U N Session Discusses Problem of Red China

The International Relations Club will present a mock session of the United Nations on Friday, May 13 at 7:30 in Women's Union. The agenda is a Security Council discussion of the problem, "Should Red China be admitted to the U. N.?" The members of the council will be dressed in their native costumes and will realistically defend the point of view of the country which they represent. Those participating in the program are: Carol Kiger as Egypt and chairman of the Security Council; Dolly Couillard and Mary Dundas as France, Sue Franklin as Great Britain, Sid Farr as Guatemala, Rita Hamilton as India, Herb Keech as Israel, Roland Sherman as Nationalist China, Martin Kruger as Pakistan, John S. Baxter as Poland, Arthur Marchand as Red China, Dick Stratton as Russia, and Anne Mandlebaum and Don Moore as the United States. Refreshments will be served after the session. Everyone is invited to attend.

Baxter First In Speaking Contest

The first prize in the Levine Extraneous Speaking Contest held on Saturday, May 7, was won by John S. Baxter for his talk on "The Banding Conference—What does it Mean?" Second prize was won by Carol A. Kiger who spoke on "The Theatre—Fabulous Invalid," third prize by Richard Magill, whose topic was "Atoms for Peace" and the fourth prize by Jay W. Smith for his talk on "Is Radio, Mediocre?" The winners were awarded fifty, twenty-five, fifteen and ten dollars respectively.

Outing Club Plans Picnic On May 15

A good meal cooked by experienced chefs, and a day of fun to go with the food is in store for Colby outdoorsmen. This is one of the few functions of the Colby Outing Club that will be able to accommodate a large number of people. In the afternoon there are various

Commencement Play Is Moliere Farce

Powder and Wig will present Moliere's comedy, "Bourgeois Gentleman" on Saturday, June 10, as a part of the Commencement Week end festivities. Moliere, a Seventeenth Century Frenchman, used comedy to criticize the social system of his country. "Bourgeois Gentleman" is about a merchant, Monsieur Jourdain, who tries to acquire culture such as he observes in "people of quality." He hires a dancing master, a fencing master, a music master and a philosopher to give him lessons in their various fields. Through a nobleman who has borrowed money from him, Jourdain arranges a meeting at his home with a "lady of quality." This pleases him, until his wife arrives on the scene unexpectedly.

Moliere often uses the family unit as an integral part of the action of a play. In "Bourgeois Gentleman" Jourdain is trying to keep his daughter from marrying the man she loves because he has hopes for her making some better marriage. He is tricked by a scheme to pose his daughter's lover as the son of the Grand Turk. The play ends with a fabulous banquet prepared in honor of his daughter's marriage to this alleged Turkish nobleman. Thus his scheme to manage his family's activities has proven unsuccessful. All of this is done by Moliere in a most comic fashion. However, Moliere also intended to direct his readers while diverting them, and thus inserted some guiding principles in his comedies of manners.

activities for the sports minded. The sailboat has been refinished and will be waiting for someone to try it out. There will also be plenty of canoes and boats available and for the hardiest of the fun lovers there will be swimming.

Transportation for the supper will leave the men's quadrangle at 5:00. The supper will start approximately at 6:00. All of this will take place at Great Pond, Belgrades, in and around the Outing Club Lodge on

Fraternities Hold Spring Weekends

Once again it is time for the fraternities at Colby to hold their annual Spring week ends, which are always the highlights of the Spring social calendar.

Tonight the Zetas will start the ball rolling with their formal dance at the Belgrade Hotel with music being supplied by Carroll Poulin and his band from Gardiner.

However it is not until the week end of the 20th that the other fraternities will hold their formal dances and outings.

Kappa Delta Rho will again have their formal dance at Killdeer Lodge on China Lake with the music of Gordon Howe.

The Dekes are having their formal at the Augusta Country Club, keeping tradition with the past few years. The band is supplied by the club.

Phi Delta Theta will travel to the Lake Shore Hotel and dance to the music of Oscar Brown.

Delta Upsilon will have Fred Petra and his band at the DU House for their annual affair.

The ballroom and music of the Lansing House will be enjoyed by the Tau Delta Phi's for their dance.

The Lambda Chi's will have their Spring dance at the Waterville Country Club and the band has not been announced.

