

Stu - G Campaign In Full Swing

Academic Sessions Held Tuesday Nite

The Administrative Committee has voted that, beginning with the fall semester of 1956-57, Tuesday evening of each week shall be set aside for academic sessions. All evening seminars and other evening sessions regularly scheduled by departments or instructors will meet on Tuesday. All student organizations are advised that their own scheduled activities must not encroach upon Tuesday evenings.

The committee deeply appreciates the splendid cooperation of the fraternities and sororities, which have agreed to change their weekly meeting from Tuesday to Wednesday evening. Wednesday has been fraternity and sorority meeting night at Colby for nearly a hundred years, when a change was made to Tuesday in order to accommodate the large number of men who had to attend certain military reserve units on Wednesday evening. That situation no longer affects any large number of men.

Hangout Variety Set For May 3

On Thursday evening, May 3, the Hangout Committee shall sponsor its annual variety night in the gymnasium of the Women's Union. The show shall consist of a series of skits put on by the fraternities and sororities on the general theme: "What if Colby should...?" There shall be no admission charge, and all students are cordially invited to attend.

The decision to have all the skits based on a general theme marks a departure from the Hangout shows in previous years and is intended to give the show variety and unity at the same time. The Committee hopes that this will start a trend toward a more unified overall presentation, without too great a sacrifice of originality, and also create a sense of unity among the various social organizations on the campus. Moreover, it is hoped that the one-themed show will raise the standards and thus make the show a tradition in future years.

The skits must meet with the approval of the Hangout Committee and be no greater than ten minutes in length. The judging shall be on the basis of originality, presentation and consistency of theme.

Young Democratic Club Elects Slate

A Young Democratic Club has been established here at Colby. At the first meeting, held a week ago, officers were elected and charged with drawing up a constitution so that the club can be officially recognized by the Student Government. The officers are: Bill Bois, president; Stan Mathison, vice-president; Shirley Verga, secretary; and Phil Dankort, treasurer. The time and place of the next meeting, at which the constitution shall be voted on, shall be announced shortly. The purpose of the Young Democratic Club is twofold. First, it will participate in Democratic Party politics insofar as it can. Second, it will discuss issues facing the American voter this year in order to

Liberal Party Provides More Student Control Federate Party Gives All-Inclusive Program

The Liberal Party presents as candidates for the student government election, the following:

President, Butch Maguire, member of the Phi Delta Theta Fraternity, President of the Inter-Fraternity Council, and majoring in English.

Vice Pres. Eli Martin, member of the DIKE Fraternity, Co-editor of the ECHO, Inter-Fraternity Council Secretary, Secretary of the Men's Judiciary Board, and majoring in History, Government and Economics.

Secretary: Gabby Krebs, President of Chi Omega Sorority, cheerleader, second year member of Student Government, German Honorary Society, Women's Athletic Association, Women's Judiciary Board, Chapel Usher, Social Committee and majoring in Psychology.

Treasurer: Glenn Isaacson, member of Men's Judiciary Board, Treasurer of Tau Delta Phi Fraternity, Campus Chest Treasurer for Student Government, Honor System Committee, Inter-Fraternity Council, and an Economics major.

This party wishes to develop responsibilities and consciousness on the part of the student towards the Student Government. From this we hope to build a stronger and a more effective organization. An organization continuing the policies which have been started by the present members, towards a more representative and independently functioning body.

It is the hope of the party to stress within each student this awareness of STUDENT government and the potential which lies within. Only when this is realized can the student's voice be heard.

It is therefore, not going to be the policy of this party to advocate integration and unity on the entire campus through: (a) Increased Stu-G representation, including members of clubs and organizations as well as present representatives. (b) To increase the Stu-G publicity of activities and projects by the addition of a monthly letter

Qualified Party Goals Promise Improvements

The candidates making up the Colby Qualified Party are: Bo Olson, president; Pel Brown, vice-president; Esther Bigelow, secretary; and Bill Timken, treasurer.

Based on the idea of continued quality in Stu-G and in several physical and non-physical improvements already presented, and to make sure some decision is reached by the student body itself.

1. To create a better feeling of integration and unity on the entire campus through:

(a) Increased Stu-G representation, including members of clubs and organizations as well as present representatives.

(b) To increase the Stu-G publicity of activities and projects by the addition of a monthly letter

The Federate Representative party is advocating an all-inclusive representative program designed to unify the entire campus behind its student government and to make Student Government the focal point of campus life. Its slate consists of Mac Remington as president; Tom Collins, Marilyn Perkins and Doug Gates.

Mac hails from Westport, Conn. He entered Colby after serving for three years with the Marines—one year of which was spent as a section leader in an anti-tank unit in Korea. Mac is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon Fraternity and has held the office of secretary and currently is vice president. He has been on the dean's list his freshman and sophomore years and was awarded a certificate for scholastic honors last year by the college. In the field of student government, Mac has had a good look into its workings as a representative and present chairman of the Men's Judiciary Committee. Along with all of this, Mac is also co-editor of the ECHO this year and co-chairman of the Academic Convocation Publicity Committee.

