General Butler To Lecture Here On January 22

Has Had Thrilling Life On Many Battle Fronts

General Smedley D. Butler, one of America's most thrilling, entertaining, and interesting lecturers and speakers, will appear as a guest on the Colby Lecture Course on Monday evening, January 22.

Pierre Van Paasen, scheduled to speak on January 16, has postponed his lecture until later in the season because of a very serious illness. It must be understood, therefore, that General Butler's appearance will be an extra lecture in the course besides the other four to go.

General Butler, who addressed Colby students in the Lecture Course about four or five years ago, will have, as his subject, "Where Do We Go From Here?" Since he retired from the Marine Corps in the fall of 1931, he has been lecturing in hundreds of cities and towns in the United States and Canada.

When sixteen years old, despite early parental objections, General Butler joined the Marine Corps to serve in the Spanish-American War and, in later years, to follow the Flag with his Marines to many parts of the world. He has served with distinction in Cuba, The Philippines, China (during the Boxer Rebellion), Panama, (Please turn to page 6)

Eugene Price Plays At Women's Chapel

Women's chapel on January 8, was entertained with several selections by the well known pianist, Eugene Price. Mr. Price is a graduate of the Juillard school, a student of the Eastman school, and has spent a year in Vienna studying under a teacher who was a personal friend of Brahms.

The first group of selections that Mr. Price played were by Johann Sebastian Bach. He started with a Chorale which is not original with Bach, but was used in Lutheran services three hundred years ago. Bach first wrote it as a Cantata with an obge accompaniment. He was the first musician who insisted on equal tuning of the scale such as we have it today. To illustrate what could be done with this new tuning, he wrote "48 Preludes and Fugues" on a "Well Tempered Clavichord," of these Mr. Price played the Prelude in B flat major.

For his second group Mr. Price played a group of Chopin's Etudes. The Etude in A flat Major has a sustained melody against a shimmering accompaniment. The Etude in F major is a study of figuration. The final selection was a study called the Black Key Etude, which is a favorite salon piece all over the world.

Auto Collision Kills Grace K. MacLaughlin

In a serious head-on collision of two automobiles on the Waterville-Augusta highway December 30, Mrs. Grace Kirkpatrick MacLaughlin, secretary to Professor Gilbert F. Loeb, of the Athletic Department, lost her life.

Mrs. MacLaughlin was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred G. Kirkpatrick of Boutelle avenue, City. Mr. Kirkpatrick is well known to Colby men as the popular New York Life Insurance salesman.

Employed in the athletic office for two years, Mrs. MacLaughlin was also a familiar figure in the treasurer's office where she worked part time.

The funeral was held on January 1, from the Rodington Funeral Home and burial was in Cherryfield, Me.

Rare Maps Given To Colby Library

Bryant, '17 Donates World War Collection

Late last summer, Mr. George F. L. Bryant, class of 1917, in a letter to President Johnson offered to give his collection of rare world war maps to Colby. His offer was accepted and the maps are now on display in the reading room of the library.

Mr. Bryant was an engineer officer with the American expeditionary Force in France during the last war, and, it seems obvious from the character of the maps that he was attached to the Intelligence Department Engineers. We use Mr. Bryant's words to describe the new Colby acquisitions.

"One group, mounted and folded, covers the entire American battle scenes in the St. Mihiel and the Argonne offensives. Together with this group is the personal report of General Pershing to the secretary of war. Explaining much that is not ordinarily obtained from books.

"Two unusually rare maps show the front line as it existed on November eleven, and the disposition of all Ally and enemy troops as they faced each other, corps' and army headquarters' locations and services of supply. Everything that a commander must have on a map to see at a glance,

"...another very rare map is the one used by the G-2 (designated for Headquarters' Intelligence Department Engineers) high staff officer who prepared the order for the ethnological map to be used by American advisers at the Peace Conference at Versailles. This is his map with the race areas allotted to new nations made out in colored pencil upon a small base map, and from which the new nations' boundaries were plotted on larger maps. I know of no other (Please turn to page 6)

Committee Announces Plans For Feb. 9-10 Colby Winter Carnival

Well, the good news is here, the news you have all been waiting for, and concerning the event you have been waiting for. Yes sir, the great social function of the year is coming. The Winter Carnival.

Plans have already been made, and the committee is making ready to give Colby socialites one of the grandest affairs in history. Fellows, there is no time to lose. Now is the time to be picking out that lucky girl, it's not too early, but soon it will be too late. True, this is leap year, but don't depend too much on it.

The carnival is set for the ninth and tenth of February, giving us time to get over the shocks of the mid-year slaughters. Before you know it, it will be time to cast your ballots for the lucky young lady who is destined to receive the highest royal honor Colby can give. Whom shall we choose to ascend to the throne and rule as our Queen of the Carnival? Nobody knows, but time will tell.

Now let's look over what we are in for over the week-end of February ninth and tenth. The proverbial ball will start rolling with a skating party on the Foss Hall rink Friday afternoon. After a basketball game Friday evening, the most high-powered event of the week-end will take place; the Carnival Ball, with Bob Glenson and the coronation of the Carnival Queen.

