Demi-Formal Dance Next Saturday To High-Light Year's Social Calendar

Colby Licked By MCI Five

After coming from behind in the closing seconds of the game to knot the score at 36 all, Colby's revitalized basketball team dropped a heart-breaking 42-38 decision to Maine Central Institute last Friday night. The loss was the first of the semester for the Mules, after having scored successive wins over Coburn and Winslow.

With two and a half minutes left to go in the contest, the Mules trailed by a 36-30 score and the cause looked hopeless. But at this point, Hank Stillman popped through a set shot from mid-court, and a one-handed push shot by Ed Coughlin a moment later left the Blue and Gray trailing by only two points.

Action between the two teams saw-sawed back and forth until two seconds remained. Here Coughlin, emerging from a fracas under the Colby basket, tossed up a desperation one-hander that swished through the nets and tied up the game.

The overtime period saw M. C. I. get the jump as Harvey Varney dropped in two quick baskets. Coughlin got one of these back, but Pitts looped through a pivot shot that gave the Garnet the four point lead which they held at the final whistle.

Colby got off to a fast start and jumped into an early lead; the Mules holding a 13-8 edge at the quarter and a 23-22 lead as the first half ended. M. C. I. reversed the tide in the last half as it rolled into a 30-27 lead at the end of three quarters. They increased this advantage to six points during the last stanza, and set the stage for Colby's dramatic attempt to pull the game out of the fire. Colby's big scoring gun was Stillman, who paced the Blue and Grey attacks by pouring through eighteen points. The home club was led by Varney, whose eighteen markers tied him with Stillman for the evening's scoring honors.

SCA Group To Sponsor Lenten Worship Service

To commemorate the International Student Day of Prayer, a chapel will be sponsored this Sunday, February 25, by the Chapel Committee of the Student Christian Association. It is necessary to hold the chapel a week later than the actual date because of the college schedule.

Evelyn Thackeray and Fred LeShane, co-chairmen of the chapel committee, have stated that this chapel has a three fold purpose: to emphasize (1) the International Student theme, (2) the importance of student participation, and (3) the chapel committee's Lenten program.

The program will begin at 9:30 A. M., with a buffet breakfast for the students attending and will be followed by a devotional service. Professor Herbert Nowman will speak and special music is to be provided. The service will be concluded at 10:20 to enable students to attend regular church services.

Guests attending the dance the night before are cordially invited by the committee to attend the services.

Women To Be Housed In Dorms Boys Gym To Accomodate Men

Saturday, February 24, is the high spot on the Colby social calendar. The demi-formal dance that so many of us have been looking forward to, will surely live up to all expectations.

Festivities will begin with a basketball game against Bowdoin at the Colby field house. At eight-thirty there will be buses to bring everyone up to the dance, and frequent buses will run from town to the Hill during the evening. The dance will end promptly at 12, and there will be bus transportation for everyone at that time.

Our capable Men's Student Council has made arrangements for housing all men guests. Overnight accommodations will be upstairs in the men's gym. Any men students who have invited out of town dates can make housing arrangements with Jean Rhodenizer, president of the W. A. A., providing they do so before Thursday evening, February 22.

Decorations will be under the direction of Jane Farnham. The Chinese exhibit and the International Bar will help to augment the International theme which will be carried out in all the decorations. On the ground floor of the Women's Union there will be two cloak rooms and a ladies' Powder room, in addition to a luxurious lounge. Anyone interested in helping with the decorations is invited to assist Friday and Saturday.

Lennie Lizotte's orchestra consisting of fourteen pieces and a vocalist, will provide the music, and refreshments will be served continuously throughout the evening at the International Bar.

It should be clearly understood that this is theoretically a formal dance, but those in military uniform and those who cannot obtain tuxedos will be admitted. Girls must attend in (Continued on page 4)

Langdon Warner To Speak On Chinese Culture And Art

Langdon Warner, eminent archaeologist, will lead a discussion group on the Far East at the International Relations Club meeting Thursday evening in the Dunn Lounge. The discussion will include special emphasis on Japan, where Mr. Warner has spent a great deal of time.

