

S. C. A. Sponsoring Many Programs

College Vesper Service And Deputation Teams Head List

Many will want to take advantage of an all-college vesper service in the chapel, Sunday, February 21, at four o'clock, planned to recognize the World Day of Prayer. Because of inadequate meeting facilities, the Sunday college meetings have been few at Colby, though an important and cherished feature in other colleges of its kind. At this service will be Lieut. Gordon Michaelson of the C. P. T. program in Waterville, who will speak.

Also on February 21, a deputation team will hold a meeting at the Sunset Home at three o'clock in the afternoon. Representing Colby will be Lydia Tufts, '45, Richard Wason, '46, Richard Nawfel, '44, Annabelle Morrison, '45, and Lois Peterson, '44. The following dates have been reserved for Colby deputations in several towns: February 28 at Clinton; March 8 at Portland and a second team at Riverside; the week-end of March 13-14 at Plymouth; March 21 at Solon.

The Freshman Campus Relations Committee headed by Frances Willey, '46 and Richard Dunphy, '46, held open house for college students and servicemen in the Alumnae Building, Saturday evening, February 13.

The following people have been appointed to executive positions and places on the freshman and upper-class cabinets of the Christian Association. Richard Dunphy, '46, as co-chairman of Freshman Campus Relations, Peter Igarashi, '44, as co-chairman of Reconstruction committee, Robert Donahue, '46, to Meetings committee, John Hsley, '46, to the Service to Soldiers commission, Philip Watson, '44, to Deputations, Russell E. Brown, '44, replacing Sidney J. Rauch as treasurer of the Association, and Dana Robinson, '45, as co-chairman in the Church Relations commission, which has lately merged with the Community Service committee.

Orchestra Plans Symphonic Concert

Dr. Comparetti Directs Faculty, Students At Weekly Rehearsals

A true symphonic concert in April, featuring student soloists and guest artists, is planned by the Colby College Orchestra which meets each Sunday under the direction of Dr. Ermanno Comparetti.

Dr. Comparetti said that the orchestra will play the works of Bach, Schubert, Wagner and other noted composers at their weekly rehearsals. Composed of students and faculty members, its ranks are open to anyone who can "play any instrument reasonably well." This group will probably play at commencement in May.

The next orchestra rehearsal will take place at the home of President Julius Bixler on Sunday at 3 P. M.

The plans for the band are not as definite as the band has lost many of its members to the armed forces. It is hoped, however, that they, too, will be able to give a concert sometime in the spring.

Marines Organizing Women's Reserves

Candidates For Officers To Be Selected From College Ranks

Augusta, Me., Feb. 16—The ranks of the U. S. Marine Corps today were invaded for the first time since 1918, by women of the Women's Reserve of the Marine Corps.

Nationwide enrollment of women between the ages of 20 and 50 as officer candidates and 20 and 36 as enlisted personnel will begin immediately under the direction of the newly appointed director, Mrs. Ruth Cheney Streeter.

The Women's Reserves are to be trained in schools already established at major women's colleges throughout the country. Later, they will be assigned to Marine Corps training stations, centers, posts, and stations, replacing men fitted for active service with fighting units. By law, Women Reserves will serve only within the continental United States.

The Women's Reserve will include both commissioned officers and enlisted personnel. Ranks and pay will be the same as those for men in the Corps. It will be possible for women to work their way up through the enlisted ranks and into the commissioned grades, Major Streeter said.

Applicants for officer commissions must be between 20 and 50 and have a college degree or two years of college and at least two years of business experience, or special qualifications in a particular field.

Enlisted personnel must be between 20 and 36, have at least two years high school or business school (Continued on page 4)

Second Assembly A Tribute To Lincoln

Dean Marriner Relates Unique Facts Of His Life

The second of the Friday college meetings, presided over by President Bixler, was held on February 12th, Lincoln's birthday, and featured a talk on this great American by Dean Ernest C. Marriner.

After an improved rendition of "Hail, Colby Hail" by the student body, Dr. Bixler introduced Dean Marriner, who said that there are two temptations which confront a speaker when he talks about Lincoln—the temptation to moralize, and the temptation to be sentimental.