AFROTC Cadets Decorated May 9

Three of Colby's most outstanding cadets were decorated last Monday. These cadets were chosen for the manner of carrying out assigned responsibilities, manner of exercising and delegating authority, recognition as a leader by the Corps of Cadets, the demonstration of campus leadership and spirit of cooperation.

The awards were given by Colonel Clifton M. Hamlin, A.D.C., of Fairfield, at the parade and review ceremony.

Sunday, May 15. The price is 50c for members and 75c for non-members.

Coles Is Guest Speaker At Recognition Assembly

by Ed Larschan

This Spring the Recognition Assembly will be held on Wednesday, May 18. An annual event, the Assembly honors students for outstanding academic achievement, as well as for extra-curricular interest and participation in all phases of College life. In addition, this is the occasion when the Senior honor societies, Blue Key and Cap and Gown, present their members for the coming year.

The most coveted award to be presented is the Condon Medal. This medal is the gift of the late Randall J. Condon, of the class of 1886, awarded to the member of the Senior class who, by vote of his classmates and with the approval of the faculty, is deemed to have been the best college citizen. Last year the award was won by Charles Freeman Sleeper, now a student at the Yale School of Divinity.

The guest speaker will be the President of Bowdoin College, Dr. James Stacy Coles. Dr. Coles, who is the ninth President of Bowdoin, and the first scientist to be honored with that position, took office in 1952. Previously he had been on the faculty of Brown University and on that of Middlebury College. He served at Brown for six years, and during his last year there, 1951, he

Uniforms and Drills Highlight New Band

By Don Kennedy

It certainly has been a long, hard grind, but the marching band has finally made it or will have by September first.

When next fall's football season opens, the Colby students will have a marching band of which they can be proud. In fact, within two years Colby should have the finest college marching band in the state. This probably sounds a little too optimistic, but it certainly is not, when one stops to take a look into the "new Colby band set up."

Next fall will bring the flare of trumpets and the crash of cymbals and drums of the new 50-piece marching band on to the gridiron. Thanks to the generosity of the Student Government and a lot of hard work by the band officers, the students will see a sight never seen before on a Colby field—the new, completely uniformed Colby Marching Band. This uniform consists of the royal blue jackets worn in the All-Band Concert in April and light gray pants with royal blue trim stripe, with citation cords, and blue, white and gray military style hats. The majorettes will be dressed in new white uniforms with gold and blue trim. The drum major will be sporting a white dress uniform with gold trim and cord. The general effect should be a fine sight when the band marches on before the game and at the special half time shows.

For these shows special drill charts and music have been ordered to give something different each time the band appears. With the aid of extra rehearsals, the band will be performing precision marching maneuvers, and playing novelty selections. Some that are scheduled are "My Truly, Truly Fair," "I Don't Care if the Sun Don't Shine," "Dixie Daddy," "Muskrat Ramble," plus marches like "Ringling Brothers' Grand Entry," "Indiana State Band," "South Rampant Street Parade," and "To Look Sharp." An out-of-town football trip is being planned, as well as other special events.

Dr. Comparetti, the director of the band, will be back with the group in the fall, and many of Colby's "dormant" musicians have been "revived" and plan to take part in this new organization.

The new officers of the band are Glen Goffin, president; Walter Foster, vice president; Fred Hammond, treasurer; Carol Kiger, secretary; Flint Mogor, equipment manager; Gary Poor, drum major, and librarian, Don Kennedy.

Dr. James Stacy Coles

was acting dean. From his position at Brown, Dr. Coles went to Bowdoin, where he succeeded the late Kenneth C. M. Sills, who had headed the College since 1918. Dr. Coles Continued on Page Five

Glee Club Presents Final Concert Mon.

The last chance to see and hear a Glee Club Concert this year will be Monday, May 16 at 8:00 P. M. in Lottimer Chapel. There will be no admission. The Colbyettes and Colby Eight will add their contributions to a very fine program.

The selections are "Matona Lovely Maiden" by Orlando Lassus, "Now is the Month of Maying" by Thomas Morley, "Songs of Nature" by Anton Dvorak, "Nanie" by Johanna Brahms, "Three Shakespeare Songs" by Ralph Vaughn-Williams, and "Song of the Open Road" by Norman Joie.