The Federate Party is running Tom Collins of Waltham, Mass., as its candidate for vice-president. Tom is an ATO and holds the office of president, this semester. Probably the field which Tom is known best in is athletics. As a freshman he played football, basketball and baseball. During his second year at Colby, Tom limited himself to football, but this year he again took on football and baseball. Other than sports, Tom has been in Student Government for two years, doing most of his work on the Men's Judiciary Committee. He has been treasurer of the Newman Club, a member of the Colby O Club and was rushing chairman of ATO in his sophomore year.

For the office of secretary, the Federate Party presents Marilyn Perkins, better known to us as "Perky." Perky is a bit of local talent claiming Ellsworth, Maine as

EDITORIALS

The rest of this week and the beginning of next week will see the culmination of one of the most active student government campaigns this college has seen in years. This year there are three parties running and when it comes down to the wire the choice is going to be a hard one to make whether you vote for a straight ticket or for individuals from all three tickets. This is the point of the editorial.

The choice is yours and yours alone. The student government is a student function. Without student support and interest, it rapidly becomes ineffectual and could eventually die away. We are living in an age where the little person is crying out for recognition. Student government elections offer this opportunity, as does any truly democratic election. It is a time when every person on the campus can, with the power of his or her vote, sound off and be heard.

On Monday morning an all-college assembly will be held to give the candidates an opportunity to express and explain their platform. As you can see by what is on the front page of this issue, there are several important proposed planks in the different platforms. Some of them are vague or written in skeleton form so no judgment can be made on the basis of what is printed in this paper. Therefore you owe it to yourself to come Monday to hear what each party has to say. You are going to have to live with the results of this election for an entire year. Does it not seem reasonable to spend a half hour on Monday listening to the platforms of the prospective leaders and spend a minute Tuesday voting for those who will constitute your government next year? We urge you to support your student government, for you are their power!

Letter To The Editor:

Perhaps by the time this letter is published it will be seen to have been unnecessary. I do hope that this is the case.

At the time of writing, three parties are campaigning for positions on the Student Government. The present Student Government has been the leading one of many campus organizations conducting a thorough investigation of the possibility of setting up an honor system on this campus. I should think that this is one of the most extensive and intensive pieces of work undertaken by a Colby Student Government, and that the decision reached will have as wide an influence on student life as any action taken by the Student Government in the past.

Next year's Student Government will, as I understand it, be called upon to continue the work on this matter. And although this is probably the most controversial topic on the campus in a long time, none of the three parties now campaigning has made any mention of it, let alone take a stand on it. It would be a very sad thing if the question of the honor system continued to go undiscussed throughout the campaign. In view of the great interest over the outcome of this endeavor, I would ask each party to make known how it will approach the question next year.

What is requested is more than the promise that the system will or will not be established according to the expressed desire of Colby students. Many Colby students have not yet decided whether they think this is a wise step. We voters want to know whether the people we elect will be working to build up an enthusiasm either for or against the system, or whether they will cancel the work of this year's committee by being content with taking a premature poll of a still-too-uninformed student body. And if there is difference of opinion within the party, we want to know the attitude of each individual.

Choir Is Acclaimed A Senior Scholar Speaks

By N.Y. Critics

By Forrest R. Goodall

During Spring vacation the Colby College Concert Choir took its annual spring tour; its itinerary consisted of appearances at West Hartford, Conn., and Town Hall in New York City.

The fifty students left Colby on Thursday morning, March 22 for Hartford where they sang that night, and Friday afternoon saw them in New York rehearsing with Mr. Re and the well-known conductor, Hugh Ross.

The concert in Town Hall on Saturday, March 24th, the highlight of the trip, was a great success as is shown by the criticisms which appeared in the New York papers.

Said by the New York Times, "The Colby College Concert Choir, under the direction of Peter Re, made its first appearance at Town Hall yesterday afternoon, and it is a singing group of high attainment. They sang with agreeable purity of tone and with good intonation. They follow faithfully the instructions of their energetic conductor and their singing has splendid power and vitality."

Likewise the Herald Tribune had an encouraging report: "Their singing is precise in all matters of attack, and balances are splendid. A refreshingly compact and virile sound is one of the choir's greatest assets. As a whole it was an invigorating concert, and one hopes the choir will visit this city again." Both articles were fine tributes to our ever-developing choir under Mr. Re.

Do Mom and Dad Initiate Cheating?

A recent article in McCall's magazine deals with a question pertinent to the Colby student body as they are faced with the proposed honor system. Taking an objective view of cheating and the teenager's attitude toward it, McCall's charges, "We are actually teaching our children to cheat."