Dean Marriner remarked that it was his purpose to avoid both of these pitfalls, and that instead he would attempt to show the influences that made the Lincoln of twenty the same man that was the man of fifty-five, an indescribable mixture of bright humor and tragedy. Those influences which made Lincoln what he was, Dean Marriner listed as—a bitter quarrel with his father which alienated them completely; his ten months of formal schooling, augmented by all the reading to which he had access; the ridicule heaped upon him by family and neighbors who considered him lazy because he preferred his studies to other work; the death of his mother and sister; the persons who comforted him when he was grieved over the death of Ann Rutledge; and, above all the love and devotion of his step-mother, to whom his words "All that I am and all that I hope to be, I owe to my mother," refer.

Dean Marriner not only approached his subject at a refreshing angle, but also brought to light many interesting facts on which most history books have been rather vague.

ARMY TO ESTABLISH PRE-FLIGHT SCHOOL ON COLBY CAMPUS, MARCH 1

Earland Welch To Play At Pan Hell Ball

First Formal Dance Of Spring Semester To Be Gala Event

As the eve of the Gay Nineties Ball approaches the members of the Panhellenic Council are busy putting the final touches to their plans for a gala evening. Earland Welch and his band will carry out the theme of the ball with music old and new. The band has been recently augmented by the addition of two members of the Fenton Brothers' band.

Chaperons for the evening will be President and Mrs. Bixler, Miss Ninetta M. Runnals, Miss Sally Sherburne, and Professor and Mrs. Wilson.

Due to the efforts of the Council the price of bids has hit an all time low this year. Take advantage of the opportunity and buy your bid early from Evelyn Gates.

Skating Party Friday Night, All Colby Students Welcome

The W. A. A. is sponsoring a skating party Friday night that will be open to all the men and women students in the college. The Front Street rink has been reserved for the occasion and featured that evening will be Helen Gould, '45, and Mr. A. W. Larsen, talented figure skater of Waterville. They will give an exhibition of fancy skating and dancing at 7:45. The committee in charge has made arrangements to provide refreshments free to all Colby students attending.

'Gilbert And Sullivan' Evening Entertains Many

Sunday evening President Julius S. Bixler entertained a number of Colby students and faculty and Carl Stern. The latter in his own inimitable way introduced Gilbert and Sullivan to the expectant assembly. Assisted at the piano by Frances Shannon, he gave a brief biography and description of their works. Carl played all the records from the operetta Patience and several others on the virola holding the amazed audience spellbound as he recited reams of the lyrics as he went along.

A comparatively unsuccessful attempt to sing the more popular songs of Gilbert and Sullivan, which apparently are not so well known as we think, was terminated by the arrival of hot cocoa and cookies.

The gathering dispersed about 10, humming "Dear Little Buttercup," and "Tit Willow," as they faced the bitter cold, having spent a very pleasant evening either meeting or renewing their friendship with Mr. Gilbert and Mr. Sullivan.

NOTICE

Reprint of announcement released by Ernest C. Marriner, Dean of Men: "Do not get alarmed because of the story in the Boston papers of February 12, concerning earlier call of Enlisted Reserves Unassigned."

"This notice does not change the situation of Colby Reservists. Our 'first semester closing after December 31, 1942,' is the present semester, which closes on May 23, 1943. The new order still means that Colby Reservists will not be called until after that date.

"This applies only to Enlisted Reserves Unassigned. It does not apply to Air Corps Reserves."

Attention Air Corps Reservists

Although Army Air Corps Enlisted Reservists are liable for immediate induction, every effort will be made to allow reservists now at colleges to complete the term, quarter, or semester in which they were enrolled on December 31, 1942, the War department announced this week.

With the exception of these college men, all other Air Corps reservists will be called to active duty before April 1, 1943.

The reservists, when called, will be assigned to Army Air Forces stations and from there to selected colleges and universities, where they will be trained for ground or air crew duty.

The War department urges reservists to keep the commanding general of the service command in their areas informed of any changes of address, so that official notices will reach them promptly.

Dr. Guenther To Be Guest At I. R. C.

Dr. Guenther, recent addition to the Colby college faculty, will be the guest speaker at the first meeting of the spring semester of the International Relations club. His topic will be "Philosophical View Point of the War." This meeting will be held Friday evening, February 19, at 7:30. Sarah Martin, president, will preside. All Colby students are cordially invited to attend.

Sorority Tournaments To Begin Soon

A new Dance Club under the direction of Mrs. Mann, formerly in charge of the dance club at Bates college, will meet Friday afternoons from 4 to 5:30 P. M.

Be it now understood that the Interclass point system has nothing to do with the W. A. A. point system.