Saturday morning will see the interfraternity and intercollegiate ski meets at Dunham's Ski Slope, and in the afternoon, the judges will make the rounds of all fraternities to choose the winning work of art in snowsculpture. (Please turn to page 6)

Rimosukas Leads Mules Basketeers As St. Anselm's Five Falls 45-37

Tuition Must Be Paid Or Else--; No Excuses

Second semester tuition payments will be due on February 5. No excuses or extensions will be granted for late payments. Failure to discharge your obligations on time means added cost (at the rate of $1.00 per day for each day of delay), the embarrassment of being excluded from classes, and the loss of educational opportunities in the meantime. Each of these unpleasant experiences may be avoided by paying your bill on or before February 5.

Students are expected to pursue the second semester courses they elected last spring or last September unless subsequent elections have been made in accordance with established regulations.

If there is any question in your mind about your program of courses for the second semester I suggest that you call at my office and verify your record.

Waring Broadcasts "Hail To Colby"

For the second time since school began last fall Fred Waring, famous orchestra leader, played on his program of January 5 the new song he wrote for Colby College, "Hail to Colby."

Mr. Waring, who conducts the popular Chesterfield program, broadcasted over a nation-wide hookup five days a week at seven o'clock in the evening, wrote the song as a special favor to Coach Al McCoy whom he knew in college.

The second rendition of the song came as a complete surprise to many local listeners to the program. It was the first number in a medley of new college songs all written by the Waring organization. The band played the song as it should be played and the chorus sang the first verse in a very stirring manner.

Former State Senator Fernald will speak on a "Working Democracy Program for Maine," bringing out in his talk what other states are doing in this respect and how Maine could use their example to good advantage.

The 35 minute program of the Sunday Morning Men's Class will be broadcast over Station WLBZ, Bangor, from 10:05 to 10:40 A. M.

Preparation Period Is Authorized

Gezork Speaks At Union Service Former German Youth Secretary At Forum

"Only America can offer salvation to the world and show how freedom and wealth should be used," declared Dr. Herbert Gezork at a union service of Waterville churches and the Colby Forum at the Congregational Church Sunday evening.

Dr. Gezork teaches at Andover-Newton Theological Seminary and at Wellesley College. A native of Germany and former secretary of the German Youth Movement, he spoke on the subject, "America Through The Eyes of an Immigrant."

Illustrating his points with entertaining anecdotes and amusing experiences, Dr. Gezork vividly described five general impressions which he, as a newcomer to America, has received. First, the great rush and hurry of Americans. They need to learn to value leisure, he said.

Another characteristic of this country is the oversize of cities and buildings. Dr. Gezork especially noticed and marvelled at the technical progress and the numerous inventions which Americans use.

Freedom of thought and speech made the deepest impression on Dr. Gezork, and he vigorously aroused his audience into appreciation of these fundamentals of American life.

The great wealth of the United States and at the same time the poverty and wide unemployment sur- (Please turn to page 6)

Daggett Represents Colby S. C. M. At Toronto Conference

On the first day of this year, John Daggett returned from Toronto, Canada, where he attended the World Mission of Christianity Conference as a Baptist delegate sponsored by the Colby S. C. M.

Mr. Daggett left Waterville on Christmas Day, spent the first night in Boston, the second in Niagara Falls and the third at his destination; The University of Toronto.

The conference was made up of 600 theological students, missionaries, and other experienced Christian workers from all over the world. The principle topic of discussion was the Madras, India World All-Faith conference. The senior groups followed the outline of the Madras conference and also impressed upon the delegates the continued widespread enthusiasm for the Christian movement of the world.

Each of the five days of the conference began with breakfast in the spacious and beautiful Hart House where the King and Queen of the British Empire dined on their visit to America. Following breakfast the delegates all met in the University of Toronto Chapel which is one of the most beautiful of the Gothic buildings of the University.

After the general session that followed Chapel the representatives of the various countries were divided into seminar discussion groups of twenty each. More seminars were conducted in the afternoon and the conference listened to the main speakers in the evening after dinner.

The most interesting speaker of the conference, according to Mr. Daggett, was Professor J. L. Hro- (Please turn to page 6)

Frosh Lose To Fast Coburn Quintet 45-44

With Al Rimosukas again leading the scoring column, Colby came through with their second win of the current season as they sneaked by a dogged St. Anselm's team in the field house last Saturday night, 45-37. The contest was slow as both teams hunted for openings, but speeded up in the second half as St. Anselm's forced faster play.

The visiting Hawks held the lead at the end of the first period, but the Mules came back with a sharp attack in the second period to capture a 23-10 lead at halftime. The second half saw the best action of the game, with St. Anselm's pulling close to Coach Roundy's charges before a final burst gave the home forces a four basket margin at the final horn.

Colby took the floor with a revamped lineup. Gil Peters, who usually holds down the center post, was shifted to forward, while Vic Malins moved back to jump position. Orin Shiro, sophomore star, opened the game at guard.

Ray Flynn, substitute, for Malins, came through with excellent playing as he sparked the Mules' second period attack with two field goals and (Please turn to page 2)

Colby To Debate New Hampshire

On Wednesday, January 10, the Colby debate team will meet the representatives of New Hampshire State College. The topic to be debated is: "Resolved, that the United States Should Follow a Policy of Strict Economic and Military Isolation Toward all Nations Outside the Western Hemisphere Engaged in Armed International or Civil Conflict." Colby, who will be represented by Clifford Came and Linwood Palmer, will uphold the affirmative.