Their argument is as follows: According to a survey conducted in Boston, New York and New Jersey, 67 to 84 per cent of high school students resort to cheating at some time. Less than a third of those surveyed considered cheating an act of delinquency.

The magazine placed the blame on students, parents and teachers alike but placed special emphasis on adults who set ethical corners, thereby setting a bad example for their offspring.

Over-emphasis has been placed on the importance of marks, the magazine further charges. Such high value is placed on grades that a student will use any means to get an A or B. In the struggle to get a good grade, the student loses sight of the real goals of education.

In mine cases out of ten, the pressure for good grades, with all of its attendant bribing and bullying by parents, comes from home, not the school.

"Cheating is a national problem, not confined to any one area of the country, any one type of neighborhood, any one type of school," McCall's reports. "It involves youngsters from good families as well as bad, graduate students as well as first year high schoolers."

Many adults are in no position to guide children along a golden educational path, and that is what it amounts to when parents keep a child home from school for a special event only to send the child back the next day with a phony sickness excuse. Equally evil is the father who boasts at the dinner table of cheating on his income tax, "fixing" a parking ticket, or padding an expense account.

More copying of someone's homework has become so routine that most children do not even consider

In the near future, we, as students of Colby College, must examine our past actions and present beliefs to decide if we are to have an honor system. Since, as one member of the student body, it would be an impossibility to speak for all concerned. I would like to present my opinions on this matter for the approval or criticism of any who may take the time to read this article.

In order that an honor system each of us must be mature enough to recognize the responsibilities and complete approval and respect of obligations of an honor system and both administration and students be ready to fulfill each to the best of his or her ability.

What about those who violate the honor code? What shall we do about them? Judgment must be as fair and as impartial as we can possibly make it. All violators are entitled to a fair and just trial. Punishment must be of the nature that such violations will be discouraged in the future. There is no place under the honor system for the non-conformist and such individuals must be eliminated since they have taken it unto themselves to break the code.

Furthermore, I do not believe in a piecemeal honor system. When we are ready, we should have an honor system that covers all aspects of our college life. This will take time. We must not make the mistake of trying to reach this goal at too fast a pace.

To date, the individual student reaction to the question of an honor system has been the apathetic shrug of the shoulder, which is typical of the average Colby undergraduate. I want an honor system at Colby in an all-out attack on the roots of the problem?

In Retrospect . . .

By Arthur Goldschmidt

James Tift Champlin, the seventh President of Colby College, was born on June 9, 1811, in Colchester, Conn. He studied at Colchester and Plainfield Academies before entering Brown University in 1830. He graduated from Brown with first honors in 1834 and accepted a position as a tutor in the following year. In 1838 he was invited to become the pastor of the Federal Street Baptist Church in Portland Maine. Despite his success in attracting new members, he was forced to retire after three years due to bronchial condition which rendered public speaking difficult. He then accepted the position of Professor of Ancient Languages at Waterville College. During the time he served in this position, he wrote numerous books and articles, including "Demosthenes on the Crown," a text widely used by colleges during the ensuing generation.

In 1857, following the resignation of President Pattison, he was elected to the Presidency of the college. An excerpt taken from his inaugural address, similar in its views to those held by many of Colby's greatest leaders, follows: "Knowing full well the history and condition of the college, I do not regard the position as a sinecure. Following a succession of learned and able men, and entering upon my duties at an important crisis in the history of the institution, I see nothing but labor and responsibility before me, and in these indeed, I find my chief incitement. Whatever may be the illusions of youth in this matter, one at length learns that labor is less irksome than leisure and responsibility more inspiring than a state of easy, quiet security."

During his administration, Memorial and Coburn Halls were built, the endowment was increased from $15,000 to $200,000, the college was opened to women students in 1871, the academies (Coburn Classical Institute, Ricker, Houlton, and Hebron Academies), the college's chief source of students, were improved, the elective

The Acceptance Of Honor System Is Given 2 - 1 Decision In Debate

A topic under frequent discussion this year was chosen as the subject for the Murray Prize Debate. The debate, held in Lorimer Chapel April 9 at 7:30, stated its resolution as: "Resolved: That the Student Body of Colby College should adopt an Honor System." The affirmative team won on a split vote of two to one.

John Jubinsky served as chairman of the two-man teams. The victorious affirmative team consisted of Joan Billups and Doug Davidson. Gregory Thomajan and Chet Lopez comprised the negative team. Judges Kingsley Birge, Professor of Sociology, Peter Coffin, Professor of Philosophy, and Robert Randall, Professor of Air Science, gave a split decision in favor of the affirmatives. The entire debate was under the direction of James F. Oliver.

While the judges were making their decision the audience was invited to direct questions to the debaters. This lively session was followed up later when refreshments were served in the chapel lounge.

During the course of the debate the affirmatives put across their major points which asserted that an honor system would decrease cheating, increase the intellectual tone, and increase the "esprit de corps." The negative team has conducted a poll among 500 people with the result that 260 people didn't favor an honor system while 240 favored such a system but would not turn in "th best friend." Source material used for the debate was the draft drawn up by the Honor Committee of the Student Government.

