Leaders Hold Discussions Of Moral, Religious Problems In Fraternities

Shearman, Shubow, Smith, Osborne Among Leaders

The Men's Fraternity Embassy which took place Monday and Tuesday held group discussions both evenings. The important questions discussed were on campus, home, moral, religious, and daily problems.

The Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity entertained the Rev. Evan Shearman who was graduated from Colby in 1922 and Andover Newton Theological Seminary in 1925. At present Rev. Mr. Shearman is pastor of the First Baptist Church of Springfield, Mass. The important subjects discussed by this group were: "Religion," "Drinking," and "Sex in College." Prince Beach was the official host.

Tau Delta Phi entertained Rabbi Joseph Shubow, a graduate of Boston Latin School and Harvard University, where he received his M. A. degree in 1921. He has been the literary editor of the Boston Jewish Advocate from 1923-1935 as well as correspondent and feature writer for Jewish Telegraphic Agency. He has been Rabbi of the Temple of B'nai Mashe in Brighton, Mass., since 1934. Rabbi Shubow discussed "Zionism and the growth of Palestine," "Effect of Anti-Semitism on the American College and University Campuses" and "Intermarriage." Milton Hamilt was the host.

Rabbi Shubow Leads Assembly

Value Of Brotherhood Emphasized In Speech

"We are inclined too often to take for granted the great and invaluable boons and benefits of American democracy. Not until we enter upon an age of crisis or a period of emergency do we realize the vital and indispensable necessities in life of the basic principles of Americanism: freedom, equality, and brotherhood." With these words, the voice of Rabbi Joseph S. Shubow, leader of Tau Delta Phi during the Colby Embassy, wake the echoes of the college chapel as he orated the value of brotherhood in the Upperclass Men's Assembly on Tuesday morning, February 27.

The assembly was started by the introduction of the eight fraternity religious leaders by Dean Ernest C. Marriner. The Dean then introduced Rabbi Shubow, distinguished graduate of Harvard University and the Jewish Institute of Religion in New York, as the spokesman for the group of ministers, whose services to Colby this past week have been invaluable.

Rabbi Shubow began his discourse by referring to the fine spirit of hospitality which Colby had shown to the

Mrs. Volpe Gives Two Concerts To Colby Audiences

Lecture-Recital Feature Of Musical Week-End

EMANUEL K. FRUCHT

One of the most interesting and outstanding musical week-ends in recent Colby history has now ended. During the course of the past week-end, Mrs. Irma Schoenberg Volpe, the sister of Professor Schoenberg of our Mathematics department, gave two concerts which amply demonstrated her musical versatility in the fields of both classic and modern compositions. Her first concert was given on Friday evening and was formal in character, as well as in its choice of subject matter. Sunday afternoon, Mrs. Volpe gave a combined Lecture-recital on modern music, tracing its development and outstanding characteristics through the medium of some of the works of our modern composers. An appreciative and sizeable audience attended both concerts and demonstrated its unqualified approval of Mrs. Volpe's performance with pronounced and vigorous applause at all times.

Her program on Friday evening was of a most extensive range of musical history and included works of Bach, Beethoven, Chopin and Debussy. The first selection of the evening was a Chaconne by Bach, arranged by Busoni for the piano. It was an unusual piece to begin a concert because of its length, but this seemingly disadvantageous selection proved otherwise because it gave this fine artist an opportunity to demonstrate immediately the range and power of her musical genius. Its technical difficulties were easily overcome with the sheer brilliance of her playing, and it showed the eager and enthusiastic audience the greater promise and enjoyment that was to come later in the evening.

Beethoven's thirty-two variations was a fine choice because it left the beaten track of the usual works of this master and enabled us to hear a vivid and fresh interpretation of a piece which is too seldom performed on its artistic merits. Yet, it has not received enough attention, and should not, to make it another "Moonlight Sonata." As a result, its performance was one which would naturally be pleasing to a discriminating audience which likes its Beethoven—not raw or too crisp—but well done.

The major work of the evening was Chopin's Sonata in B flat minor, which includes his well-known funeral march. It was performed admirably and she breathed into it some of the fire and exuberance which was hers throughout the course of the evening. The powerful and dramatic funeral march seemed to highlight her playing of this work, but the playing of the final presto movement swept aside all that had been done previously and revealed to us a new and vibrant Chopin, appealing to us in his musical works to keep alive the spirit of a land that is no more.