Both Mr. Re and the Glee Club deserve much thanks and appreciation for the fine job they have done for this year's musical season.

The Responsibilities Of An Open Letter To The Students College To A Student

One of the many reasons which we offer for failing to discharge our full responsibility in higher education is the lack of integration between high school and college curriculums. It's easy but futile for us to criticize the high schools, just as they do us. It is equally futile for higher education to discuss this problem at our own national meetings. Here is an obvious change that is needed in many a college and university—a committee of active, resourceful faculty members working exclusively on the problem of integration with the high school, not in the theoretical order, but with the administration and faculty of the local high schools from which the bulk of its student body is drawn. A working relationship between specific colleges and high schools is more likely to produce general improvement than theoretical discussions, particularly when representatives of only secondary or only higher education are participating...

A college or university's responsibility to its students is not totally discharged by what we teach them through classroom lectures, library services and laboratory experiments. It is still a basic pedagogical principle that we teach as much or more by what we are as by what we say. In line with this principle, I think that committees on academic rank and tenure and whatever other persons or agencies are responsible for the engaging of new faculty members should give attention not only to a prospective teacher's academic ability, training, and experience, but also to his personal qualifications—his character, his habits, his philosophy of life as manifested by his conduct. Higher education is betraying its responsibility to its students if it allows the consideration that a man is a brilliant scholar or world-renowned sci-

Dear Editor:

The rousing success of Johnson Day is a tremendous tribute to the students and faculty who participated. I know Dr. Johnson was deeply moved by the enthusiastic and warm demonstrations that were accorded him. The comment of Life photographer Peter Stackpole that "Colby students are certainly a great crowd—wonderfully cooperative and courteous", is an indication of the achievement of the occasion. I extend congratulations to Blue Key, Cap and Gown, and to everyone who contributed to it.

J. S. Bixler

entist to outweigh the fact that in the eyes of the average American citizen he is immoral or unscrupulous or a social menace. Even in higher education it is psychologically impossible for our students to separate what we say from what we are.

Another obligation we owe our students is that of giving good example to other types of social institutions, public service agencies, and to business and industry in general. In our policies and practices we should be setting the standards we hope our students will follow in whatever type of work they are doing later on. In the light of this obligation, it is unfortunate that some institutions are still refusing to provide equal educational opportunities to all American youth, that discrimination is still being practiced in contradiction to the very principles taught in the classroom of these institutions. The final victory in the battle against discrimination is inevitable and certain.

What young people are doing at General Electric

Young scientist works on new ways to handle "hot" radioactive fuel

Whenever uranium is "burned" in an atomic reactor, certain valuable elements such as plutonium are left behind in the "ash."

These products are highly radioactive, but they must be recovered because of their great value to the atomic energy program.

Alter's Work Is Vital, Important

Alter is doing his job well. He has already received the Coffin Award, General Electric's highest honor, for developing an apparatus that makes possible faster, safer, and more efficient recovery of the valuable elements in the "ash."

The work done by Alter and his group helps lower costs, increase efficiency and expand our knowledge of the chemical processing of spent radioactive fuels.

25,000 College Graduates at General Electric

When Alter came to General Electric in 1948, he already knew the work he wanted to do. Like each of the 25,000 college-graduate employees, he was given his chance to grow and realize his full potential. For General Electric has long believed this: When fresh young minds are given freedom to make progress, everybody benefits—the individual, the company, and the country.

H. WARD ALTER joined G.E. in 1948 at Knolls Atomic Power Laboratory after receiving a B.A. in 1943 and Ph.D. in Chemistry in 1948 at U. of California. He served with the Manhattan Project at Oak Ridge, 1944-46.

Colby Is Host To DKE's, Tri Delts Training Program Win Greek Sing Transue Wins Nat'l Tri Delt Scholarship

For the third consecutive year, Colby College will offer this summer a training course aimed at developing conservation for hearing programs in noisy industries. Dr. Frederick T. Hill, medical director of the Thayer Hospital, Waterville, and president of the American Board of Oto-Laryngology, heads the seven man faculty who will team for the August 7-13 sessions.

Known as "Audiology for Industry" the course tackles a problem, noise in industry, which has resulted in an increasing number of compensation claims and legal suits.

Associate director of the course is Dr. Joseph Sataloff, Philadelphia, Penna., consultant in audiology for the U. S. Veterans Administration.