Inter-sorority tournaments in ping pong and basketball are soon to be scheduled under the direction of Marvin Wade. Ping pong matches are first and will take place Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 3 to 4 in the afternoon. All players are welcome. Three practices are the only necessary requirements for entering the Inter-class or Inter-sorority tournaments.

Aviation Cadets To Use Dorms Formerly Occupied By Students

Confirmation of the announcement made last week that Colby was one of the colleges selected by the government to conduct a pre-flight school for army aviation cadets was received by President Bixler last Saturday. Following a five weeks basic training course, 500 of these cadets, in uniform, will arrive in Waterville on March 1 to take a five months' course including one month designated for primary flight instruction. Colby's present pilot training program under C. A. A. auspices will be suspended upon the graduation of the group of 85 here now.

"The army is not 'taking over' Colby college," it was stated Monday. "It is using the facilities of the college and Colby is going to do all she can to help in the war effort." President Bixler has stated several times that the new program will not in any way cause the regular students to suffer from lack of administrative attention. They are the primary concern of the college.

Besides the addition of the 500 trainees, a number of officers, necessary to the management and training of the unit, is expected. It is also necessary that additional instructors be added to the present faculty.

With the moving of all freshman women to Mayflower Hill, thus placing the entire women's division on the Hill, the cadets will have the use of all the houses formerly occupied by women before the Mary Low and Louise Coburn halls were opened.

Weber Lectures On Colby's Rare Books

Colby Has One Of Best Small-College Libraries

The Colby Library Associates met in the Women's Union on Mayflower Hill, Friday evening, to hear Professor Carl J. Weber speak on Colby's rare books.

Most of Colby's literary treasures have recently been moved to a room in the Union awaiting final removal to new fireproof quarters in the Miller Library.

In speaking about the books, Professor Weber remarked on the various qualities which distinguish a rare book. He discussed and illustrated "ineunabula" books printed in the early days of printing, limited editions, privately printed editions, first editions, and autographed and presentation copies of books.

Professor Weber also remarked on certain inclusive collections of authors possessed by the library. Among these he numbered the works of Thomas Hardy, Edwin Arlington Robinson and other Maine authors.

The report gave abundant evidence to support the claim that Colby may seriously aspire to the distinction of owning one of the best small-college libraries in America.

Following Professor Weber's talk, the guests spent a social hour, with refreshments served in the new dining room of the Union.

The next meeting of the Library Associates is scheduled for Friday, March 5, when the speaker will be Dr. K. D. Motenif, Librarian of Harvard University.

Faculty Contributions . . .

Abraham Lincoln's birthday was fittingly commemorated last week by Dean Ernest C. Marriner who described some lesser known, enlightening and amusing incidents to the assembled students, of this quiet man who became the 16th president of the United States.

As Dean Marriner's avocation is Lincoln, so probably do most of the other of the Colby faculty have interesting avocations. It would be pleasing and educational, therefore, to both students and faculty to have the professors talk on their pet subjects.

It would also serve as a means of bringing the faculty and students into closer contact with each other. It would give the students an opportunity to know better the interests of the faculty and it would give the members of the faculty a chance to tell the entire college body about their subordinate occupations.

It is known for example that Professor Weber is intensely interested in Thomas Hardy. But is it known by all the students that the Colby Library has a complete collection of all the Hardy books that were ever published in the entire world? Professor Weber could hold an audience enthralled with his vivid tales of this famous author.

Professor Griffiths has devoted much of his time to the study of General Henry Knox. Since Knox is probably less known than Hardy, such a talk from Professor Griffiths would benefit all.

These are only two of the members of the Colby faculty who could make the Friday assembly period beneficial, interesting, and entertaining. Would it not be worthwhile, therefore, to have more of these talks similar to the one presented by Dean Marriner? —V. M.

Day Of Prayer . . .

Christians across the earth will join in celebration of the World Student Federation Day of Prayer, this Sunday, February 21. Colby men and women will have an opportunity to share in this global fellowship at a four o'clock vesper service in the college chapel. There are the lines of Tennyson: "More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of." We discover them suddenly, and they have the hope of a new weapon to bring a clean victory over evil and frustration.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The ECHO does not necessarily agree with letters printed in this column. All letters must be addressed to the Editor and signed by the writer, whose identity will be withheld and pen name used if requested. The Editor reserves the right to withhold from print all or any part of communications received.