Other works of Chopin followed the Sonata, the best known being his very popular Waltz in C sharp minor (Please turn to page 4)

President Johnson Touring In California

President Franklin W. Johnson is now traveling in California, in the interests of the new campus development on Mayflower Hill.

Mrs. Johnson and Mr. George Otis Smith, chairman of the Board of Trustees of Colby College, are accompanying the president on this tour, during which he will meet Colby alumni groups in Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Chicago. It is expected that the trip will last for approximately a month.

Colby Whips Bates 48-37 To Tie For State Crown

Mules Share Series Honors With Bears As Lomac, Flynn Lead Scoring Drive

Cast Announced For "Twelfth Night"

Streamline Version To Be Staged April 15

Shakespeare returns to the Colby campus after being absent for over fifteen years. The Powder and Wig production of his "Twelfth Night" will be the first of his works to be presented here in that time.

The length of this drama, which is under the direction of Professor Cecil Rollins of the English department, has been shortened from five acts to three in what Professor Rollins calls "a modern streamline version."

Now in production, the play, which is to be presented on April 15, is featured by a prologue written by Professor Rollins. This also lends a modern touch to the comedy theme.

The staging of the play is the gigantic task that Ned Porter has taken over. He has designed the set and is now building the scenery. He has perfected in these sets some peculiar stage and lighting effects which are sure to win the plaudits of the audience.

The cast, which includes Miss Barbara Mitchell, John Hawes, Harry Cohen and Miss Elizabeth Buckner, all names that are familiar to Colby play-goers; is rehearsing several afternoons a week.

U. Of M. Officials Decide Against Play-off Game

Colby's basketball team climbed into a tie with the University of Maine for 1940 state series court honors last Thursday night as they soundly whipped a Bates team, 48-37. The Mules were ahead at halftime, 23-14, and coasted in to victory from there.

FINAL SERIES STANDINGS

	Won	Lost
Maine	3	1
Colby	3	1
Bates	0	4

Setting the pace for Colby was John Lomac, who scored six field goals to head the victor's scoring column. Lomac, recently moved up to varsity ranks from the freshman squad, led the quintet in piling up their early lead. Ray Flynn, with 11 points, and Al Rimosukas with nine, were behind Lomac in the scoring.

Rafferty, speedy Bates forward, counted eight points for the Bobcats and was the visitor's main scoring threat. Webster, tall center, tallied seven, as stiff Mule guarding by Shiro and Lee held down Bates scoring.

All hope for a play-off of the series tie were dashed last week, when University of Maine athletic officials announced that they would not consider any post-season encounters, stating that it was against University policy.

Forum To Unite With Churches In Preaching Mission

Beaven To Address Local Union Service

Sunday, March 3, the Forum-goers will meet at the First Baptist Church for a union service with the other churches of Waterville. The occasion which brings the various faiths together is the Preaching Mission which continues Monday and Tuesday nights.

The speaker who will draw a large audience from Waterville and surrounding territory is Dr. Albert Beaven, president of Colgate-Rochester Divinity School. Prior to his nine years as head of the divinity school Mr. Beaven was for twenty years pastor of the Lake Avenue Baptist Church in Rochester. Mr. Beaven is famous as a lecturer, preacher and author. His most recent book is "Re-making Life—A Challenge To The Church."

The general theme of the three day mission is: "How is your religion working?" The topic for Sunday night is: "What is the Church anyway?" for Monday night: "The Full Grown Christian;" and for Tuesday night: "My Church and the big World."

Cecil Hutchinson Plays For Chi O's At Dinner Dance

A delicious Turkey dinner, the music of Cecil Hutchinson, and a congenial crowd all combined to make the Chi Omega dinner dance, held at the Elmwood Hotel on Saturday, February 24, one of the nicer dances of the year.

The orchestra played a varied program, including everything from "White Heat" to the smoother numbers like "Indian Summer" and "To You." An interesting feature was the introduction of several old favorites sung first in the original and then swung. "Ciribiribin" and "Drink To Me Only With Thine Eyes," were featured this way.

The chaperones at the dance included: Dr. and Mrs. Henry Aplington, Dean Ninetta Ruunals, Miss Sarah Partrick, Professor and Mrs. Richard Lougee, and Professor and Mrs. Lester Weeks. Helen Bradshaw was in charge of the arrangements for the dance, and the theme of the decorations was the traditional cardinal and straw. In the dining room, each table had a center-piece of yellow jonquils and red carnations.