Other questions pointed out the failure of such systems at Bucknell, Radcliff, and West Point and the successful operation at Princeton.

In the discussion period the poll

What young people are doing at General Electric

Young engineer works on new ways to remove heat from atomic reactors

An atomic reactor running at full efficiency creates a tremendous amount of heat in its core. By removing this heat and putting it to work boiling water to make steam, atom-made electricity is produced.

One of the men responsible for designing new, more efficient ways to remove heat from atomic reactors is 29-year-old Doctor Salomon Levy — Design Analysis supervisor in the Atomic Power Equipment Department's Reactor Engineering Unit.

Levy's Work Interesting, Vital

To study this problem of heat transfer, G.E. recently constructed a heat-transfer system. By electrically simulating the heat produced in a reactor, it is possible to determine the maximum rate at which heat can be removed from a reactor to make steam.

Dr. Levy conceived the idea of building this complex system, designed it and supervised its construction. At present, Levy works with this system to study new problems of heat transfer and fluid flow encountered in atomic power plants.

25,000 College Graduates at General Electric

When Salomon Levy came to General Electric in 1953, he already knew the kind of work he wanted to do. Like each of our 25,000 college-graduate employees, he was given his chance to grow and realize his full potential. For General Electric has long believed this: Whenever fresh young minds are given the freedom to make progress, everybody benefits — the individual, the company, and the country.

Educational Relations, General Electric Company, Schenectady 5, New York

DR. SALOMON LEVY joined G.E. in 1953 after receiving his B.S. in M.E. from the Univ. of Calif. in 1949. In 1951 he received his M.S., and in 1953 his Ph.D. From '49-'50 he was teaching assistant at U. of C., and '50-'53 he was Junior Research Engineer at the Institution of Engineering Research.

her home town. If you ever want an example of a live wire this is it. Other than her Student Government experience, Perky has had a hand in the following groups and activities: Powder & Wig; Interim Committee; Katahdin Council of the Outing Club; Freshman Convocation Committee; Dorm Council for three years; House Chairman of Woodman Hall; Student League; League which has been ineffectual Co-chairman of the 1955 Winter Carnival, and she has held the office of rushing chairman and vice-president of Chi Omega Sorority. Along with all of this she has found time to work in the Colby Admissions Office for three years.

Last, but definitely not least, on the Federate slate is Doug Gates who is candidate for treasurer. Doug is a Lambda Chi, and has held the office of Historian in that organization. Among the other activities going to Doug's account, he has played football and is a member of the Colby C Club. He was vice-president of the sophomore class and a member of the Outing Club and is currently a campus guide. The Federate Representative Party's united, all-inclusive representative platform is divided into four general categories.

A. ACADEMIC

1. Continued investigation of the Ford Self Study Report and initiation of, and cooperation in, rectifying adverse conditions revealed in the report.
2. Continued work on the Honor System for Colby with a program for acquainting the student body with the advantages and disadvantages of such a system and then initiating an honor system as the student body becomes ready for it.
3. Closer cooperation with the administration on both student and administrative problems making Stu-G an open line of communication for the wants and needs of both. This could be affected possibly by a working Student-Faculty Council.

B. SOCIAL

1. Student Government's close cooperation with a proposed Social Director.
2. Social-Student Government integration with the formation of a truly representative social council comprised of delegates from all organizations concerned or possibly made a function of the President's so far this year.
3. A plan for obtaining name bands to play for the all-college Carnival or both. Some sort of experimentation in this line is necessary to work in the Colby Admissions Office for three years.

4. Furthered cooperation and coordination with Student Government of other colleges.
5. Wider publicity of Student Government activities and meetings.

C. ATHLETIC

1. All inclusive support of athletic activities by Stu-G along with an attempt to gain support of these activities by the entire student body.
2. The formation of an athletic council comprised of representatives of Stu-G, IFC, the Colby C Club and independents.
3. Organization of the independents to give more chances to participate in intramural sports. This organization would pertain to all other aspects of the independent's college life also.

D. IMPROVEMENTS

1. Washing machines for the independent men's dormitories.
2. Coke machines in the girls' dorms.
3. Proposed additional clothes racks for the library.
4. A continuing search for improvement at all points of the college which would improve the living conditions for the Colby student. Each of the planks in this platform will be more fully explained at the all-college assembly on Monday.

Dr. Carey Highlite Of Senior Banquet

On Thursday, March 15th, the annual Senior Class Banquet was held in Roberts Union and was hailed as a great success. Thanks to Miss Nichols for a delicious meal and to Dr. Cary for a most entertaining and stimulating address. The committee apologizes for the lack of seats for those who had to sit downstairs. With almost 90 per cent of the class participating the banquet will stand out as one of the highlights of the college career. The Commencement Committee is trying to arrange for mimeographed copies of Dr. Cary's talk for all seniors who would be interested in having a copy. His words and humor could be re-read and relived in the years to come by seniors. Anyone interested give their name to one of the committee members.

