me to suggest long walks into the neighboring countryside. These will take your time and thought away from other pressing matters. Who knows but that you may develop into another Rousseau; at least you will become acquainted with nature. As to my own recovery, don't worry; I will seek the solace of intimate friends.

Disillusioned '39.

TODAY'S HISTORY

By SPENCER WINSOR

Italy Shifts To England

Since Germany seems unwilling to risk a general European war to back Italian demands, Italy is looking toward Neville Chamberlain's visit with great expectancy. Although pledged to France, England might turn her head if Italy will give the Britains a good offer. Among Italy's articles of trade are the cessation of Arab agitation in Palestine, the removal of Italian troops from Spain as soon as the civil war is over, and the use of Mussolinian influence with Hitler to improve British-German trade relations. That this last offer carries weight is indicated by the visit of the President of the Bank of England, Montagu Norman, to Berlin in an effort to bring about some understanding and policy.

Mussolini Protects Ethiopia and Tunisia

What Mussolini would like in return is manifold. He wants a chance to buy shares of Suez Canal stock so that Italy will have a voice in keeping her most important route to Ethiopia open. He wants Tunisia made into an international settlement or at least the status of Italian citizens in Tunisia defined.

France Continues to Look to England

From France the voice of M. Daladier, backed by royal displays of the loyalty of his territorial subjects, states firmly that France will fight rather than permit another "Munich." But secretly Daladier is depending on England's backing, and as a kind of lure, French and English officials talked over the possibility of the widening and deepening of a small canal from Bordeaux, on the Atlantic side of France, to La Nouvelle, on the Mediterranean side. The cost would be $400,000,000 and could be finished in three years; it would enable England to readily transport her ships to the Mediterranean, no longer depending upon the now obsolete Gibraltar.

Sargent Announces Oracle Pix Schedule

Group pictures for the 1939 Colby Oracle are to be taken by Carleton Brown beginning on Sunday, January 15, according to announcement today by Dwight Sargent, managing editor. Colby students must make note of the exact time and place for each picture and make it a point to be there if they are a member of that group. No second appointments will be made.

If it is absolutely impossible for any one group to have its picture taken at the appointed time the head of that group is asked to notify Dwight Sargent at once so that a suitable time may be arranged.

CHI EPSILON MU

Thursday, January 19, Chi Epsilon Mu will have a guest speaker, Professor Lester F. Weeks, at its regular meeting. He will give an illustrated talk on hormones. The meeting will start at 7:30 P. M. in Chemical Hall.

Griffiths Writes Maine History Article

Distinctive recognition in the field of history came to Prof. Thomas M. Griffiths when he was invited to contribute five articles to the "Dictionary of American History" to be published soon.

Professor Griffiths has undertaken and completed the five articles on Fort Western, Maine under Massachusetts, the St. Croix Settlement, the Waldo Patent, and the Welsh in America. Each topic is accompanied by a selected bibliography.

The "Dictionary of American History" is now in the process of publication by Charles Scribner's Sons and will soon be finished. It is under the editorship of the well known historian, James Truslow Adams.

Professor Griffiths is also doing a great deal of research work on Gen. Henry Knox, secretary of war in Washington's cabinet, whose beautiful home, Montpelier, in Thomaston, is kept open as a historical site. His book when completed will be the most complete work ever attempted on the life of General Knox.

Prof. Griffiths completed reading the manuscripts necessary for the completion of the work, during the Christmas vacation at Chicago.

Prexy And Smith Leave For West Coast

President Franklin W. Johnson and George Otis Smith, chairman of the board of directors, left today for a trip to the Pacific coast. The president will be a speaker at a Colby dinner in Los Angeles which is being organized by Denis E. Bowman, '93, and at one in San Francisco planned by Raymond P. Luce, '15. Since his itinerary includes a stop-over in Chicago on the return trip, President Johnson will speak at a Colby meeting which, no doubt, will be organized there. Chairman Smith will also attend these meetings.

Pearl And Bamber To Serve Tea For Weary

Every year during mid-year examinations it is customary for the Y. W. C. A. to sponsor teas. This year Arline Bamber and Warren Pearl are chairmen of the committee to make the necessary plans.

Not only is the Y. W. C. A. of service to the students of Colby but also to the Americanization School. Helen Guptill, with other Colby students, is assisting Miss Morse, principal of the school, to teach foreigners to read, write, and speak the English language.