The three hours of dancing seemed to go all too quickly and the orchestra played "Home Sweet Home," to many unwilling ears.

NOTICE TO FRESHMEN

Members of the Freshman class are reminded that the first Freshman Assembly will be held Thursday, February 20 at 9:55 A. M. Seating lists will be posted in the corridor of the Chapel.

Eminent Speakers Here March 8, 10, 11

The announcement Monday that Edward Howard Griggs would give three addresses in Waterville added to previous announcement that Alfred Duff Cooper would address the members of the Colby Lecture Series 'brings the promise that the week-end of March 8, will be one of the most intellectually inspiring that Colby has yet witnessed.

Alfred Duff Cooper is a former First Lord of the British Admiralty and before the present war was regarded as a possible successor to Sir Neville Chamberlain as Prime Minister of the British Commonwealth of Nations. He is certainly one of England's greatest younger statesmen and before he left politics, he was regarded by his colleagues one of Parliament's most brilliant speakers. Mr. Cooper will address the Colby Lecture Series group on Friday, March 8, at 8 P. M., in the senior high school auditorium.

Edward Howard Griggs is a former head of the department of ethics at Leland Stanford University and will address the Sunday Morning Men's Class, March 10, a union service of all the Waterville churches on the evening of March 10 and the Colby Lecture Series group on Monday evening, March 11.

NOTICE TO SENIORS

Seniors who plan to apply for business or teaching positions are asked to meet with Mr. Warren at 3:30 P. M., Thursday, February 20, in the Chemistry Lecture Room.

This meeting does not apply to students who plan to attend a professional or graduate school next year.

Lent And The Wednesday Chapel...

During this Lenten season the questions of religion loom as large as at any time during the year. This would be an appropriate time for more students to attend the mid-week service if they have not done so before. Any who regularly attend the Wednesday Chapel will testify as to the value which comes from so doing. The brief period of quiet service proves to be a beneficial and restful interlude between the hurry and confusion of the daily campus routine.

The voluntary Wednesday Chapel service is not receiving the attention from undergraduates which it rightly deserves. Days have long since passed when religious chapel was a compulsory requirement for all Colby students, and the present voluntary service is the last vestige of the religious service presented by the college authorities. It now remains to the students own judgment to decide whether or not he can derive any benefit from attendance at the chapel service.

There is nothing in the service of the Wednesday chapels which pertains to any single religion, creed, or belief. Catholic, Protestant, or Jew may receive like benefit from the service. The speakers discuss only general topics of religion and many varying religions are stated in the course of the year. While Colby College presses religion upon no one, it might be well for more students to take Wednesday Chapel attendance upon themselves.

Example Of Sportsmanship...

Some basketball fans of the college have wondered about the little appearance of the co-captains on the floor this season. A few of the spectators went so far as to remark that the team should have a captain who was "in the play" more of the time.

A letter received this week from Coach Edward C. Roundy reveals that the Colby team instead of having mediocre playing captains had for its leaders the very men best qualified for the positions.

Coach Roundy writes as follows:

"We have heard a lot of comment about unsportsmanlike conduct on various teams, but here at Colby we have one of the best examples of the contrary. In my opinion, Clyde Hatch and Warren Pearl as co-captains of the Colby basketball team showed the best bit of sportsmanship that I have ever witnessed at Colby.

"Warren Pearl has been bothered since 1937 with a back injury which makes it impossible for him to play basketball for any long period of time. Clyde Hatch, although he played much more than Warren Pearl, was not able to find his eye for the basket all winter.

"Under such circumstances most boys would have a tendency to drop out of the play or to become disgruntled or discouraged, and, in so doing, spoil the morale of the team; such was not the case with these two fellows. Both boys came to every practice session and were always ready to help out and steady the team with their experience in either practice or play. At games, when they felt that the team would fare better if someone else were in the game, these boys readily buried their own desires to play in the greater desire to see the team win.

"Through the whole season co-captains Pearl and Hatch always put the glory of the team above personal glory; they were not stars in the popular sense of the word, they didn't play as much as some people felt their office warranted, but never did they forget that they were part of a team, and I credit to their faithfulness, leadership and sportsmanship, the major part of Colby's court success this season."