At the business part of the banquet, the class elected John Jubin-MasRae and Shirley Jones (of the Todd-AO version "Oklahoma"). A their class marshalls, and to lead the commencement procession on the eventful day of June 11th. Results of the balloting for the Senior Class Gift resulted in these totals: Perkins Memorial 108; Art Slides 33; Trees and shrubs 19; Write in 7, making a total of 167. Mayor McGurgle Explains Various Aspects Of Sadie Hawkins Event

Howdy folks! I is here by the will of Mayor Promethew McGurgle, him being head of the herd 'o folks a livin' in Dogpatch. He done send me up North to this here institution to learn you folks what ain't yet got hitched, about Sadie Hawkins Day. Furst, I gonna tell you a few facts concerning the history and details of this here day and also about who those rascals are what are gonna run for the title of Lil' Abner.

Seems that the event was begun by one Hekyebiah Hawkins what was the first mayor of Dogpatch. His daughter Sadie, being the homeliest gal in town, it was just too much. So's he up and throwed a ball what was really a ball. Yup—there's no gettin' round it folks, that there party such as you've never seed before, fer at it a foot-race wuz held in which the unmarried gals chased the men what wuz unmarried all over tarnation, and if they could catch them, them men had to by law marry those gals—with no squawkin' neither. Yup—that there's how it all begun, 'n it's been done every year since.

As for them devils what you gals done voted for the title of Lil' Abner—those unmarried men be Carl Siegel, JCA, Jerry D'Amico, Bob Bates, DEKE, Dave Bloom, TDP, and Bo Olson, DU. The winner will be announced with a kiss by none other than Sadie Hawkins herself at that there shindig tomorrow night.

Now take notice you fellers what are done trapped already—this day lasts from sunrise to sunset and them gals what take you must accept all fiscal obligations. The biggest thing of the day will be the all-college Sadie Hawkins Day dance in Dogpatch, held in Women's Union from 8:00 P.M. to 12:00 P.M. The fee for each couple is 75c and you females must also buy your date a corsage which will be on sale at the door. Mountain music will be provided by Harold Kearney. Marry-in' Sam Bershneider will fix you newly weds up with legal licenses and genuine brass rings.

Sadie Hawkins' Day, folks, is sponsored by the members of Delta, Delta, Delta; its proceeds go to a competitive scholarship which Tri-Delt offers each spring. Them gals what deserve recognition are:

General Chairman, Julie Pullen; Decorations, Kathy Sferes; Publicity, Janice Thomson; Refreshments, Joan Billups; Entertainment, Fran Wren; Tickets, Sally Fritz; Corsages, Judi Hince; Chaperones, Barbara Newhall; and Clean-up, Sally Dixon.

They'll be plenty of that good ole Dogpatch "Kick a Poo" Joy Juice on hand so take heed all you gals what ain't married—don't go mis-sin' your chance 'cause it only comes 'round once a year.

LIBERAL PARTY

Continued from Page One changes which will make more enjoyable to you, the study and living conditions of a Colby Education.

We are advocating instead, the changes to be made administrative-wise, especially in the matters concerning judiciary action. This is where we need more student authority—authority not opposed to the Deans but cooperatively independent of them. This will give the judiciary organization the ability to judge the case by its severity and without the initial influence of the Dean. The ultimate authority would still lie with the Deans, naturally, but their intervention would be unnecessary where judiciary procedure was adequate. This would save the system and the Deans a lot of red tape. It would also give the organization full responsibility for any action that might be taken.

We have tried to present here, a small portion of the party's platform, with the hope that it excites further interest in the forth-coming assembly. The party recognizes the power within you—the student. We hope that you will recognize it too.

A SENIOR SCHOLAR

Continued from Page Two is respected by all. In no way do I wish to see the chances of future students impaired by acting too hastily at this time. When the majority of the student body at Colby College is ready to step up and sign the oath of an honor system and honestly demonstrate their willingness to work to the best of their ability to make it effective, then and only then, are we ready to undertake such a system if and when the time comes. Examine yourselves and decide truthfully if you want such a system and then act accordingly and without deceit.

Tryens Initiates Track Season With Norwich

Under the tutelage of Coach Andy Tyrens, the Colby College Varsity Track team opens its season against Norwich University on Saturday, April 21. For the past few weeks, the squad has been working out in the gym, and outdoors when weather conditions permitted it.

To a nucleus of veterans, including Captain Don Vollmer, competing in the high jump and the javelin; Dave Olsen, dashes; Woody Winslow, the mile; and Fritz Knight, hurdles, are added sophomore standouts, Bob Bates, 440; Phil Suchecki, dashes; Gordon Cunningham, mile; and Ron Haley, 440.