To the Editor of the Echo:

This is really a letter to Colby women.

From all reports, it would seem that a large percentage of the women's division have made the cold but rewarding journey down to the Haines this week to see The Keeper of the Flame. Then they have seen vividly illustrated the havoc that can arise through friction of small, seemingly unimportant factions.

Colby women, would you be surprised if someone were to tell you that you are paving the way for a dictatorship in the student body by allowing factional disputes to mar what should be the unity of the women's division?

To the smaller cliques and crowds already in existence, the danger of an alliance of upperclass women against a similar freshman alliance seems to be threatening addition.

This year's freshmen have been launched into the college world in extraordinary and troubled times. They have not been subjected to the usual small amount of servitude good-humoredly insisted upon by upperclass women in past years. Their Foss Hall independence has not instilled in them such traditions.

Now they are coming up to live on the Hill. Let's not gum things up by expecting abrupt and radical changes in their conduct. Would we have them carry our books for us, tote wood for the fires, pull us up to the Hill on toboggans when we miss the bus? No! Lincoln abolished that sort of thing four score years ago. If for no other reason, we should realize the need for every possible kind of cooperation in such busy and harrowing times as these war days, when every energy should be employed in bigger things—Red Cross work and courses, constructive campus activities, and studying hard!

Naturally, we expect that the freshmen will do their part by not resenting the small services which are traditionally expected by the upperclassmen. It is no heavy task for the freshmen to pour water at table. And standing aside while upperclassmen go first through doorways, especially when the doorway leads to the dining-room at dinner time, is only common courtesy.

Student Government is our democratic college government. This is the place to take gripes and grievances for action. Bellyaching in private groups will cause only misunderstandings and bitterness.

When the freshmen arrive, let's give them a hearty welcome and assimilate them as quickly as possible so that we may merge once more into the single, consolidated family we always have been!

Sincerely yours,
An Upperclasswoman.

CANVASSING THE CAMPUS

By MARGE OWEN

In anything but a morbid sense we feel the urge to use a paragraph of this column to file obituary notices of interest to literary Colby. A much valued member of the ECHO staff has resigned, in anticipation of a call from Uncle Sam who wants him, we hear, when he doesn't even know him. For the present, at least, the ashes of his journalistic career may blow to the four winds but in his last will and testament there will be no regrets expressed for the service he has rendered to the college community. This is not a good-bye to his body or his soul, but only to the part of him reflected within the confines of this column for the past two years. The late "Canvasser" has done an unexpected and magnanimous thing in order that the women—future editors and printers of all publications—may have the opportunity of learning the trade with immediate views ahead for the use of this experience; he has dealt the death-blow with his own hand.

One cold and blustery day last week, three Sociology students stumbled into Verzoni's for something warming after a cold field trip down to the Waterville plains. This Colby man and his two female companions sat around talking about the weather as they thawed out, and in the course of the conversation we heard him bemoaning the fact that he didn't have any warm gloves to wear, or anyone who would knit some for him. These trusting co-eds proceeded to show him their respective hand-knit mittens, and before they knew it there was a distinct gleam in the old boy's eye. He conversationally asked where in Waterville it was possible to buy wool at that time of day and when they told him he dragged them down the street to that place and demanded their help in picking out some yarn for a pair of mittens for himself. Pleased with the idea that they had inspired him to take up knitting, the girls advised him carefully and he bought some needles and two ounces of heavy wool. By some trickery, that wool is now in the hands of one of these girls and the first mitten is well on its way. There is no partiality being shown, because the other co-ed will knit the second one. When you see Carl Stern about the first of April with a pair of very oddly knit mittens, you'll remember how he acquired them and why we nominated him for this week's BULLY OF THE WEEK.

Now that the casualty list has been published on the Chi Omega-Delta U. ice-hockey game Saturday morning, we would like, also, to publish the score and the vital statistics, on the game. After disturbing everyone on College avenue at 5 o'clock in the morning, the two teams finally gathered at the Front Street rink, and in spite of the darkness, began a speedy game. The Dean of Women was later heard to say, "Oh yes, I heard all that noise Saturday morning but I knew it couldn't be any of our girls causing all that commotion." However, the game went on and in spite of the brilliant playing of Ace Pattee, and because of injuries to Ace Witherspoon, the girls were defeated, 11 to 2. We'll not mention here the payment of all private wagers on the game, but publicly, the girls paid the price of defeat at Sunday morning breakfast at Parks'. It's possible that if these things are encouraged, Colby men will find themselves eating more regularly, for they will take advantage of any brave but frail co-eds who are anxious for a contest, merely for the stimulating exercise it provides. However, we think the D. U.'s will think twice before accepting another challenge, because, from all reports, the money they saved on breakfasts nowhere nearly balanced with what they were compelled to spend on the hospitalization of the many injured co-eds.