Friday evening, Mr. Warner will speak on Chinese painting of the Sung Dynasty (some examples of which may be seen in the present exhibit in the Dunn Lounge). His talk will include particular reference to technical aspects of these paintings.

Mr. Warner has been assistant curator of Oriental art at the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston; director of the Proposed American School of Archaeology in Peking; director of the Pennsylvania Museum, Philadelphia; in charge of the first and second China expeditions for the Fogg Art Museum; director of Art of the Pacific Basin exhibition at the Golden Gate Exhibition, San Francisco; and a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society.

Brotherhood Of Man . . .

The week of February 18-25 has been set aside as Brotherhood Week all over the nation. Cities, schools, and churches are planning programs to bring the necessity of a feeling of brotherhood before the people in their group.

The idea of brotherhood urges that all men love and respect their fellow-men. It asks them to accept all men as equal no matter what their race, color, or creed. If a man is rich or poor, humble or great he is deserving of as much consideration and thought as his more fortunate brother. It urges the breaking down of all color and class lines; it stresses the need of strengthening all the ties of brotherhood.

How can we ever expect to accomplish peace if some men consider themselves superior to others? How can we ever think we are advancing if we keep certain privileges from some men merely because they are of a different religion, race or economic status? We cannot.

We might say, "What good can we at Colby accomplish by having a Brotherhood Week?" Unfortunately there are at Colby students who do not have the idea of brotherhood. There are those who do not recognize the equality of races, colors and creeds. They are firmly convinced that the white race is far superior to the yellow race. Or that a Protestant is vastly better than a Catholic. Or that a Catholic is better than a Protestant. It is our duty to appeal to these persons—to try to show them wherein they are wrong.

Brotherhood can only exist if each one takes his part and strives to make it a reality.

Wanted: Unity For The ECHO . . .

Unity is an important aim now being stressed in our college life. We are all part of the "Colby Family," and it is something that makes us both proud and happy. Since we work and play together, should we not share equal responsibility?

A teacher understands that she must know how to teach, in order to encourage the desire to learn which is inherent to some degree in every pupil. A football team can never be successful unless there is teamwork among the players, and they know they are being supported by loyal rooters.

So it is with the ECHO. We of the Editorial staff want this newspaper to be everything the college wants it to be; we want to print all the college news, but we are not always aware of every single happening on this busy bustling campus of ours. Therefore, we are making a plea to the faculty and students: If you have any knowledge of coming events, please list them in the college calendar in the President's office, or check with the News Editor.

If we each assume a little more responsibility, we can then be sure that everything of interest will be covered. We want a college paper that has an accurate, up-to-the-minute news coverage, and one that has the support of the entire Colby Family. This can only be accomplished through the combined cooperation of the ECHO staff, fellow students, and faculty members.

—A. R. H.

A Pint Of Blood . . .

Recently we have seen many pictures and newsreels showing soldiers wounded in battle. Some of them are so badly wounded and have lost so much blood that we wonder how it will be possible for them to live. Yet they do. The answer is very simple—through expert surgery and the use of blood plasma.

This is the same blood plasma that the Red Cross is calling for. It is the same blood plasma that we all have the privilege of giving. You know, giving a pint of blood to the Red Cross is a good investment. No, we don't get back four pints in ten years for every three pints we give now. But we get something far greater—the knowledge that we have contributed to the saving of a soldier's life. That is the greatest reward that any of us can hope to get today.

You are all urged to give a pint of blood to the Red Cross. Contact the local Chapter if you are in good physical condition and make an appointment.

—J. ST. J.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The ECHO does not necessarily agree with letters printed in this column. All letters must be addressed to the Editor and signed by the writer, whose identity will be withheld and pen name used if requested. The Editor reserves the right to withhold from print all or any part of communications received.