Varsity Quintet Faces Bowdoin And Bates

Two games are on the schedule for the Colby varsity courtmen within the next three days. Tomorrow night the quintet will take on the Bowdoin Independents, and on Saturday evening will continue the state series in a tilt with the Bates College outfit.

The game on Saturday night is the relatively important one. After their recent one point defeat at the hands of Maine, Colby will show whether they have been able to overhaul their game and produce a more smoothly coordinated quintet. On the basis of comparative scores, which, however, mean little, the battle should be rated as a toss-up. M. I. T. defeated the Bates team last Saturday by one foul goal, and three weeks ago the Tech players beat the Colby Mules, 36-32. The outcome of this game will show whether or not the state series will be as tight as the first game last week would indicate. A decisive win by Bates would make it a favorite to cop the crown. However, another tight encounter would throw the series into an even more complicated knot.

The Bowdoin Independents, unofficial team of the Brunswick institution, which does not sponsor a quintet, promises to put up a stiff battle. The Independents have played a number of games this season, and look strong enough to compare favorably with the Mules.

As a preliminary to the Bates game on Saturday night, the Frosh will engage a talented M. C. I. group.

D U Trims Lambda Chi As Non-Frats Edge A T O

A doubleheader featuring L. C. A. and D. U. and A. T. O. versus the Non-Frats opened the annual interfrat basketball season here last Saturday. In the opening contest D. U. won easily from L. C. A. by the score of 38-22, but the night-cap resulted in one of the closest and most exciting games ever played on the old gym floor as the Non-Frats beat A. T. O. in the third overtime period by the score of 29-28.

William Pinansky's foul shot in the closing seconds of the third overtime period brought victory to the Non-Frats in a game that was a real "wild and woolly" thriller from the start. The game was hard fought by both sides and considering the excitement of the play it was cleanly played. Jack Logan scored 14 points and William Pinansky 13 for 27 of the Non-Frats 29 points. On the losing A. T. O. side, Cotton stood out by scoring 11 points.

Review Shows Progress On Mayflower Hill In Last Year

CORNERSTONE OF LORIMER CHAPEL

THE MAINE MILLION COMMITTEE

THE ROBERTS MEMORIAL UNION

WOMEN'S SOCIAL UNION

THE LORIMER MEMORIAL CHAPEL

A symbol of the realization of the Colby dream, a modern campus, stands in this picture of the Lorimer Chapel. Rearing its spire on the hillside, this beautiful structure which is designed to be loved and admired, and to form an integral part in the lives of thousands of students, represents the beginning of a new epoch in education at Colby. The old order of tenacious conservatism, bordering on degeneracy which has long typified education, is being transplanted by modern and scientific administration of facilities necessary to the development of true students. Following the trend of progress, Colby may be proud of such a forward step.

Friends of Colby are also energetic in their activities. Looking back over

1938, they have the satisfaction of seeing not only the erection of the first building, but many other accomplishments in the campus project. These include the exterior of the Lorimer Memorial Chapel which was finished, including the 120 foot spire, doors, windows, and outside wood work. The concrete foundations were completed for the Roberts Memorial Union, which is being given by the Colby alumni; also the library, the east freshman dormitory, and the women's social union, for which the alumnae are now engaged in raising funds. Excavations were also made for two classroom buildings and the west freshman dormitory, and President Franklin W. Johnson announced in August the pledge of funds for one of the science laboratories, although the money would not be available for construction until a later date.

A committee of citizens and summer residents of Maine was formed last summer to further a program to be known as "The Maine Million for Mayflower Hill." These state leaders sponsored a pilgrimage to Mayflower Hill on August 20 which was attended by several hundred persons who inspected the new site and model of the future campus; and listened to addresses by President James R. Angell of Yale; Dave H. Morriss, former Ambassador to Belgium, Carl R. Gray, co-president of the Union Pacific System and others. The Maine Million committee will direct a campaign this coming year to raise funds to make possible the second stage of the three year construction program which will move Colby to its new quarters in 1940.

Warren Gets Philippine Greetings Via Radio

Registrar Elmer C. Warren had the unique experience of receiving holiday greetings from Manila, Philippine Islands, via amateur radio this past holiday period.

The message was received at station WIIST, Rumford, Maine, from station KA1HR in Manila; and was sent by George Crosby who was here at Colby three years as a member of the class of '36. While here Mr. Crosby was a member of the outing club and was active in photography. He was a member of one of the MacMillan expedition to Greenland.

The message received read as follows:

"My sincerest regards to you and my friends at college for a pleasant holiday with plenty of snow and ice."