Seriously Though

Colby women are now in the midst of moving and adjusting themselves to the necessary changes in their living quarters. Everyone is anxious to make the change which is really such a small contribution. The upperclass women probably like the idea better than the freshmen, for it means new friends and easier opportunities to get to know the old ones. To the freshmen, on the other hand, it means not only moving, which is inconvenient, but also colder weather, many bus rides, and getting up earlier. The transportation situation will be a bigger problem now and, to be able to hold more classes on the Hill would help solve this problem. Here an opportunity for the Colby women to make a worthwhile, but difficult, contribution to the war effort presents itself. If the five sororities who are now housed in the Women's Union would volunteer to vacate their chapter rooms and let them be turned into classrooms, many of the classes of the women's division could be held on the Hill, thus minimizing the need to commute to Old Campus as many times a day. This seems like a big concession to ask of any well established and important group, but when a social organization, in war times, is called upon to help out materially in some action, it can show its value by recognizing the necessity for a sacrifice and by making that sacrifice willingly, in spite of the difficulties it would need to face as a result.

Maine Invades Cage For Crucial Series Contest Tomorrow Night

Return Of Hussy, Play Of Koris Make Bears Favorites To Win

Tomorrow night will find the University of Maine basketballers invading the Colby cage in what should prove to be the hottest game of the year as well as a fitting nightcap for the home season. From this point on, the Mules will finish on the road.

A Colby win will practically wrap the title bundle in a fancy ribbon (BLUE AND GRAY) while a Maine victory will leave the finish hanging dangerously. When last week, the Mule quintet traveled to Orono, it was Maine and Colby in that order on nearly everybody's book until Mike Loeb's charges upset the picture by clearly teamworking a 58 to 48 win. Maine, minus its high scorer, Hussy, threatened throughout, however. Coming to town this time with Hussy back at his post and spurred with the hope of avenging their recent defeat, Maine should field the team to beat.

In the past, Coach Sam Sesak's material has been so well distributed that he has been able to play two teams of almost equal strength. In the first encounter between the two in Orono, last week, the Maine teams alternated freely in an effort to run the Mules out early in the game, but the men of Loeb's matched speed for speed in a blistering first half to command an eleven point margin. In the second stanza the Mules were able to suppress the speed, but the threat remained until the closing minutes.

Maine scorers warranting particular watching will be Hussy, Koris and Pratt, while Windy Work of All-State football repute will be on hand to try to curb the Colby threat.

Mules Defeat Bears For Third Series Win

The State Title Bound White Mules of Mike Loeb's registered their third series win of the current season in swamping the hapless Polar Bears from Bowdoin here last Thursday night 58-36.

Benny Zecker had his night in the game and couldn't seem to miss the rim with his long shots. He was so hot that he put the Mules into such a commanding lead and the first team never took the floor at the start of the second half. Benny dropped in seven field goals and two fouls to be high man with sixteen points.

Mitch Jaworski threw in twelve points and Dick Michelsen also aided the cause with the same for the second stringers.

Walt Daniels and Jeff Power were the only Bowdoin players who had their shooting eyes, and they came up with thirteen and eleven points respectively.

Monday, Colby at Bates in Lewiston.

The big drive is on, as the varsity basketball team hits the stretch in its battle to win the state title. The game with Maine tomorrow night could end it all, for a Mule victory would put Maine out of the race and leave Bates' only chance in the hands of Bowdoin. The Bobcats might tie if they and Bowdoin both beat Colby. On the other hand, if Maine wins tomorrow night, Colby must win two to take the title outright.

— C —

Maine will rule the favorite definitely tomorrow night. The Black Bears will be snarling with rage after the humiliating ten point defeat which Colby gave them at Orono, and they will also have Gene Hussy back in the lineup. In addition, Al Koris has been shifted to forward and put on the first team for added scoring strength.

