Registrar's Office Has Bulletins With Complete Information On Summer Term

One Course Minimum, No Unexcused Cuts

The Summer Term Bulletin, copies of which will be available in the Registrar's office, makes clear what the procedure is for all those students who intend to pursue their studies during the Summer Term.

First of all, application should be made immediately by all who need financial aid. Applications for such aid should be in the hands of the Dean of Men or the Dean of Women by March 15th. A special application blank will be supplied upon application to the Dean's office.

Then, immediately after the Easter recess, each student who plans summer work should see his or her adviser, and elect three courses for the Summer Term. Special cards for this purpose will be provided by the Registrar's office. These cards should be filled, and signed by the student and the adviser, some time between April 6 and April 15.

In order to earn credits equal to those of a normal semester, a student must complete three summer term courses. No student will be permitted to take more than three courses, but the election of two courses, or even only one course, will be permitted.

Students who doubt their ability to pursue three courses, with classes meeting six days a week, may be advised to elect only two summer courses, and to make up the additional credits by taking an extra course in the fall term or in the spring term, or in both. Students who elect Biology and Chemistry together should not attempt a third course.

All absences during this term will be recorded by the instructors and reported to the Deans. Students are expected to attend all classes unless they have sound reasons for absence. During the Summer Term, all excusing for absences will be done by the instructor whose class has been missed; and previously announced written quizzes and examinations missed because of absence may be made up only if the instructor accepts the excuse as valid.

Student Defense Council Selects Raid Shelters; Plans For War Emergencies

Campus Blackout Orders To Be Given At Next Meeting

Students representing fraternities, men's and women's dormitories as campus air raid wardens under the college plan of campus defense held their initial meeting Sunday afternoon in the Alumnae Building.

Each place of student residence has selected the members who are to act as Air Raid Wardens whenever the emergency arises. In addition to the responsibility of conducting the plan of evacuation from each house to refuge centers, the student wardens will also carry out the blackout regulations, for their respective living quarters. Professor Loebis, Chairman of the Campus Defense Committee, explained the program of organization whereby each fraternity or dormitory has an assigned refuge center in cases of alarm. Mr. Francis Armstrong has been appointed Chief Air (Continued on page 6)

Chi Omega-Lambda Chi Dance, Saturday

Paupers Play For Costume Barn Dance, Alumnae Bldg.

Next Saturday, the students of Colby College shall witness and participate in the most colorful, picturesque and original dance ever to be held at Colby. Have you ever been to a barn dance? Have you ever square danced to the rhythm of a professional caller? Well, brothers and sisters, it's high time you did, for part of the evening will be devoted to these dances.

This gala and vivacious affair is the Red Cross Benefit Barn Dance sponsored by the Chi O's and the Lambda Chi's. This is a non-profit affair and presents an excellent opportunity for the students to contribute to the Red Cross and enjoy an evening of amusement at the same time. Dress is strictly on the corny side. Wear overalls, old clothes or anything else to make you look even more like a farmer. There will be prizes for the most original couple; there will be (Continued on page 6)

Novel Stage Effects Feature Next Play

"Merchant Of Venice" To Be Presented Last Of April

All candidates with artistic ideas about the forthcoming Powder and Wig performance of "The Merchant of Venice" are urged to put them into poster form promptly. Posters should be submitted to the contest heads, Barbara S. Grant or Gordon Richardson, before March 25. The artist contributing the poster which is most original, appropriate, and skillfully executed, in the eyes of the judges, Professor Rollins and Ned Porter, will be awarded two free tickets to the performance.

This performance of "The Merchant of Venice" promises to be a novel one in Colby's histrionic annals. There will be a unit set and no curtain. The action will be continuous, thereby eliminating long waits for scene changing. Different impressions will be effected by the changing of props, lighting effects, and costumes.

Because of the large size of the cast, the stage will be built out in front, and the hallways used. There is a possibility that a background of Shakespearian music may be employed, with such instruments as guitars and recorders being played.

This performance, which will take place at the end of April, is the first Shakespearian effort by Colby thespians since two years ago, when "Twelfth Night" was presented and pronounced a success.

These include Shirley Wagner for the seniors on Symphony, Lorraine DesIsles for the juniors on the Waltz, Helen Watson for the sophomores on Swing, and Jean Adams for the freshmen on Nursery Rhymes.

The committee in charge of the affair is Marjorie McDougal, chairman; Elizabeth Field, Marion Treglown, Barbara Baylis, Lina Cole, and Marlee Bragdon.