Dr. Herbert C. Libby, professor of public speaking, has prepared an ambitious schedule for the Colby debaters. At the time of this writing Dr. Libby is also making preparation for a dual debate with the University of Maine sometime in February, and a dual debate with Bowdoin College in March.

During the month of April, the Colby debate team will compete against such schools as Middlebury, Providence College, and St. Michael's College. As yet no definite Colby team has been chosen for these future debates.

Bolduc Injured During Vacation

During the holidays Colby's hockey forces suffered a severe loss when Tony Bolduc, captain of the team, suffered a broken cheek bone and a probable fracture of the nose. He collided with another player while playing for the Collegians of Waterville, against the Notre Dame Hockey Club, on December 25.

Though Woodward showed up well against Bowdoin on the Fortin-Johnson line, Bolduc's fine defense work and general all around play-making ability were sorely missed by his teammates.

According to Dr. Fisher, Bolduc is out of action till February at least and possibly longer, though there is some talk of him playing if a suitable cage can be found to protect the side of his head. In any case, he will be forced to miss the New Hampshire, Middlebury and Williams games, none of which are pushovers, and where his play will be sorely needed.

BATES BOBCATS HAVE SHARP CLAWS FOR MULES

Bates Writer Sees Mules As Game Favorites

By Bill Howland, '40
Sports Editor—Bates STUDENT

The Bates Bobcats have sharpened their claws, and their shooting eyes, and are prepared to entertain the Colby Mules Wednesday evening. This game marks the first State Series encounter for the Mules, who line up as favorites to take the State crown away from the present incumbents—the University of Maine. For the Bobcats this game is the second State Series game and the fifth game of the year.

The Bobcats are smarting from the close trimming administered by the Pale Blue, a game that Bates handed Maine on a silver platter when they went wild in the second half and forgot all organization to score only thirteen points in that canto as compared with thirty-four points tallied in the first session.

The Bobcats lost to a smart Hartwick club, and on the basis of comparative scores against this Oneonta, New York, aggregation the Mules rate the nod over the Bobcats. In a trip to Worcester, Mass., the Bobcats really clicked to down Assumption College in a second half comeback, and then to outclass Worcester Tech.

The high scoring threat of the Bobcats is Red Raftery, who has reached double figures to lead the Garnet in three games. A newcomer to the team, Don Webster, who towers well over six feet and is state champion high jumper, bolsters the center post left vacated by last year's star Johnny Woodbury. Captain Howie Kenney and Brud Witty in the guard posts are all that can be desired in guards. Both are good shots, Witty is tall and often unaided is capable of stopping a swarm of the enemy from scoring, while Kenney is catlike in quickness and can shoot with the best of them. The other leading forwards are Vic Stover, very consistent and smooth ball handler, Harry Gorman, deadly set-shot artist, and Art Belliveau, great little floor man.

Reports from Waterville indicate that the Mules are better than ever. Experience and speed are the keynotes of the 1940 Mules, with the thrill tussle with St. Anselms indicating that Colby has a scrappy club. The Bates-Colby game may well turn into another one of those thrillers such as Bates played last year when three games in a row were decided by one point—unfortunately, from the Bates' point of view—all decisions were adverse to the Bobcats.

Perkins Announces Intra-Mural Meet To Find Prospects

As a barometer to indicate who will fill in the loopholes left on the track squad by the graduating class, Cy Perkins has announced that there will be an intramural meet to be held January 17. The purpose of the meet is twofold: to stimulate interest in this coming track season and to afford an opportunity to look over the candidates for the vacated varsity berths.

As Cy looks over the comparative strength of the classes, he finds the Seniors with only four men strong in their respective events. The Juniors and Sophomores are of approximately the same strength with members of the latter class predestined to occupy varsity berths.

The Freshman class has, thus far, the largest turnout of candidates who, with members of the cross country squad, will be battling to fill positions in the longer distances.

Coach Perkins states that his greatest difficulty will be to find men to fill in for the long distances, such as the two-mile, mile and 1000. Thus far Chuck Card seems to have the two-mile event well under control. Prospective candidates for these positions are McRae, Emery, DiPompo, Nickerson and Potts. If a team can be molded out of these candidates, the forecast will read that prospects are good for the coming year.

a foul shot. An excellent floor player, Flynn should turn into a high basket man before the season is over.

In their last game before the state series opener at Bates tonight, the Mules looked impressive in spots, but show still the need for a better passing attack.

In the preliminary contest for the varsity game last Saturday night, the Colby Frosh lost their first game of the season as they were overcome by a fast Coburn five, 45-44. Coburn held the lead in all but the first period.

The Mule yearlings made a valiant attempt to capture the lead in the closing seconds, after having made up an eight-point deficit in three minutes. Lomac made a two pointer at the close of the game that would have given the lead to the Frosh, but the officials ruled that the shot had been made after the end of the encounter.

Outstanding for Al McCoy's men was Bobby LaFleur, hawk eyed forward, who led the Colby scoring with 14 points. High point man for the game was Caminti of Coburn who sank seven field goals and two foul shots to total 16 points.