The Freshman Track team opens its four meet season against Hebron Academy on April 25. Promising talent includes Al Rogan, Bert Young, Bill Young, Tieche Shelton, and Jim Redmond.

The Varsity schedule:
Apr. 21 Norwich Univ. Home
Apr. 28 Bates, Middlebury Away
May 5 State Meet U. of Maine
May 19 New Englands MIT

NEISA Lists Spring Meets Plus Olympics

New England's college sailors face four major events in a seven-regatta program, April 7-8, with the final NEISA Olympic Monotype sailing trials at Marblehead holding the No. 1 spot in interest.

The 5th annual MIT Invitational Quadrangular on Sunday, April 8, for the Ivan J. Geiger Memorial Trophy, placed in competition a year ago, is the top traditional event on the NEISA card. However, the Coast Guard Academy is competing at Kings Point, April 7-8, in the 4th Bryant E. Moore Trophy Regatta for the dinghy championship of the United States service academies, while on Saturday, Brown and Rhode Island meet in their traditional semi-annual dual for the Jeff Davis Trophy. The schedule also calls for an heptagonal meet in Ravens at the Coast Guard Academy and a freshman pentagonal at Medford where B.C., B.U., M.I.T. and Northeastern will meet the Schools Sailing Club, on Saturday and a Sunday quadrangular in which Yale plays host to Northeastern, Rhode Island and Trinity.

Olympic Single-Handed Trials

At Marblehead, a dozen skippers, eight nominated by a selection committee and four survivors of a 14-man trial, held March 31 at Tech, will compete in the NEISA final Olympic trials, Saturday and Sunday. The survivor will earn the right to represent NEISA in the U. S. Olympic finals to be held at Marion, Mass., June 12-17, to select the American entry in the Monotype or Film Class competition at the Melbourne yachting games on Port Philip Bay next November.

Tommy Townsend, a Harvard student unattached and former Marblehead 110 champion; Bob Nichols of Tufts, the reigning New England 110 titlist; Pat O'Neal, Boston College freshman, who is former Long Island Sound junior titlist with a wide experience in dinghy racing; and a surprise package, Wally Everett, a Comet sailor from the Berkshire Hills, were the survivors in single-handed sailing at MIT on the Charles last week end.

The skippers named to compete earlier by a special selection committee are Corny "Gilt" Shields, Jr., world's International 110 champion from Babson; the Bowdoin "twins", Charlie Leighton, NEISA's No. 1 ranking skipper, and husky "Skip" Howland; the crack Brown This session will last from 2:00 to 4:00. Colby Sailors Plan Interesting Events

The Colby Yacht Council has an active schedule planned for this spring. Races will be held as follows:

April 14—Triangular at St. Michaels

April 15—Associate Championships at MIT

April 22—Hexagonal at Dartmouth

April 22—Freshman Eliminations "B" at MIT

April 29—Triangular at Bowdoin

May 5—Informal Maine Championships at Milne

Besides racing, club activities include a water polo party at the Boys' Club following spring vacation, two clam bakes, and sailing on Great Pond in our Woodpussies. If you get that nautical urge, drop in on one of our meets. They are held in room 208A, Miller Library, Tuesday at 3:30. Be sure to show up if you have yacht racing experience.

Archery Clinic To Be Opened On Hill

On Saturday, April 28, there will be an Archery Clinic at Colby for Colby and other Maine college students, and interested high school students and adults. Miss Grace Robertson, well-known archery authority, will be in charge of the program for the day. The morning session from 10:00 to 12:00 will feature a demonstration and analysis of shooting technique. The afternoon program will include target shooting at 20 yards and clout No. 1 ranking skipper, and husky "Skip" Howland; the crack Brown This session will last from 2:00 to 4:00. WAA Event

The newly formed WAA ping pong team recently was defeated 6-1 in their second encounter against a competent faculty team. This match, however, was a slight improvement over the initial one, which was a 6-0 shutout for the faculty. The co-eds are enthusiastic and determined, and scores in forthcoming matches should be interesting to watch. These matches have proved a source of unlimited enjoyment for all participants, and it seems that an excellent new medium for student-faculty relations is contained in them.

Following are the results of the two matches: First match, Prof. Weiner defeated Barbara Sondern 21-16, 21-17; Prof. Birge defeated Jackie Auger, 21-13, 24-22; Prof. Coffin defeated Ellie Fortenbaugh 21-12, 21-17; Prof. Baier defeated Grace Bears 21-17, 16-21, 21-17. In the doubles Profs. Baier and Weiner defeated Nan Miller and Meridith Lermond 36-34, 21-17; and Profs. Birge and Coffin defeated Jackie Auger and El Roberts 21-17, 22-20.