Others on the faculty will be Ira J. Hirsch, research associate at the Central Institute for the Deaf in St. Louis, Mo.; Dr. C. Stewart Nash, consulting otolaryngologist, University of Rochester School of Medicine and Dentistry; Dr. Loring W. Pratt, otolaryngologist, Thayer Hospital, Waterville; Charles R. Williams, director of Industrial Hy-

A cold but enthusiastic audience attended the annual Greek Sing held on the steps of Miller Library last Monday night. Judging the event were Mrs. Louise Colgan, local voice teacher, Miss Alice D'Amelio, and Mr. Peter Re of the Colby faculty.

The Tri Delts, under the direction of Babbs Klein, won the sorority cup with their rendition of "I'm a Yankee Doodle Dandy," "Give Me Your Tired, Your Poor," and "You're a Grand Old Flag" with a speaking solo by Margo Grant.

Pete Merrill directed the winning Dikes in "I'm A Lonesome Polecat," with Johnny Jacobs on the solo and "There Is a Maiden Down in Maine."

Rabbi Roberts was general manager of the sing.

giene Services, Loss Prevention Department, Liberty Mutual Insurance Co., Boston; and John A. Zapp, Jr., director of Haskell Laboratory for Toxicology and Industrial Medicine, E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Co., Newark, Del.

The course is endorsed by the Council of the American Otolological Society.

Shirley Transue, a sophomore, has received a $100 grant from the National Tri Delt Service Projects. This grant will begin next year. Shirley was chosen from among applicants from various colleges all over our country. The recipient of this grant comes from Avon, Conn. She has been on the Dean's list consistently and has participated in various extra-curricular activities on this campus. She is majoring in math and is preparing herself for a teaching career.

WHAT'S THIS? For solution see paragraph below.

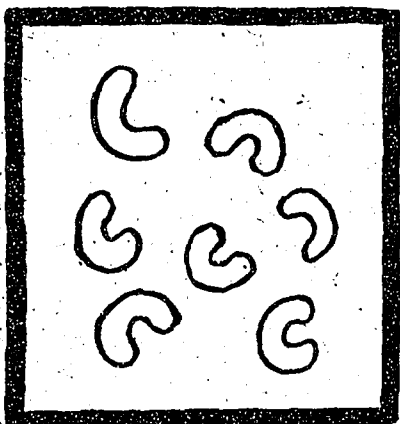

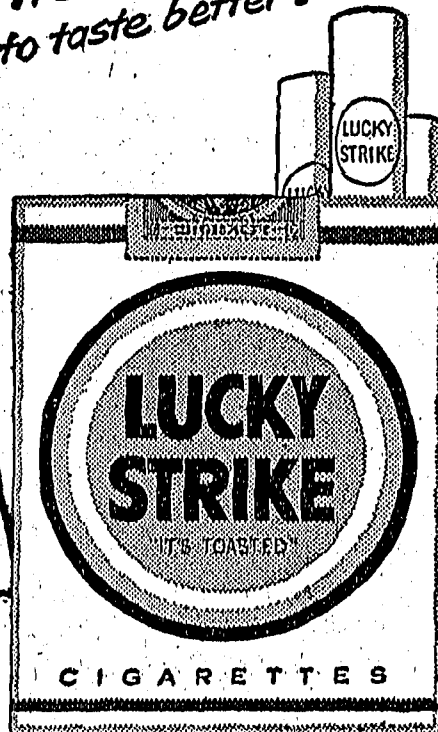

YOU GET A GOOD CLOSE-UP of college smokers' preference for Luckies in the Droodle at right, captioned: Lucky Strike column in a college cigarette-vending machine. ## From The Other Side Of The Desk

In order for any organization on campus to plan a party, the Social Committee requires that chaperons be invited. These people are usually faculty members whom you know primarily from the other side of the desk in class; their wives you perhaps know only slightly, if at all. Nevertheless, because they are invited, they are your guests and because of this fact, there are certain considerations and courtesies to be considered.

Colby is very fortunate in having a close student-faculty relationship and due to this fact a member of the faculty has been interested and concerned enough to comment on the situation as it now stands and to offer a few constructive suggestions. This is a matter to be seriously considered both in the light of campus life and future social functions.