— C —

On Saturday, Colby travels to Brunswick for the first state series battle in that town since the resumption of basketball. Bowdoin is trying to revive basketball at home and the chance that they get in the Brunswick High gym will help them no little, if there is any interest at all.

— C —

Next Monday's battle with Bates at Lewiston will be the toughest of the season if Maine wins tomorrow. For Colby and Bates will be playing for the title, and after the tight contest in Waterville which these two played, no quarter will be asked or expected. Colby has proven that they can tie up Joyce, but they will have to do it again to win.

— C —

A hand to Jackie Joyce at this time for his sensational scoring record for Bates. Monday night against Bowdoin, he scored 24 points to boost his total to 206 for the season. He is the greater part of the Bates attack.

Zecker Scores 19 As Colby Tops N.H.

After battling into the half in a 20-20 tie, the Colby five turned on the heat last night to pull away from the towering New Hampshire invaders to add a 44-33 win to the ledger. In departing from the customary procedure Benny Zecker carried the scoring honors in two successive games, this time a nineteen point high for the evening. Behind him in the scoring were Jaworski with ten points and Jennings for seven while for the opposition Wheeler and Conway tallied 11 and 10 in that order.

It was a superior second stanza punch that saw the Mules move ahead to another victory, thus keeping their post-vacation slate clean contrary to earlier predictions. Maine on the previous night set down this same N. H. team, 54-36, which again indicates a red-hot ball game on Thursday.

Track Team At Bates Dolan Wins-Heat

Although none of the Colby men who competed in the B.A.A. meet last Saturday night brought back any medals or left any records behind, Cal Dolan did something which won him a good hand of applause. Among those starting in Cal's trial heat of the 50 yard dash was Herbert P. Douglas, from Pennsylvania, the N. A. A. U. dash champion. Cal got off at the crack of the gun and led the whole field of contestants from start to finish by a good yard or more. In the semi-final heat Cal did not start off too well, but had he done so he might have taken third to qualify for the finals. Jerry Lewis did surprisingly well in the high jump for the amount of practice he has been able to have. He stayed in competition until the bar was at 6 feet 2 inches and then was unable to get over it. With a few more weeks of practice Jerry should be doing close to 6 feet 4 inches. The relay team really showed the effects of insufficient practice, but the fellows all ran a good race and were not far behind in third place.

This next Saturday will find the whole team going down to Lewiston for the Bates meet. The Bobcats are a little weaker than they were last year and with the larger Colby squad it seems probable that the Mules will be victorious. John Turner will find very strong competition in the weights with Shea. Lewis should win both the jumps, but Lategola of Bates is a good man in both the high and broad jump. In the distance races Bates has two very good runners in Smith, in the 1000, and Disnard, in the mile and two mile. Other Bates men are Finch and Clason in the pole vault, Larabee in the hammer throw, and Card in the sprints.

Colby - To The Colors - And Back

Following their fine performance over Bates, the Colby hoopsters continued their winning ways by up-setting both Maine and Bowdoin in games at Maine and here this past week to take the lead in the state series. The three consecutive victories have been marked by fine team work, as is exemplified by the fact that no individual high scorer has appeared as yet. . . February 20 is the date of one of the big social events of this season, the Pan-Hell dance, which is to be featured by "Good Old Days" theme. . . Colby has been selected as one out of 281 colleges picked to train additional Air Cadets. On March first 500 will appear on campus. . . This past week-end, Zete, L. C. A., and A. T. O. had Valentine dances. . . So much for the campus, now to the camps.

Away out west in Santa Anna, California, Howard "Punk" Rowell has just been commissioned a second lieutenant in the Army Air Corps. Punk did so well out there that he was a squadron leader and has been ordered to report to North Carolina as an instructor. While we are on the subject of the Air Corps it would be well to mention that in the recent call up of Air Corps candidates here at school was Phil Watson. He leaves next Saturday to start his training. We understand that in the very near future certain other Air Corps reservists are leaving, but who they will be is still unknown.

Second Lieutenant Ray Burbank, U.S.M.C., was about campus last week-end. Ray certainly exemplifies the well trained officer of one of the country's oldest branches of the service.

Ensign Dick Kohn, class of '42, is now somewhere in the Pacific aboard one of the Navies "tin cans" or destroyers, so no detailed information is available as to his whereabouts.