Signed,

George.

Bates And Maine To Oppose Colby Debaters

On Wednesday, Jan. 18th, a Colby debating team consisting of Ernest C. Marriner, Jr., and G. Allan Brown, taking the negative side, will debate with Bates college on the subject, resolved: "That the United States should establish an alliance with Great Britain." This will take place from 7:30 to 8:00 P. M. and it is planned to have it broadcast over WCSH in Portland.

Plans are being formulated for a future dual debate with the University of Maine, Colby upholding the affirmative side at Maine with a team consisting of Howard Miller, George F. Taylor and Dwight Sargent. The negative side will be taken care of at Waterville by a team consisting of Harry Cohen, Joseph J. Chernauskas, and Spencer Winsor. This debate will be held sometime the latter part of January.

The women's division is also active for plans are being made for Miss Carrie Burdwood and Miss Barbara Skehan to represent Colby in a debate with the women's division from Boston University.

Sixty-four years ago Roanoke College students were offered board for $6.50 a month.

The Williams College news bureau, in one football weekend, despatched stories totaling more than 21,000 words.

phar's Wife," and "Romance Is a Racket." The rest of the cast includes Nathanael Guptill, a new "find," John Hawes, Harry Cohen, Samuel Warren, and Mortimer Lenk, all of whom have had at least high school experience.

The cast reads as follows:

Dominus	John Hawes
Sulla	Estelle Rogers
Marius	Harry Cohen
Dr. Gall	Samuel Warren
Mr. Fabry	Woodrow Hall
Dr. Hallemeier	Earle Higgins
Mr. Alquist	Mortimer Lenk
Consul Busman	Nathanael Guptill
Nana	Elizabeth Fitzgerald
Radius	John Pendleton
Helena, Robotess	Barbara Mitchell

The play chosen, Capek's "Rossum's Universal Robots," a Broadway hit of not many years ago, is the most difficult that has been attempted at Colby for some time; and it is a play that holds unusual interest for the playgoer. Behind the facetious title, "R. U. R." which recalls the salutation, "Are you there, Charlie?" is a vivid description of a chaotic modern world. Although this play is a mere dream in the imaginative mind of Capek, it is a "nightmare in three acts and an epilogue." Satirical, melodramatic filled with suspense, it is no bed-time story. The theme is the destruction of man in this modern world by forces of his own invention, and paradoxically ties together such subjects as the machine age and the Garden of Eden. A curious combination to find in any play, a mechanical engine and the Garden of Eden; but this is an unusual play.

beautiful Egypt and Palestine, as did the Jews. They thought that Great Britain would be dragged into war and in the end occupy Palestine and appoint a temporary Military Governor. This thing did happen in 1914.

According to Sir Ronald, the Arabs thought that they should be presented with Palestine. They also realized that, in the Balfour declaration, they hadn't been mentioned in particular, but the Jews had. Nevertheless, they did find that their civil and religious rights were to be reserved. They also noticed that their political rights "hadn't been mentioned."

Sir Ronald Storrs declared that as a result of all, "the Jews and the Arabs cannot live together." An agreement that the most futile and smaller portion goes to the Jews, and the less fertile and larger portion goes to the Arabs could never be accomplished and peace brought about. He said that the British Government had had control there for 20 years, but it had not as yet settled the question. One thing is sure, he says, and that is that terrorism must be put down with an iron hand. Murdering people in cold blood must be stopped and peace established.

In closing, Sir Ronald said that the British Government had been criticized for not making a policy in which the result would be better. He also said, in reply, that 50 nations had signed the Balfour Declaration in which Britain should carry out the ton University and Union Theological Seminary. He became associate pastor of the Brick Presbyterian church in New York City. He later became director of the American Parish and did extensive work on the upper East Side of New York. During the World War, Mr. Thomas resigned his position in the church and served successively as secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, editor of the World Tomorrow and associate editor of the Nation. In 1922, he became executive director of the League for Industrial Democracy, the position he holds today. In 1928, 1932, and 1936, Mr. Thomas was Socialist candidate for the presidency of the United States.

A large group of people are expected to be present at Mr. Thomas' addresses. 1200 complimentary tickets have been given away for his address Sunday morning. Later this week it will be announced on the bulletin board where Colby students may purchase tickets for the lecture on Monday evening. The price of these tickets will be twenty-five cents.

Twelve medical men are held in readiness at all Harvard home football games to aid injured players.