Students Ponder On World-Wide Problems

Three Groups Form "Are You A Thinker" Movement Here

Students throughout the country have on many occasions been accused of thinking in abstract terms which they do not, in many cases, understand. Such criticism has been well deserved. How many students at Colby are able to talk intelligently even on topics of common conversation? Most of us suffer from ideas which are much too hazy and reasoning which is obtuse. We have no incentive to assist in problems of the world because we are not sufficiently familiar with those questions.

Joint Sorority Dance Presents Spring Motif

Spring made its official debut at Colby college Saturday, March 7, from eight to twelve o'clock in the evening. At this time the Chi Omega-Phi Mu dance was held in the Alumnae Building which was gaily decorated with spring flowers. Tulips formed the Greek letters of the two sororities and further carried out the floral decorations.

Lloyd Ruffell and his orchestra provided the music for the dancing which continued from eight until twelve P. M., when the chaperones said good night. The chaperones were Professor and Mrs. McCoy, Professor and Mrs. Rollins, and Doctor and Mrs. Comparatti.

The co-chairmen of the dance were Alice Lyman and Ruth Graves. They were assisted by Anne Foster, Laura Tapla, Marion Treglown and Anna-belle Morrison.

Preliminary Training For Air Corps Cadets

Waterville, Me., March 7—The facilities of the new Mayflower Hill campus of Colby College have been offered to the government for military training purposes for the duration of the war, it was revealed last Saturday by Franklin W. Johnson, president.

The offer was made, he announced, when it became known that both Naval Aviation and the Army Air Corps were seeking college and university campuses where they could give their recruits a physical conditioning course and other preliminary training before beginning flight instruction. Both services have acknowledged the offer and are investigating the possibilities of the Colby site, the president said. Up until the ECHO'S press time late this afternoon no further announcement had been made.

As to how many of the new Colby buildings would be needed, Johnson said that the answer would have to be decided after conferences with the military officials. However, he revealed that on the basis of correspondence with the Army Air Corps it appeared that the two men's dormitories and the Roberts Union, according to Army specifications, would afford sleeping quarters sufficient for 500 men at a time, as well as dining facilities. The Miller library would afford all the classroom space needed.

The two men's dormitories are exteriorly completed and would need only floors, plumbing and wiring to make them ready for occupancy. The original plans call for interior walls dividing the space into single and double rooms, but for military use it is believed that it would not be necessary to install any interior finish or partitions, thus leaving the whole floors open as in barracks. Each dormitory contains over 11,000 square feet of usable floor area.

The Roberts Union already has floors and stairways and would need only the kitchen and dining equipment, and the necessary plumbing and wiring. There would be over 20,000 square feet of area available for barracks in this building, besides the kitchen and dining area.

Tickets At Alumni Secy's. Office, Free Of Charge

Saturday evening, March 21, at 8:00 P. M., in the Alumnae Building, the Colby Glee Club will give its first solo performance of the year.

This year's initial performance has a definite purpose—to give the patrons of the Glee Club a dividend on their interest of long standing. Thus this announcement is to be regarded as an invitation to all the patrons among the alumnae, the alumni, and the friends of the college. Tickets will be available—without charge—in the office of the Alumni Secretary in Chemical Hall.

In contrast to the seriousness of the day, the program will be light. There will be a group of light operatic numbers including "Beautiful Lady," and a selection of Colby songs featuring a special arrangement of Cecil (Continued on page 6)

Colby Spirit Flaggings? . . .

Two students appear for an announced meeting of the Camera Club. Three out of fourteen stories assigned by the ECHO news editor are turned in for one issue. Three students in a class of over forty respond when a professor asks how many have done the day's assignment. In another class of thirty-six affirm completion of the reading assigned. What conclusion can we draw from these facts? That student interest is lagging? That there is a general feeling of lassitude toward studies with the resignation to certain military service? That Colby students are showing an inherent weakness of character under fire?

President Johnson showed by his chapel address to a sadly depleted assembly of the men's division that the faculty is well aware of the existence and threat of this attitude of "what's the use, the army'll get us pretty soon." He attributed it rightly to a feeling of uncertainty in the future rather than to an actual fear. Yet General MacArthur's forces can have no certainty about anything except the fact of their existence and even that is becoming more precarious each hour and still they continue to do their job. Only theirs is a job which requires elemental forces. Their enemy is before them, they have a tangible something with which to come to grips, the rifle in their hands is an active tool with which they meet their problems.

For the student the problem is much more complex. He is not fighting an actual foe which he can see to strike at and batter down or be battered down. His is a fight of the spirit, of the will against unseen forces in mortal combat with his ideals and his desires. The immediate present is pressing and it is a great temptation to forget the long view. Lincoln best exemplifies as our president pointed out yesterday the spirit of "working hard and getting ready now for perhaps the time will come."