In direct contrast to the varsity game, which was deliberate in its play making, the Frosh put on a fast, exciting encounter that kept the ball moving all evening.

Mule Pucksters Win First Series Tilt With Bowdoin, 6-2

Coming back fast in the last period to break a 2-2 deadlock, the Colby hockey team won the first state series game of the year from Bowdoin at the Front Street Rink yesterday.

It was Colby's first win of the season and sweet revenge for Bill Millett's charges as Bowdoin defeated Colby in two successive games last year to take the state championship for the first time in years.

The game was marked in many places by ragged play, and time after time Bowdoin broke loose with goal-labeled shots only to be stopped by Ed Loring's stellar performance in the Colby nets.

The game was only two minutes old when Tucker, Bowdoin's star of the afternoon, laid in a low shot from fifteen feet away. The action saw-sawed back and forth for the rest of the period and ended with Bowdoin holding a 1-0 lead.

Ray Fortin tied the game at 1-all in the second period when he soloed down the left boards and drove a high one into the far corner. Three minutes later Wheelock put Colby out in front with a hard shot from the right boards which Upham partially blocked only to have it fall into the cage. Tucker put Bowdoin right back in the game, however, he picked up a loose puck in a scrimmage at the Colby blue line and shoved it past Loring.

Colby wasn't to be denied however and came back roaring in the last period with four goals. Woodward and Johnson each scored from scrimmage in front of the Bowdoin net. Johnson and Fortin combined for a goal and LaLiberte finished the day's scoring when he took Beach's pass.

MULE KICKS

by JOE FREME

Activity along the athletic front is on the upswing again. After a somewhat lengthy layoff over the holidays, the blue and gray gladiators swing back to the wars.

Basketball

An inauspicious trip into southern New England proved ill-fated for Coach Roundy's cagers. A win over Northeastern, however, placed the Mule in the win column for the first time this season.

Team Shows Improvement

St. Anselm's invaded the Mule's lair and was soundly trounced in the best played game of the year to date. Employing a man to man defense, and led by sharp-shooting Al Rimosoukas, the men of Roundy emerged victor 45-37.

A marked improvement was evidenced as the Mules passed and shot with much better accuracy. Particularly encouraging was the showing of sophomore stars, Flynn and Shiro.

Surprise Loss

The vaunted power of Colby's best freshman team in years wasn't enough to stem an infuriated Coburn quintet here last Saturday evening. Displaying an uncanny eye for the hoop the Tigers nosed out the yearlings 45-44 in a thrill-packed encounter. These same two resume hostilities this Friday night and a lively tussle is in the offing.

Hockey

The Millett-coached hockey forces lost its opening encounter with the "big green" of Dartmouth. According to reports the game was very well played and at times left the spectators gasping. Ray Fortin tallied all Colby scores unassisted.

Dartmouth remained in the ranks of the undefeated as a result of the victory. A few comparative scores may be of interest to the followers of the game. Dartmouth won over stubborn Colby; Boston College, who the Mules meet later in the season, literary buried Cornell 24-1; and Dartmouth also won over the Eagles from the "bean town." Comparative scores never mean too much, but at least it does offer a topic for discussion.

Bolduc Injured

Captain Bolduc, one of Coach Millett's most valuable cogs, received a severe smash in the cheek during a recent hockey scrimmage. The untimely injury is a serious setback to the team's chances, however, Tony is recovering and will see service soon.

Rum Lemieux

"Rum Dum" Lemieux, one of the best all-round athletes to ever wear Colby togs, coached the hockey team during Coach Millett's absence. "Bill" was far away in sunny California over the holidays, and if any football enthusiast would like to know anything about Schindler, Lansdell, Caffo or Butler and others, just step up and ask him.

Mayflower Hill Construction Nears Half-Way Mark As 1939 Ends

WOMEN'S UNION

CLOSE UP OF WEATHER VANE

ROBERT MEMORIAL UNION

MILLER LIBRARY

LORIMER CHAPEL

With the structures of four new buildings standing on Mayflower Hill as 1939 comes to a close, graduates and friends of Colby mark this year as having shown notable progress towards the college's new functionally-planned campus.

Now standing are the Lorimer Memorial Chapel, the Roberts Union, the Women's Union and the Miller Library. When completed, their total cost will approximate $1,000,000 which has been donated by Colby alumni and alumnae.

According to President Franklin

W. Johnson, "The building committee of the trustees would like to set 1941 as the date for moving to our new campus, but there remains much to be done. We are approximately half way towards our goal. At least four more buildings are needed to carry on our work on the new site. Partial provision has been made for two of these through gifts and pledges from a large number of Maine citizens."

Workmen are still putting the finishing touches on the Miller Library which is the central building on the new development. The tip of the tower is the height of a 19 story building above the ground and is said to be the second tallest building in Maine, the State House being a few feet higher.

At the tip of the Library tower is a weather vane which reproduces the appearance of the sloop "Hero" on which Colby's first president and seven students sailed from Boston to establish this college before the days of railroads or highways. The voyage took a week and the party landed near Augusta, proceeding up the Kennebec to Waterville by "long boat" arriving on June 25, 1818.