Dear Editor:

As members of the freshman class, we think it would be nice as well as quite essential that we at least hear previously about such a drastic movement which "our" student council instituted last week. One hundred girls on the lower campus alone did not receive the vaguest hint about an exam schedule until so informed by their instructors in class. It took a few days to discover exactly what "we" had petitioned for and accomplished, but now that the facts are out, the great majority of us decidedly disapprove. Not only do we object to the fact that such an all-encompassing measure was passed without proper representation, but we also think the whole matter illogical, presumption, and distinctly juvenile.

And just why should the faculty have to seek the undergraduate approval before scheduling an exam? Isn't it only logical that exams come at the completion of a certain amount of material and not when they merely fall conveniently but pointlessly into the students schedule? And why shouldn't we be able to handle two or more exams on the same day? Isn't it the idea that we should prepare each day's assignment and not merely cram the night before an exam? Granted, it would be very nice if important events spread themselves thoughtfully out over a leisurely period of time; but that's not the way things happen anywhere. In supporting a scheme like this, we are not only defeating an important aim of education, but in most cases, we are actually doubling the amount of work which a normal hour exam covers. And if the assignment is not distorted in that direction, we will be forced down to finer, less essential details which a limited scope necessitates.

If we college students can't survive the terrific ordeal of two or more one hour quizzes in one day, we had all better go back to grammar school!

—L. G.

Dear Editor:

I don't think I quite understand this "Hopeful Freshman." Does she think that the Director of the O. D. T. sits in his office all day with his feet on his desk just thinking to himself, "Let's see . . . what can I do now to annoy the college students . . ." or something to that effect?

Obviously if the colleges have been asked to cancel their vacations there's a reason for it. The reason (as far as we know) is to give the service men the right of way in travel. There are always bound to be some people who will do things contrary to what the government asks, but that certainly doesn't give us a right to do the same thing.

Naturally we all want to get home for vacation, but how can you ask whether it's "fair to the students" to cancel it in the light of what's going on today?

So if we don't get a vacation in March let's just consider ourselves lucky that that's all that's being asked of us.

—Jo.

To the Editor:

As an interested spectator, I would like to express my comments on the success of Religious Emphasis Week at Colby. In the first place, I do not believe that the students realized the importance of the program so did not participate as well as should have been expected. Secondly, don't you feel that it would have been much better if the afternoons and evenings had been left free of studies and other activities so the students could have attended the meetings as they so desired?

Much confusion could have been saved if the students had read the ECHO and bulletin boards for the schedule of all events was posted in both places.

For those who were able to attend, it was a very profitable week. I think they realize, even more deeply than before, what steps must be taken to bring about religious tolerance of all races and colors. They have a deeper sense of fellowship with those about them.

Many students were able to meet these distinguished guests in the various halls as they dined. In this way, questions were informally asked and some very interesting discussions took place. We should all have a deep sense of appreciation to those who made this week possible.

An Interested Student.

Kaufman's Song Presented On WNAC

Ballard "Don't Leave Me" Has Chance For Popularity

Listeners to station WNAC at 7:30 P. M., last Wednesday evening, heard a new song by Ralph Kaufman of Colby College entitled, "Don't Leave Me." The song was definitely a good one and to Colby students the fact that the composer was Ralph Kaufman was equally important. Ralph, a member of the class of '45, is well known as a campus pianist.

Ralph wrote "Don't Leave Me," about a month ago and was advised to send the song to Ray Dory's radio program. Dory played the song February 14 and also had it recorded. As yet Ralph has not had it copyrighted but this will be done in the near future.

Both the lyrics and music of the song are by Ralph and the words are as follows:

Please don't forget that I love you;
 I hope you keep this in mind
 That you're number one on my heart parade.

Here's something else I'd like to remind you of:

Chorus

Don't leave me to face the world alone;

Believe me you're all the love I've known;

Don't grieve me by going away so soon.