American Mind, British Propaganda

An open letter to the editor:

If the interplay of economic and social forces are tending, and will, come what may, to draw America into the European war, this letter will be worse than useless, for then it will merely be impertinent and insulting to the lecturer who will speak to us this coming Friday. If, however, I can add something of value to our struggle for neutrality, I believe I am justified in now writing.

Alfred Duff Cooper is a great administrator of war techniques. He could serve his country ably in these times, but, unfortunately these powers are now wasted to England for the peculiar circumstances of his marriage to a woman who knows America well, and his forceful writings of the last few years; his wide knowledge of political and economic affairs, and his brilliant address tend to make him eminently more valuable as a propagandist in America than an official in England. Needless to say, Mr. Duff Cooper will point to the fact that "he left the "Service" before the conflict began; but naive must be cancelled out of any discussion in these times of World cynicism.

With this introduction I will now turn over the forum to a far abler writer and thinker, Ernest L. Meyer, one of the best of the columnists in New York City. I now quote from his article in a New York Post of last October:

"Mr. Duff Cooper is here as a recruiting sergeant for the Allies and to try and nudge us into war. He has not said so in so many words. But his wife, the former Lady Diana Manners, who came with him and will accompany him on his tour, was asked whether she was doing any war work. She laughed and said:

"This is my war work."

It is charming that she can laugh it off. We can't."

Go and hear him, men of Colby. It's a game of wits. For on your state of mind when you come out of the lecture hall Friday night rests the final score of the battle between the American mind and the British propaganda machine.

—H. F. Davidson.

Co-educational Embassies?...

This week has brought forth Colby's third Embassy. The most lively discussions of student problems have been discussed in these informal evening "bull sessions."

The women's division has had its women representatives for the second time, and the men have had their representatives for the third time. But Colby is a co-educational college! Why have these group discussions been made up of one sex? Why not have a mixed group meet under these youth leaders? Or why not have the boys discussion groups led by a woman and the girls discussion groups led by a man in one of these three evenings? Could not more justice be done unto some of the problems arising by doing this sort of thing?

—H. A. B.

More Sports Publicity...

"The broadest contact of Colby College with the general public comes through sports." Yet it seems the college pays little attention to this vital branch of public relations—it appears never to go to the papers with live stories of Colby sports.

I think the college year of 1939-40 has offered the publicity department ample opportunity to feature the college athletic teams. In fact, the members of the athletic department, as well as the teams, need to be given a word of congratulation for their outstanding showing in this year's intercollegiate sport competition.

To date we are honored with a co-championship in football and basketball, and the state championship in hockey. The track team has the greatest possibilities it has had for some time, and, no doubt, we will be taken from the cellar after the state meet this spring. Coach Roundy has a goodly number of baseball candidates working out in the Field House—they look like state champions. Why doesn't the publicity department make use of this material while it is at hand? We can't always be champions, but while we are let's have it known!

—H. A. B.

Cooperation Necessary...

The editor of the ECHO has heard much criticism that the policy of the ECHO during the last few weeks has been merely to criticize as many parts of college life as the editorial writers can think of. The chief criticism of the editorial policy is that there has been nothing constructive offered.

Students should be reminded that it is not up to the editor of the ECHO or any of the editorial writers, or for that matter any single person to determine the policy of the whole student body. We can but point out the things that could be done or the things that ought to be done.

The action and the carrying out of plans for the betterment of the conditions that we have described as "bad," must come from the student body, or the faculty, or the administration or any two or all three of these groups. For any satisfactory result cooperative action is necessary.

Colby Wallops Northeastern, Cops Second Place In N. E. Conference

In a fast and free scoring game, the Colby hockey team closed its season with a 9 to 7 victory over Northeastern, at the Boston Arena last Saturday. This victory gave the Colby Mules second place in the New England Hockey Conference as the up and coming Boston University was handed a 7 to 4 defeat by Boston College the same evening.

Coach Millett's charges took it easy once they had the lead and kept piling on the points as Bolduc drove in four goals and assisted on another. Reed dented the strings three times and assisted once. Fortin piled up five assists and Johnson and Woodward accounted for the other two goals.