Second match: Prof. Baier defeated Sandy Doolittle 21-16, 8-21, 18-21; Prof. Coffin defeated El Roberts 21-18, 21-16; Prof. Birdge defeated Jackie Auger 21-23, 21-15, 21-16; Prof. Combhach defeated Cella Myers 21-8, 21-16; Prof. Weiner defeated Ellie Fortenbaugh 21-18, 21-16. Mules Emerge From Successful Southern Trip With 3-2 Record

By Forrest R. Goodall

The Colby Mules had a successful invasion of the Middle Atlantic states on spring vacation when they won three games and lost two. The Mules defeated Catholic University of Washington, D. C., Georgetown University of Washington, D. C., and Princeton University, while losing to Quantico Marines, and Upsala College of New Jersey. They had two games cancelled, one with Army and one with Villanova. The Mules ran into cold weather throughout the trip and only at Georgetown were there any signs of warm weather.

MULE KICKS

The Colby baseball team returned last week from a successful jaunt into the Middle Atlantic States. The Mules won three games and lost only two. This record doesn't tell the whole story of the trip. The Mules defeated Catholic University 14-0, Georgetown University 3-2, and Princeton University 10-8. They lost to Quantico Marines and Upsala College 7-4. Against Quantico, the Mules faced a team made up of former college stars. The Marines used five pitchers to stop Colby. Twice the Mules had the bases loaded with no one out and failed to score. A hit at the right time would have meant victory. The same thing happened against Upsala when they had numerous scoring opportunities and failed to capitalize on them.

The team looked good defensively and had streaks in the hitting department. This was the first time the team had been outdoors and they conditioned themselves to it quickly. The pitching looked good considering the cold weather, but the main difficulty was coming up with the big inning. The Mules will open the season April 17 with an exhibition game against Bowdoin College at Brunswick and they close out with the Quonset Point Naval Station, June 9th. In between these two games, the Mules have eighteen important games in their quest for a great season.

The team shapes up defensively and offensively in this way:

Catching—Excellent offensively and defensively.

Pitching—Excellent both in relief work and starters.

Infield—Good offensively and defensively.

Outfield—Good defensively and excellent offensively.

State Series Outlook—Excellent chance of winning, but all the teams will be tough.

Last Saturday Coach John Winkin and his team held a Baseball Clinic for the public at the fieldhouse. Over 400 people attended and the clinic was voted a huge success. Coach Winkin gave a talk on all the fine points of baseball with the aid of his squad. Each player gave a short talk on his position, in the morning session, and then after the Movie of the 1955 World Series, the players showed the audience the different things Coach Winkin talked about. Next year it is hoped that Colby will be able to put on three clinics. One in Bangor, Portland and Waterville. Hats off to Coach Winkin and his team for a job well done.

Before we sign off for this week, we would like to congratulate Don Rice on his coaching assignment at Bucksport High School next year. We wish him all the success in the world and know that he will do very well. Also, Don had a .682 batting average on the southern trip, which is tremendous.

At Washington, D. C., the Mules took Catholic University by the score of 14-0, except for a brief scoreless tie the outcome of this game was never in doubt. The Mules, led by the pitching of Pel Brown and batting of Will Laverdiere, Don Rice, and Neil Stinneford, scored at will after the first few innings. The game was marred by numerous bases on balls and errors by Catholic even though they are supposed to have one of their best teams in years this season. Brown started on the mound and was relieved by Jamieson in the seventh and Hagggett pitched in the ninth inning. Stinneford had a 400 foot home run in the game.

The next day the Mules took on Georgetown in Washington and they won 3-2 on the fine hurling of Ed Laganeiro and fine relief work of sophomore Warren Judd. The game was close all the way. The Mules scored first, but Georgetown tied it up in the fourth inning. The score was 2-2 when Tom Collins batting for the injured Will Laverdiere punched a single into center field to bring home George Pierce who had also singled. In the eighth inning Judd relieved Laganeiro and shut down the Georgetown uprising. Pierce had two hits along with Dunbar to lead the team. The Mules played without the services of Laverdiere and Stinneford who were both injured early in the game.

At Quantico, Va., Colby ran into one of the best teams it will face this season. The Marines took advantage of a couple of Mule mistakes in the first inning to lead 3-0. In the third inning they added two more to lead 5-0. In the fifth inning, the Mules unloaded for three runs highlighted by Neil Stinneford's two-run home run. The Mules had the bases loaded and no one out but couldn't add any more runs. In the sixth inning, Colby once again loaded the bases with no one out, but couldn't produce a run. In each of the last three innings they got men on, but couldn't score. Jamieson relieved Hagggett and Schell Trophies last fall; Kim Seranton of Colby and Milford, Conn., rated by many among the nation's best dinghy skippers; Coast Guard's Perry Glooge, a top-ranking NEISA helmsman from California; and Ed O'Malley of Tufts, a scow ace from the Barnegat Bay incubator of dinghy stars. Due to a conflict of the final U.S. Olympic eliminations with his wedding plans on June 16, MIT's commodore, Nick Newman, with a wide experience in planing boats, has been forced to withdraw from the NEISA trials.