I know that I'm just a lonely guy
 Who feels that every kiss is our goodbye

Don't leave me and throw my heart strings to the moon.
 Your wish to remain friends
 Is not the love I need;

A broken heart never does mend
 Until the soul is freed.

Don't thrill me then cut the parts aside;

Don't fill me with fear I cannot hide;
 Don't leave me and lock my heart inside a tomb.

Ralph has written other songs in the past but all who have heard it agree that "Don't Leave Me," is the best and that it is destined to a share of success.

W. A. A. News

At the W. A. A. board meeting on Tuesday, February 13, Priscilla Tibbets was appointed basketball manager. She is in charge of the basketball tournament which will begin March 5. Upper-class women are urged to get in their three required practices before that date in order to be eligible for participation in the tournament.

A clearer definition of the point system was also achieved at the meeting. After the three hours a week necessary for four points, each additional hour will count one point and an accumulation of three more hours will give four more points. Thus attendance six times a week will give a total of eight points.

Red Cross

The Colby Red Cross Unit held a meeting Friday evening. Kay McQuillan was elected to be in charge of the War Fund Drive here at Colby.

Kay Southworth has charge of making favors for hospital ships, and Janet Pray will distribute wool for knitting sweaters, etc., for servicemen.

Other Colleges Selling War Bonds Beyond Quota

Many colleges in the United States have a constant drive for the selling of War Bonds and have achieved great success. Little has been done at Colby in this respect. The following article shows what one college is doing to sell War Bonds.

Lincoln, Neb.—(ACP)—Six hundred enthusiastic University of Nebraska students and several organizations purchased and pledged $4,385 worth of war bonds and stamps recently at the War Council—sponsored "Chance of a Lifetime" bond auction. This sum is almost three times the original university quota for the whole sixth war loan drive. When the proceeds from the auction are totaled with the weekly stamp sales, the university drive quota will have been almost quadrupled.

Prof. Karl Arndt and Prof. Curtis Elliott, acting as auctioneer, promoted student bidding for everything from steak dinners to an English theme. The three top bids were $550, $525 and $500 respectively for Prof. Arndt to wait tables in a sorority house, Professor Elliott to wait tables, and a date with navy dent student Gene Dixon.

Dates with beauty candidates queen Kay DeWeiler and Barb Emerson brought in large bids from the men and Miss Emerson's "price" was increased when Jeanne Dresden offered a $25 bond if she would kiss Professor Elliott. PBK Harold Anderson upped the proceeds by $150 when Jeanne Guenzel purchased his service to write an English paper.

Mortar Boards Anne Wellensiek, Pat Chamberlin, Ghita Hill, Dorothy Carnahan, and Micky McPherson, as a result of the bidding, are waiting tables in the Union crib for an hour before Christmas vacation and Mortar Board Joe Martz is acting as call girl in one of the campus houses. Dean Verna H. Boyles and AWS President Dorothy Carnahan gave a free 1 o'clock and Union Director Pat Lahr donated steak dinners and ten packs of cigarets to be auctioned.

"Peace Or Pieces" Is Theme Of Sermon

"America Tomorrow—In Peace or Pieces? was the theme of the sermon delivered by The Reverend Wallace W. Anderson at the All-College Chapel Service on Sunday, February 18, for the commencement of Brotherhood Week.

"Brotherhood is not simply an ideal," explained Reverend Anderson. "If we want any decent thing on earth, brotherhood is an inexorable necessity . . . Christianity is a triangular affair; it must include God, your Soul, and your Brother."

For the furtherance of brotherhood, Reverend Mr. Anderson suggested three concrete ideas:

1. Cultivate the ability to see things as other people see them.
2. Enter into the feelings of all minority groups.
3. Encourage a feeling of good will.

"Whatever right you demand for yourself," concluded Reverend Anderson, "You must seek to give to everyone else."

Reverend Anderson is the Pastor of the State Street Congregational Church in Portland.