Besides the four buildings whose exteriors are now completed, progress on the Mayflower Hill campus includes the concrete foundations for two dormitories; excavations for two more buildings; water and sewer utilities installed; several miles of approaching roads and campus drives; a railway underpass to give convenient access to the city; landscaping around the Chapel; rough terracing in front of the Library; area for three athletic fields tiled and partially graded; extensive tree planting begun.

Tau Delt Delegates Attend Convention

Fred Blumenthal and Steven Sternberg were the Colby delegates to the National Tau Delta Phi Convention held in the Hotel Pennsylvania on December 29th and 30th. At this meeting, represented by delegates from all the 23 Chapters in the fraternity, various fraternity problems were discussed. One of these problems considered by the Convention was the Mayflower Hill situation.

Three cups were won by the Colby Chapter at this Convention and they were: an award for the best athlete in all Tau Delta Phi Fraternities—Melvin Baum, a cup for the best scholar—Klaus Droyer, and thirdly an award for the best Fraternity publication—The Tau Alpha Rays. Besides these honors, 11 certificates for meritorious service to the fraternity were given out, and 3 other certificates for out-standing scholarship, which were won by Klaus Droyer, Steve Sternberg and Albert Schoenberger.

Democratic Duty . . .

Now that the war is beginning to slip out of the front page news, a true danger faces the American people. That danger is an inherent danger, one that expresses itself in the general indifference of the public to the news that is coming from abroad.

Before this war broke, the people of America were highly keyed up about the state of affairs in Europe, they were ready for anything that would happen. They were ready from an emotional standpoint, and they were so well informed, that they were able to interpret the events as they happened.

When the President called Congress into special session to move on the neutrality act, the representatives of the people had well defined views regarding what should be done. They were prepared because they had dropped all other business, all thoughts for the aggrandizement of their own state and districts. Their local problems, and personal squabbles dissolved before the threat of danger to the whole people.

As the war news tends to become commonplace, people tend more and more to turn back to their everyday life and merely read rather than study the important reports that reach us from across the water. The danger is that the people will not be able to act with propriety and celerity when a new crisis arises for they will not see the evolution of that crisis.

Of course, it is foolish to expect that the majority of our congressmen or any sizable group of the populace will continue to drop everything else so that they will know everything that is happening abroad, but it is the democratic duty of every citizen to follow the trend of events so that he will recognize a rising crisis and to formulate definite ideas on the action he wishes his government to follow when that crisis breaks.

Scholarships For You . . .

The Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, through the cooperation of the Boston Alumni Club, is offering to properly qualified college graduates one or more scholarships of $300 each for the academic year 1940-41. Scholarships will be applied against tuition and will be awarded on the basis of need for financial assistance, scholastic standing and general character. Candidates must be residents of New England or must have attended college there.

A first-year student in good standing may borrow $300 from the Loan Fund to be credited to his expenses. In addition a first-year man may apply for a Dining Hall job and if he secures it, he will receive his board free in return for his work.

Further information and also application blanks can be obtained from John J. Canavan, 19 Winter Street, Boston, Mass.

Establishment of a $15,000 scholarship and award fund, for which more than 9,000 student aviators in 400 American colleges will be eligible to compete, was announced recently by Major Lester D. Gardner, Executive Secretary of the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences.

The fund established by Shell Oil Company to provide the Shell Intercollegiate Aviation Scholarship for student pilots, and the Shell Aviation Awards for colleges and flight schools participating in the Civil Aeronautics Authority's civilian pilot training program, will be administered by the Institute.

Plans for administration of the fund call for the selection of the nation's three outstanding student pilots by means of an audit of their grades and by a nationwide flight competition next June. Seven regional elimination contests are to be held after which seven winners will compete for the three scholarship awards at Washington, D. C.

The winner of the national competition will receive a scholarship of $1,000 to be used for advancement of his education along aeronautical lines. Students placing second and third will receive $750 and $500 scholarships, respectively.

Awards will be made on the basis of the student's record in the government flight and ground courses and his ability to execute specified flight maneuvers with maximum precision and safety. Stunt flying will have no place in the competition to select the winners. Provision is made for expenses of finalists and semi-finalists.

The Three Best . . .

As is the custom during this part of the New Year and the ending of the past year, one invariably lists, in his mind or on paper, the best movies, plays, books, etc., that one has come in contact with during the previous year. Thus, without any hesitation, we shall try to list the three best and not the ten best films of the year as they appealed to us. The word appeal is used in the broadest sense possible and includes its movie entertainment value in general, and its emotional appeal in particular. With this thought in mind, three films stand out, and without any intended reference to their numerical rating, they are: Goodbye, Mr. Chips, Mr. Smith Goes To Washington, and Gone With The Wind. All the three films are essentially different in plot and characterization and yet they are all similar in one important detail: their ability to provide motion picture entertainment of the highest type.

Exchange Bits . . .

We print the following from the Pasadena Chronical, student organ of the junior college at Pasadena, Calif.

One person at Pasadena junior college has an identification card to prove that he is not a student.

When Bob Ball, instructor in forestry and botany, inquired at the library for a copy of "My Country and My People," Miss Winifred E. Skinner, librarian, asked:

"Have you been given an assignment on this? There have been so many requests for it lately."

To Miss Skinner's confusion, Mr. Ball pointed out that he was receiving no assignments; he was a teacher.