First of all they are invited guests and should be treated as such. Someone from the group sponsoring the function should be delegated to be there in time to greet the chaperones at the door, sound really glad to see them, and bring them in. If the party isn't ready to get underway yet, a few members should stick around and give these invited guests a little attention. They won't bite and are not that difficult to talk to. As the party progresses, members of the group should be primed to do the most obvious and courteous thing—i.e., speak to the chaperones and introduce your date. The lack of this courtesy is the sorest point of all from the faculty's point of view. Whether from shyness, self-consciousness, or just plain ill manners.

Chaperones should never be expected to look out for themselves in the matter of refreshments. A member of the organization should either invite them to come and have something or take the refreshments to them. And not only once in the course of the evening but several times.

Too many faculty guests have been given the "isolation ward" treatment at social functions. Often they are stationed at a table in the corner or the housemother's room and are made to feel that moving from this post would constitute a major offense. Ask them to join in the fun, dance, participate in the games or contests. They can decline if they wish but at least ask them.

It is most definitely up to the chaperones to "break up" the party when the hour arrives. That is the responsibility of the committee in charge and is an integral part of their plans. Too often they are made to feel like janitors, closing up the place.

At the end of the evening each chaperone should be thanked, specifically and cordially, for coming; and not left to find their way out alone. They are your guests and not just a necessary evil.

These are specific points mentioned by a popular chaperone at campus functions which this person considers important. They are not made with the idea that college students are selfish or ill bred, but rather that they do not see what it is like to be "on the other side of the desk." We should be thankful that we have a friend such as this, who is willing to speak frankly and put us on our toes. With Spring Week ends coming up in the very near future, there is ample opportunity for the student body as a whole to brush up on its social etiquette and prove to all concerned that we can "mind our p's and q's."

Letter To Editor

Dear Editor:

After attending the Greek Sing last Monday night, I came away with a bitter taste in my mouth. The judging that took place at that time seemed to me to be slightly prejudiced. Are three faculty members expected to express the opinions of an entire college? I don't think so. I think that the fairest way that the winner could be decided is by some expression of the students' appreciation. By this, I mean, something along the lines of radio programs that use the audience applause system.

Why should one organization on campus be carried along on its reputation? This one organization has won or placed in this Sing ever since it was begun in 1951 with little acknowledgment for the efforts of the other groups.

The opinion of many of the students as they left this Sing was that two of the organizations "was robbed." Not taking credit away from the judges, why aren't the students as good judges as the faculty concerning matters that are put on for the appreciation of the college. Could not this system be changed in the near future, and, if successful, used in other activities such as the Talent Show and Winter Carnival Snow Sculpture?

Sincerely,

(Name withheld by request)

Students Support Annual Work Day

It was most gratifying to see the whole hearted support of Colby's traditional Johnson Day. Thanks to the band and cheerleaders, the quad was thronged with breakfast goers at an early hour (a hundred and seventy dozen donuts consumed at last report!)

The projects were well attended and a great deal of work was accomplished by the student-faculty teams. Clearing was carried on in every corner of the campus and the stubborn old tree on the corner of the Oakland road was finally defeated by the energetic "heave-ho" men—with a permanent pictorial record by LIFE photographers. The parking lots were readied for graving, flower beds weeded, apple trees pruned, and approximately fifty ivy plants carefully set in around the various buildings. Three thousand seedling trees were planted by Mr. E. G. Kelso, a forestry engineer from the H. and W. Division of the Scott Paper Co.—who skillfully operated the machine which was generously loaned by the Scott Paper Co. Two hundred trees were planted in scattered spots on campus and the traditional tree planting by Dr. Johnson was held in back of the Roberts Union.

John Dutton won the joust contest with flying colors (orange and black!) and was awarded a tremendous three tier chocolate cake baked by Mrs. Bixler. The faculty struggled to a victorious finish in the softball game which was the official finish of the day's activities.

Cap and Gown and Blue Key wish to thank all Colby students for the cooperation which brought about great accomplishments on this "day of days"—a day in tribute to Dr. Johnson and a day of achievement in accord with the accomplishments of Dr. Johnson for Colby. This tradition will continue on with the result of constant improvement and progress toward perfection for the Colby campus.

REMARKS

_____
_____

(With Charlie Morrissey)

A distinguished American journal lamented recently that a national flour and baking company gives annual awards for the best recipes entered in its national contest.