Students, Faculty Express Opinions On Religious Emphasis Week Program

Last week Colby students, faculty, and guests from New England and New York, joined together in observance of Religious Emphasis Week. Lively participation was felt in the assemblies and discussion groups held on both campuses. Probably the best way to show the general impression left by the week's activities is to give you the opinions of some of those who took part. The ECHO has conducted the following survey for this purpose:

Dr. Howard Jefferson of Colgate University, chairman of the committee—"The work of the S. C. A. here impresses me as being very good. On the new campus this organization will have the resources to intensify its program even further, and to extend some of its present outreaches, especially those into the community of Waterville."

Miss Elizabeth Johns, Associate Secretary of the New England Student Christian Movement—"A week like this should be a stimulus to students to do more thinking about religious convictions and to consider the relevance of these religious convictions to the problems of everyday life."

Professor Herbert Newman—"Colby students should take on larger dimensions because of contact with leaders during Religious Emphasis Week. Through these contacts horizons widen, our concerns for fellow humans become more neighborly, and our thought about and experience with God is more dynamic for our lives."

Dean Marriner—"Religious Emphasis Week has been a valuable experience for both students and faculty. Colby, one of the American colleges founded by devoted church people, has always been a liberal Christian college. Our charter forbids discrimination against any applicant for admission or against any enrolled student because of religious belief. Such tolerance, however, has never implied a negative attitude toward religion, and it is in good Colby tradition that we annually give special attention to the place of religion in college life. That the intimate warmth and vigor of the pre-war fraternity embassies seemed lacking from this year's program is, in fact, probably chargeable to the war. We no longer have the fraternity units where the visiting clergymen can live intimately with our men for several days. We shall relish the return of that kind of embassy after the war."

Marguerite Broderick, president of S. C. A.—"A wonderful response was shown last week, but the real effectiveness of the Religious Emphasis program will be determined by the kind of thought and action that develop from it."

John White—"A week like the past one should be a stimulus in the thinking of every student. I hope we will continue to have such discussions, and that in the future, there will be even more student participation."

Joe Wallace—"Even the greatest and best skilled physicians in the world often call in consulting advice to formulate decisions and plans. That is exactly what Colby college has been doing the past week. Most of us, the students, will probably not feel the accomplishments of this year's Religious Emphasis Week. It will be our daughters and sons, the future students of Colby, who will witness the realization of the hopes and plans born last week."

New English Professor's First Impression Of Colby

by Elsie Love

The attractive petite blonde seen climbing off the bus each Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday at 10:00 appears at first glance to be one of the numerous co-eds. However, a closer glimpse reveals a pair of blue eyes with a scholarly glint not usually characteristic of the co-eds.

Upon hasty investigation the charming young lady turns out to be the most recent addition to the Colby faculty, Ethel-Mae Haave. Miss Haave, 25, Ethel-Mae Haave. Miss Haave, who teaches English is quite accustomed to the rather chilling climate of Maine, hailing as she does from the none too tepid state of Minnesota. She is a graduate of the College of St. Teresa, Minnesota, and did her graduate work at Yale University. She taught formerly in her home state university in Minnesota.

Miss Haave is interested in many things, but modern literature has a particular appeal. She confessed she is quite impressed with Mayflower III and said that she thinks she has a "good group of students."

Harvard Professor Speaks On Poet Rilke

At a meeting of the Library Associates on Friday night in the Smith Lounge, Dr. Howard Roman, of the German Department at Harvard, spoke on the Modern German poet, Rainer Maria Rilke.

Dr. Roman's talk centered about the theme "fluidity" and "contour" as Rilke's poetry "attempts to assess the world" in those terms. "Fluidity" as defined by Dr. Roman refers to the instability, unreality, and artificiality of the external world through which one must pass to find the "contour" of the "inner shape"—the reality and truth.

Dr. Roman quoted primarily from "The Book of Pictures" ("Das Buch Der Bilder") to illustrate his definitions of "fluidity" and "contour" and to emphasize the symbols which Rilke used in his poetry.