On the previous night, Colby and Boston College battled through four periods of some of the best college hockey seen at the Arena this year. The overtime saw the Eagles, minus a few feathers, emerge on the top side of a 6 to 5 score and a undisputed hold on first place in the New England Hockey Conference.

Ray Fortin really came into his own on the Boston trip as he went on a scoring spree with ten points for the two game series.

Tony Bolduc suffered a severe cut on the head which required stitches during the first period of the Northeastern game, but continued to play real hockey as he shoved in four goals and assisted on another.

The team is already looking forward to next year's ice wars. Jones will be the only man lost from the squad by graduation and there are some freshmen coming up who intend to make the veterans hustle.

Boston College will definitely be the team to beat next year as they too are keeping practically their whole team intact.

The varsity completed the season with wins over New Hampshire, Middlebury, Bowdoin (3 games), M. I. T., and Northeastern. They lost to Dartmouth, Northeastern, and Boston College (2 games).

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Allow me to express my great pleasure at your publication of the excellent editorial entitled "The Chinese Are Human," in the ECHO of February twenty-first. It was one of the most enlightening editorials I have ever read in your columns, both for its timeliness and its nobility of spirit. Being a member of the Colby Peace Commission, I was the more gratified because our peace group was planning to assist in making the drive a success. Your editorial should serve as a helpful reminder to the student body of the plight of our fellow students in distant China. I am confident that Colby students will give generously toward the relief fund for Chinese students.

Freshman.

Dear Editor:

When we were sophomores didn't we hear something about a scholarship cup to be awarded semi-annually to the fraternity having the highest scholastic standing? Wasn't this cup to be donated by the old interfraternity council? We all would like to know whatever happened to that cup. Is it residing in some archives; was it lost in the shuffle or is it hiding behind three yellow spheres? Or was this report only an unfounded rumor?

Whatever the report may have been based on, the idea it seems to me is a good one. Surely a cup is some tangible evidence of a place of which a fraternity is justly proud. Nothing would be more appropriate than the awarding of a cup or a trophy for high scholastic standing. Perhaps the best system would be a set-up similar to the Sprague Trophy for athletics.

The interfraternity council or the aristocratic student council or even the senior class might donate the trophy. It would surely have some permanent worth to the college. It might even raise the scholarship achievements.

Not a trophy salesman.

S. C. A. News

"Inter-Faith Relations" was the theme for the "Colby at the Mike" program last Friday evening. Professor Herbert L. Newman, of the Religion Department, gave the principal talk using "Brotherhood Day" as his topic.

G. F. Taylor, chairman of the Inter-Faith committee, introduced three members of the Inter-Faith team of Colby, Sidney Rauch, Richard Rancourt and Linwood Palmer. Each spoke briefly on the topic "What Brotherhood Means to Me." Mr. Taylor was introduced by Professor Newman.

Next week-end, Linwood Potter, pastor at Phillips Academy, will take one of the S. C. A. deputation teams with him to Phillips to attend a meeting scheduled for that time. Linwood Palmer will go as the speaker and those who will probably accompany him are: Olivia Elam, Hubert Beckwith and Elizabeth Tobey.

Professor Newman and Ernest Marriner, Jr., attended the February meeting of the New England Commission of the S. C. A., of which both are members, held at the Y. W. C. A. in Boston.

The first meeting of the nominating committee of the S. C. A. will be held in the social room of the Alumnae Building, Monday, March 4, at 4 o'clock.

Post Offers Prizes For College Students

Here is your chance to win one of 107 cash prizes, totaling $750, that the Saturday Evening Post is offering to the students of Colby College and other colleges throughout the country, in what promises to be one of the most timely and challenging brain tensors of recent years.

The simple rules of the contest, which opened February 26, are announced in an interesting and helpful eight-page pamphlet which will be mailed in any desired quantity to instructors who write to Professor Charles E. Bollatty, head of the department of Advertising, Boston University, who is acting as chairman of the Contest Committee.

MULE KICKS

by JOE FRAME

The 1940 basketbball season is now history, but baseball is on the way in no uncertain terms. The polished surface has been removed from the Field House to make room for enthusiastic aspirants of the nation's number 1 pastime, baseball.

Limbering Up

Already battery candidates are whipping the old soup bones into shape in preparation for an arduous spring campaign which is slated to start in about three weeks. Pitchers Slattery, Hegan, and Chernauskas have been tossing the horsehide to catchers Downie, and Cole. To date a newcomer named Maurice Towle looks promising as a pitching prospect. The yearling throws them from the portside.