To prevent further mistaken identity, Mr. Ball has now prepared a card bearing his picture and the inscription:

Mr. Bob Ball, Faculty, Life Science Department, Forestry-Botany.

Arrows pointing to the picture are marked: coat, tie, receding forehead. These are explained in a footnote: "Points of identification as faculty member."

This Collegiate World (ACP) . . .

Camp Depression residents at University of North Dakota believe in elections that hurt the feelings of no one. After electing their president last week, they elected every remaining one of the organization's 36 members a vice president. But, so the vice presidents wouldn't have to do anything, the president was made secretary and treasurer, too!

Incidentally, Camp Depression is housed in seven freight train cabooses—so you might say they're being railroaded into an education.

We knew it would happen—but we'd hoped it wouldn't. The gulping season has been officially and dramatically opened for another college year—and watch out for your laurels, you "winners" of last year!

First entry in the 1939-40 derby is Franklin and Marshall College's Jimmy Addy, a frosh from Pittsburgh. For a mere 50-cent piece (they were getting ten dollar bills for stunts last year), he calmly swallowed a shaker-full of pepper—and then not quite so calmly sneezed a mighty sneeze.

A big of a wag is C. C. Hurd, mathematics instructor at Michigan State College. On the door to his office is the following injunction:

"Please knock before entering. If you don't give a rap, you won't get an answer."

Maybe the last part of that should have read, "you won't get Hurd."

Yes, football is a hero-worshipping business—and if you don't believe it, listen to this tale from the midwest's Lincoln, Nebraska, where Biff Jones is the big boss of the University of Nebraska gridsters:

Said a Lincoln grade-school teacher: "Name three of the greatest men in the world."

Said the bright little boy in the first row: "Jesus, Thomas Jefferson and Biff Jones!"

"No. 1 Dodo Boy" is the new title of Shapsa Maxio Rosenbloom actor-fighter-night club operator. He has been voted this new honor by the University of Southern California chapter of Alpha Gamma Delta because "he is the one actor in the film industry with whom we positively would not wish to be stranded on a desert island."

Professor Herbert C. Libby Discusses American Ideals In Class Interview

"I never knew a man who followed his ideals," stated Professor Libby of the English department, Colby College, in a class interview last week.

"You are asking me to pass judgment on human frailty," he exclaimed, as a student proposed the question. He went on to say that in the light of his own experience, it seemed that men were governed by their ideals, but that in our competitive existence no one was able to follow their ideals to the letter.

Evidently Professor Libby could not exclude, in making this general statement of human frailty, even his great friend, the late President Roberts of Colby College.

In response to a question, Professor Libby stated that Colby's martyr, Elijah Parrish Lovejoy, certainly did not follow his ideals, even though he died for one of them, the freedom of the press. Professor Libby shook his head and smiled a denial. "No, Lovejoy was narrow-minded in some things." Great man though he was, Lovejoy was bigoted toward the Roman Catholic Church, stated Professor Libby.

Here Dr. Libby paused and looked to the class for more questions.

A student made the statement that American ideals are primarily selfish, everyone wants to get all he can, and give as little as he can. He asked for Professor Libby's opinion on this statement.

Dr. Libby halted his pacing in front of the class, placed his chin in his hand and with a searching glance at the student who had made the assertion told him in a slow but certain manner that his statement was false. The student was confusing ideals and actual practice, claimed Professor Libby. While certain of our business men may act according to the principle stated by the student, our ideals still remain high. Quoting the famous American politician and writer, Carl Schurz, who came to this country as an alien, Libby said, "Ideals are like stars. You must take them as your guide."

"Of course everyone has ideals!" This was Professor Libby's answer to a student's question. He continued, saying that having ideals was not always a conscious thing, we unconsciously have them. Even the most depraved criminal might have ideals, though they would probably not be high ideals, nor worthy for men to follow.

The great American ideals, said Professor Libby, were four in number: Freedom in a people's government, Liberty of the individual, tolerance and peace. Elaborating on the first of these, freedom in a people's government, Professor Libby said that this principle was embodied in the Bill of Rights, otherwise known as the first ten amendments to the Constitution of the United States. It involved the right of free speech, press and assembly. This ideal has always been dear to the common people of America.

Not all of our forefathers who first settled this country held to this ideal, stated Professor Libby. Our Pilgrim and Puritan ancestors were far from following this ideal. They drove Roger Williams out of Rhode Island for believing in free speech. Professor Libby cited the instance during the signing of the Mayflower agreement when one of the Pilgrim company refused to sign. "It was the first example of the Pilgrims recognizing the right to free speech," he said, telling of how the man who refused to sign was at first in danger of being tossed overboard but, due to a few cool heads, was allowed to do as he pleased. The Pilgrims had very strict rules regarding what could be said and done in their colony, however.

One student asked whether our present American ideals were likely to draw us into the European war on the side of England.

Professor Libby turned on the student. "What American ideals do you mean?" he queried.

The student mentioned those in the Bill of Rights, and those implicated in the drawing up of the Constitution itself. Professor Libby proceeded to pin the student down as to just what American ideal he meant, quizzing the student on every point, and directing all his attention to this one suffering victim.

Finally satisfied that the student had something definite in mind, Professor Libby paused. His eyebrows crawled up in a characteristic facial expression and he clamped one hand on the back of a chair as he answered slowly that he did not believe that America would enter the war on any side. One of the great American ideals is peace, stated Professor Libby, and no matter what friendship or sympathy we might have for England, peace is first in the American mind.