Following the meeting tea was served in the Dunn Lounge.

Christening Of USS Colby Sponsored On West Coast

The students and alumni of Colby should be indeed proud that on February 13, a 10,500 ton Liberty ship, The S. S. Colby, was launched in honor of this college, at the Terminal Yard of the California Shipbuilding Corporation.

The S. S. Colby was christened by Mrs. Kneffer McGinnis, wife of the commanding officer of the U. S. Naval Air Station at Terminal Island, Wilmington, California.

Dr. George G. Aveill represented Colby at the ceremonies, and many Colby alumni were present, among them, Loring Herrick, '92; Denis E. Bowman, '93; Corporal Charles J. Williams, '42; and Mrs. Dora Knight Andrews, '92.

The vessel is one of the many to be named after various colleges of the country.

Chinese Art Exhibition Opened in Dunn Lounge

Last Friday afternoon, Professor Samuel Greene opened the Chinese Art exhibit with a lecture given in Dunn Lounge. He explained the paintings and prints, which were done from the 10th to 19th century.

This exhibition has been lent by the Harvard University Pogg Museum of Art (unless otherwise indicated). The prints on exhibition are part of a lesson book in the calligraphy and painting of the great ancient masters. This lesson book, "Shih Chu Chai Shu Hua p'u" or "Ten Bamboo" album, was printed during the Ch'ing dynasty in the eighteenth century.

Chinese drawing was art to express the inner qualities of the life of man as revealed through nature. Nature, "the mirror of man," gave this art its symbolic quality in line, design, and mood, which is difficult for western minds to understand fully.

Books telling more about Chinese art are conveniently placed, as is a paper explaining more about each painting and print. This exhibition will continue to be displayed in the Dunn Lounge through February 23.

Teamsters Win Game Over Lawrence High

Bouncing back from its upset defeat at the hands of M. C. I. last Friday night, Colby's courtmen crushed Lawrence High School of Fairfield, 52-39 on Saturday night in the Bulldogs' gym. The win was even more one-sided than the score indicates, for the Mules coasted home after piling up an insurmountable lead in the first two periods.

Hank Stillman once again provided the Mules' scoring punch as the "blond blizzard" ran wild. The former Portland High ace dropped in 23 points during the evening; 18 of them coming in the first half. Ed Coughlin was right on Stillman's heels in the scoring column, as he pumped through 15 points.

The Mules scored first on Stillman's nifty set shot from the right side. While the Lawrence boys looked on wide-eyed, Hank promptly proceeded to pour in six straight baskets from all spots on the court. When the fireworks were over, Colby was in front, 16-6, and the game was just about decided.

The Mules continued to build on their lead, and had increased their advantage to 16 points, when the half ended. At the intermission, the scoreboard read: Colby 32, Lawrence 16.

The last half saw the Blue and Gray ease off, content to play it safe and protect their huge lead. Tommy Peters, who ripped the cards for 19 points during the game, kept Lawrence in the contest during the last half chucking in 13 points in the third and fourth quarters.

It was a vain gesture, since the Mules held doggedly to their lead and Colby held a comfortable 13 point margin as the final gun barked.

February Students

Barbara Soule comes from Brooklyn, N. Y., and enters Colby as a first semester Junior. Previously, she has attended St. Lawrence University for three semesters and taken a ten months' course in Engineering at Penn State. She has also worked for a year in Buffalo. Except for collecting stationery and playing bridge constantly she says she does nothing unusual. However she did confess to a love for walking in the snow barefoot!

Carolyn Browne—and note correct spelling of her name—lives in Belmont, Mass., and has also engaged in several activities before coming to Colby as a second semester Sophomore. She attended Simmons College and then took college extension courses at Boston University while working part time. According to her roommate she never sleeps, a habit which will undoubtedly come in handy here at Colby. She is very fond of tennis and basketball.