Further comment ran that it is deplorable indeed that such frivolous endeavor as baking a cookie should be so amply rewarded when so many more deserving projects die for want of funds.

We wouldn't for a minute argue that a cancer cure is more important than a cookie, or a polio vaccine, or a means of curing a common cold.

But lots of far less vital matters rank as "suitable" and "worthwhile" projects, whereas the simple things that make life smooth and somewhat sweet are taken for granted.

Undoubtedly there are people who are so absorbed in the study of art, science, nature and the unknown that cakes, pies, steaks and cookies are of little concern. These individuals could be as easily satisfied with a little wild rice or bird seed.

But we wonder if men are wise to underrate the cookie. A woman interested in improving her recipes and pleased by the result of her culinary labors is probably a happy woman. Her family is probably well nourished, and her husband is undoubtedly pampered.

We think that the modern woman in her triple role as caterer, dietician and entrepreneur of the world's only perpetual motion machine—the kitchen—out-science science.

Her ancestor who dreamed up the apple pie merits a place in our Hall of Fame. And if she makes a better cookie—it is all right with us to have the flour and baking company send an award to her door. In fact, it is fine!

Baby Mules Lose To Middies Team

Last Saturday the Colby frosh team suffered its first loss of the season to a strong Maine Maritime Academy nine by a score of 9-1. The Baby Mules could not seem to overcome the pitching of speedy right-hander, Mack MacPherson, who allowed the Frosh just four hits and blanked the Frosh until the ninth inning, when they picked up their only run to avoid a whitewash job.

George Deneen and Chet Lopez shared pitching duties for the

Colby Nine Beat Conn. Outplay Powerful B. U.

Last week end the Mule baseball team picked up two wins, 2-1 over Connecticut and 4-2 over a powerful Boston University nine. Both of these games were played at Coombs Field and the two victories kept alive the Colby winning streak this season at home.