And greater things will come. This is but a passing stage in civilization. If we give up faith, hope, and belief now, what is there left? There have been other such black times in history yet the race has survived and reached still higher goals. Yet man can climb no higher without learning. As one student's father put it in a letter, "Studying irrelevant, bosh! Those who adopt such a mental attitude, though they walk and eat, are dead and are soon lost and forgotten."

This is our test under fire and our ability to carry on is indicative of our possibilities as good soldiers. It is the coward who runs off to the more elemental strife leaving the tougher battles behind, the battles which must be won in order that democracy must survive and flourish through the leaders who had the guts to stay at their jobs. Pray God that Colby sinks not as low in its morale as one of the largest Eastern universities whose students conduct nightly excursions through the town destroying parking meters. Should this become an indication of the general spirit in American colleges there remains little hope for the world though the United Nations win the present war. Victory in the hardest battle, that of establishing ideals which must follow, will not go to the most worthy but the most clamorous.

—E. W. A.

Red Cross Dance . . .

Colby's first benefit dance for the Red Cross should, in every respect, be supported by the faculty and student body of Colby. It is Colby's first student venture to raise a fund for a donation to the Red Cross. As your contribution to defense, make a point of setting aside Saturday evening for a good time and a good cause!

This dance should prove whether or not Colby is awake and aware to the needs of the Red Cross. It is one small way in which students and faculty alike can show allegiance! The dance is backed by two local Greek Letter groups; but everyone is invited. Don't "Keep mum, eh," about this affair, tell all your friends and bring all your friends. It is a cause worthy of your consideration and participation!

—B. A. R.

For Victory Now . . .

If American armies decided to "put off" fighting for a week; if our naval forces determined to halt the hunt for enemy submarines until next month—how long would America remain free?

If the producers of armament "just forgot" to turn out guns and tanks and planes; if American generals "didn't have time" to map our campaigns—how long would America remain an independent democracy?

This is a war of minutes; procrastination has become synonymous with perfidy. And yet . . .

While we can't think of one person who hasn't commented favorably on United States Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps and who hasn't said "I'm going to start buying Defense Stamps without fail!"—we can think of several people who have "delayed their purchasing," who "won't start buying for a few days," or who had "just forgotten" to buy a Stamp.

We're not writing this because we feel that the students of Colby College believe that V stands for Vacillation. Rather, we want to make plain our assurance that it is vitally important for students to invest their dimes and quarters in the United States as wholeheartedly, as regularly, and as systematically as their parents invest their pay-day dollars.

Wholeheartedly, regularly, and systematically . . . just as our war is more than one isolated infantry attack; just as it requires much more than one concerted naval drive; and just as it necessitates infinitely more than a single bombing flight—everything we do must be continuous, unfaltering, and constant.

There is more to this war than victory; America is fighting not only for today, but for tomorrow . . . for future peace and for the future good of all people. The Bonds and Stamps we buy are not only fighting the war, but fighting for the peace.

Students of American colleges are thinking about this world to come; many of them are fighting for it. We who remain here are talking about it, reading about it, planning for it. We must also help pay for it, just as all Americans must help.

The dimes and quarters we set aside are important to the war effort, yes; but only if they are put aside regularly and systematically. Only if they reflect both the urgency of paying for this war, and the continuous, dynamic philosophy behind it.

Make a pledge to yourself. Remembering that our search in the seas and the sky is continuous, that the flow of machines and munitions is never-ending, pledge yourself to fall in line with America. . .

Start buying Defense Stamps today. Start buying them regularly. And do not waver from your course.

CANVASSING THE CAMPUS

By Harry L. Levin

Spring, inevitable Spring has almost arrived in Waterville. By popular demand it was held over at Portland for three weeks, but the chamber of commerce promises the citizens of Waterville that it will be brought to Waterville for its premier shortly. With Spring come many things. It is the season of birds, flowers, budding trees and green grass. Spring to the Colby student, however, means rubber boots, slush, puddles, and street-walking. Sidewalks are miniature lakes, and as a result Spring is the time when all sensible Colby students walk in the middle of the street. It seems truly a shame that our co-eds should be forced to turn street-walkers.

It seems as if some benevolent soul ought to endow Colby with a fund the proceeds from which could be used to build a tunnel from Foss Hall to the postoffice. The tunnel could also serve many other purposes besides that of mere right of way. It would serve as a tunnel of love, a feature badly needed on the campus; it would serve as an air raid shelter in case of an emergency; it would serve as an underground railroad over which campused co-eds could be secreted on their way to freedom; and it would also serve as a good hideout for columnists such as this and others of similar caliber. The uses to which a thing like that could be put are innumerable.