Naomi Dick is a first semester Senior who has returned to Colby after several years absence. She went to Cambridge Junior College, and then came to Colby for two years. She worked for Bendix Aviation in Norwood, Mass., a year and a half and then has spent the last six months visiting in Canada. While up North she acquired a passion for hunting. She says that there is nothing she'd rather do than go duck shooting.

June Chipman, from Poland Springs enters Colby as a first semester Sophomore. Her career after High School began with Green Mountain Junior College. From there she went to Lewiston to learn Lab. Technology and she worked there until coming to Colby. She is a Pre-Med major. Her favorite sports include skiing, basketball, baseball and writing letters.

Colby Blue Laws Reveal College Life In 1820's

by Janet Gay

While searching through a series of relics of Colby College, we came upon an issue of a Lewiston paper (vintage 1920) which was celebrating the centennial of Waterville College, thusly called until after the Civil War. We thumbed through the yellowed pages and paused by a head—COLBY BLUE LAWS—or what the student could or couldn't do in the gay 1820's. A series of laws were then expounded and we plowed through them one by one. Some of the more prominent ones were:

1. Every student must go to chapel twice a day.

2. Undergraduates must go to public worship on Sunday.

3. On Sunday each student shall avoid all unnecessary business, walking abroad, receiving company and playing on musical instruments.

4. No student, without permission, shall be absent from his room after 9 P. M.

5. No student shall keep firearms or any deadly weapon whatever, and also no gunpowder. Nor shall cats or dogs be kept by the students for their private use or pleasure.

6. No student shall at any time smoke a pipe or cigar in any of the entries or public rooms of the college or in or near any of the out buildings or on the college premises. Nor shall any student keep any ardent spirits, wines or intoxicating liquor of any kind.

7. No student shall enter the room of another student at any time without his permission.

8. Any student shall be liable to be fined for absence from college, without permission and unexcused, to an amount not exceeding 25c.

9. No student without leave of the President shall eat or drink in any tavern of Waterville. Nor shall he attend any theatrical entertainment or idle show in Waterville.

10. No student shall make any bonfire, play off fireworks or be in any way concerned with the same without permission of the President.

11. No student shall go shooting or fishing under penalty of admonition or suspension.

12. No class meeting or assembly of students for consultation shall be held without the permission of the president.

To conclude this little episode of Colby life in the 1820's, let it be said that it cost about $1.08, plus 25c for laundry, to board at college for a week. About $17 would see a conscientious student through college for a semester. $80 would supply a spendthrift with an education for a year with an ample amount to boot. Our only comment on the whole idea: C'est la guerre!

Three Faiths Represented In Brotherhood Meeting

The city of Waterville, initiating its observance of national Brotherhood Week, held a community mass meeting, Sunday night, Feb. 18, in the Senior High School Auditorium. The event was well attended, and included three excellent speakers, representing all faiths.

Mr. J. C. McCorrison, who is the New England Representative of the National Conference of Jews and Christians, spoke in behalf of the Protestants. Rabbi Fleishocker from Portsmouth represented the Jewish faith, and Father Hogan from Portland was the Catholic delegate. Their addresses were related to the general topic, "Teamwork in Peace as in War," which is the theme of Brotherhood Week.

Colby's religious groups are also taking part in the week's activities. A College Chapel Service on Tuesday, February 20, presented an effective program, which included a skit, directed by Eileen Lanouette, and entitled "I Call 'Em Buddies." The following students took part: Cloyd Aarseth, Paul Choate, David Clement, Robert Cox, Betsey Greene, Charlotte Hanks, Marilyn Hubert, Jerry Lewis, Ruth Marriner, Bob Rosen, and Carl Wright.

Among the many guests will be players from the Bowdoin basketball squad, members of V-12 units all over New England, and other armed services as well as several alumni.

Colby's biggest social event of the year will take place in three days. We are all looking forward to it, and it will undoubtedly provide animated conversation for the rest of the semester.