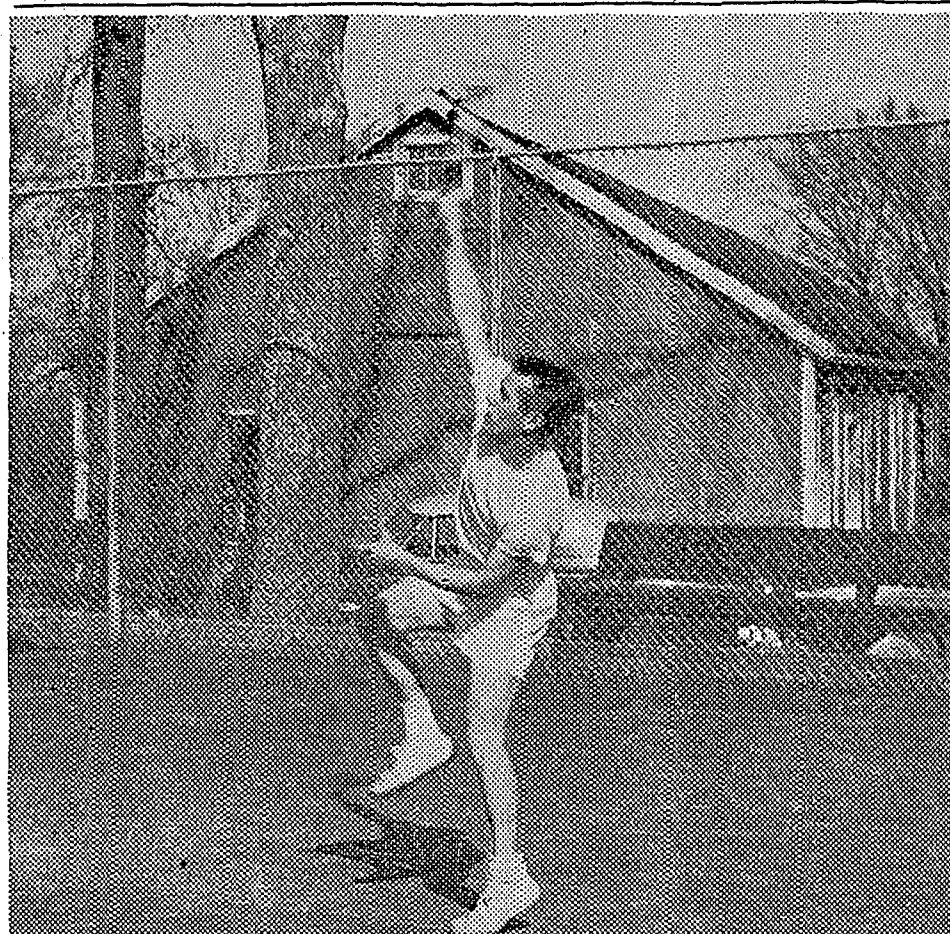

Last Friday the Mules edged Connecticut 2-1 on Pel Brown's neat three hitter. The game was played on wet grounds which seemed to keep down the tempo. For six innings it was a scoreless pitchers' duel between Brown and Kilbreth of Connecticut. In the top of the seventh Connecticut scored on an infield hit, a sacrifice, another hit, and a suicide squeeze. Colby came right back in the last of the seventh. John Jacobs reached second base on a two base error by the third baseman after Jamieson and Boole both struck out. Lake sent a line drive off the third baseman's glove enabling Jacobs to score. Lake went to second on the throw to the plate. George Pierce, playing his first entire game of the season at home, promptly smashed a single to center to score Lake with the eventual winning run.

On Saturday the Mules ran up against a tough Boston University nine and defeated them 4-2. Colby scored two runs in the first on Dunbar's single, Rice's double, and a sacrifice fly. B. U. got a run back in the second on a squeeze play and got the tying run in the third on a wild pitch by Mule pitcher Ed Lagonegro. The Mules picked up the eventual winning run on a two run single by Lagonegro in the bottom of the fourth inning.

When Dempsey led off the fourth inning with a double for B. U., Lagonegro was lifted in favor of Ken Gray who proceeded to get out of that jam without a run scoring and then held the Terriers to one hit for the rest of the game. The Mules play at Brunswick tomorrow.

For this work he received the United States Navy Bureau of Ordnance Development Award and the President's Certificate of Merit. Dr. Coles earned his Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts degrees, and finally in 1941, his Doctorate of Philosophy, at Columbia University.

It is planned that the Colby Glee Club will sing at some time during the Presentation Assembly. Presiding at the ceremony, which takes the place of scheduled classes at that hour, will be President Bixler.

John Marshall, one of the stars of the Colby Tennis Team, is caught by your lensman as he is serving in a practice match in preparation for the forth-coming meet.

MULE KICKS

When the Colby baseball team returned from its Southern trip some weeks ago, it was the opinion of the writer that the Mules would be a definite threat for the State Series crown if their hitting would continue and hold up. At that time their main weakness was fielding, the lack of a good relief pitcher, and dependable starters. No one really knew what to expect from this staff of newcomers, converted outfielders, and veterans.

Yet, as the season has progressed it has become evident to all who have seen the Mules in action that the real strength of this year's club seems to be in this very pitching staff rather than in the hitting department, which is a far cry from what it was earlier in the season. Not only did the Mules get one pitcher who could be classified as a stopper—they got two! Jim Jamieson and Pel Brown have both pitched and won some very tight games this season and seem to be at their best in big games. Ed Lagonegro has shown a lot so far this year and has proved an effective third starter for Coach Winkin.

The problem of finding a capable relief pitcher has been solved very nicely with the work of Captain Ken Gray, as anyone knows who saw that first Bowdoin game and the B. U. game last week end. So far Gray has been invincible on the mound and has several ball games for the Mules with his clutch relief work. Bill Haggett has also done well in his relief chores thus far. It might be fair to say that the real weakness of the pitching staff earlier this season was the fact that it was unproven. Now as the Mules enter the second half of the current campaign, it looks as if it will have to carry the burden unless the hitters snap out of their slump which has plagued them for so long. Even though the batters have yet to break out with a rash of base hits, they have been coming through with some very timely knocks and have thereby provided the narrow margin of victory in many games this season. The fielding problem has not been completely solved, but it becomes more and more smooth with each game.

The beauty of this year's team seems to be its ability to win the close ones, which is said to be the sign of a good ball club. As of this writing, the Mules lead the State Series race and should end up the season in the same spot with a continuance of the fine pitching they performed and a little more help in the hitting department.