Outlook

On paper it seems that Coach Roundy's chief problem is to fill vacancies which were occupied last year by such stellar luminaries as "Bus" Burrill, "Doc" Rancourt and Frankie Leonard, all infielders. Aspirants who might fill these gaping holes are Brooks, Laliberty, Shiro, and Livingston. Peters, a shortstop, is the only infield veteran back in harness.

Garden Powerful

The outfield should be well fortified with the return of Vin Allen, a leading slugger last season, and Charles Maguire. "Chick" Hatch, the Howland howitzer of football fame, will probably be switched from the catching slot to an outfield post. Slattery, a perennial sticker, may cavort in right field when he isn't pitching.

Catching Post

The receiving slot is the least of Roundy's worries as Downie, Loring, and Cole are on hand. Ineligible last year because of the transfer ruling, Downie is free and ready to go. Cole and Loring are expected to offer much opposition.

Southern Trip

On March 21 the Mule packs up for an extensive invasion to the Mason-Dixon line for an eight game schedule. This year for the first time in Colby baseball history the men of Roundy will tangle with the midshipmen from the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

The Schedule:

March
23	Navy at Annapolis, Md., (informal).
25	Hampden Sydney at Hampden, Sydney.
26	Elon at Elon, N. C.
27	Catawaba at Salisbury, N. C.
28	Davidson at Davidson, N. C.
29	Duke at Durham, N. C.

Colby Last In College Ski Meet

The annual inter-collegiate ski-meet was held this year on the weekend of February 16-18 in Bridgton, Maine, with Maine winning and Bates running a close second. Bowdoin and Colby tallied behind, in respective order.

Colby's men were up against strong competition as can be seen from the fact that the Maine colleges other than Colby have capable ski coaches, and Maine and Bates were first and second in the I. S. U.

The representatives from Colby included Prince Beach, Barnard Jordan, John Warner, John Stevens, Robinson Burbank and William Barta.

After his talk Mr. Kelley answered a great many questions put to him by the future teachers. The meeting was especially interesting and instruc-leaders. Upon mentioning the trip the Embassy leaders took to Mayflower Hill, he praised the fine ideals and hopes that characterize the leaders of Colby.

The Jewish representative then went on to correlate the pillars of American democracy, which are freedom, equality, and peace, with the adage in rabbinical literature: "The world rests on three pillars—truth, justice, and peace." He compared conditions in America with those in Europe, where there is none of these qualities.

Rabbi Shubow rejoiced at the fact that the great groups which comprise the American democracy are at peace, while their kinsmen are fighting in Europe. Showing how America has been founded for a definite purpose, he emphasized that immigrants have come to America, not to make money, but to seek freedom and liberty.

The history of caste-ridden Europe was briefly traced by the Rabbi up to the time of present-day Germany, a "Polizei-Staat" (police country), where it is believed that there is to be a master race in Europe, which is contrary to the instructions of the Bible.

Rabbi Shubow eloquently advised that we dramatize democracy and liberty even as the Nazis and Fascists have dramatized their concepts to catch the fancy of the youth of the country.

In praising Washington and Lincoln as almost divinely ordained leaders, he quoted the words of Lincoln that for every drop of blood drawn by the lash, similarly a drop is drawn by the sword.

Rabbi Shubow emphasized that America marks God's last opportunity on this earth to create a place where men can live as brothers and where there will be no race hatred. Thus, he showed the importance of brotherhood meetings at Colby. He quoted from the words of King David, "How goodly it is for brethren to dwell in unity."

Rabbi Shubow then concluded his extremely well-received talk with the immortal words translated from the Hebrew of the High Priest in the Temple of Israel: "May he whose spirit dwells in this abode plant in your hearts brotherhood, friendship, love, and peace."

which was repolished so that it literally glittered, while the Impromptu was rewoven into a new and highly melodious musical tapestry of exquisite design. The concert was concluded with three compositions from the pen of Claude Debussy. It seemed to us that the audience liked this portion of the program the best, and in this opinion we can fully agree. The lightness, the perfect clarity, the essential singleness of mood, the haunting melodies of this composer were so simply and yet so perfectly brought forth throughout her rendition of these pieces. It was a fitting climax to a most enjoyable and memorable evening.