With two of Brown's stars in the Olympic eliminations at Marblehead, the Bears will be somewhat weakened for the semi-annual dual with Rhode Island for the Jeff Davis Trophy, but Brown should still be a slight favorite in six-crew racing on the Seekonk. Host Coast Guard rates the favorite's berth in a Saturday Rayon heptagonal with Babson, Boston Univ., MIT, Northeastern, Trinity and Yale.

Navy and Tech Favored in Service Title and Geiger Trophy Events

The defending Naval Academy team, led by Dave Minton and Jim Glooge, which did so well in last fall's interregionals, is favored to retain the Moore Trophy at King's Point, which will, also, christen the Merchant Marine's second fleet of ten Interclub Dinghies—those of fibreglass construction. The host Mariners could upset Navy, but Coast Guard, which won the Moore Trophy in its initial sailing in 1953, will be handicapped by the absence of Terry Glooge.

MIT is not expected to have too much trouble retaining the Geiger Trophy on the Charles in a quadrangular event which tests depth of skipper personnel by requiring competition in 11's as well as Tech Dinghies. Both Bowdoin and Brown will feel the absence of star skippers (at the Olympic trials), and Tech, with Bill Stiles, Jim Barber and Dick Mateles, plus Nick Newman in reserve, should prevail over a green Harvard team, the Bears, and Polar Bears.

Miss Robertson, a native of Brooklyn, N. Y., received in 1952 her BA degree from Barnard College, where she first shot a bow and arrow, and her MS degree in Physical Education from Smith College in 1954. At the present time, she is an Instructor in Physical Education at the University of Massachusetts. In 1951 and 1955 she was instructor of Archery at the June Camp of the Bouve-Boston School of Physical Education. Since 1950, Miss Robertson has been a member of the Teela-Wooket Archery Camp Staff. In 1950 and 1951 she was a member of the Archery Department of the Teela-Wooket Camps, since 1952, head of that department. Miss Robertson has since 1952 been a member of the NSGWA Archery Committee, and from 1956 to 1958 she will head this committee. She has also coached the U. S. National Inter-camp Championship teams, the Junior Division in 1954, and the Junior and Senior Divisions in 1955.

system was instituted, a gymnasium was erected, a course leading to the Bachelor of Science degree was instituted, and the name of the college was changed to Colby University in recognition of Gardiner Colby's generous bequest of $50,000. All this was achieved in spite of the fact that the War Between the States reduced the student body in 1865, to less than one-third its size in 1861, and most of the students who left to fight never returned. The college took several years to get back on its feet, which it did largely through the generosity of such benefactors as Governor Abner Coburn and Gardiner Colby. During his administration, President Champlin continued to publish textbooks, pamphlets and articles, many of which are still to be found in the college library. Although by temperament more a scholar than an administrator, he nevertheless won and held the admiration and respect of the students and faculty.

in the sixth inning and gave up only one run the rest of the way. Don Rice was the batting star, capping out three hits, while Stinneford had a home run and a single.

The Colby Mules' next opponent was Princeton and they took them into camp to the tune of 10-8 in ten innings. The Mules got two runs in the first as Rice tripled with Laverdiere and Dunbar on the sacks. They added two more later in the sixth inning and were leading 6-2 going into the eighth when Princeton unloaded four runs off starter Pel Brown and reliever Ed Laganegro. After a scoreless ninth inning, Colby scored four runs in the tenth on three hits, a fielder's choice, two bases on balls, and three errors. Jamieson went in the tenth to replace Laganegro and he was met with a Tiger uprising of two runs. He finally got the side out and the Mules had their third win of the season. Rice once again was the hitting star, along with clutch hitting by Boole and Stinneford. Brown was a bit wild in places and this is the reason he was taken out in the eighth. He was strong in spots, but the weather was bitterly cold and bothered him somewhat.

On Monday, the Mules lost to Upsala College of Orange, N. J., 7-4. Jim Jamieson started on the hill for the Mules and was shelled for four runs in the first inning. The Mules were never able to overcome the lead but they slowly peeled away and in the ninth, they came up with two runs on a double by Rice to make the score 7-4. With two men on, Boole fled out to deep center field to end the game. The Mules hit the ball very well this game and if any ball had fallen in at the right time, they would have pulled out a win. Pel Brown relieved Jamieson in the second inning and pitched excellent ball until he was relieved by Warren Judd in the sixth. George Deneen finished up the final inning. Rice had four hits to lead the team at the plate, while Stinneford and Boole added punch.

The team looked very good in some respects, while in other ways they were just fair. The infield was excellent on defense, while the outfielders were very good. There were no outfield errors. Ron Staples looked very good behind the plate and the pitching was good considering the bad weather. The one thing which was bad was the Baier defeated El Roberts and Beck base running. Coach Winkin was very pleased with the trip and he is looking forward to a highly successful season. A third match is scheduled for next week.