"Are not ideals fashioned by propaganda in war time?" asked a student.

"No," stated Professor Libby definitely, "Propaganda uses our ideals but it cannot influence them." He went on to say that ideals are of course idealistic. They aim high and are quite apart from the influence of our thinking.

Homogeneity of ideals in our republic is not possible, according to Professor Libby. We are composed of groups too diverse in religions, and cultural beliefs to expect any sameness of guiding principles. Our saving grace is that we countenance any set of ideals to exist in America as long as they are not destructive of the republic itself.

"We will countenance the American Bund until they became destructive, in spite of the fact that the teachings of Hitler are distasteful to the people of America," said Professor Libby.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Friday morning at ten o'clock we will see another performance of the greatest farce on the campus. We will see young men hurrying to the chapel—then hurrying right back again. This is the "compulsory" men's chapel.

We cannot wholly blame these men for not attending chapel. Every Friday there is a large attendance, in proportion to the number of seats. The Assembly Committee is blissfully ignorant of the law that more than one thing cannot occupy the same space at the same time. According to chapel regulations, 417 men can, theoretically, squeeze into 314 seats.

The college students, being in that stage of omniscience common to all undergraduates, realize the ignorance of the Committee. Some of them, being kind and generous at heart, even go so far as to sacrifice these entertaining talks—not for any personal advantage, of course, but for a strictly altruistic motive. To humor the whim of the Committee, which still has the delusion that 314 is equal to 417, these unselfish gentlemen sign their cards, and give them to one of the more selfish persons who is remaining, and taking advantage of the sacrifice of the others.

Let us petition for a fairer method of conducting chapel. Some way must be found to make those amusing, as well as educational, periods available to all. Why not have a Freshman and Sophomore chapel one week, a Junior and Senior chapel the next? Or why not have a number of men (chosen by lot) attend the women's chapel on Monday, which is not at all crowded? Every student in the men's division should have an opportunity to enjoy this chapel period!

Students, arise! Demand your privileges!

Signed, Irato

"Gone With The Wind" Finally Appears, Truly Deserves The Term "Colossal"

Emanuel K. Frucht

By Emanuel K. Frucht
It has finally arrived. Of course, I mean "Gone With The Wind," which is breaking all existing records in New York because of its huge advance sale, which has already passed the $100,000 mark.

The movie follows the book in almost every detail, and the credit for the fine adaptation rightfully belongs to the late Sidney Howard who did so much to faithfully re-create the book on the screen. It goes without saying that any picture lasting almost four hours must be colossal, but this is the first time that, that, most abused Hollywood term can be truthfully said to apply to a motion picture. The complete film is produced in technicolor and the color is so remarkable that it is barely noticeable once the film has begun. Thus, can it be said that technicolor has really come of age.

Vivien Leigh as Scarlett O'Hara naturally steals the picture, as she did in the novel, and the finest tribute that can be paid to her superb performance is to state that no other actress in Hollywood could have filled this role with the perfection and all-round brilliance of this most remarkable of all screen debuts. Clark Gable's Rhett Butler, Leslie Howard's Ashley and Olivia de Havilland's Melanie are, as were expected, all fine and sincere performances. Of the three, we would like to single out Olivia de Havilland for special praise because her's was a role of unusual beauty and she gave it one of the most tender and appealing performances it has been our privilege to see this year.

Two remarkably photographed scenes linger in my mind. One was the scene showing Mr. O'Hara picking up the red dirt of Tara and telling Scarlett that this is where she rightfully belongs and where she ought to stay. The other scene took place in front of the Atlanta Railroad depot and showed thousands and thousands of wounded Confederate soldiers lying helpless in the broiling sun while the troops of General Sherman besieged the city.

The film has its faults, too. We thought that the latter half of the film, in common with that portion of the book, has too much of the stock Hollywood love interest to be considered great, especially after the first half of the movie was so pictorially and artistically perfect. Thus, if the book weren't followed in such faithful fashion towards the end, we might have had a much finer and greater picture, although the millions who read the book would probably put up too great a box-office howl.

However, the faults are, on the whole, only minor, while the virtues of the film are in the great majority. One can truly say that it was an experience after having seen this film, and nothing more can be said of any motion picture.

COLBY at the MICROPHONE

For the past three weeks, there has been something lacking in the Friday night programs, but everything will be going well again when we get back on the air this Friday night.

Hal Seamon, Barbara Skehan, and Ollie Millett, your regular newscasters will be back with their campus news, and Sam Warren will present his Musical Corner. In addition to the newscasters, you will hear Miss Madeleine Hinckley, talented freshman vocalist. Miss Hinckley has done very well before on our program, and we should be looking forward to hearing her.

Last Saturday evening, at the Pan-Hellenic Ball the staff of Colby at The Microphone conducted a half hour program originating from the Alumnae Building and featuring Bob Freeman and his orchestra.

Remember, our first program of 1940 goes on the air at eight-thirty in the evening over WRDO and WLBZ. Are Ye Listenin'?

Camera Club Forms Photography Class

In the meeting of the Camera Club held Sunday evening, Jan. 7, it was decided by those present to postpone the club's annual exhibit until later in the year.