Bobby, or rather Lieut. Robert La-Fleur, is now stationed somewhere in England with the U. S. Army Air Corps. Bob is a bombardier aboard one of those enormous planes now blasting the Axis 24 hours a day. And here's cause for another "hats off," he has been promoted to a first lieutenant. Another veteran "Axis Blaster" is Saul Millstein of the Marine Air Corps. Saul has been blasting the Japs in the Pacific area for quite some months, and we understand that he has seen plenty of action around Guadalcanal and the Solomons. He is now on furlough in California.

Two of the mainstays of freshman sports of last year were Bob Allen, in football, and Ned Lenson, in football and hockey, as most of us probably recall. Bob is now stationed in Phoenix, Arizona, with the Air Corps, while Ned is in Tennessee with the Coast Artillery. Ned writes that the math and trig are plenty tough, but that he expects to get a rating soon.

Brad Shaw, who graduated last year, is now training in the Signal Corps. Brad is stationed in Boston and writes that he enjoys his work very much.

Paul Murphy, another Air Corps trainee, wrote in a letter to Tom Pursley that if every thing goes well he has five more weeks at the A.A.F. Basic Flying School in Pecos, Texas. Following this training period he will go to either the advanced flying school at Arizona or Colorado. Right now Paul writes that he is spending a lot of time on navigation, and identification of all types of air craft. He also mentioned that he had heard from Dick Bright who is training for the Air Corps at Tucson, Arizona.

education, or special qualifications in a particular field.

tendants, laundry workers, link trainers, mechanics, aircraft, messengers, motion picture operators, motor mechanics, office machine operators, passenger car and light truck drivers, personnel, photographers, radio operators, radio repairmen, stenographers, typists, storekeepers, aviation, telegraphers, telephone operators, teletype operators.

Principal Marine Headquarters and posts to which women will be assigned are located at Washington, San Diego, Philadelphia, Chicago, Atlanta, Quantico, Va., New River, N. C., and Parris Island, S. C.

Women wanting to enlist are directed to apply to the nearest office of Marine Officer Procurement, or Marine Corps Recruiting station in writing, stating their age, educational record, occupational and marital status.

The D. U.'s with Captain-Coach Al-den Wagner playing a leading role took the lead with two blistering shots by Goalie Ruth Rosenberg, but the girls replied in short order with a neat play that completely fooled Frankie Brimsek Lucy.

After that brief flurry, the D. U.'s surged ahead despite the efforts of Referee McDougal to aid the Foss Hallers by calling frequent off-sides. No account of the final score was kept, since the ref dropped his adding machine during a heavy siege on the D. U. goal, but all adjourned to Foss Hall for breakfast (and the warmth of the radiators) about 7:30.

It has since been reported that several scouts were seen in the district during the contest, but it was later learned from reliable sources that it was only the Dekes and Phi Deltis seeking ways and means to stop the disturbances to their slumbers.

ARMY TO ESTABLISH

Also, the Railroad Y and Taylor House will be occupied by cadets.

In Foss Hall, where the entire number will take its meals, both the main dining room and the cafeteria used by the C. A. A. men will be used. The Alumnae Building will be used for classes and gymnasium work. The training which the men will have, according to President Bixler, will include courses in physics, geography, American History, English, mathematics, and physical training.

The coming group of 500 cadets will all have had high school education and will probably include some who have had one or more years of college work, or who are college graduates. With nearly 500 students now at Colby, this addition will make the total number about 1000, which is about 300 more than any previous student body at Colby.

Much credit is due to President Bixler, Dean Runnals, Miss Sherrburne, Dean Marriner, Professor McCoy and other members of the faculty for their helpful assistance in aiding the freshman women to move from Foss Hall to Mayflower Hill.

D.U.'s-Foss Hall Keep Hockey Alive

Hockey may be a discontinued sport as far as the varsity team is concerned, but for some two dozen Colby hardies it is still very much alive. The representative teams of the D. U. House and Foss Hall met in the match of the season last Saturday morning at the Front Street rink with the contest starting at 8 A. M.

Despite the failure of the rink attendants to turn on the lights (and the heat as well), the two clubs went ahead on schedule with a spirited contest being played in two periods. Coach Jerry Fleige of the Foss Hall team put her players through five minutes of intense calisthenics and then the two teams engaged in a brief warm-up.

The failure of the Maine Hockey Association to send up a regular referee necessitated the drafting of Warren McDougal as whistle tooter, and he was forced to use his authority to put Fran Ward off on a major penalty shortly after the facoff for roughing Pat Witherspoon.