Maybe an enterprising student could take a hint from the faculty, and enlist the aid of all the rubber and overshoe companies in the country. Money could be solicited from these many concerns, and as a selling point the student can use the excuse that the tunnel is to be dedicated to Hotcha Dovedoy, the first person to die a martyr's death from lack of adequate protection against wet sidewalks. All of you know of Hotcha's death in Galton, Illinois. The tunnel would be called Dovedoy's Tunnel, and over the entrance would be the words, "We can't die with our boots on." The college could very magnanimously offer the tunnel to the united rubber manufacturers for their annual meeting. The prospects seem unlimited.

It seems as if co-ed versus fraternity sports are the latest fad on this campus. This Saturday afternoon will mark itself indelibly on Colby's athletic history. The Chi Omega Oilers will vie with the Deke Tankers on the basketball floor. It is rumored that the game is being played for a keg of beer, which will be consumed at the loser's house at their expense. The game promises to be a hotly contested one, but we're picking the Dekes to come out on top. The powerhouse Deke team will have a veteran team on the floor headed by capable Captain McDonnell who is confident of his team's ability to match the girls point for point plus the few additional needed for winning.

When interviewed, one of the girls said, "We're not the pushovers that they think we are. We will lead them a merry chase, despite the fact that three of our best players will be playing with the tremendous handicap of broken finger nails." Maybe this is the start of the back to hoop fashions that the stylist have been predicting.

A special referee is being imported from Aroostook. This man is noted for his strict enforcement of the rules. Holding will be strictly barred (except between the periods); and interference will be closely watched, but not prohibited. Don't miss this event. It's a must on the "don't miss" list.

If anybody noticed a rush towards the Men's Infirmary recently, it was due to the new prices that have been set for food there. Everyone was trying to take advantage of the old prices before the deadline. The rush for beds got so bad that Mrs. Webber had the patients bring their own. Mrs. Webber will soon announce her plan for group hospitalization. Any group of ten or over will get special reductions, and extra special reductions will be given to people who sleep two to a bed. Start planning your group sojourn to the infirmary now. Special summer rates will go into effect soon. Save by making your trip to the infirmary soon.

P. S.—The infirmary is fully stocked with funny books, so text will not be necessary.

CRAIG LECTURE

By Emanuel K. Frucht

If this last lecture by Captain Craig, unfortunately the concluding one of the present Colby Series, wasn't the most interesting and enjoyable one we have had either this year or for the past few years, then this writer has made quite an error. It is usually a fine accomplishment for one of our visiting speakers to hold the attention of the audience for about an hour or so, but in this case Mr. Craig spoke continuously for two hours, including the showing of his films, and still the patrons of the lecture course paid strict attention to him throughout the entire course of the evening.

Perhaps some of us expected the usual type of travel and adventure pictures, but if so they were surprised, and most pleasantly, for his color films were new and different. Among the most noteworthy aspects of the film was the consistently high standard of color photography that was so excellently maintained. These shots came in best in the many sequences which described the various types of flowers and fish which are present in those South Sea Islands. The "ohs" and "ahs" of many members of the audience testified to the fact that his films caught and reproduced the real-life beauty of these plants. Other beautiful photos were those of the actual eruption of the volcano where we witnessed the remarkable sight of molten metal rising upwards many hundreds of feet into the air and then descending down the mountain sides in slow or hurried fashion.

A much more pleasant sport can easily be imagined than that of hunting for octopi at the depths of the ocean floor. This sight definitely was something different, but was not one which should lead us into new fields of adventure.

Thus, it's farewell to our Lecture Series for this year, and we cannot imagine a more pleasant aloha than this trip to the South Seas.

Colby Track Team Drops Close Meet To N. H., 59½-46½

Crippled Frosh Lose To Wildcats

With the aid of their IC-4A champion Morcum, New Hampshire took the varsity track men with a score of 59½ to 46½ in the last meet of the indoor season which took place last Wednesday in the Colby field house. The Mules made a very good showing despite their nine man squad and would probably have won the meet had not Russ Brown and Doug MacLeod been sick. The largest group of spectators this year was out to see what the New Hampshire sophomore could do to the records. Handicapped by the short runway, Morcum was only able to reach 13 feet 2½ inches in the pole vault, but the bar in the high jump was an inch and a half higher than the 6 feet 4 inches which he cleared at Madison Square Garden last Saturday. Vic Lebednik and Frank Quincy established meet records in their respective events while Styrna, from New Hampshire, broke the meet record in the hammer throw. Jim Bateman was high scorer for Colby with 13 points, only two points behind the high scorer for the afternoon, Boo Morcum.