Plans were discussed, however, for the formation of a class in pictorial photography. This class would be open to any member of the club, and will meet once a week next semester under the tutelage of Joseph C. Smith, faculty adviser of the club. This class will continue for six weeks during the second semester, and will concentrate on assigned subjects and dark room technique.

This unique class should prove of great interest to Colby students, and those interested are requested to see Mr. Smith at the Publicity Office in Chemical Hall.

Quality Improved In 1940 Oracle

Work on Colby's year book, the Oracle, for 1940 has progressed further at the date of this writing than in any previous year, according to statements made by Editor Harley Bubar and Advertising Manager Edward Jenison. The opening section has been completed and the amount of advertising secured so far exceeds that of last year.

This year's Oracle will be not so informal as last year's. The emphasis is being placed on a finer quality of paper and printing. An interesting innovation is the addition of eight or ten pages of snapshots depicting college life. The editors are very anxious to have a fine selection of pictures and anyone having pictures of the campus or life on the campus is urged to contact Harley Bubar at the A. T. O. house.

Pictures of the various organizations and fraternities will be taken beginning the latter part of January and continuing into February.

DAGGETT

madka from Czechoslovakia who is now on the faculties of Union and Princeton Theological Seminaries. He discussed in an unbiased manner the "Christian Church and Tension in Europe." Mr. Hromadka was very optimistic about the eventual reconstruction of Europe and the reestablishment of Czechoslovakia.

Other interesting speakers were H. P. Van Dusen, dean of students at Union Seminary; D. T. Niles of Ceylon, who is the World Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and Gertrude Rutherford from the Missionary Training School of Toronto.

The last Saturday night the regular program was waived and conferees were to swim, skate, play basketball or any other sport with the athletic facilities of the U. of T. at their disposal.

The music of a five day period was directed by Russell Ames Cook who is at the head of Harvard's Music department and a frequent Colby Forum attraction. Mr. Cook developed a chorus that sang at the watch night service which terminated the program New Year's Eve.

Mr. Daggett said that the most impressive scene he saw on his trip was the great size and beauty of the University of Toronto. Toronto is the same latitude as Portland and is very similar in its Americanization to any large United States city. He stated that both food and wool are cheap in Canada; a steak dinner being 25 cents and a hamburger 5 cents.

Colby's representative observed two incidents which reminded him that he was visiting a country at war. The customs officials were very strict at the border and the Toronto streets were frequently the scene of marching soldiers.

Daggett To Discuss Youth Convention On Thursday

All freshmen interested are urged to attend a discussion on "World Friendship," to be led by John Daggett in the Social room of the Alumni Building this Thursday evening at seven o'clock.

John will relay some of the ideas brought out in the North American Youth Conference held at Toronto December 27 to January 1. The problems discussed at this conference are of vital interest to all young people and Thursday evening is an opportunity for those who were unable to share in the actual conference to reap some of its benefits.

Professors Lose Pants But Not Dignity

Atlanta, Ga.—(AP)—Professors don't mind losing their pants (and their dignity) now and then, but they do object to their clothes being ruined.

At least that seems to be the interpretation of a recent Emory University ruling which prohibits students de-trousering their faculty superiors during the annual freshman-sophomore pushball game—a stunt which has been a popular feature of past contests.

The professors even maintained that they could maintain "a semblance of dignity of a barelegged sort" when they were the victims of the lower-class pranksters—but they added that usually their pants were torn in the process, and that's what they objected to.

Don't be misled by the name of this dance, because if you really wear moccasins, you'll be liable to find yourself spending more time on other parts of your body than your feet.

Well boys and girls, that's how it looks now, and it will probably look better before it comes, so don't waste those precious moments! She may be waiting right now for your invitation.

prised and perplexed him. He asked whether America's freedom had been used for grabbing instead of sharing.

Dr. Gezork fears that Europe is on the "dark, bloody way to self-destruction" and believes America is the only hope of the world.

In closing Dr. Gezork emphasized the difficulty of seeing the right way out of our problems and maintained that to find this way it takes real religion—the sacrificial religion of Jesus Christ.

similar map in this country from which the original Peace Conference maps were plotted and overprinted.

"Some maps are British Army maps, and some are those used by the French, but these are very interesting because they show in detail the enormous amount of labor and planning in the construction of trench lines and defenses. A few show pencil lines by operations' officers who planned battle maneuvers."

There are also "several airplane photographs showing the terrific bombardment by large caliber guns, and one can get an excellent idea from the clearly seen shell holes just what troops endure in a modern war."

Honduras, Nicaragua, Haiti, San Domingo, Mexico, France, and, during the Chinese revolution of 1927-28, again in China.

The one of two officers in the history of our Nation who has been awarded two Medals of Honor by Congress for bravery on the field, he has been cited and honored on numerous occasions and has received promotion at the hands of five Presidents—McKinley, Roosevelt, Wilson, Hoover, and Harding. Of him, Theodore Roosevelt once said, "Smedley Butler is the ideal American Soldier." General Butler brings to the lecture platform a wealth of personal experience in war and civil life, a tireless energy, and unbounding enthusiasm, a rich vocabulary, and an inimitable straight-from-the-shoulder manner of presenting his message.