The freshmen were also defeated by New Hampshire and like the varsity were crippled by sick men. Among those absent or sick were Weinstein, Mahoney, Luce, Arra, and Barton. The remainder of the team managed to roll up 31 points to the visitors' 58. On the basis of previous meets the five freshmen mentioned would have scored a minimum of 16 points thus winning the meet. Jerry Lewis broke the freshman record in the 45 yard high hurdles, and aside from winning the high jump he broad jumped for the first time in any freshman meet and placed second with a jump of 20 feet 6 inches. Tom Burke won a nicely run mile which had the New Hampshire boys fooled. Koumentzalis of New Hampshire and Lewis of Colby tied for high scorer with 13 points apiece. The frosh have a meet sometime next week, probably Thursday, which is tentatively arranged to be a quadrangular one with M. C. I., Coburn, and Cony.

Colby Frosh Lose To Governor Dummer

Winding up the 1942 freshman basketball season with ten victories, the class of '45 quintet bowed for their third loss to Governor Dummer, in the final game at Boston last week. Dummer is one of the toughest teams in New England and gave the boys even more trouble than the hometown Coburn Classical Institute. Dummer took the game, 45-36, in a hot, fast game, with four out of five of their men scoring ten points or more. Clauson was high for the victors with 12 tallies, with Kelly checking in with 11. Jarvis and Morrison, the two guards, garnered ten points apiece. Colegrove, working in the center slot, dropped in 11 points for the losers to take scoring honors for Colby.

The freshmen suffered their third defeat in this contest, the other two being to Kents Hill and Winslow High. Teams listed on the frosh casualty list include Hebron, Coburn, whom they defeated twice, Higgins, which also dropped two, Kents Hill, Bridgton Academy and Thornton. This wound up the campaign with an average of 76.9 for the season as a whole.

Gene Hunter captured individual scoring honors for the season with Colegrove, Rogers, and Roberts in close succession.

MULE KICKS

By DON STERNER

Bare foot Bo-Bo Morcum who last week helped New Hampshire defeat Colby in a track meet took individual honors in the I. C. 4A. meet in New York last week-end. High jumping 6 feet 4 inches and pole vaulting to 14 feet 4½ inches enabled him to amass 14 points for his efforts. Already a family man at 20, Morcum does his record breaking stunts with only one track shoe and that being on his left foot.

Boston College, not being satisfied with the New England hockey crown, defeated St. Nicks in the finals 6 to 4 to capture the A. A. U. title to add to its great season. Tied up at the end of the second period, it took B. C. 14 minutes before Flynn sank the winning goal and 15 seconds before the end of the tilt Edgeworth flashed the red light again to end B. C.'s last game of the year.

"THE LADY HAS PLANS"

Odd shavings: Captain Bud Johnson and Joe Wallace were too tired to even dance with the opposite sex the night following the B. C. game.—Captain Ralph Powers, who scored the last goal against Colby for B. C., has enlisted in the Army Air Corps and leaves after graduation. Wally Boudreau, the one man team is slated to be the Eagles' captain next season.—Fred Kaneb of M. I. Capt. Craig Entrances Lecture Series Patrons

The final lecture of the current Colby lecture series was presented at the Waterville Senior High School last Thursday, with Captain John D. Craig, explorer, deep sea diver, and author of Danger is My Business, a best seller, as lecturer.

An excellent technicolor film entitled "Polynesian Playgrounds," was presented. The pictures, which were taken by the Captain included many extraordinarily beautiful under water scenes. As Mr. Craig explained, these particular pictures were taken by means of special under water equipment designed by him for that purpose. Many other beautiful scenes were included in the film; among them were many shots of the Hawaiian Islands, its people, industries and beautiful vacation resorts.

Of special interest to those present was the view, expressed by Mr. Craig, which the people of the Polynesian Islands take toward class distinctions. Certain classes are designated to do certain types of work, and the people may not marry out of their classes. Although some of these people and their islands have been taken over by the Japanese in the current war, Captain Craig stated that these people would never lose their remarkable ideals of civilization.

ment has been started because it recognizes that these situations exist at Colby. This movement, through discussion periods, is working to remedy many of these problems by "bringing solid, hard thoughts out in the group." The student leaders base their future results on the assumption that it is possible to find the basic principle of a problem through discussion: a concept which has been proved on other campuses and in other group discussions.
